solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle." This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

Club Reports.

WOLVERHAMPTON C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Nov. 14th, Mr. F. J. Weaver in chair. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the chairman, show manager, secretary, and the stewards for the splendid manner in which the annual show was carried out. A lengthy discussion took place re the member's bird which was taken away from the show after being claimed, before the certified time, but I am pleased to say I have succeeded in getting the bird back and settled the matter up. The committee and members exonerate the chairman and secretary from blame. Will members kindly let me have ticket money as soon as possible, so as I can give a full account of show on Dec. 12th, our next meeting night.—J. Gibbons, Hon. Sec.

BRADFORD WEST C.B.A.

Monthly meeting, Nov. 9th. The washing exhibition and competition was a great success, drawing quite a crowd of members and friends. When Mr. W. A. Cowgill rolled up his sleeves for the exhibition wash the room was quite full, and no doubt all learned a thing or two from our old friend. Then followed on the competition. Entries came in very nicely, but we had to draw a line at the 7th competitor, as time would not allow of more. Mr. Tidswell finished with giving us another exhibition. Mr. W. A. Cowgill then declared Mr. A. Bennett the winner of the competition, and Mr. F. Western a good second, both handling their birds in nice easy fashion. Decided that there should be a pie supper on our next meeting night, Dec. 14th, at 1s. per head, all members desirous of attending kindly send their names to the secretary as early as possible. Don't forget Dec. 14th, at 7 o'clock prompt—not first Saturday.—Kilburn and Western, 5, West View, Mumby Street, Fairweather Green.

SOUTH HAM O.S.

Monthly business meeting held before a good gathering of members; Mr. J. Hughes occupied the chair. Messrs. J. and W. Seers, Tallis, and A. Richardson were elected members. Close on 70 now appear on the books, and at the December meeting we hope to make it 80. The members' show business was chief item on the agenda. Mr. Roe kindly offered his services to judge again, and the offer was accepted by all. Rules as last year, with several additions and increased classification, were duly passed. The proposed special fund, as sketched out by the secretary, so as to give all members a chance to contribute, and which will provide a very handsome dinner service, value 30s., for the premier special, was passed, the president heading the list with 10s. 6d., and the same amount to the funds of the society. No less a sum than £3 was promised in the room, which looks like making the members' show a record for the Midlands. Everything is being rushed forward in connection with same, and entries will close on Monday, Dec. 14th. As specials will be allotted at the December meeting, every one should do their best to attend.—J. Sheppard, Sec.

ANNFIELD PLAIN F. & F. & C.B.S

Meeting held Nov. 9, Mr. J. Hall presiding over a good attendance, enrolling four new members, viz., Messrs. M. Hodgson, Wm. Stephenson, C. Piper and J. Biggs. Proposed and seconded that Sec. make out a financial statement showing how society is standing, also passed that we have 1500 schedules printed. Mr. Clarke, of Annfield Plain, has kindly consented to print 250 admission tickets free, and same will be ready by next meeting. I hope all members will just exert themselves a little and push these tickets. Our schedule is now ready for printer, therefore should like to know by next meeting how members are progressing re specials. All subs must be paid a month before show, this rule strictly enforced. Next meeting Dec. 7th, Queen's Hotel, 7.30.—J. W. Christon, Sec.

KENT COUNTY C.B.A.

Meeting held Nov. 13th, Mr. Reeve in the chair. Correspondence dealt with, and various matters of interest discussed. The following are the points obtained at present in the K.C.C.B.A. competition Yorks.: Mr. Lockett 32, Mr. Johnson 31, Mr. Rayner 18, Mr. Taylor 3. Nor.: Mr. F. J. Wickham 25, Mr. Taylor 21, Mr. Meades 3. Bord.: Rev. Soames 15, Mr. H. Wood, sen. 24, Messrs. Burton Bros. 25, Mr. Maycock 3. Mules: Mrs. Soames 19, Mr. Ward 5, Mr. Webb 6, Mr. Reeve 4. Brit.: Mr. Austen 20, Mr. Wickham 24, Mr. H. Wood, sen. 8, Mr. Webb 6 Lizards: Mr. E. L. Wood 26, Mr. H. Wood, sen 23. If members find any discrepancy in this list, would they communicate with the secretary?—H. Wood, Hon. Sec.

COLINTON AND CURRIE PARISHES O.S.

Monthly meeting held in the Higher Grade School, Juniper Green, Nov. 16, Mr. Begbie in the chair. Mr. Begbie congratulated the society on the success of their first show, when 200 birds were staged, and he also paid a high tribute to the secretary for the grand work he had done in making the show the success it was. The secretary then made the financial statement, which showed an income of £20 7s. 8d., and an expenditure of £12 7s. 4½d., leaving a balance of £8 0s. 3½d. It was decided to pay 5s. a class prize money, leaving a balance of £3 11s. 4½d. to carry forward to next year, which was considered very satisfactory considering the annual subscription is only 3s. per year. The old committee were re-appointed unanimously. Decided to pay out prize money at the next meeting, Dec. 14, in the Drill Hall, Juniper Green, at 6 p.m.—J. Napier, Secretary.

CITY OF BRADFORD O.S.

A good turn up of fanciers at the Flying Dutchman, on November 16, to see the Canary washing exhibition by Mr. John Horsfield. The Chairman, Mr. T. Fortnam, in introducing Mr. Horsfield, said he could assure those present that there was a treat in store for them. Mr. Horsfield put a few birds through the water in quick time, and in a masterly manner, using a badger-hair brush, two sponges, and three bowls of water, wrapping each bird in a cloth for about thirty minutes, before transferring them to their cages. In the meantime, a little competition was arranged, and three novices had a turn at a bird each, which they handled remarkably well. Mr. Horsfield was referee, and the awards as follows: E. Kitson 1st, W. H. Rhodes 2nd, and W. Rhodes 3rd. A little bit of fun was caused when the landlord's singing bird was brought up to be washed. Joe, not having seen one washed before, stared with both ee'n, as they say in Yorkshire. But he was highly pleased when he saw it after it was dry. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Horsfield brought a most interesting evening to a close.—F. Ludbrook.

NORTHERN BRITISH, MULE, AND F.B.C.

Meeting held October 26th. The chairman, Mr. Petterson, presided over a good attendance. It was decided to ask Mr. Crawhall to judge table show. A pleasant surprise to most of the members was the presentation of a beautiful silver cup for the foreign birds, to replace the one won outright last show season by Mr. A. C. Young, and he was most heartily thanked for same, which just leaves us to get one now for the Mule section, towards which I have received some subscriptions. I will be glad to receive any further donations, however small, as we want to get it before the annual presentation of cups and medals. We decided to have table show at next meeting, Nov. 27th, with the following classes: 1, Linnet, f.m.; 2, Goldfinch, Bullfinch, Greenfinch, Chaffinch; 3, Foreign, Javas, Spice Birds, Cutthroats, Nuns, Silverbills, Grey or Green Singing Finches and Weavers; 4, Mule, any variety. Judge, our old friend, Mr. A. Storey. Result of the show:—LINNET: 1, 3, Scott; 2, vhc, Petterson; 4, Watson; hc, Voutt. HOUSE-MOULTED BRIT.: 1, McGuire; 2, 4, Almond; 3, vhc, Voutt; hc, Harrison; c, J. Scott. FOR.: 1, 3, Scott; 2, Young; 4, Voutt; vhc, Harrison; hc, Petterson. A vote of thanks to Mr. Crawhall brought an interesting meeting to a close.—W. Curry, Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

A very interesting meeting was held November 7th, at the Wentworth Cafe, Pinstone Street. A good number turned up to witness the washing exhibition given by Mr. Tow, who put a bird through the water in fine style. Washing competition for novices followed, an dsome had a go who had not washed a bird before. These did very well. Winners: 1, Lockwood; 2, Marcroft; 3, Bailey. The prizes were given by Messrs. Tomlinson, Drabble, and Thorpe. A lot of business was done in connection with open show, December 14th. Several more birds were promised for the gift class. Stewards elected were, Messrs. G. Fletcher, C. W. Hobson, and W. T. Furniss, also Mr. Furniss was appointed to see all birds off to catch special trains. Two more classes were added to foreign section, making four in all; also crest classes were extended to four, these being guaranteed by our friend, Mr. Memmott. Mr. Fletcher gives 5s. for best true pair in foreign classes. The following members also either promised specials or guarantees: Messrs. Drabble and Bennett, Bailey, Falding, Tow, Jones, Thorpe and A. Hobson. Three prizes are given for members selling most tickets. We trust all will do their best. The nomination of officers was a lengthy business. All members are requested to vote on the names submitted. Ballot papers will be sent out before next meeting, which will be a very important one, as in addition to the final table show of young birds, several Important alterations to rules are down for discussion. A good muster of members is desired. Judges appointed for next table show, held December 5th (instead of the 12th) are: Messrs T. Tow and T. Ridal. A record entry is expected, as this show decides the winners of the points specials. See syllabus for specifications. A vote of thanks to Mr. Tow for his washing exhibition and to the donors of specials brought the meeting to a close. Mr. Dodd (Stavely) was elected a member.—J. Woolhouse, Assist. Sec.

ROUND THE SHOWS.

VALE OF LEVEN.

Annual Show held Nov. 16, in the Public Hall, Alexandria. The society has every reason to feel proud of the display given by the members, each one playing his part gallantly. Entries exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine. The list of specials was a grand one. Cups, gold and silver medals, and many useful household articles, and they appeared to be well divided. The Public Hall is not an ideal spot for such an exhibition, light being at a discount. The officials are all possessed with that genuine ring of the fancier, and a most popular lot they are. Pres. Hannah had his men trained to the hour, and was ably backed up by Vice-Pres. Davidson. The genial and unassuming secretary, Mr. A. H. McLean, thoroughly understands the routine, and in a marked degree is possessed of common sense and tact. Cup for best Scotch Fancy was won by Mr. McAdam with a slashing yellow cock, the runner up being Mr. A. H. McLean's buff pied hen. Gold medal for best Brit. was won by Master A. Finlayson, with a grand Redstart, while the secretary won a similar prize for best Mule or Hybrid, with his well-known Redpoll Greenfinch. Special for best Border went to Mr. J. Buchanan, with a very neat and natty yellow cock. Judging was got through in good time, and the Show was well patronised by visitors. The following made the awards:—Canaries, Messrs. D. Holden, Muirkirk, G. Hislop, Stirling; remainder, Mr. J. H. Adam, Glasgow.

ANFIELD, EVERTON AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

First members' old bird show held November 16th in the Mission Hall, Burleigh-road. It was a great success; an entry of 450 is something to be proud of. How do you do it, Mr. Wright? The jeweller's shop (with additions) was again in evidence, and as this was the second show of the competition for season's specials, a keen fight was waged. The entries turned up rather late, which caused the judging to be prolonged well into the afternoon. Why not make a strict time for closing entries? The room was crowded in the afternoon with visitors, and we were told seven new members joined in anticipation of joining in the Klondyke which is to be competed for on Boxing Day. Mr. Wright took his coat off for this show, but he expects a deal of the remainder of his clothes will go on Boxing Day, as there is a furniture van-load of specials, and it is expected that all previous records will go to the wall. Two more Judges have been engaged to help Mr. Wellings, and special train arrangements made. In addition to the secretary a capital lot of stewards gave the judges every assistance. Mr. S. Hadwin judged Yorks., and Mr. Mallinson (Ilscard) the remainder, and satisfaction was expressed on all hands.

HEYWOOD AND DISTRICT O.S.

Sixth annual show held Nov. 16th. The show was well attended by the public and fanciers from other towns. Mr. Robert Barraes, Rochdale, judged, and had a most difficult task: the morning was one of the worst for judging we could possibly have; a thick fog during the whole of the day. A good entry and some very good exhibits helped to make the show a success; a record sale of tickets took place. Mr. P. H. Barlow won the challenge cup; Mr. Greenhalgh most points in Norwich section, and Mr. Blincoe best bird and most points in British section.—A. H. Meadowcroft, Hon. Sec.

From catalogue received the principal winners appear to be as follows: YORKS: Messrs. Barlow, Schofield, Howarth, Greenhalgh, Pregnall, Waddington, Norman. NOR.: Messrs. Barlow, Greenhalgh, Lees, Leach, Smith, Blincoe. NOV.: Messrs. Smith, Meadowcroft. MULES: Messrs. McMurdo, Lees, Horrocks. BRIT.: Messrs. Barlow, McMurdo, Horrocks, Blincoe. Special winners: Challenge cup and Fry's sp., P. H. Barlow; best Brit., R. Blincoe; most points in Brit., R. Blincoe. Other special winners, Messrs. Howarth, Greenhalgh, Lees, Schofield, Meadowcroft, Horrocks.—(Ed.)

CARDIFF.

Held Nov. 20-21, at Queen's Hall, Queen-street. The hall was tastefully decorated with palms, and the exhibits were staged in tiers three high, the background covered with red baize, which gave a very pleasing appearance. The hall was well lighted from the roof, giving an ideal light at all parts of the room in daytime and electrically lit at night. The excellence of the management of this society has placed it in the forefront in Wales, and nothing is left undone for the comfort of the exhibits and visitors. The Right Hon. Viscount Tredegar is president, and he is well supported by a long list of influential vice-presidents and patrons. A splendid schedule was issued by the society, comprising 65 open and 8 members' classes, and these, with the great array of specials, brought forth a good total of entries. The chairman, Mr. S. F. Whetton, is a keen enthusiast, and is well supported by a band of willing workers, Messrs. E. J. Banks, H. C. Smith, A. Maggs, W. Wilson, F. Howard, F. Hopson, W. Chedgey, A. Simons, A. Allsopp, W. Morgan, W. Merritt, E. Adams, J. Dugmore, E. James, W. Weeks, all doing their very best to make everything go smoothly, and well they succeeded. The secretary and show manager, Mr. E. Thomas, is admirably adapted to his position and makes a very courteous and energetic official, and had everything well in hand. The exhibits themselves were a grand lot for numbers and quality in all sections. Norwich were a very level lot, the principal awards falling to Messrs. Collins, Crowley, Houghton, Follwell, Slocombe, and Maggs. Yorks. were also good, some real stonners being put down by Messrs. H. T. Jones, Atkins, Broughton, Towers, Portman, Casey, Cross, and Kearns. Special for best in this section was won by Mr. Broughton with a thigh tkd. yell. of exceptional col. and qual. Scots Fancy were a nice lot, some fine birds being put down by Messrs. Willison and Fleming. Borders, though poor in number, made up in quality, and some lovely exhibits were staged by Messrs. Jenkins, Madagan, Hocking, and Smith. Mules did not come up to expectations in numbers considering the classification given, and we rather fear that the fame of Mr. Shellam has frightened some exhibitors off. British were a very level lot, and some grand exhibits were staged by Messrs. Heal, Marley, S. Jones, Lewis, Jeffries, and Nicholas. Foreign birds, though not large in number, were wonderful for quality. The Tanagers were a show in themselves, and were greatly admired by visitors, especially the ladies. The judges were: Nor., Crests and Selling, Mr. W. Vardy; Yorks. and Bord., Mr. W. Mundell; Mules, Brit., and For., Mr. D. A. S. Longden.

SOUTHAMPTON.

The 24th annual Show of the Southampton F.S. was held 20 and 21 of November. The entry in our section was good, and the quality excellent. The special for the best was won by Mr. Fellows' grand Crest. The British were very good. Mr. A. T. Jupe won the specials with his noted Goldfinch, and the same owner's Bullfinch was greatly admired, as was also Mr. Cooper's Hawfinch. Mr. Kiddle makes an excellent secretary, and had every thing well in hand. Mr. G. E. Silk judged, and his awards were well received.

ROTHERHAM C.B.S

Special meeting held College Inn, Mr. W. Brotherton chair. It was passed members' entries must close on Nov. 20th at the meeting, and none will be accepted unless they are clear on the books. Next meeting, Nov. 23rd, will be at 9 o'clock instead of 8 o'clock, as some of the members want to go to the shows held not far from us. The Mayor, Mr. P. Bancroft Coward, has kindly promised to open the show for us on Dec. 7th at 1 o'clock.—B. Bailey, Sec.

Backworth and Dis.—Nov. 30, Backworth Institute Hall. Judge: Mr. T. Dixon. 10 open classes: Nor. 3, Bord. 3, Yorks. 2, Brit. 2. Prizes, 10s., 5s., 2s. 6d. Fee, 1s. 6d. Ent. close Nov. 25, to Mr. Tom Hunter, East Holywell, Shiremoor, Northumberland.

GLASGOW WEST END.

Third annual show held in Co-operative Hall, St. George's Cross, Nov. 16. The show was a very successful one, with an entry of 350 (a big increase from last year), and the birds were nicely staged. The hall proved a very suitable one for the purpose, with good light and entirely free from draughts. In Mr. Proudfoot this society possesses a very able and obliging secretary, who had all arrangements well in hand. He was ably assisted by a willing committee: Messrs. Miller, Lunn, Crawford, Brown, Phillips, Houston, and Campbell, and according to the number of specials (100), they one and all have worked hard to ensure success. The rose bowl, gold medal, sp. for best bird, Hyde's special, and best in section, went to H. Somerville (novice) with a very typical yell. var. Nor. This bird won seven specials a grand record for one bird. Cup for the best Border or Yorks. went to Mr. Miller, also B.F.C.C. medal, with a very sweet yell. Bord. ck. Cup for best young Mule, Mr. Jamieson (a fine Goldfinch-Canary Mule). The judges were: Mr. W. Bishop, Mr. J. Lappin, and Mr. Craig, and their awards were well received.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.)

We hear that Mr. J. W. Metcalfe is judging the first open show of the Tredegar (Mon.) C.B.S. on Jan. 2nd.

Llanelly show! Bound to extend entries till Sunday morning; please help. D. John, 9, Pottery Place.—(Advt.)

The name of our cage bird judge should be A. E. Enfield, Esq., J.P. (not Penfold) writes Mr. Howard, sec. Weybridge and District F.S.

Mr. T. Bishop, sec Sheffield O.S. writes that Messrs. W. Mundell, C. Honlton and J. Robson will judge at the 1913 show, held Nov. 7 and 8.

At the Pendleton and Salford O.S. show to-day (Saturday) there will be on view a very rare Indian bird, also a White Albino Linnet, writes Mr. J Critchley.

OBITUARY.

It is with the deepest regret, writes Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) that I have to announce the death of Mrs. J. R. Senior, the beloved wife of one of the truest fanciers that Sheffield ever possessed. Her genial and kindly disposition won her hosts of friends, who will be most sincerely grieved at the sad news. I am sure the fullest sympathy of all fanciers will be extended to the heart-broken husband in his sad and sudden bereavement. The interment took place on Nov. 19th at Walkley Cemetery.

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. Chas. Mackwell, that I have to inform you of the death of Mr. Arthur Shackleton, of Croft Street, Keighley, who passed away in his 43rd year, on Nov. 17. He had been a reader of your paper for many years.

It is with deepest regret, writes Mr. E. R. Ridley, hon. sec. Hull C.B.S., that I have to announce the death of one of our members, Mr. T. Briggs, the sad event taking place on Friday last, the day of our open show, at which Mr. Briggs was exhibiting a good team. He had been in failing health some time, but his love was with the birds. His wife undertook all the duties of looking after them during the past breeding season, and also colour-feeding them. Mr. Briggs has suffered terribly, having undergone two operations. He will be much missed by the members of the Hull Society, his genial disposition and good qualities endearing him to all who knew him. I am sure that all fanciers will join with the Hull members in offering their heartfelt sympathy to the widow in this, her hour of trial.

C. A. Luer sells 2,000 Rollers weekly, and sold his whole consignment of 800 Siberian Goldfinches within a week. A fresh consignment arrives Friday, 22nd inst.—(Advt.)

Ratcliffe and Dis. C.B.S. autumn show takes place Nov. 30 in the Conservative Club, Radcliffe, when Mr. Lomas, of St. Helens, will judge, writes W. Pickup, the Sec.

All entries for the L.C.B.A. show, writes Mr. D. John, Llanelly, will be sent on direct from our show by the night mail on the 26th, on making arrangements with the secretaries.

We are asked to notify the following changes of address: Mr. J. Mackie, from Markinch to High St., Frenchie, Fife,; Mr. S. J. Burton to 50 Mulgrave Rd., Dollis Hill.

At a meeting of the Kilsyth F.A., held 13th inst., it was arranged that the judges at Kilsyth show, Dec. 14, be: Norwich, Mr. J. M'Lay. Kirkintilloch: Bord., Mr. D. Hamilton, Hamilton; British, Mr. W. Sharp, Bathgate.

We are having a smoking concert at headquarters, Temperance Club, Toad Lane, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 27, writes Mr. Tom Holt, Hon. Sec. Rochdale Good Intent C.B.S., when an interesting ceremony will take place in regard to one of our members. Fanciers and friends are welcomed to make same an enjoyable evening.

Just purchased from W. N. Midgley, Winslow, all his surplus stock Norwich—Crystal Palace, Manchester, etc.—big winners; send to Sandiford, Preston, for particulars of what you require; mostly unlighted birds.—(Advt.)

The Committee are obliged to extend entries for Whitby show held Nov. 27. There are 93 classes, and only 65 entries are to hand! This is a black look-out! Let us hope that fanciers will rally round; Saturday's post will be in time.

In the Woodside O.S. special prize list in schedule, in place of 2nd best, 3rd best, and 4th best, read best 2nd, best 3rd, and best 4th in given classes. Also special 26, read, pipe for best in classes 27, 29, and 31, writes Mr. J. G. Milne, the secretary.

It is worth taking a little trouble in selecting stock, and readers will agree with Mr. Rudd, of Norwich (see Canary Various column) that "Extra pains mean extra satisfaction." Last week the word "pairs" appeared wrongly instead of "pains."

Mr. J. Sheppard, Sec. South Birmingham O.S., writes that he now resides at 129, Floyer Road, Small Heath, and that arrangements are being pushed forward for members' show on Boxing Day, with a record number of specials, including a handsome dinner service.

Sale C.B.S., write Messrs. Royle and Wood, secs., have engaged at great expense the large rooms at the Technical School Sale, well lighted and free from draughts, 1 min. from Sale station; trams pass the door. This is the show where 13 classes are provided for the novices.

Kindly allow me to inform Crest exhibitors that all specials put up by the Gateshead Society stand for competition, writes Mr. J. G. Greason, the sec.; it is only C.C.C. and N.C.C. specials that are withdrawn. The Crest section will receive just as much attention as any other.

We are giving similar prize cards to last year, writes Mr. C. I. Young, sec. Frome F.A., when we received any amount of congratulations over them. The photographic views thereon are of Longleat, the seat of the Marquis of Bath, St. John's Church, and the Market Place.

We are informed that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows. Any one who has been overlocked should apply to the respective secretaries: Markinch, Swansea. Brighton and Hove. Stoke-on-Trent, Hull, Bradford East, Wisbech, Leicester Hand-in-Hand, Leyton.

Bird-lovers in Portsmouth should remember the show of the local fanciers' society held next week (Nov. 27 and 28) in the Connaught Drill Hall. Cheap admission tickets can be had of the hon. assist.-sec., Mr. B. Coffin (155, Dover Rd., Copnor, Portsmouth). A fine display is expected.

Unless fanciers come to our assistance, the cage bird section at our show, Nov. 27 and 28, will be a total failure, writes Mr. W. Lightfoot, hon. sec. Wandsworth and Dis. F.S., 86, Heythorp St., Southfields, Wandsworth, S.W. Entries extended to Saturday, Nov. 23, and I hope fanciers will respond.

Our friends, the members of the Codnor Park and Eastwood Society seem bent on progression. Another year they are looking forward to engaging the Mechanics' Hall, which is most suitable for their show. They are a true lot of fanciers, and exhibitors should bear them in mind, and respond liberally with entries.

Will you kindly announce, writes Mr. H. Boothman, hon sec. Manchester & Northern Counties O.S., that Mr. W. Broughton, and not Mr. Sharpe, won second in class 18, ticked, etc., Buff at our late show. I shall be much obliged if you will also state that it was Mr. Broughton's bird that was described in your report.

Kindly allow me to thank you, writes Mr. W. Elliott, sec., West Stanley C.B.S., for the splendid way you advertised our show during 1912. Also I should like to express a word of praise to your painstaking reporter for the way in which he described the birds. I should like also to thank those exhibitors who have written expressing their satisfaction at the prompt payment of prize-money and the quick arrival of their birds back from our show. All prize-money has been paid in full.

We are asked to rectify the following errors or omissions in show reports:—At Warrington Messrs. Ogden Bros. won 1st in Yorks cl. etc. yell, not Bain; at Leyton the cup for novices' best unflighter was won by Mr. C. W. Tuck, not Dalton; at Swansea Mr. Chedgey was 2nd in Buff Nor. hen, not Powell, and Mr. Hocking won 1st and 2nd in Cinn. Borders, not Middleton; in the report of Warrington show the awards in Yell. Yks. ck. class should read 1 Ogden Bros., 2 Dooley, 3 Mrs. Gray, 4 Thomas, vhc Wilkinson Bros., he, Boole, c Brooke, and not as printed; in Spalding show reserve in yellow class and 1st in buff was won by Messrs. Keech and Son, not Reech.

The photograph of the officials of Brighton and Hove show which appears in this issue is the work of Messrs. Wiles Bros. (Hove).

Kindly correct small mistake in our club report of last week; 2s. per class should have been 7s., writes Mr. W. B. Smart (Loanhead C.B.S.).

Cage-bird men should not overlook Exmouth show (held Dec. 4) where the classification is good, and there are some nice specials (seven have been added since the schedule was issued) including an open challenge cup. See advt. in this issue.

Next Week

and would once again impress upon all readers the necessity of ordering copies from their newsagents in advance.

In the pages of this fine issue will be found many splendid and informative articles dealing with all sides of the hobby of bird-keeping. And in addition to this array of articles it will contain

A Very Charming Coloured Plate

—one of the best we have ever secured from the talented brush of Mr. H. Goodchild. It is well worth the cost of the whole issue.

To Advertisers:

This is the season of quick sales, when buyers are ripe to purchase, and everyone with birds, appliances, etc., for disposal should send along their announcements. Remember: CAGE BIRDS' special issues are record-breakers as introducers of business —sales are always a certainty from advertisements therein.

The Closing Date is Tuesday, November 26th.

Post all advertisements early to reach us on that day certain, or we cannot guarantee insertion in this Mammoth Number.

We should be glad if Mr. Schroeder, late East 70th St., New York, would communicate his present address.

We hear that entries are awfully short for Bristol show, Nov. 27 and 28 (about 70 in 33 classes). A special was left out of the advertisement of the excellent classification last week. A pint tankard (cost 12s. 6d.) for best Cinnamon in show. We hope exhibitors will rally round this show (note advt. this week) for the Society richly deserves a good entry, as we pointed out in our issue of Nov. 9.

Your good report of Exeter and District C.B.S. show unfortunately contained an error in the 1912 Norwich Plainhead class, writes Mr. Jas. Martin (Topsham). It gives 2nd, Turner, which was won by my bird, as I took 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and he in that class. I should not have written about it only I have offered this second bird for sale through the advertisements in your paper, and it will look rather misleading to strangers.

We hear that the annual members' show of the North London C.B.A. held this Friday and Saturday in the Library Hall, Stoke Newington, promises some keen competition, especially between the Yorks exhibitors. Fanciers will find good birds of all kinds on view.

Help the L.C.B.A.

An urgent appeal on behalf of the Horticultural Hall show is made in our correspondence columns this week, and we hope a hearty response will be made and this fine exhibition adequately supported.

All the Difference.

In the report of the Goldfinch class at Alnwick show our representative wrote: "No. 9, Waters, best in class, soft in condition," which our printers unfortunately rendered "good" in condition. We are pleased to correct this, as Mr. Maddison, who judged, made no mistake in his award.

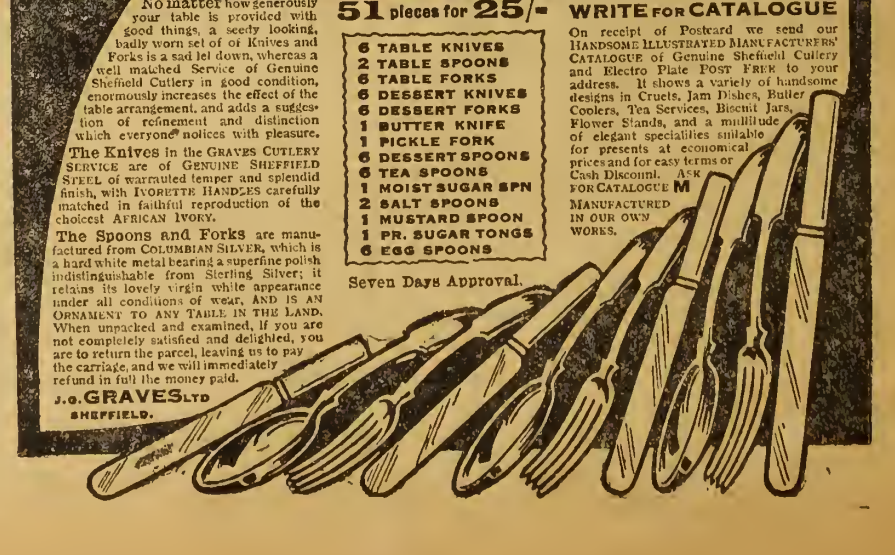
Leith Secretary Honoured.

We note that Mr. Geo. Brown, the popular secretary of the Leith O.S., has been honoured by the reproduction of his portrait in the last issue of the "Leith Observer," and that journal has some very nice things to say about him as a bird-lover and judge, and his efforts on behalf of his society.

Sheffield O.S. Secretaryship.

Rumour has it in Sheffield that a paid official, in the person of Mr. E. Job, a well-known local auctioneer and sec. of the Hallam and Ecclesall Society, is to be put forward at the meeting convened for the election of officers for 1913, as secretary of the Sheffield O.S., should Mr. T. Bishop relinquish the post, which we have every reason to believe will be the case.

Always the Best!



We hear that a large consignment of birds left England the other week for Australia, consigned by Messrs. F. W. Barnett, W. Mundell, J. Robson, J. W. Ramsden, and Shearman, and that very dirty weather was experienced across the Bay of Biscay which, however, was safely negotiated by the whole of the birds with the exception of two very valuable Crests being sent out by Mr. Barnett.

Judges at the L.C.B.A.

By an unfortunate error, write Messrs. Mugford and Knight, the names of Messrs. S. L. Cocks and F. A. Lester were included in the list of judges. Also in "Bird Notes" it is stated that Mr. F. Finn is to judge the Foreign birds. This is an error, as Mr. Seth Smith, the curator of birds at the Zoo., has at great inconvenience undertaken the responsibility. We regret very much that the names of the above have appeared in print, and offer them our apologies.

Who Forged His Name?

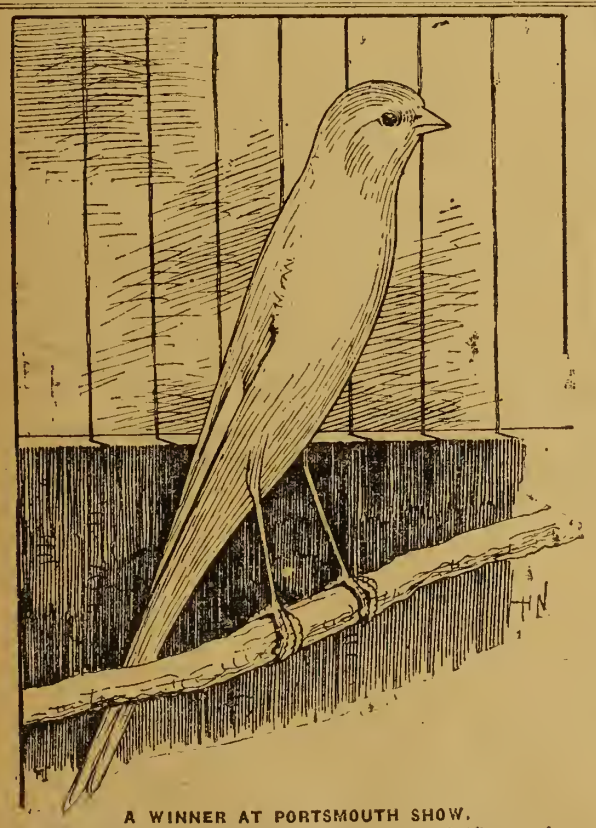
About our judges, writes Mr. T. Clelland, sec. Coaltown of Wemyss show, some person has been forging Mr. J. W. Bruce's name. I got a p.c. stating that he could not come to our show as he was fixed for that date. Mr. Bruce saw this announced in "Twitterings," and was surprised. He wrote to me asking our reason, and I told him. He is trying to find out the person who wrote the post-card, and give him in charge. Please put in CAGE BIRDS this week that Mr. Bruce will judge in place of Mr. Sharp. I received posters all right; highly pleased with them.

How Exhibition Yorkshires are Bred and Trained.

By SAM WILKINSON (Halifax).

Is "Touching Up" essential: Does the "greatest tactitian" win?

BEFORE you can expect to do justice to the mating of the Yorkshire Canary to breed exhibition specimens, you must have some knowledge of how the birds you intend to breed with have been produced. I would like to lay special emphasis on the above, as I find that it is the only way to ensure success. I do not say you cannot breed a winner unless you know your stock, but such successful happenings are few and far between, which makes the game not worth the candle.



Now, in considering this interesting part of the hobby, you must have some good stock birds to select from; winners are not produced from winners. About the second week in the New Year I look round my birds, to see what they are as some young birds take a long time to "come on," as we say in the Fancy. I never part with my young birds until I see what they are going to be; and it is occasionally a long time after the above date. I only keep birds that have some good points about them. If I have a bird with such a fault as a drop-tail, I mark that as one to go, and if I have one that is very thin in the neck I also let that go, as I find they are not worth keeping. I try and keep clear of birds that have a bad frill in the front, as they have a way of breeding the frill up again, sometimes with interest.

My Lord and My Lady.

I like to have a good big cock bird with plenty of leg, as you get the size from his side. He must have a good back on him, and be a nice wedge-shape from the top of his legs. I like him to have a nice fitting pair of wings with good long flights. He must be well filled up about the neck, with a good round chest, and a neat round head. I like to avoid a flat head in the cock, so try and get a nice round head with the eyes well placed, not too near the crown. I also try to have as good a quality of feather as I possibly can, but one can afford to sacrifice a little here if you have a nice boxy-feathered hen to pair with such a cock.

Now let me say a word about her ladyship. In my opinion a good hen is a treasure, as I find she plays no small part in the making of exhibition birds. I like her to be of a fair size, not too big and not too small. I try to have a good feathered hen, not one with a frill. The hen must possess a good head—the exact kind depends somewhat on the cock bird. If he has a pointed head then I look out for a hen with a nicely-rounded head. To put the thing in a nutshell, I try and make the one help the other; where one is weak, the other must be strong. I try and get her with a good pair of legs, and a tail with no tendency to drop—rather have one with it tilted up than down. I would lay special stress on this, as it cost me a lot of money before I found its great importance out.

When I have decided what I will keep, I separate each bird into a cage by itself till breeding time; but what I sort out in January I sometimes change, as a bird can alter very much in a few weeks. I take my final look round about the last week in March, and I pair up the first week in April. I am never tempted to pair up before this date, as cold weather may always be about, even in May. My advice is, do not be in too great a hurry; it will pay you to wait a little longer.

A WINNER AT PORTSMOUTH SHOW.
Clear yellow Yorkshire exhibited by Mr. J. Matthews, of Portsmouth.

I always pair two hens to one cock, and never let the cock bird stay to do the feeding, as I think the hen does better by herself, and by doing so, the cock is always in the best of form, and at the end of the season is not worn out. I only put the cock into the hen on three occasions: First, say, on Monday; then on Wednesday; and again on Friday; and I find that it is just as good as leaving the cock in until the eggs are laid. You see that I take care of the cock, as it would not do to have him "off colour."

I have no special way of feeding the young ones. I simply follow the old method of egg and bread, and find nothing to beat it. I give a good supply of egg for the first week, gradually weaning off till they are able to do for themselves. When the young are about 25 days old, I remove them to a clean cage, and they generally go on first class.

From now, I have to exercise as much care as I give to the selecting of my stock birds, as a good bird can be spoiled, never to be put right again. I find it very difficult to tell a good bird from an ordinary sort of bird, as some take longer to "come" than others. I like to see a bird come on gradually, as these are the sort to make the best.

AT BREEZY BRIGHTON.

Names (left to right): G. Absalon, W. Wall W. Cadman, W. Miles, Mrs. Pearson, C. A. House (judge), J. Robson (judge), Mrs. H. T. Gibb, W. H. Gibb (hon. sec.), Mrs. Absalon, Mrs. Dandridge, and W. Swaysland.

You will soon discover the importance of keeping your young birds until you see what they are, for it is not so pleasant to see someone else winning with the bird you have discarded instead of sticking to. I will mention, as an instance, a case where a man bought a bird for eighteenpence and the same did very well on the bench last year. If I happen to breed a good bird I am never tempted to take it to a first feather show, as I have lost some good birds by so doing; perhaps the hope of a year's breeding.

My next trouble is the training of the young, which is a very important point, as a bird that will not stand to be looked at might just as well be left at home. My method is to train them from the beginning, as you cannot start too soon. I always have a show-cage on the front of the stock cage when the young are 20 days' old, and they begin to run in after their parents, and so get quite used to the show cage even before they are put by themselves.

Trained from their Youth.

I remove the young when they are 25 days' old and place a show cage in front of their new cage, and they generally settle down all right. I try to run them into the cage on the second day, not overworking them at first. I follow this process until the youngsters are quite used to the show cage. I then begin to look at them in the cage, all the time trying to draw their attention. This keeps them from flying up at the wires, and I always try and avoid giving them a sudden shock at any time.

I think a young bird is at its best when about eight or nine weeks' old, then you are able to judge some of the results of your labours. I have seen some very promising looking birds turn out very badly after the moult, however, and I have seen good birds develop from those which appeared bad birds before the moult. I always take special care of first-nest birds, as these are the birds that will do most good, if they happen to be show specimens ("the early bird catches the worm.") You will then be able to retire from the show bench before the end of the season, and your birds will be all the better for it, as showing them week after week tells a tale on them.

If you have trained your birds as I suggest, they will soon steady down after you have colour-fed them. If I am fortunate enough to have bred a good bird, one that I think will do me credit, I take it to a model I always keep hung up in my room, and if it compares at all well, I single it out and pay special attention to it. I never go into the room without running it out into a show cage.

Putting on the Polish.

I wash a bird about six days before the show, as it takes a day or two to get back into condition again. If the bird seems a little bit slack in feather, I give it about two teaspoonfuls of white millet on two successive days; this has a wonderful effect, as it tightens up the feathers and gives a glossy appearance. I always spray the birds I intend to show on the morning before the show, as I am a great believer in the spray for finishing off a bird's toilet. I have in my mind a bird that does a lot of winning, and which, but for the spray, would never count; it has a bad front, but when sprayed it takes it all away for about two days. In the meantime the cards have been placed! If you are to be successful, you will have to touch them up a bit. My opinion is that the greatest tactitian (shall we say) wins.

In conclusion, if I do not win I try not to grumble, but take hold of the birds in the cards and place the one that belongs to me by their side, and see where I have been beaten. If I discover anything that I am short of I feel well repaid for laying out the entrance fee, as you have to pay for experience.

Familiar Friends: The Lesser and Mealy Redpolls.

By WILLIAM LECKIE (Portobello).

From an exhibitor's point of view the Lesser Redpoll is now one of our principal Finches, at most shows a class being provided for it, and this is generally well filled. For exhibition purposes my idea of a really good specimen may be given, but I have no doubt there are many that may hold different opinions in regard to the various points.

In the first place I think the bird chosen should be of a good chubby type, with a wide chest, and good broad, rounded head. The red cap should go back well behind the black of the forehead, and the bib must be as large and as jet black as possible. General tone of colour to be a soft tan, with plenty of distinct markings on breast and flanks, and well defined wing bars.

As these birds to be successful on the bench must generally, unless of very exceptional merit, be colour fed, it is not advisable to select them too dark in colour, as the feeding usually makes such birds too "brassy." They are usually very fond of the bath, and are best kept in box cages, as otherwise they often develop the bad habit of continuous wire climbing

The Large Light-coloured Relation.

Apart from size, and its much paler, or mealy colouring, the Mealy Redpoll may be said to resemble the Lesser. It is unknown as a British breeding species, its nesting quarters being the Northern countries of Europe, Asia, etc. They are in most years a rather scarce winter migrant to this country, but we have from time to time an abnormal migration of this species. Whether determined by the prevailing winds at the migratory period, or whether the migration is caused by the great increase during a prolific breeding season, compelling a large number to depart from the usual migratory routes, to avoid overcrowding, is unknown.

A considerable number of these abnormal migrations have been chronicled. Gatke mentions one which passed Heligoland in November, 1847, which was so great that when the birds settled the island was almost covered with them. The two most recent in this country occurred in the winters of 1899 and 1910, the latter being considerably the greater of the two. The numbers caught on this occasion were such that in Scotland dealers were compelled to refuse thousands. A peculiar feature of these latter migrations, which may also have been common to the others, was that by far the larger proportion of the flocks consisted of male birds. In East Lothian the numbers caught in the early part of the rush, which lasted a considerable period, were so great that the catchers were chasing the birds away from their "sets," as they could find no market for them.

The Girls They Left Behind Them.

Another feature of the 1910 migration would, I have no doubt, appeal to many observers, namely, the great difference in size between what one might almost call the two varieties caught. The greater part consisted of birds not much larger than our native Lesser Redpoll, but a very considerable number were caught that were quite as large as Linnets, and, in point of fact, bore much the same comparison as may be made between our native Goldfinches and those imported from Siberia. From this I am inclined to think that breeding places very far apart contributed to the migration, as no slight geographical distance would be the least likely to cause such a size variation in birds exhibiting absolutely no other specific difference.

The nest and eggs of this Redpoll are said to resemble those of our native species. The food in a wild state is practically the same, but in captivity it is advisable to feed as far as possible on plain canary seed, with a very small proportion of good German rape. These birds resemble the Ortolan Bunting in that they are willing to eat at all times, and put on much fat.

In selecting a show specimen, the only point I may mention, apart from those recommended for the Lesser Redpoll, is that you get the mealy as mealy as possible, if I may use the term—that it, as light coloured as possible.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIS SOLVED BY SPECIALISTES

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence,, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Post-cards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

Canaries.—Claude St. John. British Birds, Mule and Hybrids—G. E. Weston. Foreign Birds—Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., &c., Wild Bird Life—H. Norman.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

KEEP VERY SOFT (Optimist).—Do not overheat the birds by keeping them in a warm corner of the kitchen. Keep them in a comfortable temperature, certainly for a week or two, but see that it is well ventilated, though free from cold draughts and fairly equable. Allow birds to bathe three times a week. Give a staple diet of plain canary. Every second day for a fortnight give in addition half-a-teaspoonful of summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw. Twice a week give a pinch of equal parts hemp, niga, millet, and teazle. Add six drops of syrup of buckthorn to the drinking water for one day, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and three of tincture of steel every second day for a week.

NOT SINGING (Crest).—There may be nothing at all seriously wrong with the birds. It is nothing unusual for cocks after the first few seasons to take a few weeks' rest after moulting before resuming their song. Another thing, if I am right in thinking they are in an aviary with other birds, this also would tend to make them longer coming in song. Keeping a mixture of birds requiring dissimilar foods is rarely successful for long, save in quite large aviaries. Cage the cock Canaries separately and feed as advised to "Optimist" for a week or two. In the water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece every second day for a week, and in the following week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day. Cage the two hens in a roomy cage where they can get good exercise. Give a staple diet of plain canary, a pinch of mixed seed twice a week, and a liberal allowance of greenstuff daily. Give the above-named medicines in water for a fortnight. Continue the above method of feeding for a month if necessary to reduce them to a normal condition.

CANARY QUERISTS

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Rattye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Normon's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

A COLD THAT HAS STUCK (L. N.).—The probability is that the bird is now a chronic bronchial sufferer, and the change from a very hot room where it was reared to a cold draughty one is at the root of the mischief. Your treatment of the bird has been unavailing simply because you were treating the effects and allowing the causes to remain. Giving medicine is absolutely useless unless injurious conditions are removed. Keep the bird in a comfortable temperature, and see that it is quite free from cold draughts and damp. It is necessary to overheat it if the above conditions are complied with, but the place should be nicely ventilated. The room you describe where it is now being kept should be warm enough. In addition to its staple seed diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw every second day for a fortnight. On the alternate days give a pinch of mixed seed twice a week and a spray of green food on each of the other days. Limit the diet to this. Add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece to the drinking water for three days, and afterwards give 20 drops of the following mixture in water every second day for a fortnight or three weeks, as may seem necessary. Mixture: Two drams each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one dram each of chlorodyne and ipecacuanha wine, and eight grains of iodide of potassium. Any chemist will mix this for you.

A SUITABLE ROOM (R. W., Novice).—Yes, providing only you take due care to procure stock birds which have been reared and kept under normal conditions of temperature, your spare bedroom situated over a living room will make an excellent birdroom, and no artificial heating will be necessary, or, indeed, advisable. See that it is sufficiently ventilated to keep the air pure and fresh, but do not arrange cages in the direct line of cold draughts. The room should also be free from damp. Given these conditions you should find the birds flourish in such surroundings. As a beginner you should get "Canary Breeding for Beginners," and digest the contents prior to next spring.

STARTING AN AVIARY (A. Hancox).—I think the correct answer to your query probably depends upon the type of aviary in view—large or small, indoor or outdoor. You are quite silent concerning your own view, and I have not a copy of the work named at hand at the moment. I will, however, look it up, and give you a further reply next week. Meantime you may take it that, in a general way, the autumn is a very favourable time to procure stock to start an aviary—say, any time after the moult is finished up to about January—but unless some particular object is in view the cocks and hens should not be kept together until time to mate them in Spring.

FOOT TROUBLE (G. N.).—You do not give sufficient details for me to dogmatise as to the exact cause of the trouble. Is there any accumulation, or growth rather, of scurfy crust on the claws, and does the complaint seem to spread if birds are kept in the same cage? As you trace the complaint to a single stock bird several seasons backward it is undoubtedly congenital. Are your stock in-bred to any extent? Possibly this may explain something of the cause. As a remedy, to remove the effects, bathe the foot, or feet, once daily until well in a warm solution of extract of wych-hazel—a teaspoonful of the extract in a saucerful of warm water. If this does not have the desired effect try the treatment given in detail for the disease termed "Crab," in Part VI. of "Our Canaries." In view of its hereditary tendencies you should aim at eradicating the taint by avoiding, as far as possible, breeding with birds so affected, particularly if their parents, one or both, were also troubled with the complaint.

A FREAK BEAK (Ruvigny).—It is probably some time ago since this bird was a youngster, in which case, I fear, you will not be able to do much to remedy the growth on beak. Many old birds begin to show signs of these accretions of tissue. When it disappears it has doubtless been rubbed off by the bird against the perch or wires of cage, having, perhaps, become strangulated, as it were, at the base. When it disappears again anoint the spot sparingly each day with Lanoeylin for a week or so. If you notice the growth re-appearing just touch it twice a week for a fortnight with a small feather or camel-hair pencil dipped in tincture of iodine. As regards the overgrown tip, I take it from your sketch it is the lower mandible which is overgrown. Whichever it is, you need not be afraid to trim it back to a normal condition if you exercise even ordinary care and avoid pulling or wrenching the beak, or cutting back to the "quick." The latter is very easily avoided, and the former is only likely to occur through careless handling, or trying to do the trimming with an improper, or dull-edged implement. Use a quite small pair of sharp nail or embroidery scissors. When you have trimmed it again stick a cube of sugar in the wires firmly for it to nibble at, which will help to keep the beak worn down.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

WHAT IS IT (Norrie).—Your bird is the American Snow Bird (Junco hymelis). Your diet is about right, but supply greenfood, lettuce or sweet apple, and if you are in a position to get a small piece of turf occasionally, such as is given to Larks, it will be appreciated, and help to keep its feet clean, but during frosty weather you must keep it indoors several hours to remove frost taint before putting it in the cage. Use natural twigs as perches. Will reply further in our next issue.

WHAT PARROT (H.R.H.).—I think your bird is an Amazon Parrot of some sort, but I am doubtful as to the species. I am of the opinion that it is a young bird, and in immature plumage, but will consider the matter further, an dlet you have a further reply in next issue. A better mixture will be: one quart each canary and white millet seeds, one pint each oats and hemp, half a pint each paddy rice, maize, dari and sunflower seeds, well mix together. Also supply such ripe fruit as it will eat, nuts, plain biscuit. Keep cuttlebone in the cage, and add a pinch of grit (not sand) to the daily supply of seed. It must have water daily.

WHAT PARROT (S.W.).—It is a Pennant's Parrakeet, and fortunately the treatment, etc., given in my former reply will apply to this species only. It is a hardy species, and only requires to be kept out of draught. Give it a full-sized parrot cage, and as soon as it is tame and accustomed to its quarters let it have a daily fly round the room at any convenient period, but the fire must have a guard in front of it, while the bird enjoys a little exercise, do not drive it about, it will soon learn to return to its cage after enjoying a little liberty. You can train it to go back by placing some titbit in the cage that it is specially fond of, and then quietly close the door as soon as it enters. In training pet birds, all hasty, or hurried or scaring movements should be avoided.

AILING AMAZON (Mrs. M.).—You must keep this bird out of all draught, but at the same time it must have light and air; the temperature of your living-room will be ample. While giving drugs you must only use a china or glass drinking-vessel. Get a bottle of Dinneford's Magnesia, and put one teaspoonful into the usual supply of drinking-water; after an interval of two days repeat the dose. On other days, that is when not giving the magnesia, put half a teaspoonful of the chemical food in the drinking water. A few sips of very weak, chilled brandy and water, twice a day, will be soothing and stimulating. Diet: Seed mixture; boiled maize, this only keeps fresh one day; shelled nuts, plain biscuit, ripe fruit, and a leaf of lettuce occasionally, or other salad as in season. Keep a piece of clean cuttlebone in the cage, and add a pinch of parrot grit to the daily supply of seed. How you have been dieting the bird should always be stated in such queries as yours; however, you must not give tea, coffee or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever. If it has been accustomed to sops, stop them, but give a little stale bread, moistened with chemical food water, for a time. To prepare the maize, boil till soft, but the corn should be left whole, drain away all water, and lightly dust with flowers of sulphur; when cool supply to the bird. Report progress a fortnight hence.

GREY PARROTS (J.G.D).—I am glad to note the beneficial results. I should only use the glycerine occasionally, and not in conjunction with the spirits. Treat with glycerine for a few days to soften, etc., and then return to the former treatment. I am afraid it is impossible to stop the bird throwing out its seed, as all parrots do this; they pick out the favourite kind first, and then next, and so on, stirring up the seed in the pan to sort out the respective kinds. As a rule parrots are keen on sunflower, and yours will soon acquire the taste. The mixed seed will be better for it, but when next mixing double the quantity of hemp. Yes, give the nuts separately; the fruit, plain biscuit, etc., should be offered at intervals as a change to the staple dietary (seed mixture). The irritation at not getting all the hemp it wants will pass as it becomes accustomed to the changed diet. The squalls will get less and less as it becomes accustomed to you. It really does not matter which way you give the nuts, be guided by the bird's demeanour in this; all parrots look for notice and some tit-bit frequently from their owner's hands. If the birds get canary, oats, hemp and sunflower, they will do well enough, but really the general mixture is better for them, but one must yield, as far as possible, to the taste of an individual bird. The only method I know of to obviate the scattered seed, is to get a piece of flat zinc, about six inches deep, and wire this to outside of the cage on the side the seed hopper hangs, and thus confine the scattering to the cage.

BUDGERIGARS (N.H.D.).—A millet spray and a few oats occasionally will be about all they need, if they care for it they can have a piece of plain biscuit to play with and eat. Green food should be given regularly (lettuce during the winter, flowering grass and other weeds during the spring and summer), also grit and cuttlebone. Whether kept in a cage or aviary do not use stiff forms, perches, but put in a twiggy branch for roosting and exercise. Our Nutshell, "Budgerigars," 2½d., post free, from our Manager, gives full detailed treatment for cage or aviary—it would help you.

TURTLE DOVES. (Airlabie).—This group is a fairly large one, the Barbary Ring Dove is more properly the Barbary Turtle Dove, and the Turtle Dove, as it is usually spoken of, without affix, is grey and brown, with a chequered wing and the neck collar broken at the back and front of the neck, the black collar or patches at the sides of neck being scaled with white. The only book I know of devoted entirely to doves is "My Foreign Doves and Pigeons," by Miss Rosie Alderson, 3/6, plus postage. I think the Editor would obtain it for you.

A FEATHER PULLER (Trascott).—I should keep this bird on a plainish diet for a time, chiefly canary and white millet seed and a few oats, plain biscuit or crust of household bread, with ripe fruit and greenfood. Do not omit to add a pinch of grit (not sand) to the daily supply of seed and also keep a little in cage. Your best plan will be to put this bird on a course of Dinneford's Magnesia and Byno-phosphates; for methods and quantity see other parrot replies in this issue. Keep a good sized piece of a natural branch with bark on in its cage for it to cut up, also a piece of clean cuttlebone. The complaint arises from several causes, such as ennui, improper feeding, etc., but as you supply no details I cannot express an opinion in this case. Diet and treat as above, and unless it has become a confirmed vice with your bird there should be some improvement in about a month. In view of possible parasites spray with quassia solution twice a week, and carefully keep out of draught till dry.

PEKIN ROBIN (V.A.F.).—Pekin Robins are rather subject to this complaint, and while the swelling arises from the bird's general condition, and the treatment given is the best you can do for it, and you have really no alternative but to catch it and bathe the affected region, or leave matters to take their course. The bird must have light and air, yet be kept warm and out of draught. A weekly purge will do it good while the trouble lasts. On two successive days put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia with the soft food, so: Take the required quantity of dry soft food mixture, put over it the teaspoonful of magnesia, then add sufficient boiling water to make it crumbly moist. It must have at least four mealworm or other insects per diem. Try to hunt up a spider or two for it; also give as much ripe banana, grapes, etc., as it cares to take. With a general improvement in its condition, the eye trouble should gradually get less, but watch against chills.

GREY PARROT (Grey Bird).—As you have our "Nutshell" on the Grey Parrot, I presume you are dieting it according to the directions contained therein, if not do so, but do not let the change be too sudden. The temperature of any ordinary living room will be ample for the bird, but it must be kept out of draught, yet not away from light and air. From what you say I should imagine its nostrils are partially stopped up. Get a bottle of glyco-thymoline, take a small portion of this, and dilute it with six times its bulk of water, and with a camel hair brush cleanse the nostrils twice daily till they are clear, and cease from running, if the latter should occur. I should also keep the bowels moving freely by giving one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day, so long as the voidings are not watery loose, and on the intervening days put half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the water. Continue this treatment for a month, and then report progress. As soon as the bird is quite accustomed to you all, and is in condition, it will be likely to respond to teaching, but it is no use attempting to train it till it is quite tame, and at home among you. You will find full directions as to this in the "Nutshell."

YELLOW-WING SUGAR BIRD (Sugar Birds).—I am sorry you have lost the bird, and it was evidently the dreaded pneumonia which carried it off, and for this there is practically no remedy. It had evidently caught a chill. The symptoms you described to me pointed strongly to the usual origin, viz., overfeeding. They are really robust birds, though when a little low very susceptible to a sudden chill, and we've been having treacherous weather of late. The treatment had nothing to do with its decease; it really helped the bird to fight the disease up to a certain point, as your remarks indicate.

WHAT PARROT? (W. Bain). It is an Alexandrine Parrakeet, many of which make really talented talkers. It little use to commence training till the bird is quite tame and steady. Keep it in your midst, but not where it will be continually subject to scaring movements, etc., and it will pick up many words it hears uttered in general conversation, also mimic cries and calls and crying and laughing, etc. Also teach it by the constant repetition of anything you wish it to learn. Diet: A seed mixture of one quart each canary and millet seed, one pint each oats and hemp, and half a pint each paddy rice, dari, maize, and sunflower seed—well mix the whole together, and keep a supply in the cage. Also supply greenfood, ripe fruit, nuts and plain biscuit. Add a pinch of grit (not sand) to the daily supply of seed, and keep a piece of clean cuttlebone hanging in the cage. Supply water regularly, and keep a good size piece of a branch in the cage for it to cut up and play with, and it should do well.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

A "BALD" BLACKBIRD (William).—I have had several cases of "bald" birds recently, and have recommended the following treatment, which I have been pleased to hear has been successful in every instance. A few applications of a good healing ointment improve the condition of the skin, and pave the way to a renewed growth of plumage. Try Kerol ointment. It is advisable to use it warm, to cause it to "work" as thinly and freely as possible. Apply a tiny smear with the tip of a finger, rubbing gently the way the feathers should lie. Repeat morning and evening for five or six days; then await events for a reasonable time. I hope you are feeding the bird on the right lines.

FEEDING, JACKDAWS, MAGPIES, ETC. (N.H.D.).—This question is getting quite an old friend. Feed on these lines: Puppy cakes, or dog meal or food (such as "Melox") thoroughly soaked with hot water, and reduced to a kind of moist consistency (not "sloppy"). Give some meat chopped into tiny pieces (beef or mutton), or rabbit flesh, which I prefer to the others; add table scraps of meat, vegetables, gravy, and the like; also give dead mice, sparrows, beetles, worms, snails, gentles, etc., frequently. They are very accommodating in the matter of appetite.

SHOW CONDITION OF HAWFINCH (Puzzled).—The bird you speak of must have moulted very early and so have come into condition early. The blue beak denotes high (breeding) condition. To obtain it you will have to feed your bird up well, giving him a little hemp (let it be good and sound) now and again, in addition to sunflower, which is excellent; so is beech-mast; likewise the various nuts, especially the shelled kinds sold (mixed) at shops catering for vegetarians; while berries (black, privet, hawthorn, mountain ash, etc.), are very valuable. Don't, too, forget three or four mealworms daily; these are invaluable.

A SHOW GREENFINCH (A. T. Bishop).—Am pleased to hear you have bought a show Greenfinch so cheaply. The most important food item is a daily feed of good, sound (full kernelled) sunflower (or half sunflower, half safflower) seed. This can be offered in a separate dish, or placed among the stock mixture. The latter should be made up as follows: Canary and teazle, two pints each, hemp, summer rape, and linseed half a pint each. Crack the safflower seed, if used. Wild seed mixture, and some good maker's special packet Finch mixture, can be occasionally offered for a change, while sunflower heads (gathered from the garden full of seed), thistle and hardheads, seeding chickweed, groundsel and shepherd's purse, should be freely given as in season.

FEEDING A GOLDFINCH (S. Mayrick).—Feed your bird on the following seed mixture—Teazle four parts, canary three parts, hemp two parts, linseed one part, sunflower, safflower, and summer rape half-part each. The sunflower and safflower I crack lightly by passing them through a seed-crushing machine. In addition I have two other mixtures, of which I give a small teaspoonful daily—one, one day, the other the next day, and so on. They are (1) niger three parts, and maw one part; (2) thistle three ounces, dandelion and sesame two ounces each, lettuce, gold of pleasure, and cornflower one ounce each. All the others are mixed by measure. These seeds are those I have found by long experience the Goldfinch is particularly partial to, and as "tit-bits" they help to bring them into song and condition quicker than anything else I know. Plenty of dandelion, young tender leaves, and flowering and seeding heads are essential also to bring them along into breeding condition. At this time of the year, of course, only thistle, etc., heads are available.

Owing to very severe pressure on our space this week, several replies have to be held over.—Editor.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

Victor Fowler.—We shall be pleased to send on your note if you will forward the necessary penny stamp.

Jas. Henderson.—We will find a corner for your little contribution in next week's special issue; accept our thanks.

W. Gunning.—We do not see that any public interest attaches to the further questions in the letter you now send up, or that their publication could serve any good purpose. You say you are quite satisfied with the judge's explanation, and we think the matter might very well end there.

In the Courts.

A Bristol Man Fined for Cruelty, and Illegally Catching Goldfinches.

George Elliott, a Bristol birdcatcher, on Oct. 11, had to answer charges of cruelty to Goldfinches caught at Portbury on October 8. He had 25 birds in his possession, newly caught, itself an offence under the Wild Birds Protection Act.

Inspector Craigen, of the R.S.P.C.A., stated there were three charges, one of having in his possession birds which were protected by the Act all the year round, and two other charges of cruelty to the birds. The Inspector explained that a decoy bird was used by the defendant. Four of the birds found were "braced"—that was a process of tying a thin line around the bodies and then tethering them to the ground by a little hoop. The birds had enough room to rise a little from the ground, but would then fall back.

P.S. Mellnish said whilst cycling near Portbury on October 8th he noticed the defendant carrying a workman's frail, in which was a cage. Investigation revealed there were Goldfinches in the cage, and after walking over a mile with him towards Portbury Moors, Elliott said: "You might as well take this one, else it will be dead—it is a decoy bird." He then pulled an exhausted bird out of a linen bag he had carried in his pocket. The bag seemed absolutely airtight, and the bird had been in Elliott's pocket for three-quarters of an hour to witness's knowledge. The cage in which the 25 birds were found was 16in. by 6in. and 4½in. deep. Twenty of these birds had had their wings tied by thin thread at the tips, and five were braced so cleverly that witness did not find it out for some time. Six of the birds died that night, and witness released the other 18. Undoubtedly the birds had suffered great pain from suffocation as well as from being tied and confined. Witness added that a number of gangs came down from Bristol trapping these birds, and when challenged one would escape with the birds and another with the nets.

Defendant was fined 10s. or in default seven days, for the cruelty to the decoy bird, 10s. (or seven days) for cruelty to the other birds, and £1 (or 14 days) for having the birds in his possession, the fines to include cost, or, in default, the sentences to run concurrently.

Is a Call Bird Useful With Hawfinches?

Sir,—Will someone inform me whether a decoy call bird is of any use in catching Hawfinches?

Oxon.

The Dove's Strange "Chick" is Thriving.

Sir,—The little bantam which my Dove hatched, and which you mentioned in Cage Birds, is still thriving. His latest trick is to awaken me in the morning as soon as it is light by flying on to the bed, settling on my head, and starting crowing—a novel alarum, and quite effectual the first time!

Can Irish Champions and Novices Exhibit from the Same Address?

Sir,—At a recent show in the North I noticed the name of an exhibitor in the novice section (Yorkshires) who in my opinion is not eligible. His son is exhibiting in the open section, and I contend that if the father wishes to exhibit he must do so in open classes, as both reside at the same address. I would like to hear the opinion of others on the above, as I am only a novice.

Roller Canaries at the L.C.B.A Show.

Sir,—There is an unfortunate mistake in the schedule of the L.C.B.A. show re the judging of the Roller section. It states birds to be at the hall on Wednesday, as the judging will begin on Thursday morning. This is wrong. The birds must be at the Hall Tuesday as the judging will commence Wednesday morning. I have spoken to Mr. Mugford about it, and he has asked me to write you, and I shall esteem it a favour if you will call attention to this; also that Mr. F. A. Lester is not judging at the show, his name being included in the list of judges by error.

The Capture of Birds Wearing Marking Rings.

Sir,—I much appreciate the fact that your readers kindly notify recoveries of these ringed birds; and that you publish them is of great benefit to the scheme. With regard to the Gull marked with my ring, this is a Black-headed Gull, and was ringed at Ravenglass, Cumberland, by one of my correspondents in June, 1912. With regard to the Aberdeen University rings, I have sent a copy of your paper to Mr. Landsborough Thomson, who manages this inquiry. I may add that I shall shortly be publishing a large number of recoveries in my magazine, and several of them have been notified in Cage Birds, which shall be duly acknowledged.

Sir,—I see that Mr. F. McGillivray (Bo'ness) has caught a Greenfinch hen with Aberdeen University ring No. 7761. I rung this bird here in the Blairadam Woods, Fife, in the nest on the 19th of May of this year. I am pleased to hear about this, as I and my friend, Mr. J. Cordey have rung over 200 birds of all sorts these last two years, and this is the first time we have heard about any of them.

Extraordinary Fate of a Thrush

Killed by an Earthworm.

Sir,—I have a small very overgrown garden, and during the summer I sit there a good deal. Being very quiet, the birds love it. One day in the spring I heard a young bird grumping a bit in the bushes behind me. On going to see, there was a young Thrush looking rather humpy, and to my astonishment there appeared to be green beetles running in and out of its feathers on the back. I afterwards found they were green flies about the size of a bluebottle. I ... the poor bird must be ill, and as it was ... to catch, I put it in a small cage, and ... it for its parents to feed, which they did ... with black currants, as soon as I had left ... I got flies off and dusted it with Keating's ... Powder. I fed it with bread and milk and ... hard-boiled egg and biscuit, as it seemed to ... worse on the black currant diet. It ... for about a week, and then died. After ... was dead, I opened it to ascertain the ..., and found that the parents must have ... with a very lively worm, which made a ... the first hole it could, and that happened to be the entrance to the wind-pipe at the back of the tongue. The little trachea or wind pipe, had two or three holes in it, where the worm had escaped into the body, and there it was dead, about two and a half inches long, outside the organs of digestion; but it had doubtless been the cause of the piercing squeaks the bird gave every now and then, as it seemed to have no breathing trouble. This I give as a warning to boys, as I know how fond they are of getting young Thrushes and feeding them with worms.

The Recent Fine Show at Swansea.

Sir,—May I tender my best thanks to the 707 exhibitors at Swansea show, and especially to the members of the Y.C.C., S.Y.C.C., N.B.B. and M.C., and W.C.B.C. for their grand support in their various sections; also the exhibitors from Scotland and Ireland who helped to make this show one of the finest in the history of the Society. We paid out all prize-money on Saturday last. I am in duty bound to convey to you my personal thanks for the valuable support given to us by Cage Birds, without which we should not have succeeded; also to your representative at the show who must have worked very hard to get his report away in time for publication the same week as the show, when it is taken into consideration that the judging did not finish until after four o'clock in the afternoon, and by our arrangement with the railway companies, we were able to dispatch all exhibits away at the scheduled time. I trust that by doing our duty to exhibitors this year, we shall be able to retain their support for our next open show, arrangements for which have already been practically made.

The Future of the Sheffield O.S.

Sir,—I was surprised on reading my Cage Birds last Friday morning to see someone who was afraid to sign his name making a most untruthful and unjust statement concerning the Sheffield O.S. Your correspondent must be totally ignorant of the inner workings of our society, or else he would know that it is anything but a one-man show. I consider his remarks an insult, not only to myself, the Secretary and Committee, but to the members generally. As to our financial position and bank balance, let me inform your correspondent that I—and I don't like blowing my own trumpet, but feel obliged to—by the help of my friends, quite outside the society, was able to give well over £20 in hard cash to our Secretary last year, which is really more than the balance carried forward to profit. I may also tell your correspondent that I and Mr. Cotton ran bird shows with a substantial profit, before Mr. Bishop was really in the Fancy, so I'm no novice. We live in times of change, but if I am spared I will see that no stone be left unturned to gain greater success next annual show than we have already obtained this year. I feel that the attractions which will be provided and the management which we shall then have will make not only our society a financial success, but our show second to none. Let me add: This is my first letter and last on the subject.

Thos. Dawn,
Chairman Sheffield O.S.

Sir,—Your correspondent "Old Sheffielder," in his desire to pay a tribute to the above Society and to Mr. T. Bishop in particular, has done an injustice to secretaries of other cage bird societies in Sheffield. I do not wish to detract in the least from the very fine show (fine in every sense) neither would I wish to begrudge Mr. Bishop and the rest of the officials of the S.O.S. the credit due to them, nor yet begrudge them the success which their enterprise and hard work merited. But I am sure Mr. Bishop, if I know him, and I think I do, would not like anyone to get the impression that he is so conceited as to believe that he is the only man in Sheffield who can make a show pay. Fancy a city the size of Sheffield with only one good business man in the bird fancy! I feel that if I did not reply to this letter, I should be doing an injustice to Mr. A. Hobson, the Secretary of Sheffield C.B.S. We, the members of the S.C.B.S., think a lot of this gentleman, and we have very good reason, for only last December he, along with Mr. Woolhouse, made a big success of our open show. It was a big success in every way, and worked without a single hitch, and the members have every confidence that if hard work and care as to detail, have their reward, we shall have a bigger success on Dec. 14 when we hold our next open show. I will close with the sincere wish that Mrs. Bishop may speedily be restored to health, so that Mr. Bishop may be able to take an active interest in a Fancy he loves. With apologies for taking up so much space.

F. Jones (President S.C.B.S.).

Talking Parrots at the Sheffield O.S. Show.

Sir,—The worthy and esteemed secretary, Mr. T. Bishop, is the donor of the special prize of a very handsome cruet, which my Parrot won at Sheffield show, being declared the best talker in the talking competition. Mr. Bishop writes me that my bird was talking both the show days, and gave endless amusement to all the visitors. This prize will be treasured by me and my wife. Word of praise is due to Mr. Bishop and his committee for the admirable way the birds were looked after, for my own returned home in splendid condition.

James Ditchfield.

A New Society for Arnold and Daybrook District.

Sir,—No doubt you will think the new society I wrote you about a little while ago had fallen through, but I am pleased to say we have got a nice few of the fanciers together here, and have formed the above-named society, and anyone wishing to become a member can do so by applying to me. We are having a show in the British Schools, Arnold, on Nov. 30. We have 18 classes, 2 Norwich and 2 Crest and C.B. open, the remaining classes for members. We have guaranteed prize-money in open classes 7s., 4s., 2s., with a 2s. 6d. cash special in each class. We hope to have a nice little show, and to increase the number of fanciers here. Now old and new fanciers, give us a lift!

Lizard Canaries at Blaydon Show.

Sir,—In my opinion Mr. Riseborough's Gold Lizard "wrong classed" by myself at Blaydon is a broken-cap. The fact that it won first at Newcastle as a clear cap does not make it one, and cannot. This bird is broken on the left side of the cap, and were it to be shown under me fifty times it would be "wrong classed" every time, even though other judges had admitted it as a clear cap. Blakston, the guide of my youth, taught me that a clear cap Lizard must not have its cap "run, broken, nor fouled by a single speck." Mr. Riseborough's bird has more than one speck. Blakston says, speaking of the clear cap—"The outline of the cap must be clearly defined and unbroken, and its entire area unsullied by the presence of a single dark feather, which simply means that it must be absolutely clear. To make the matter more explicit, he says that "a single feather, a minute tick," in an otherwise clear cap makes it a broken cap. In Mr. Riseborough's bird there are many feathers in the cap that are dark. I "wrong classed" another bird in the same class which was not nearly so badly broken as Mr. Riseborough's. As a Lizard Mr. Riseborough's bird is of great excellence; it was one of the best birds in the class at Blaydon, and would have been 1st or 2nd had I been able to admit it, but I could not.

Unprolificacy in Canaries.

Sir,—While recognising the weight which the position of advisory expert lends to Mr. Claude St. John's comment on my article, I should like to point out a few phrases in his letter which tend to put a wrong construction on the opinions I expressed. Firstly, I never said that unprolificacy was confined to high class stock, but that it was most manifest in such. Surely Mr. St. John does not mean to say that high-class Crests, Scots Fancies, or Belgians are as prolific as commons? Does Mr. St. John claim that despite the absence of any check on deterioration, nature will do for this cult what she has hitherto done for none other in which human control abrogates the law of survival of the fittest? His claim that records of hens breeding nearly all the year round, and laying almost continuously, whether paired or not, are indicative of an increase in prolificacy, is nullified by the fact that for one such there are hundreds which never produce a chick. Eggs are not proof of prolificacy; promise is not fulfilment, inasmuch as two prominent breeders here have only reared about twenty birds out of over two hundred eggs. If Mr. St. John thinks I am quoting isolated instances, let him state what he would consider a fair average of reproduction per hen, per season, and I believe I can convince him that unprolificacy is much more manifest than he is at present aware of. That there are some remarkably prolific birds, even in the highest-class stock, I am quite aware, and these form the basis on which a higher standard of average would be erected. Does Mr. St. John deny that prolificacy is an inherent quality? Whether this be so or not, what other preventive than that which I have suggested (elimination) would he advise to arrest a clear case of decline in reproductive powers manifest in a Canary stock, having every other indication of health and robustness and the management of which was identical with other stock which proved highly prolific? While echoing his hope that breeders of high class birds will give their opinions (and delaying this in hopes of such) I fear that those who suffer most, say least, as unprolificacy is not conducive to big sales or prices. The alleged reproductive powers of some breeders' stock must be marvellous. I have known a breeder to sell over forty young from a single hen in one season! I thank those correspondents who have expressed their appreciation of the article, and I am prepared and willing to uphold the views therein expressed.

Urgent Appeal on Behalf of Horticultural Hall Show.

Sir,—As will be seen by our advert. in to-day's issue, we have been obliged to extend our date of closing to the last post Saturday, 23rd (or received first post Monday morning). Up to this morning (Wednesday), we have received entries from 50 prospective exhibitors, as against some 550 last year. We are most anxious that the reputation of this show should be maintained, and it can only be by your cordial support. It may be news to the Fancy in general to know that the whole work of this show is carried out by voluntary labour and at times considerable expense to members personally. The expenses of the hall and printing alone are enormous, over £100 being spent annually, and all for the benefit of the Fancy. Have you, kind reader, not a few entries that you could send to bring the classes up to reasonable dimensions? A perusal of the schedule will convince you that it is for you we give our brains, time and money, and we appeal to you to show your appreciation. This is no idle appeal, but the pure unadulterated truth, and we feel confident that all those exhibitors who supported us last year and the years before will again rally round us. We give 193 classes, more than any other society, which proves that it is not "self" with us. If you have no schedule, send on and we will classify. Do help us. All exhibits will be packed Sunday night and despatched by newspaper express trains Monday morning

A Failure at Linnet Catching Explained.

Sir,—Permit me to thank Mr. H. Palerey for his kind and explicit information on the subject. From Mr. Palerey's remarks, I conclude that the birds must have been "plagued," although the old farmer assured me repeatedly that "nobody never caught no Linnets on his lands." A rusty old drinking tin and several other signs aroused my suspicions before a country labourer winked at me one morning with the remark: "After the Linnets, sir?" So it seems I was not the first. At all events, all other conditions had been faithfully complied with, and the brace birds acted absolutely perfectly. They were old experts and took to the stick the instant the brace line was touched. Nets were set in the evening and left ready for the morning, so that only brace-birds had to be added. No birds' seeds were used, but wild plants—such as hardheads, on which the birds were feeding at the time. I made what the experts term "a pretty little garden"; finally, I had a man to walk the birds around, but they never came nearer than 15 to 20 feet from the nets above or aside. I was quite ready to pull at them crossing the nets, and have caught Long-tailed Tits and a variety of other birds that way. But those particular Linnets would have none of it, and made me look rather foolish. Would Mr. H. Palerey kindly favour me with a little information, how flue or drop nets are used? I do not understand, if they hang simply vertical, why birds should not be able to disentangle themselves immediately.

Very Old Subscriber.

Sir,—Would Mr. H. Palerey kindly explain how to train Linnets to sit the stick? The place where I lay my nets (nine yards) the birds cross from one place to another, and include Linnets, Chaffinches, and a few Goldies. Would he say how many call birds he would use, and where place them?

CAGE BIRDS will sell your surplus stock at once. Advertise and see for yourself.

Please thank all who answered my advertisement in "Cage Birds," and state birds were sold mid-day, Saturday. I could have sold them to six enquirers on Saturday, but as cheque came earlier have sent them to sender. Up to time of writing I have had sixteen letters and am expecting more! It shows the value of a small advertisement in "Cage Birds" to either sell or buy anything in the bird line. I wish "Cage Birds" continued success.—W. H. Harris (Dorchester).

LEEDS ROLLER C.C.

The seventh annual contest was a huge success, providing 56 more entries than the previous year, and the "gate" also proved highly satisfactory. Many well-known Roller men from almost all the principal centres in the North, visited the show, and if the popularity of our little friend the Roller continues to increase at the present rate, a much larger room will be needed next year. The room was well lighted, and kept at a pleasant temperature throughout the show. 209 birds were down to face the judges, Messrs. M. Jacquemin, Wolverhampton; J. Lyons, Blackburn, and T. W. Walton, Leeds, the services of the last-named gentleman being requisitioned owing to the large entry. Their decisions appeared to be well received. Prize-money was paid or posted before the close of the show. A record entry, a record gate. The Leeds members should feel justly proud of their work. In the list of awards abbreviations are made as follows. Hollow roll, HR; hollow bell, HB; bass, B; schockel, S; Glucke, G; tintes, F; water roll, WR; water Glucke, WG; deep bubbling water tour, DBWT; bell tour, BT; bell roll, BR; general effect, GE. The Leeds Roller challenge cup was won by Mr. J. A. Craig.

PROVINCIAL ROLLER C.C.

Members' show held Nov. 16th at the Old Boar's Head Hotel, Manchester. Number was not up to expectation, but the quality taken all round seems to be improving. Novice classes were disappointing, only 22 entries, in the two classes provided for them. The attendance also was below the average, but the foggy weather may account very largely for this.

WEST LONDON F.A.

Twenty-fourth annual show, held Nov. 6 and 7, at Hampshire House Club, King-st., Hammersmith. The new hall proved to be an ideal one for a bird show, free from draughts and well lighted by electric light, and the club should do well at their new headquarters. Crests were a particularly strong section, among the exhibitors being Mrs. Thynne and Messrs. Turner, Lazarus, Gibbons, Shepherd and Mugford. Mr. Turner scored his third win for the Crest cup in keen competition, so it now becomes his property. Mr. Withers will have his name engraved on the Norwich cup for the second time, and the Yorkshire cup was captured by Mr. Bennett. The British and foreign bird cup (presented by Mr. Shepherd) was won by Mr. Dewhurst. Mrs. Thynne won foreign bird cup on points, and Mr. Dewhurst British bird cup, also on points.

BLACKWOOD O.S.

Ninth annual show held in the Southfield Hall and St. John's School, Blackwood, Nov. 16. Hon. Pres., Robert H. Rule, Esq.; Hon. Vice, A. M. Lindsay, Esq., M.D.; Pres., Mr. S. Pate; Vice-Pres., Mr. Thos. Jackson; treas., Mr. A. Brown; sec., Mr. Jas. Hamilton, with 15 members of a committee—all well-known fanciers. Judges: Scotch Fancy, Mr. Caldwell; Borders, Mr. Ritchie; Nor., Mr. Chalmers. There were two silver cups, one presented by Arthur Kirk, Esq., for the best young S.F. bred by exhibitor, and the other for best Border. Entries were a shade down from last year, but quality was in advance of any previous shows of the society. Borders were a specially good lot. Scotch Fancies were also A1. Norwich and British sections being close up. In Scotch Fancy section Mr. John Burnside won the silver cup for the best young bird bred by exhibitor with his Green hen, a City of Glasgow winner, a very stylish hen. The award seemed not to be a popular one, but on referring the matter to the judge he stated that the bird certainly was looking perfect in every way when it was judged, and in his opinion won its place. The runner-up was Mr. A. Allerdice's cl. yell. cock, a bird of excellent merit. Mr. James Walker won the Border Cup and medal with a head-marked yell. cock, a perfect gem, Mr. A. Walker being close up with a clear buff hen teeming with merit; a close run. The exhibits were nicely staged, and all the arrangements were well carried out by Sec. Hamilton and his able committee, to whom every credit is due.

BELPER.

Held Nov. 16th. The limit for cage birds being £5, some rare bargains were to be found, both in Yorks and Crests, in fact some exhibits had previously won in much keener competition. Cup for the best unflighted Yorkshire fell to Miss Allen's bird, a lovely specimen, sleek as a mole and tight as boxwood, standing on a good pair of legs as straight as a gun barrel. Winner of the Sandiford medal was Mr. Smith's Norwich, a real red-hot one. Special for best bird shown by a member was captured by Mr. Brown, of Crest fame. The secretaries (Messrs. Stillman and Holden) are two young fellows of whom the society should be proud, they go about their work quietly, as they have everything at their finger tips. Mr. Geo. Colledge judged.

The Critique.

HENRY J. FULLJAMES,
Secretary CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE,
154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

WIMBLEDON.

Eighth annual show of the Wimbledon C.B.S., Nov. 19-20, proved to be a huge success. An entry of nine hundred birds was abroad as many as could be comfortably staged in the Queen's Hall. The birds were beautifully arranged, and looked well in long tiers down the room. Norwich this year headed the list in point of numbers, and some of the best birds in the south competed. All the crack breeders and exhibitors made entries, and the competition was very keen. Messrs. Gill and Pethick were in yell. cocks with a bird blazing with col. and quality, and Mr. Baker's grand bull once more romped home in a good class. In yell. marks Mr. Rippon's bird added one more win to his already good record. Yorks. was of very high-class, all the chief exhibitors of the south Yorkshire clubs sending in birds. Messrs. Hawes Bros. did exceptionally well, having winners in nearly every class. Mr. Knight, of Cambridge, staged several beauties. In Crests Mr. Broad romped home with his young variegd. bird that was mentioned at Portsmouth. The novice section was well filled, and some fine birds hard on the heels of the champions were put down. Norwich classes were hardly so packed as the Yorkies, but the quality was all there. Yorks. had some good classes, particularly the multi-listed, 24 good ones facing the judge. A very choice lot of Hybrids, Brit. and Foreigners made up a fine collection. Although the members' Yorks. were good, they hardly came up to the Wimbledon standard, but many members had their best birds in the open. Borders were a hot lot, the competition for Mrs. Thynne's cup bringing many entries. Sixteen beautiful greens competed for the Rev. Soames' cup, the winner proving to be one of the donor's own birds. Members' novice section was also well filled with fine specimens. The management was all that one could desire. In the capable hands of Mr. H. Smith, who once again held the reins, everything that could possibly be done was managed and arranged for in advance. The awards were up and catalogues on sale soon after the last slip was handed in. Mr. Smith had valuable assistance from Mrs. Smith, Mr. Stoakley, the chairman, and Mrs. Owen, who very generously came to his assistance. Of the committee Messrs. Dixon, Dyke, Griffiths, Owen, Rorke, and Whittome, did yeoman service. The society are also much indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Thynne for putting in a full day's work on the opening day. The judges were: Messrs. Halliday (Yorks.), Robson (Brit. and other Can.), and Norman (Amit and members).

READING.

The Reading and Dis. C.B.S. held their annual show November 20th, at the Palmer Hall. The entry was good, considerably in advance of previous shows. During the evening many visitors put in an appearance, and seemed to thoroughly enjoy the fine collection on view. The show was ably managed by Mr. Pyke, who had everything in fine working order, and catalogues out in record time. He was ably assisted by Messrs. Acton, Vince, Yates, Fraser, Avis, Dearlove, Tremlett, Laurence, Smith, Maisey, Albury, and Hayward. Specials: "Pyke" cup, for most points Brit. and foreign, Mr. G. H. Acton; "Acton" cup, for Canaries, Mr. G. H. Dearlove; amateur cup (best bird), Mr. J. Ward; challenge cup for most wins proved to be a tie between Mr. F. Dearlove and Mr. J. P. Lawrence. Best Nor., Mr. J. P. Lawrence; best Yorks., Mr. W. G. King. The judges were Mr. J. Robson, Can., Brit., etc.; Mr. H. D. Astley, F.Z.S., For.

YARM, EAGLESCLIFFE & DIST.

A members' show in connection with the above was held in the Town Hall, Nov. 15th. The entries were all that could be desired. The chief prize winners were Messrs. Henderson, W. Sirrell, E. Wilson, P. Johnson, W. Smith, J. Willis, Garbutt and Clement, J. Spence and Geo. Stead. The judging was in the capable hands of Mr. W. Johnson, Ilday Nook, who gave a handsome show cage for most points, won by Mr. J. Henderson after a very close run with Mr. W. Sirrell. We are working very hard in various ways to make our annual show a great success. There will be heaps of specials. All prize money in connection with this show last year was paid out within 12 hours; we are going to try and beat that this year, and are hoping for a record entry, as the society was never in a more prosperous position than it is at present. T. F. Wilson, Sec.

BOURNEMOUTH.

Twenty-first annual show held Nov. 19th and 20th, in the Central Hall, a nice room for a bird show, being well lighted from the top, and quite free from draughts. The exhibits were nicely staged and the staging being draped with red bunting, the effect was very pronounced and pleasing. The society is certainly to be congratulated on its coming-of age show, as the quality all round was most excellent, the competition keen, and the entries very satisfactory, totalling close upon 500. Competition in the Hybrid, British, and Foreign was very hot, many birds having to stand cardless that could win at many shows. The Countess of Malmesbury performed the opening ceremony, and in connection with this function a pleasing presentation was made to the youthful Viscount Fitzharris, of a beautiful brass cage and yell. Norwich Canary, the gift of the society. The hon. secs., Mr. J. A. Crawshaw, made the presentation in a happy speech. We need hardly say the exhibits were thoroughly well looked after by a good body of fanciers. Owing to the illness of the hon. sec., the brunt of the work fell upon the shoulders of the show manager, Mr. J. W. Jones, and he had the valuable assistance of the hon. treas., Mr. L. Bousfield, and right well did they do their work, as everything passed off as smoothly as clockwork. When we left the hall was crowded with visitors, and everything pointed to a financial success. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne, and everybody seemed well pleased.

BRISTOL.

Held Nov. 13 in the Kingsley Hall. There were 250 entries—not so many as had been expected, and the society certainly merited a better result. We hope they will not be discouraged, but try again. Mrs. B. Pool, the hon. sec., and her very able committee are to be congratulated on the excellent management of the show, and the fine hall in which it was held. Mr. J. H. Roe judged.

BANGOR (Ireland).

The Bangor (Co. Down) C.B.S. held their third annual open show on Nov. 14 and 15, in the Dufferin Hall (a most convenient room for the purpose. Unfortunately the show clashed with Dundalk and Derry, hence the poor support in most of the classes. Another year it would be advisable to spend with CAGE BIRDS, and be put on the guaranteed list. This will avoid clashing, and exhibitors will know where to send to. It will also stop a lot of ill-feeling between societies. Each will have its own date, and better support all round. Quality was in evidence in all the exhibits. The Canary section was down in numbers to previous years, but the Brit. and Hyb. were a great show. The Siskin Mules were really great. Mr. McConaghie makes an ideal show manager. He was ably backed up by Mr. Shannon (chairman), who is a keen Brit. fancier. G. Absolom (hon. treas.) and the stewards, who tended to the wants of the visitors and birds alike. Messrs. Alexandra, Brennan, Carleton, and R. Stewart. The exhibition was opened by the President (John M. Meekan, Esq., J.P.), who congratulated the society on the quality of the birds. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, Liverpool, placed the awards, and gave entire satisfaction.

The Critique.

CRESTS: 1, 2, Bowman, leader, well formed massive crest, well radiated from centre; 2, small but neat crest, fails droop to winner. NOR. CL. YELL. WINDERMERE (Westmorland).

The Windermere fanciers held their first show (30 miles radius) on Nov. 14, in the Institute; an ideal place for a show of this kind. Messrs. G. Ion and E. Spront had everything well in hand, and a good staff of stewards to look after the exhibits. Mr. Charles Ward (Derby) judged, and gave every satisfaction.

(20): 1, hon, lovely feathered South African Grey Parrot; 2, Dockray, pretty, well shown Amazon (blue fronted); 3, Clara, nice coloured Rosella Parrot.

CIRENCESTER.

Owing to the very poor support accorded the Cage Bird section in past years, only three classes were provided this by the Cirencester F. and F.A. for their show, held in the beautiful Bingham Hall Nov. 20th and 21st. The arrangements were splendidly carried out by the committee. Mr. W. G. Inward made a most excellent secretary, being most courteous and obliging in his dealing with exhibitors and most energetic in the carrying out of his duties. Mr. C. A. House judged.

CAN. (10): 1, sp, Burrows, long, slim, stylish well feathered, but pale coloured yell. Yorkie; 2, 3, Ireland, grandly feathered, nicely browed, good shaped variegd. C.B., and a very pretty wing nkd. ST. MARY CHURCH AND BABBACOMBE.

Annual show held Nov. 20th, in Town Hall. The birds were nicely staged in a snug corner and looked most attractive. Yorks contained some classy birds, especially yellows, Crests, and C.-B. were also good, Mr. G. Williams winning spl. for best Canary with a magnificent Crest. The British were a credit to any show, the spl. winner, a Magpie, being a regular stormer. This society is most fortunate in possessing such a smart set of officials. The Chairman (Mr. Hamlyn) is a hard-working and real fancier, as also is Mr. R. Wills, the Vice Chairman, while too great praise cannot be bestowed on the Hon. Sec., Mr. R. H. Bearne, who is ably assisted by his wife. Mr. J. N. Jeffery judged and gave satisfaction.

Despite the large number of pages devoted to Show Reports, and the remarkable number of fixtures dealt with therein, we have been regretfully compelled to hold several over until next week. Among these are accounts of the City and Suburban, Glasgow and West of Scotland, Runcorn, Aberdeen (Bon Accord), Belfast, Edinburgh Norwich, M. and B.B.S., Blyth, Kilmarnock, and Camborne Shows.

AVONBRIDGE.

Ninth annual show held Nov. 16. The entries exceeded 470. Norwich filled poorly, two classes being cancelled. Borders excellent in numbers and quality, the cream of the Fancy being here on exhibition. Border Fancy medal was won by R. Lambie, Whitburn, with his yellow green cock; novice Border medal, Mr. Campbell, Biggar. British classes were also good, some real champions being on view. Bullie hens were superb. Challenge cup for most points over show was again won by Mr. R. Gentleman (Avonbridge) who put down a grand team. The society is blessed with a splendid patronage, likewise a hard-working committee, not forgetting the show managers, Messrs. Gentleman and Binnie, who did their best to please all. Norwich and Borders were judged by Mr. P. McKenzie (Kelso); Mules, Brit., and For., by Mr. Alex. McGillivray (Bo'ness), who kindly took over the duties at the last minute, Mr. Duncan (Kilsyth) being unable to attend. The judges got through their work in nice time, and seemed to have pleased everyone.

COVENTRY O.S.

The Coventry O.S. held their 36th annual show at their headquarters, the Sydenham Palace. The room is acknowledged by the critics to be one of the best in the kingdom for a cage bird show. Mr. W. Vardy judged. The exhibition was opened by Alderman Drinkwater. Some of the best of the Canaries and British birds shown in this country were on view, and competition for the prizes offered was keen. Entries, though excellent, were not quite up to last year's total. Norwich were larger than usual not only in regard to Coventry, but to shows generally this season. In the hen class alone there were as many as 26 exhibits. In Crested and C.B., although the exhibits were somewhat fewer than usual, the quality of the birds was superior to what has been seen before. There was a fair entry of Cinnamons, and they were quite up to the standard. The Canary hybrids were, as a class, far in advance of anything which has been shown in Coventry before. Dark Canary hybrids included a number of capital specimens. The British were excellent, in the pink of condition and splendidly shown. In opening the show Ald. Drinkwater congratulated the committee on having got together so good an exhibition of birds, and upon the way they were staged. Apparently every care was given to the exhibits. He regretted that, owing to the show being held on licensed premises, it was not permissible for young people to visit the exhibition. He thought that such an exhibition would be as interesting and instructive to girls and boys, particularly boys, as the chrysanthemum show, which so many school children were visiting. He never knew anyone who was kind to animals and birds who was not kindly disposed and considerate to his fellows, and for that reason alone the hobby of bird-keeping was worthy of all the support that could be given to it.—On the proposition of Mr. Geo. Peters, seconded by Professor Eckersley, of Birmingham, and supported by Mr. Walton, of Leicester, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Ald. Drinkwater for his kindness in opening the show. The officers were: President, Mr. G. Peters; vice-presidents, Messrs. T. Gilbert and T. Judd; committee of management, Messrs. G. Lawrence, T. Chillingsworth, H. Mann, F. Swift, W. Davis, G. Coates, and H. Butler; hon. treasurer, Mr. J. Corrall; auditors, Messrs. G. Turrall and F. W. Harris; show stewards, Messrs. J. Tipping, W. J. Rowley, A. J. Lucas, F. Swift, J. Symonds, W. H. Raven, A. Orton, H. Pemberton, W. Staymaker, H. Spann, J. Shaddock, A. J. Smith, E. H. Jeacocks, and F. Laugharne; hon. sec., Mr. A. J. Barratt.

STOCKSBRIDGE.

Fourth annual members' show held in the National Schools, Nov. 9. About 70 birds faced the judge, Mr. J. Woolhouse, of Sheffield. Rather disappointing in numbers, but excellent in quality. Mr. J. Evans put down a team of Crests (not for competition), and Mr. W. J. Watts had some lovely foreign birds on view, which proved a source of attraction to the visitors, especially the ladies. The awards appeared to give every satisfaction. YELL. YORKS.: 1, 2, Sampson; 3, vhc, Elliott; c, Oates. BUFF: 1, 3, Sampson; 2, vhc, Elliott. BUFF HEN: 1 Sampson; 2, Oates. YELL. ASHINGTON & HIRST.

Ninth members' show, held in Mechanics' Hall, Nov. 9th. Over 300 exhibits were staged, and competition was keen all through, especially in the Norwich section and Borders. Sandiford's silver medal was won by Mr. T. Thompson. Silver medal for best Border in the show, Mr. J. Lock; silver cup for best bird in the show, by Mr. R. Hancox. Everything was nicely arranged by a hard working committee, and the secretary had everything in ample order; he had not a minute to spare. There was a grand turn out of Norwich pairs, a credit to their owners; also a fine lot of pairs of Borders. The attendance was very satisfactory. Mr. J. Stanger judged and seemed to please all round.

MIDDLESEX O.S.

Annual members' show held Nov. 7, at St. John's Hall, Southall. Entries came up very well, and a good future for the society seems evident. Mr. Jeffery Jefferis staged a good team of Yorks. and won the rose bowl outright, Mr. Burrows being runner-up, and winning the silver medal. Other winners of specials were: Messrs. Bamber, Banyard, Crockett, Phipps and Hoxley, and Taylor. Mr. Burrows won special for best bird in show, presented by Mr. F. Easterling, with a very fine Greenfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid, bred by himself, a credit. Mr. F. Easterling judged to the satisfaction of all. NOR. YELL. CK.: 1, sp, 2, Phipps and Huxley; 3, J. Smith. COWDENBEATH (Fife).

Grand Show; 750 Entries, and the Cream of the Fancy.

Second annual exhibition held Nov. 16, and the entry all over was a great advance on previous year. Scotch fancies were a choice selection, and, although a shade small in numbers, many of the classes were very keenly contested, and the judge, Mr. Rodgers, was very happy in his selection of the buff cock, well put down by Mr. Maxwell, as the best in section. Borders were a good all round lot, some real hot ones being out, the Fife breeders making themselves keenly felt in the prize list. The sp. for best and B. and C. medal winner was a grand buff hen, a real "wee gem," well shown by Mr. J. Anderson, and the win was a very popular one. Mr. J. Craig, of Brechin, judged (in the unavoidable absence of Mr. J. Patterson, who is, we were sorry to hear, still confined to his room through illness). Yorks. were a classic lot, and the numbers fairly good, and the judge's award for sp. in section, to a yell. cock well shown by Mr. R. Heggie, was well maintained, as it proved to be runner-up for sp. for best in show. Mr. Heggie had quite a large turn-out, and captured sp. for points in section. Mr. J. W. Bruce judged, and his awards were well received. Crests and Crestbreds were one of the features of the show, and the sp. for best went to Mr. Howie's old champion, often commented upon, but never looking better. Mr. Geo. Arnott judged these, and left nothing to be desired. Plainheads were a good lot, some real hot ones being out. The sp. for best was secured by a grand unflighted yell. cock, well put down by Mr. Watt. Mr. C. Campbell judged these, and his awards met with universal approval. Mules, British, etc., were an outstanding feature, such an array being seldom drawn together, and must have cost the judge a few anxious moments. Sp. for best and also best in show, was won by Mr. Jamieson's cl. buff Goldie, a good one, and well put down, a popular win. These classes were judged by Mr. L. J. Arrighi, and his awards were well received. Mr. Sykes, Scotland's foremost exhibitor at the present time, had a marvellous team out, and captured the sp. challenge cup for most points in the show, and he well deserved the honour. The management could not well be beaten, obliging stewards in galore attending the judges, all working like clockwork. Catalogues and slips to hand in good time. Birds returned first possible train. The secretary and treasurer, who were specialists in their line, had everything in apple-pie order. A grand hall, well lighted and free from draughts, and the staging well arranged. We must note the ideal staging erected at this show for the judging. The show was well patronised, and we hope to hear of a financial success.

The Critique.

SCOTCH FANCY, CL. OR FL. YELL. (4): 1, 3, Stenhouse, leader the best in length, grand size, and plenty top end and droop, in rare order, 3rd shade slimmer, but good style and action; 2, 4, Cook, hard up on top end, good depth across, fine free action, beaten in length. HEN (3): 1, Cook, good all round, nice shape and fine qual., well filled on back, and prominent on top; 2, Maxwell, stylish, but lacks the substance of winner; 3, Anderson, shade smaller, good action. SPLENDID DOUBLE NUMBER.

SOUTHEND AND SOUTHERN COUNTIES O.S.

Members' show, at "Blue Boar" Hotel, Nov. 6 and 7. There was a very promising display of birds in all sections, and amongst them were some real good ones, Mr. Pattrick winning the champion challenge cup and Mr. Cundy the novice cup and teapot. Mr. Pattrick had the best champion Yorkshire Canary, and Mr. Cundy the best novice Yorkshire; best unflighted hen, Mr. A. Tapper; best Clin. mkd. Yorks., Mr. Cundy. Specials Brit. bird, Mr. Jeffries, with a very nice Goldfinch; Mr. Cundy with a nice Redpoll. The show was well managed, and everything ready in good time for the judges. Mr. Jeffries rendered much appreciated assistance to Messrs. Tapper and Cundy, the hon. secs., in the managing details. Judges were: Mr. Rorke, London, Yorks., and Mr. J. Dewhurst, London, other sections.

PRESTON.

A Grand Display of Norwich.

Annual open show, held Nov. 15 and 16, in St. Wilfrid's Rooms, Corporation Street. This fixture again proved a success. In the 43 classes the entries totalled 550, a similar number to last year. The show was opened by Major Stanley, M.P. Messrs. Leeming Bros. make ideal secretaries and show managers. They carried out the work in a first class style, everything being in perfect working order. They were well backed up by a hard working and obliging committee of stewards: Messrs. Pyke, Anderton, Nickson, Barton, Watling, Marsh, Isaott, Metcalfe and Burrows. Norwich were the feature of the show, some splendid specimens being staged. In the amateur Nor. the six classes provided totalled 140 entries, some grand specimens being exhibited- quite a credit to their owners. Yorks. and Borders were not so well patronised, and we think if the committee would give this section better classification they would do much better. Greens came up fairly well, and some grand specimens were on view. British and Foreign classes were a failure. Goldfinch, Greenfinch and Saltbill classes, and all Foreign were cancelled. We cannot understand this, as Preston used to be quite a show in itself with British and Foreign. The Stanley Cup was won by T. Barton; the N.P.C. gold medal, J. E. Davies; N.P.C. novice gold medal, W. Lee; medal for best Nor. hen, W. Vardy; medal for best unflig. Nor. hen, L. Granger; Sandiford's special, J. E. Davies.

HAVERFORDWEST.

Sixteenth annual show, held 12th Nov., in the Market Hall, a good place. We were informed this would be the last time a show would be held here, as it is being taken over as a picture hall. The entries all over were very good. Being a fair day, we expected to see a good gate, but far from it. We are inclined to think a Thursday or any other day besides Fair day, would be more suitable, as there would be less attractions outside. The weather, unfortunately, was of the worst we have experienced, being very wet, cold, and stormy. The hon. secretary was Mr. W. Rees, and he had everything in apple pie order. The judge for our section was Mr. J. M. Lewis, the old time well-known Yorks. exhibitor.

YORKS. CL.: 1, Smith, clicking fine yell.,' wins, grand type and quality, neat head and neck, stands well; 2, Shears, cl. yell., grand col. and qual., good full neck, well balanced wings and tail, close up; 3, Owen, neat exhibit, good head, straight back; vhc, hc, Harris; hc, Davies. TKD., ETC.: 1, vhc, Griffiths, topping good exhibit, shown in faultless condition; 2, Edwards, grand type and qual., nice pipe tail; 3, Francis, grand long bird, very clean run, neat; hc, Morse. NORWICH: 1, spl, Mu cott, splendid size, col., and qual., very cobby, neat wings and tail; 2, Edwards, nice yell., good head and neck, very shapely; 3, vhc, fine qual., Davies, good size, col., and condition, lovely head; hc, Evans. MULE, LIGHT OR HYB.: 1, Slee, grand size, shape, and col.; 2, Davies, well mkd. Goldie, in nice feather; 3, Bulton, very rich col., nice condition; vhc, Edwards. DARK: 1, Edwards, splendid size., col., and con.; 2, Davies, good qual., close up; 3, hc, Jones, fairly good one; vhc, John. GOLDFINCH: 1, 2, Richards, two lovely exhibits, well staged, grand polish, good square blazes, neat bars and buttons; 3, Slee, fair blaze, nice bars and colour; vhc, Jenkins; unnoticed, Ray, sweet exhibit, should have been in. A.O.V. FINCH: 2, 3, Ray, two grand Hawfinches, in nice condition. A.O.V. SMALL: 2, Jenkins, good quality Yellowhammer. BLACKBIRD, ETC.: 2, John, lovely Blackbird, fine col. and size.

S.W. LONDON C.B.S.

Sixteenth annual show held in the New Guildhall, Wandsworth Road, Oct. 26th, and was a decided improvement in every respect upon the last three years, numbers and quality being far in advance of previous years. The new hall is beautifully light by day, and was brilliantly lighted by electricity at night. The new staging was a vast improvement, and was nicely decorated by the chairman, Mr. Slade, and others of the committee. The proprietors of the hall very kindly lent palms and ferns for decorations, which added greatly to the appearance of the show. The Norwich and Yorks. Champion classes might have been larger, but what was lacking in quantity was made up in quality. Crest and C.B. were much above the average, and some first-class birds were to be seen. Mr. Freeman, the secretary, very affable and courteous; the right man in the right place. No doubt the Society will increase its membership as the new headquarters get known. Ladies are specially invited as members. It was unfortunately a very wet and miserable night, which, no doubt, accounted for the attendance not being large. The committee were delighted to have the pleasure of seeing members from other societies, and the South West desire to thank them for putting in an appearance, it helps to create good feeling and fellowship in the Fancy. Mr. Robson judged.

WALKLEY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual show held November 16. The St. Phillip's Mission Room, very cosy and well lighted, was the venue. The society is favoured with the patronage of the local M.P., the Right Hon. C. B. Stuart Wortley, K.C. The Chairman, Mr. T. Ridal, is the right man in the right place, while Messrs. J. G. Cowley and G. Butler act ably as understudies, and the Hon. Treas., Mr. J. B. Kelsey, is a most excellent official. The Sec. is Mr. C. Tomlinson, and Mr. A. Lawton acts as his assistant. Both are practical, courteous, and obliging, and counted as capital assets by the society. The exertions they put forth are worthy of high commendations. Dr. T. C. Jones officiated at the opening ceremony, complimenting the society in a very hearty manner. Mrs. Jones accompanied her husband and enjoyed the function immensely. The entry was a record, upwards of 240. Yorks were the feature, providing very keen competition, while Nor. were a fine collection, and the British capital. Staging neatness itself; management throughout excellent. There was a capital attendance of visitors; showroom crowded at night. The stewards were: Messrs. A. Hobson (Sec. S.C.B.S.) and J. Carr, also Master Hobson, and all three worked with a will and with promptitude. Special winners: Best in show and best Nor., A. Hobson. Novice Yorks, J. Smith. Ramsden's Hottest Fed., F. Jones. Most Points, W. T. Furniss. Nov., R. Smith. Nov. Nor., G. H. Abbott. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged, his awards were well received.

GREAT SHOW AT BRIGHTON.

Big Entry: Hot Competition.

Gradually and surely has the Brighton and Hove C.B.A. made good its claim to be included amongst the best of the South. At its third show, held in the North Road Lecture Hall, Nov. 14th and 15th, the entry totalled 650, about 150 in excess of last year, and the quality of the exhibits was of the very best. Norwich had an average of sixteen per class, and a grand lot they were. About the pick of the basket was Mr. W. Ellis' lovely yellow, a magnificently shaped tkd. and very silky in feather. The leading trio of buffs shown by Messrs. Bodder, Miles, and Saunders, were remarkably good and level, and had either of these three held top place no one could have grumbled. Some very smart birds were shown by the novices, whilst the non-feds were far and away above the average. Crests, whilst good, were hardly up to the Brighton standard. Borders were quite the best for quality and numbers that we have ever seen at a south-coast show. Mr. Bennet, all the way from Ke'so, won in both classes. As we looked at Mr. Ellis's handsome four-pointed Norwich they could not but regret that these handsome birds are no longer so popular as they once were.

Yorkshires had the nice entry of 150 in the ten classes, and a beautiful lot they were. Quite the best that have been staged at either of the association's three shows. The pick of the bunch was Mr. Atkin's lovely feathered buff, but we cannot say how it would have fared had Mr. Dyke's team been in proper form. Two of the Bradford birds were very bad, and those that did get in were far from being fit. The raw cold morning affected this section very much, and although Mr. House left the judging until after the British and Members', many of the birds even then were far from fit. Messrs. Hawes Bros. staged a couple of hens that were much admired; they were cleverly split by a little gem shown by Mr. Dandridge, which, in addition to securing spl for best member's bird, also took Ryde's spl. The unflighted birds of Messrs. Dykes and Pattrick were very smart. The novices came up strong, the quality being good, whilst the non-feds were just superb—no other word describes them. Britishers repeated their success of last year, and again gave Mr. House full scope for a display of his discriminating powers. They were indeed a very hot lot. Mr. Burr, who will be remembered so creating such a sensation at the last Palace Show, had a nice team on view. Mr. Marley captured a couple of firsts, but was hardly so successful as usual. One of the most admired birds was Mr. Roast's Greenfinch. Foreigners were just splendid, and Mr. Slade's handsome Blue-wing Tanager, which secured the CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE medal, held quite a levee. Dr. Thwaites' lovely Shama was also a living picture. A good members' section wound up a grand show.

Of the management we can speak in terms of the highest praise. We arrived in Brighton just after eleven the night before the show, and found a team of the members at the station to take the birds off the last train so that they could be attended to that night, and not left to the tender mercies of the railway company till the morning. By eight-thirty everything was ready for the judges, and as the work of judging went merrily on the cards were affixed to the cages. Everything was ready for the opening ceremony, which was performed in a few choice words by Major F. Johnson, who most heartily complimented the executive upon the good work they were doing in Brighton, expressed his satisfaction at the size of the show and the beauty of the exhibits, and wished the association the continuance of a success so richly deserved. The officials responsible for the working were Mr. C. Pearson (chairman), Mr. G. B. Absalom (vice-chairman), Mr. J. Roast, (treasurer), Messrs. A. Goble and H. James (auditors), and the following committee—Messrs. J. Boxall, E. Cadman, F. Dandridge, D. Dean, A. Flook, W. Miles, W. Wall, G. Pinyoun, R. Sharp, S. Sparke, W. Swaysland, W. Cadman, and W. Gravett, all of whom are most earnest and enthusiastic workers. The two secretaries (Messrs. W. H. Gibb and H. Akehurst) are worthy of much credit for the way in which they attended to all the details of management, and the courteous and tactful manner in which they dealt with exhibitors and visitors. In them our Brighton friends have two grand fellows, who did much to further the success of the show. The judges were Mr. J. Robson (Nor., Crests, Bord., Mules, For., etc.), and Mr. C. A. House (Yorks, Brit., etc.).

BANKFOOT AND DIST. C.B.S.

Fourth members' show, held Red Lion Hotel, Nov. 2. 55 entries faced the judge, Mr. W. A. Cowpill, whose awards gave every satisfaction. Special for best bird, also special for best cock bird were won by Mr. C. Hardaker with a fine ticked buff. Special for best hen, Mr. S. Smith, with smart uneven marked buff. Winners of 1st and 2nd most points at this show were Messrs. C. Hardaker and S. Smith. The prizes for this season's competitions were allotted at a special meeting on Oct. 25th, when other business of great importance to the society's welfare was also discussed, and no doubt by the end of the present season steps will have been taken to again place the society in a sound condition. Will members not present at the special meeting kindly make an effort to attend the next meeting, and thereby help forward the work? The first three prizes for the members' competition this season are: 1, electro rose bowl (large); 2nd, 15/-; 3rd, 10/-; the other prizes including three cash specials for most points with commended birds; 10/- special for most points in selling classes; and a further 5/- and several others will be competed for. Any member who has not yet shown may do so, and still have a fair chance of being in the running.

CODNOR PARK AND EASTWOOD.

3rd annual exhibition, held November 15 and 16. The large and nicely lighted Assembly Room, attached to the "Three Tuns" Inn, Eastwood, provided comfort for the capital entry obtained, exceeding last year's total, with several classes less. Staging was very neatly carried out, 5 tier high, and all specimens were easily observed. The committee are a very fine band of workers, and worthy of compliments being bestowed. Stewards who rendered capital assistance promptly and efficiently were Messrs. B. Simpson and C. Martin, both proving themselves the "right metal" for this important office. Mr. J. H. Mitchell, the worthy sec., is truly a great asset, most courteous and obliging, always doing the right thing at the right time; the "Colliers" are happily blessed in having amongst them such a practical controller. Norwich P.H. were really a grand lot. What a field day for Messrs. Adnitt and Driver, with 34 entries in various sections, claiming no less than 9 firsts, 7 seconds, 4 thirds, one 4th, and other mentions, truly a magnificent team to put down. Yorkshires contained one or two real "eye openers." Mr. L. Dykes' yellow and ticked buff cocks were envied by all present, a brace of beauties without doubt. The winner in the novice Norwich, owned by Mr. J. Smedley, found many friends, and was voted a gem. Mules and British gave a pleasing tone to the function, the former containing "mixtures of rarity," and the latter creatures of a delightful nature. Messrs. T. H. Y. Hayter, W. G. Poole, J. Martin, J. Weeks, and W. R. Hexter gaining the largest plums with charmers. Special winners are as follows: Members: Taylor's challenge cup (most points), Messrs. Adnitt and Driver; second (gold medal), Messrs. Lees and Smith; third (Wardle's), Mr. W. Holmes. Best Yorks.: Messrs. Adnitt and Driver. Nor. ditto; British, Mr. J. Martin; NOV., Mr. J. Smedley; Self Green, Mr. W. Holmes; Hottest Fed (Sandiford's), Messrs. Martin and Faux. Judging was completed in good time, and the show opened by one o'clock. Management throughout superb. Good attendance of visitors, and everything pointed to a very successful issue. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) adjudicated, and the following, and his awards were well received.

The Critique.

NOR. YELL. (10): 1, 2, Adnitt and Driver, brace of "clinkers," bader a bouncer, of lovely shape and feather, full of fire, delightful carriage, clean cut away, 2, very shapely, capital tone of col., silky texture, jaunty, very close up indeed, both cl.; 3, hc, Holmes, tkd. eye, ablaze with colour, A1 feather, sweet expression of head, good neck and chest, wee bit longer barrel, wings and tail; 4, Wilcox and Son, cobby Cl., of grand feather, well up in col., full of action, not the substance; vhc, Prince; c, Martin and Faux; No. 8, Kirk, wrong class, mkd, buff. BUFF (8): 1, 2, hc, Adnitt and Driver, trio of "right 'uns," cl., short and thick set, smooth as wax, round as a ball, lovely col. and carriage 2, mkd. head, even hotter in col., very shapely and of good substance, not so close in texture, yet one we liked immensely; 3, 4, Wilson, well fed and well feathered cl., good substance, nice head and neck, bold chest, bit longer in build, 4, grand substance, shapely, nice col. and qual., crosses wings, which holds it back; vhc, Martin and Faux; c, Hickling. YELL. HEN (8): 1, 3, hc, Adnitt and Driver, cl., of rare size and shape, superb feather and col., dainty carriage, most bewitching, 3, shapely, capital qual. and col., moves gracefully, neatness itself, not the size; 2, Wilson, cl., rich in qual. and col., good head and body properties, capital wing carriage, not quite so full up in neck as winner; 4, Holmes, very promising unflighted, tkd. eye, sweetly moulded, A1 col. and feather, charming movement, quite a "forward miss"; vhc, Earnshaw; c, Martin and Faux. No. 1, Holmes, passed as blind. BUFF (9): 1, vhc, Adnitt and Driver, cl., short and thick set, magnificently feathered, rich col., neatly frosted, good size and dainty carriage, gem; 2, Holmes, mkd. wings and head, shade more substance, A1 qual., not so decided in outline as former, yet of wonderful merit and close up; 3, Hickling, cl., well up in size, full of col. and qual., beaten slightly in symmetry, yet a good one; 4, Simpson and Vertigan, cl., fine substance, grand col. and qual., fine head, neck and chest, square behind; hc, Earnshaw; c, Martin and Faux. GREEN, ETC. (11): 1, Smith, Buff Green, clubby, good feather, well up in size, rare head and neck, grand as a breeder for col.; 2, hc, Adnitt and Driver, yell. variegs., rattling feather and col., neat head and neck, good chest, little longer Otherwise; 3, Ball Bros., buff green, pied tail, beautiful body shape, short wings and tail, well clothed, wanting in head and neck; 4, Holmes, yell green, soft, silky feather, capital col., nice type, not one of the biggest, but one of the best; vhc, Winterbottam; c, Hunt and Brentnall; Nos. 2, Holmes, 4, Smith, buff and yellow respectively, both too lightly mkd. for this class, should have been in classes 2 and 1. YELL. UNFLIG. (8): 1, 3, c, Adnitt and Driver, superior quality and richly fed cl., delightful shape and carriage, exceedingly promising, well shown, 3, mkd. wings and eyes, ablaze with col., teeming with quality, lovely shape, not quite enough of it, yet awfully neat; 2, vhc, Simpson and Vertigan, fine sized variegs., A1 qual. and col., pleasing head, neck chest and carriage, not far away; 4, Prince, cl., well up in col., nicely feathered, grand body, weak in head and neck character; hc, Martin and Faux; No. 1, wrong class, Wilcox and Son, very fine cl., but an old bird. BUFF (10): 1, 2, Adnitt and Driver, magnificently shaped cl., marvellous substance, teeming with quality, rich col. and frosting, fine carriage, topper, 2, mkd. wings and head, plenty of col., superior feather, cobby, not the size of stable companion, yet one of the best; 3, Wilson, cl., delightful contour, smooth as a Java, capital col., not the substance, still very choice; 4, Holmes, variegs., rattling col. and feather, grand head and neck, deep fronted, longer barrel, wings and tail; vhc, Ratcliffe, good one, but down in condition, soft; hc, Prince; c, Hunt and Brentnall. NAT. (11): 1, Simpson and Vertigan, cobby cl., buff, good subs. and feather, clean cut away, looks capable of producing up-to-date progeny; 2, Prince, cl., yell., short and thick set, well clothed, capital col. and carriage, clean under, pressed hard; 3, Springhall, cl. yell., sweet shape, col. and feather, jaunty, smaller; 4, vhc, Winterbottam, again on the small side, but very taking and richly feathered, cl. yell., in the pink; hc, Adnitt and Driver; c, Hickling; No. 6, Adnitt and Driver, best bird in the class; wrong class for alleged high col.; No. 2, Holmes, absent. NOV., buff. (10): Largest class in the show, proving once again the advantage gained by catering for the novices. 1, vhc, Smedley, yell. mkd. wings and head, full of fire, grand shape and feather, nice size and carriage, clean cut away, capable of operating well in the "upper circles"; 2, Earnshaw, buff mkd. head, very promising, unflighted, sweet shape, nice col., qual., and frosting, good size; 3, White, red bot cl. yell., well up in substance, nice feather, falls in shape a bit, hardly cobby enough; 4, Parson Bros., very shapely cl. buff, not bad feather, a little patchy in col., and rather too lengthy; hc, Earnshaw; c, Hoyle. YORKS., YELL. (7): 1, 3, Dykes, couple of charmers, wonderfully lengthy cl., delightfully feathered, slashing position, lovely back and flights, clever legs, 3, cl., straight as a rush, nice col. and clothing, hardly the length, full of style, and well put down; 2, Norton, mkd. neck, rare length, excellent position, grand back, neat wings and tail, beaten a little in quality; 4, Wood, cl., wonderful length, capital col. and qual., stands well, gets wings across sometimes, tells against it; vhc, Mountain; hc, Holmes; c, Dickens. BUFF (8): 1, Dykes, mkd. cheek, feathered to perfection, lovely position, grand back and wing car., not a feather misplaced, stnged to the moment, gem, and greatly admired; 2, 4, Harriman, grizzled wing, superb feather, lengthy, nice position, well on leg, appearing a bit chilly, 4, cl., full of style, grand feather, stands beautifully, but shorter; 3, Norton, very lengthy cl., straight as a pencil, capital qual., in pen around cheeks, will look immense shortly; vhc, Wood; hc, Mountain; c, Holmes. GREEN, ETC. (2): 1, Adnitt and Driver, mkd. wings and head, magnificent quality, rich col., upstanding, delightful length, gem of gems; 2, Dykes, mkd. wings, breast and head, A1 feather, good length and position. UNFLIG. (8): 1, Mountain, cl. yell., marvellous length, standing like a Guardsman, superb col. and feather, stylish and well on leg, should make a name; 2, 4, Norton, cl. buff and buff mkd. wing, both lovely qual. and col., former very close on the heels of winner, latter bit thick waisted; 3, Dykes, cl. yell., wonderful length, good in feather, stands all right, not quite so good in expression of head; vhc, Holmes; hc, Wood; c, Dickens. NAT. COL. (6): 1, Kew, yell. mkd. head, straight up, rare length, capital feather, full of nerve, good on leg, would look well fed; 2, Holmes, buff, cinn. mkd. wings and head, smooth as a bottle, grand position, not of the longest, but of the smartest; 3, 4, Gooding, buff, variegs., and cl. buff, both nice position, former rather short, latter capital length, but open in feather; vhc, Hubbard; hc, Lees and Smith. NOV. (10): 1, Hibbitt, jun., cl. buff, exquisite quality and col., rare position and length, best of backs and wing carriage, easy win; 2, 4, Kew, cl. yell., grand stand and feather, lengthy and slim, well on leg, good one, 4, yell. mkd. neck, red hot, well clothed, capital position, full of style, shorter; 3, Dickens, buff neck, tkd., good position, capital feather, wanting more length for present day requirements; vhc, Wilmot; hc, Green; c, Hubbard. CREST (4): 1, Memmott, buff varieg. D.C., wealth of rich qual. feather, shapely, and nice sub., crest of good size and radiation, neat droop and centre; 2, Adnitt and Driver, buff variegs. D.C., capital size, crest large and of good shape, wee bit hairy, yet of nice droop and neat centre, close up; 3, Barker, buff green D.C., shapely, and of capital feather, neat veiny crest, as round as a hoop, fine droop, smaller; 4, Sharpe, buff varieg. D.C., rich clothing, crest of pretty formation, but again on the small side, yet neat specimen. C.B. (5): 1, Memmott, cl. buff, heaps of feather, fine substance, marvellous width and rise of skull, lashed to perfection, extremely choice; 2, Adnitt and Driver, buff varieg., plenty of clothing, good size body, dense head feather, not the width or rise as 1st, yet beauty; 3, March, buff varieg., shapely, and of good quality, nice width of skull, but lacking the length of feather, neat brow; 4, Miss Hodgkinson, buff, almost green, pied wing and tail, full of character, nice feather, not so massive in frame; vhc, Sharpe. A.O.V. (7): 1, Adnitt and Driver, Cinn. mkd., 4-pointed Yorkie, lovely feather and col., rare length and stand, well balanced markings, real gem; 2, March, yell. Scotch Fancy, mkd., neck, capital feather, good shoulders, nice circle, shown in fine fettle; 3, 4, vhc, Holmes, yell. green Bord., pied tail, sweet shape, slashing feather, grand action, a picture, 4, yell. Border, mkd. neck, nice feather, good shape, full of nerve, worth its place. GIFT (7): 1, 2, 4, Holmes; 3, Adnitt and Driver; vhc, Martin and Faux; hc Smedley. HYB., ETC. (6): 1, vhc, Hayter, Lin.-Bullie, exquisite, feather and col., grand shape, nice size, lovely condition, beauty; 2, Adnitt and Driver, yell. Gold.-Can., bordering on four-pointed, rich col. and qual., good size, shape and car., a gem; 3, Watson, prettily mkd. Sis.-Redpoll, nice shape and size, capital col., in the pink; 4, hc, Lees and Smith, Redpoll-Bullie, very shapely, and of nice colour feather and markings, well put down. DARK MULE (8): 1, 2, Hayter, leading with a very fine Can.-Bullie of magnificent col. and qual., grand shape, nice size, captivated many present, 2, yell. Greenie-Can., delightful quality and col., nice shape and size, bit weak in hind claws, yet extremely bonny; 3, Bradley, Lin.-Can., well up in size, A1 colour and feather, choice pencilling, good 3rd; 4, Smith, capital Sis.-Can., very shapely, good feather and col., nice size, put down in fine style; vhc, Lees and Smith; hc, Holmes; c, Hexter; No. 4, Lees and Smith, absent. GOLDIE (8): 1, Poole, fine shape and size, large, well cut blaze of rich tone of col., grand body col., bold neat bars and buttons, gem; 2, Williams, shapely, rich texture of feather, lovely face, not quite so large, A1 col., nice bars and well buttoned, close up; 3, hc, Holmes, good shape, nice size, good col., not so brilliant in blaze, still pleasing specimen; 4, Smith, similar to 3rd, little separates them; vhc, Hexter; c, Lees and Smith. BULLIE (8): 1, Martin, beautiful shape, delightful breast col., large and splendidly polished cap, in absolutely best possible trim; 2, Flavell, shapely, rich qual., good size and car., neat cap, not quite so rich in breast col, staged grandly; 3, hc, Lees and Smith, nice shape and feather, good cap and breast colour, not the substance; 4, Poole, fine shape and size, A1 qual., hold cap, nice col.; vhc, Curzon and Hill; c, Turner; No. 6, Caunt, wrong class, alleged foreigner. LINNET (5): 1, Weeks, for shape col., qual. and pencilling all one need desire, not one of the largest, but one of the sweetest, steady as a top, easy win; 2, 3, 4, Lees and Smith, former, fine shape and size, grand col. and markings, down in condition somewhat, no doubt when right, a beauty, 3 and 4, both nice shape and feather, prettily pencilled, requires more col. and size; vhc, Cook. GREENIE (7): 1, Poole, rattling shape and substance, lovely col., not a feather misplaced, shown in faultless trim, topper; 2, Caunt, another "right 'un," delightful shape, col. and feather, grand carriage, pressed hard; 3, Lees and Smith, good shape and size, nice qual., hardly so rich in col., well worth its place; 4, Flavell, shapely and of nice feather, good substance, again hardly the col., still very honny; vhc, he, Lees and Smith; c, Argyle. CITY OF DERRY (Ireland)

Annual Show held November 14th in the Union Hall. This hall is a real good one for a Show, having good top and side lights and plenty of floor space. The entry was a record one, and some really first-class birds were on view, Yorks. especially were a fine lot, type and quality combined, making one wish the Irish fanciers could see their way to put them in competition with their English brethren. A very special and novel feature was a speech making Cockatoo. Oh, the language! For quite an hour at a stretch it kept the very large audience in roars of laughter, neither was the true oratorical gesture lacking, at times wheedling, then passionate, at others the "Trend on the tail of me coat" style was introduced, but no matter what its particular humour at the moment it was always "marvellous" and must have given its owner an infinity of trouble to train, and no doubt much pleasure. Messrs. Kerr, Platt, and Kincaird, the secretaries and treasurer respectively, were gluttons for work, and everything was in apple pie order in good time. Mr. S. Hadwin, Liverpool, judged, and no doubt is still blushing at the nice things said about him.

MERTHYR.

Held Nov. 14, Olympia Rink, Merthyr Tydvil. The hall was well adapted for a show, being very roomy and well lighted. Entries in our section did not come up as well as expected, owing undoubtedly to clashing with Swansea and Abertillery. Our section was well looked after by Messrs. W. Evans, Wm. Davies, M. Evans, B. Lewis, J. Evans, M. Browning, and G. Butler. The Secretary, Mr. J. Thomas, was a very able and energetic official. The feature of the show was the Finches, some really good specimens being staged. Cup for best bird in the show was awarded to Mr. D. Ray's Waxwing, a lovely exhibit. Mr. J. H. Jones judged, and his awards met with general satisfaction.

STOKE-ON-TRENT.

Record Entry for North Staffs: A Grand Show Splendidly Managed.

Held in the Sutherland Assembly Room, Nov. 14, a fine spacious room for such an exhibition, with plenty of top light and well lighted at night; a better place for the purpose would be very difficult to find; the exhibits were splendidly arranged, plenty of space being left in the aisles for the crowds of visitors which poured into the room after tea. This was the society's second open venture and the result was a magnificent entry of nearly 500, well in advance of last year, and a record for any show ever held in North Staffs. This is certainly an achievement for this progressive society to feel proud of. Our representative was informed that they attribute this grand entry in a very large measure to the splendid circulation of CAGE BIRDS, which was the only journal in which the fixture was advertised; Norwich were a capital lot, numbering over 150, many well-known winners turning up. In the seven classes in the Champion section, no less than five firsts were captured by Mr. P. V. Williams, a remarkably good performance. Yorks. were under the patronage of the Midland Counties Y.C.C., their splendid trophies being competed for in both Champion and Novice sections, and no doubt these competitions helped in a great measure to contribute towards the excellent entry of over 200. It is our pleasure to record that of the seven classes provided in the Champion section, four were accounted for by the members of the Midland Counties Y.C.C., a truly meritorious performance, one which speaks volumes for the remarkable strides made with this variety in the Midlands since the formation of the club some three or four years back. Of the management we cannot speak too highly; the arrangements were simply splendid; with such a grand room they had ample scope to display the birds where they could be viewed in comfort, and right well did they make use of this advantage. The exhibits received every possible attention at the hands of the committee, an enthusiastic body of workers, every one a fancier to the backbone. Mr. J. Pitchford made an ideal hon. secretary, having every little detail at his finger tips, his long experience in the Fancy standing him in good stead. He received valuable assistance from the Chairman, Mr. H. George, the vice-chairman, Mr. G. Lea; the treasurer, Mr. W. Roberts; and Committee, Messrs. F. W. Alcock, J. Bowers, J. Bagshaw, T. Butters, C. Beckett, C. Clay, J. Davis, T. Hawley, J. B. McMurtrie, R. Parker, A. Peake, J. Peake, S. Piggott, G. Salt, R. Ratcliff, T. Turnock, T. Walker, R. Smith, and W. H. Walton. Mr. P. Victor Williams, who achieved a most remarkable performance by staging no less than 24 exhibits, only one of which failed to score, won the water-colour painting for most points in Champion section. Another water-colour painting was offered for most points in the open Novice section, and this was secured by Mr. H. Hudson. Owing to the large entry, and in view of getting the judging over early, the committee decided to call in another judge to assist Mr. Battye; Mr. A. C. Brotherhood was engaged to take the open British (except Softhills) and members' classes, Mr. H. W. Battye taking the remainder.

ENFIELD.

Fourteenth annual show held Nov. 16 in Drill Hall, a splendid place for a show, possessing, as it does, grand top light. Entries were above the average, 28 being staged in the Norwich class, and quality was well represented. Competition was very keen in the majority of classes. Every attention was given to the exhibits from a genuine body of fanciers. The Hon. Sec. (Mr. H. Jackson) had everything in order and was most affable and courteous to all. He received valuable assistance from his assistant, Mr. R. J. Dartnall. Mr. A. E. Enfield judged.

YORKS (10): 1, spl, 2, Hawkes, winner grand col., long, well drawn clear, neat head, good flights and tail, 2nd very stylish, clun. mkd. head and wings; 3, Clay, heavily mkd. yell., grand head, wings and tail; res, Monteith; vhc, Hawkes, Clay. NOR. (28): 1, spl, Kerr, very bold, sturdy bird, nice style and col., mkd. eyes and wiugs; 2, Pedder, plenty of size and col., good head and wings, claimed at price £3; 3, Titchner, nice type and col., fine silky feather, not so stout in head; res, Titchner; vhc, Clark, Hedgetts, Clay, Titchner, Jauncey, Hawkes, Keer, Hayes. CREST or C.B. (11): 1, spl, Pettitt, good qual., nice droop and radiation; 2, 3, Shepherd, 2nd heavily feathered, variegated, plenty of browing, 3rd even mkd. dark crest, good droop; res, Pettitt; vhc, Shepherd, Hawkes, Irving. HYBRID (5): 1st withheld; 2, Hawkes, lightly variegated, Goldie-Can., nice size; 3, Clark, lovely Siskin-Canary; res, Pedder. BRIT. (15): 1, Hawkes, nice size, clean-cut blaze, splendid colour; 2, Stephens, another Goldie, not so good in blaze, otherwise equal; 3, Briars, well laced Siski.; vbc, Briars, Hawkes, Hailstone. FOR. (6): 1, withheld; 2, 3, res, Briars, nice trio, a capital Orauge Bishop leading.

TIDESWELL.

Annual show held in the Oddfellows' Hall, Nov. 16. The hall is well lighted and free from draught, and is an ideal room for cage birds. Mr. W. F. Swarbrick had the birds nicely staged, and he was backed up by a hard-working committee, who looked after the wants of the exhibits. In Yorks some fine birds were benched by Messrs. Dykes, Ellis, Thomas, Kearns, and Hirst. In the Norwich Messrs. Fox, Rathbone, Dipple and Millward were the chief winners. Mr. W. Mundell, Bradford, judged, and dissatisfaction was conspicuously absent.

NEW CROSS.

2nd annual show held Nov. 7, in The People's Hall Deptford. The entry was a good one, and far in excess of last year's. Some very typical Norwich of good size and quality were shown by Messrs. Hall, Gunnell, Pope, Gillard, Weston, Fuller, etc., and in Yorks. Messrs. Rouson, Barton, and Gillard were the principal winners. Yellows were much superior to the buff, one or two charming birds of good length and type being on view. Messrs. Burton Bros. were the principal winners in the Borders. The feature of the show was the excellent classes of British and Hybrids, many of which being quite fit for open competition. Special for best bird was won by Mr. Gunnell with a charming Linnet. Point spls. were numerous and good. The Society is making rapid progress, is well managed, and gets a good attendance of members to its meetings. Many visitors put in an appearance during the day, and several new members were added. The show was capitally managed, and although Mr. Barton, the secretary, was unable to be present, Mr. Burton proved completely efficient with the clerical work. Mr. H. Norman placed the awards.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

This society held their grand annual exhibition, Nov. 16th, in the Park Chapel Schools, West Bowling, Bradford, under the very able guidance of Mr. H. Hill, the courteous and enthusiastic secretary, Mr. Wm. Cruise the hardworking assistant sec., Mr. E. Suddards, pres., Mr. J. Farrar, Treas., and Messrs. Wilkinson Bros., Walker, Hudsworth, Stubbes, C. Cowgill, G. Riley, Rhodes, Roe, and others, as show and general stewards. Everything passed off with the utmost precision. The show was under the rules of the Yorks. Union, and the patronage of the Yorks. C.C., the National Green Marked Y.C.C., and the Yorks. County B.B. and M.C. Mr. H. W. Battye was the official judge of the Y.U., and took all the open classes, Mr. R. Halliday assisting by taking all the novice cost on and the existing classes, the awards of both giving full satisfaction. The society are fortunate in having such a splendid room at their disposal, quite easy of access by car from the centre of the city and the outlying districts. Entries came up well in all sections except British, for which five classes were provided; three had, however, to be cancelled, and the remaining two had only a dozen birds between them. Yorks were splendid throughout, both in number and quality, nearly 500 being staged, an average of 17 per class, the novices as usual providing a "lion's share" towards this total. As is generally the case at this fixture, the two unlighted classes in which the Bradford East rose bowl is competed for, were the chief items of interest, the two drawing 50 birds, the winner turning up in Mr. Fred Allen's yellow, a bid of great promise, which was closely followed by Messrs. Sutcliffe's buff.

YSTRADGYNLAIS.

Held Nov. 14th, in the Workmen's Hall. The day was beautifully fine. Four classes were provided, one being cancelled, the foreign class, so our section fared better than the two others (poultry, etc.). A 1s. 6d. entry fee is too much for an 8s. first prize. Give a good classification, appoint outside judges, and things, we think, will work much better all-round.

NORWICH (6): 1, Lewis, really nice yell., only catalogued at 15s.; 2, we missed; 3, Davies, good type and style; res, Watkins; vhc, Hopkins; unnoticed, Muscott, should have been in the money. YORKS. GALASHIELS.

Galashiels O.S. held its 52nd annual show in the Volunteer Drill Hall, Nov. 16th. The society could not be better served in the hall, it being everything that is required for size, air, and comfort, with a nice gallery for the visitors during judging. Quite an enthusiastic lot of fanciers (although some of them may not have had much experience in the Cage Bird line) were the officers, hard-working and very obliging. Pres., Mr. Archibald Tod; treas., Mr. John Hardie; secy., Mr. John Brown, to whom, as is usually the case, fell the lion's share of the work, and thanks to his courteous manner and great ability everything passed off smoothly. We were pleased to see, when we left, a wonderful gate. The only regrettable item (so often seen at some of the Scottish shows) was the absence of catalogues. It would surely be much better if societies got their catalogues from the printers in the morning, when it is a one-day show, and printed the awards on a separate sheet. After the award slips came from printers every previous purchaser of a catalogue could be presented with one. It is hard lines having to leave single day shows at 4 o'clock, and being unable even then to know the prize-winners. Scotch Fancies "opened the ball" under the supervision of Messrs. Fulton (Partick) and Brown (Oban), and here the judges had quality if not quantity. Mr. J. Dalgleish won the cup with an outstanding Buff piebald, while Mr. T. Park took the members' cup with a neat cl. Yell. Hen. Borders came next under Mr. A. Gilchrist (Coldstream), and again competition was keen. Mr. J. Patterson took the medal with a nice col. Yell Ck., rare head and well shaped body. Mr. A. Hay (Berwick) judged the remainder, his being well-filled sections. Mr. Cameron (Kelso) had quite a field day in the Norwich, he evidently having his eye on the two handsome silver cups. His ambition was realised, he taking the Cock Cup with a lovely eye and neck mkd. Buff, and the Hen Cup with a sweet cl. buff, and we heartily congratulate him on winning them outright.

ILFRACOMBE.

Ilfracombe (N. Devon) held its first local show for ten years on Nov. 7, and the committee are to be congratulated on their efforts. Next year it is their intention to run an open show. The birds were exhibited in a very fine hall, free from all draughts, and the attendance was all that could be desired. The quality of the birds was far above the usual standard of local shows. The yellow Yorkshire hen, which captured 2 specials and sp. for best in show, was a bird of exceptional merit, and Mr. T. Richards is to be congratulated on his win. Mr. Chas. F. Dart (Barnstaple) judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

YORKS. CK.: 1, Richards; 2, 3, Reynolds, all yells., close up, winner excels in length. HEN: 1, Richards, grand hen, feather like boxwood, wins special best in show; 2, Reynolds, good cl. buff; 3, Gay, good, but unsteady, wants training. BRED 1912: 1, Richards, another taking exhibit, well up on leg, wins; 2, Reynolds, fails only in colour to leader, close up; 3, 4, Webber, former nice buff. NOR., YELL.: 1, Richards, bouncing yell., full of qual., just beaten for section special, must have pressed; 2, Capt. Nicholson, will improve; 3, Gay. BUFF: 1, Reynolds, good head, nice mealing; 2, 3, Richards, larger, nice in feather; 4, Reynolds, jun. HEN: 1, sp., 2, Richards, lovely hen, grand head, stands well, across perch, wins section special; 3, Reynolds. BRED 1912: 1, 2, Richards, taking exhibits, very typical, wins; 3, Reynolds, nicely cut away. CRESTS: 1, sp., Reynolds, Green Crest, nice leafy feather, will improve; 2, 3, Gay, former good clear body D. Crest. CRESTBRED: 1, sp., 2, Gay, variegated, fine head, well hooded, wins; 3, 4, Reynolds, lightly marked, fine head. PAIRS: 1, medal, Richards, very fine pair Yorks., stand like soldiers, nicely shown; 2, 4, vhc, Reynolds, Green Crest and Crestbred; 3, Richards, Nor. hen, soft when taking notes; hc, Capt. HULL.

Grand Management Rewarded by Magnificent Entry of Nearly 700.

Eighteenth annual exhibition, held Nov. 15 16, in the New Corn Exchange, North Church Side, a new and most up-to-date building, having plenty of roof and side lights, being lofty and free from draughts, and was kept at a very nice temperature, which made the room most comfortable for both exhibits and visitors. The birds were beautifully staged on the two-tier principle, and plenty of ferns, palms, etc., gave a most charming and pleasing effect. Mr. Ridley (secretary) is the right man in the right place, being enthusiastic, courteous and obliging; always having his duties well in hand, and a genuine fancier. The stewards are a hard-working, "never-say-die" band of men, of much practical experience, Messrs. Clayton, Firth, Harland, Hesseltine, Murray, Perkins, and Precious. Mr. W. T. Pepper (show manager) is a most genial official of the right type, and got through a great amount of work. Nor. Classes contained some exceptionally fine exhibits, competition being very keen, with quality playing a leading part. Yorks. brought together several noted winners of fine type and qual. Novice Yorks., though not great in numbers, produced some really good specimens, some that would give a good account of themselves in the upper circle. Novice Nor. were very few in number. In Bord, which are a welcome addition to the schedule, three classes were provided, and these were well filled, producing 46 entries, brimful of quality. There was a moderate entry in Mules and Hyb., but one or two of the Northern "cracks" putting in an appearance. Brit. turned up well, those prominent being Mr. Wood's winning Bullie; the third successive win this bird has secured at Hull, truly a fine performance. Mr. Hurst's winning Goldie is a regular stormer; we make to be the Palace winner. Special winners were: Silver cup (champion member), Mr. G. Harland; silver cup (nov. members), Mr. Chas. Ware; other sols., Messrs. F. F. Potter, J. Woolhouse, J. Thirsk, D. Hunter, G. Harland, T. Perkins, P. Potter, J. Precious, W. T. Pepper, F. Smith, Briggs, A. Young, F. S. Howe, and E. R. Ridley. Messrs. Robson and Battye judged, and their awards gave general satisfaction.

MARYHILL.

Thirty-sixth annual show, held in the Burgh Hall, Nov. 2, when the entries came well up and constituted a record, while the quality was also a leading feature. A really satisfactory gathering of the birds o' circle, and worthy the appreciation of both officials and members. Many of the birds here had been doing battle for their owners at the recent City show, and had made their mark among the cream of the Fancy. Mr. A. McKissock, the worthy Secretary, had all the duties of such a post well within his grasp, and he was in his element when the business was in full swing, and the success of the venture was in no small measure due to his untiring efforts, coupled with those of an able committee. The judges, Messrs. J. Smith (Govan), and J. Ward (Parkhead), got through their work in good time, and their awards were well received.

PLUMSTEAD AND WOOLWICH.

Sixth annual show, held Nov. 9, in the Sussex Arms Concert Hall, a splendid room for the purpose, adequately lighted, free from draughtiness and spacious. The general arrangements were excellent. The birds were placed at convenient heights for view, and the whole nattily finished. Mr. Meades, the hon. secretary, we were sorry to learn, was not at all in good health, and had to return home before judging commenced, but his place was worthily filled by other members of the committee, and judging was over in good time, prize cards up, and catalogues ready for sale, with awards in the margin. There was a grand display of quality in the Norwich classes, and here the cup for best bird in the show found a winner in Mr. Hazell's bonny unflighted tkd. buff, a bird of rare merit, only lacking a little more colour to make it very, very hard to beat. There was a host of other specials. The show was eminently successful. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards were well received.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Owing to the number of announcements received we cannot guarantee to repeat advertisements unless the previous issue, Page, and Column are stated by the advertiser.

Advt. Manager, "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

THE LAST FARTHING

in superb value is assured you by purchasing your catching appliances from me. Only practical men who thoroughly understand their work are employed by me, and no expence is spared to insure every article being of highest possible value and service. To test the truth of this statement I cordially invite any person to have any of my catching appliances on approval, put them to every reasonable test against those obtained from elsewhere at higher prices, and if mine are not far better value smash them up, and I will refund every penny of your money. Surely this will convince even the most sceptical person that my goods are what I claim for them. Clap nets made from superfine thread netting, ¾in. mesh, 3 yards long, 5½ft. deep, and 4ft. fly, 4s. pair; ditto 4 yards, 5s.; 5 yards, 6s.; 6 yards, 7s.; 7 yards, 8s.; 8 yards, 9s.; 9 yards, 10s.; 10 yards, 11s. all per pair. Clap nets consist of two nets to the pair, each net guaranteed of above stated size, and are fitted complete with all pegs, poles, lines, etc., ready for immediate use. Loose thread netting as used in above clap nets ¾in. mesh, 7ft. deep, 3d. yard; 9ft. deep, 4d. yard; 12ft. deep, 5d. yard. CANARIES

HYBRIDS & BRITISH BIRDS In Cage & Aviary.

The NEW Standard Work for the Canary Fancier and the Breeder.

By JOHN ROBSON and other Leading Bird Specialists.

With magnificently coloured plates showing every known variety.

For Seven Days' Free Examination.

OUR SPECIAL CHRISTMAS OFFER.

This Book tells the Bird lover when to mate his Canaries; when to breed, when to feed; when to doctor them and when to let them alone; when to strengthen his stock and when to weed out the poorer birds; when to buy and when to sell. The man who goes in for valuable specimens is shown how to wash and dress them for Exhibition and how to care for them while they are at the Shows. The work covers every aspect of Canary culture, and is therefore a most suitable and valuable Christmas present for any bird lover.

It has an Index of some 600 items in which every point of doubt or difficulty can be turned up in an instant; it is equally adapted for sustained reading, every section being written by a specialist who is a real bird lover also. It is admirably planned to help the beginner since each chapter gives the elementary knowledge needed by the neophyte. And it is equally useful to the man who has been breeding for years, for it gives the results of years of patient study and embodies rules for success that have never before been tabulated; it tells of the crosses that have not yet been achieved and includes the latest scientific information on the practical application of Mendelism to the fascinating study of Canary breeding.

But we do not ask you to take our word for this. We ask you to send for the Book free of cost, and to read and test it for yourself without spending a penny. Send it back on the eighth day after you receive it if you think it will not be useful to you.

If you decide to order it, you can pay for it by a few small monthly sums, beginning when the extra Christmas expenses are over.

Now You Scotsmen

(and Englishmen who want to beat the Scotsmen), let me have your orders early if you want a tip-top Siberian Goldfinch. I have just received the second consignment of genuine Siberian birds in grand trim. Price of these genuine Siberian cock Goldfinches (not Russians nor hens) is 5/- and 6/- each. Special exhibition specimens, 7/6 and 10/- each. I guarantee my exhibition birds to be really fit to win, but do not insult your intelligence by telling you they are as large as Larks and Thrushes and expecting you to believe it. My reputation for supplying winners is so well known that the whole of exhibition specimens from first consignment were sold in ten days, and that without the aid of lavishly displayed advertisements, too. Following letters are from persons who bought some of them:—"18, Milton-st., Walsall. Nov. 8th. Sir,—I require another Siberian Goldfinch from you this season, I am pleased to say my Scottish National winner (which was supplied by you) has come through moult better than ever. He was marked 'soft' at last Palace show; I think he would have won easily, as the Palace winner was only 3rd to him at National. A gentleman at Edinburgh wrote and told me that he and his friends consider him the finest Goldfinch ever seen. Yours, F. Price." "Cherry Tree Cottage, Haddington. Nov. 14th. Sir,—Birds (7 Siberian Goldfinches) arrived here, all in fine fettle. Hope to give you another order early. Yours, J. McHolmes." "2, Glencairn Terrace, St. Budeaux, Devonport. Nov. 18th. Sir,—Siberian Goldfinch arrived safely in splendid condition. He is a real topper, and am very proud of him, and thoroughly satisfied. Yours, T. Wills." Please order early, as exhibition birds are not as plentiful as blackberries, and customers are supplied strictly in rotation.

AMONG SO MANY

advertisements the intending purchaser is apt to be confused, and cannot make up his mind as to who to send to for his birds. This is just where my approval system comes in. Although I guarantee my stock to be exactly as represented in every way, I don't ask you to purchase anything until you have had it on approval and found it to be exactly what you require, then if you are fully satisfied you keep it, but if not, you simply return it, and I immediately refund you money in full. You cannot lose a penny in this way, as you either get exactly what you want or your money back. I have a splendid stock of genuine cock Worcestershire Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, and full colour, at 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, twelve 16/-. Few specially picked larger cocks, for muling and singing, and warranted now in free song, 3/- each, three 7/6, six 13/-. Specially selected exhibition birds, with full complement of show points, and fit to win immediately, 4/- and 5/- each. (Please note, real cock Goldfinches, cannot be sold at less than above prices; denial challenged.) Hen Goldfinches, 1/-each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, all with nuthrown hack and rose red breasts, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/6. Specially selected cocks, for muling, or contest singing, 1/-, and 1/6 each, three 2/-, six 3/6. Real exhibition specimens, 2/6 each. Please note, these are same sort of Linnets as the scores of dozens I send weekly to contest singers and dealers of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Durham, Staffordshire, etc., etc., and I have sold more contest winners than any man alive. Cock Bullfinches, in superb condition, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6. Exhibition specimens, 5/- each. Hen Bullfinches, 1/- each. Specially picked large rich coloured steady hens, for hybridising, 1/6 and 2/- each. Genuine German hand-reared hens, feed from fingers, 4/- each. Splendid lot cock Siskins, full song, 2/6 each, three 6/6. Few Yellows, with bib, 5/- each. Redpolls, cocks or hens, 6d. each, three 1/3, six 2/-. Cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-; large yellows, for show or breeding, 1/- each; cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-. (Please note, these Chaffinches have correct finish for London singing.) Exhibition Chaffinches, 2/6 each. Splendid lot cock Skylarks, in perfect condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially picked steady cocks, in song, 1/- and 1/6 each. These Larks are guaranteed Worcestershire caught, and must not be confused with the French flight birds sold so cheaply. Cock Goldfinch Mules, full song day and gaslight, 6/- each. Cock Hawfinches, to moult for show, 5/- and 7/6 each. Goldfinch Linnet, Bullfinch and Lark cages, 6d. each, 5/- dozen. Special travelling cages, to hold 3 birds, 3d. extra. See back numbers for hundreds of testimonials similar to following: "Gordon House, Shotton Colliery, Co. Durham, Nov. 18th. Sir,—Linnets and Goldfinches I had from you few weeks ago are in full song. I never saw better value from anyone than you give. They are like paint, and steady as rocks. I advised a patient to write you for a Goldfinch to-day, and next week two others are sending you orders. I have always found you to be an honourable man in all my transactions with you, and can trust you. I have also recommended lots of my patients to buy from you, and they have always got entire satisfaction.—Yours, Dr. J. W. Cross." Please note, I guarantee sex in every instance and sell genuine cocks at advertised prices. If you do not happen to be an expert in sexing birds, it will please me if you will have any of my birds examined by any expert you know, so that you will know you are not getting hens for your money, as what is worse than keeping hen birds for singing or trying to breed Mules off a hen Britisher and hen Canary. (Imitators, please copy as usual.) All birds are guaranteed thoroughly on hard seed before sent out, and postcard always sent before birds. If you want thoroughly reliable stock, send to the man who has a 21 years' reputation to uphold. No connection whatever with any other advertiser. (263)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

you to find such quality at anything like the prices. Read letters received this week:—

"22/11/12, 12, London St., Kingswood.—Roller arrived safe, and commenced singing grand. He is quite all right, and I thank you.—E. Jobbins to Miss Storey."

"60, Wortley Road, Sheffield, 22/11/12.—I again thank you for the Roller supplied last month. He is singing from morning to night continuously. I am assured your honest dealing deserves success.—A. Fretwell."

"5, Upper Lord St., Oswestry, Nov. 22nd, 1912.—Thanks for Roller, in such fine condition. I am more than satisfied with such a splendid songster.—S. Cheesman."

"80, Richmond Road, Wimbledon, 22/11/12.—The Roller you sent me sings nicely. I am pleased with it, and with your very fair dealing."

Just you allow me to send one of my birds,

DO YOU FANCY

a Roller with a long-drawn-out monotonous roll like a railway whistle? If so, don't bother to read this advt., because my Leipzig Rollers have a good variety of changes in their song instead of the one long roll. Another difference is that the Leipzig Rollers retain their song for years, whereas the ordinary Roller is at its best for a few months only. I want you to test the truth of my statements by having a Leipzig Roller from me on week's trial, and test it side by side with an ordinary Roller at any higher price and keep the one which suits you best. Hundreds of people have tested my Rollers in this manner, and I have published many letters saying the Leipzig Rollers have proved better birds than those costing three times the amount elsewhere. I now have an enormous stock of genuine Leipzig Roller cocks, in full song, day and gaslight, with sweet hollow rolls, hollow bell rolls, silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or objectionable notes whatever, price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Hens, guaranteed of exactly same strain, but unrelated, 2/- each, 3/6 couple. For those who like a loud noisy songster, I have a splendid lot of free singing Hartz cocks, in full, vigorous song day and gaslight, just the thing for coffee-house or public bar, where plenty of noisy song is required, price 5/6 each, seven 31/6. Roller singing cabinet cages, with loose front and folding doors, 2/6 and 3/6 each. Ordinary singing box cages, 1/6, 2/- and 2/6 each. Please note, all Roller cocks are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and I am the only importer of this strain of Rollers. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages, free of extra cost, and sent on full week's approval at my risk immediately on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system; and unless fullest satisfaction is given and your every expectation realised, money is instantly returned in full. Kindly note, full name and address given with each letter printed below, which are all guaranteed entirely unsolicited and are open to inspection at any time: "76, Kilburn-lane, Dewsbury, November 12th.—Sir,—Received the two birds safely and am more than delighted with them and the honest and straight-forward way you have dealt with me.—Yours, C. Newsome." "High-st., Kniston, November 13th.—Sir,—Rollers arrived safely, and am very pleased with them. They began singing directly unpacked. Thanks for sending such good birds.—Yours, A. Hussey." "119, York-st., Nuneaton, November 17th.—Sir,—Roller arrived in fine condition, and was singing less than an hour after arrival, and has been singing lovely ever since.—Yours, C. Butler." "48, Normacott-rd., Longton, November 7th.—Sir,—The pair Bandmasters I had from you last year turned out real toppers. Please quote price for cock and three hens.—Yours, A. Tudor." "Station-rd., Cullyhacky, Ireland, November 8th.—Sir,—Roller arrived safely after so long a journey, and was singing 10 minutes after I got it into cage. I am well pleased, as it is a real beauty.—Yours, G. Wiseman." "Shippool, Innishannon, Co. Cork, November 15th.—Sir,—Roller arrived safe and in perfect condition. He is singing away in grand form to-day, with lovely soft trills. I am much pleased with him and so are all my family.—Yours, A. Harrick." "142, Icknield-st., Birmingham, November 10th.—Sir,—After having two of your Rollers this week I am writing to say I am more than satisfied, as they are two beauties. After being taken down by others I must say you are one of the most straightforward men I have dealt with.—Yours, C.B." "48, Normacott-rd., Longton, Staffs, November 16th.—Sir,—Thanks for safe arrival of Bandmaster cock and three hens. I think them fine birds and well worth price paid. The cock sang as soon as unpacked. I am well satisfied.—Yours, A. Tudor." "10, St. Andrew-st., Dublin, November 13th.—Sir,—Three Rollers arrived in pink of condition. They are in grand song and doing well. You will be getting more orders for them from Dublin.—Yours, T. Henry." "5, Green-rd., Yoker, Glasgow, November 17th.—Sir,—The Rollers I received a week ago prove to be all that any person would be proud to possess. The Bandmaster cock sings us a song so uncommon to the ordinary Canary; rich deep notes, and warbles like a Nightingale.—Yours, T. Smaith." "55, Lauriston-st., Edinburgh, November 19th.—Sir,—Roller arrived in excellent condition. Many thanks for prompt attention, and I am compelled to say I am quite well pleased, as it began singing half an hour after arrival. I shall not hesitate in recommending you to my friends, since I have received more than value for money.—Yours, J. Moran." I have published thousands of similar letters to above, all speaking in highest terms of praise of the Leipzig Rollers. If you have been previously disappointed with Rollers please let me send one of my Leipzig Rollers on approval for a week, just to let you hear and see that it is possible to get a really high-class bird at a moderate price. See British Bird and Appliance columns for further advt.

CHILLCOTT'S ROLLERS.

Owing to ill-health, Mr. A. G. Pattison, late of Gravesend, has disposed of all his Rollers to Mr. A. Chillcott, of 151, South-avenue, Southend. Most of the 1912 birds are bred from two £5 cocks, bought direct from Mr. Randall; these are bred from the champion cock claimed at club show by Dr. Read at £10. A few of these grand birds for disposal at reasonable prices; enquiries solicited. Some good stock cocks for sale from 12/6. (204)

If you are wanting a pair of thoroughly reliable birds for next season's breeding, or an odd bird to improve your stock, now is the time to get them.

WINNING YORKSHIRES.

I have a few real gems, ready for immediate benching, sure winners at small shows, at 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, or 50/- each. Cocks or Hens. These can win their cost in prize money. I have also a few real toppers, able to hold their own in hottest open competition. Kindly state wants. The following testimonials taken from scores recently received, need no comment of mine. "4, Chale Road, Brixton Hill, Nov. 13, 1912.—You will be pleased to know that a hen bred from the Yorkshires I had from you, took first and special at Clapham Show." Another from: "Londonderry, Nov. 10, 1912.—I received the 2 hens quite safe, and have shown them both. You will be glad to know that I won 1st with the yellow and 2nd with the buff. I thank you very much for the way you have treated me." The originals are filed here for the inspection of all. For particulars as to my own winnings, see reports of all champion shows.

I have also some real good specimens in Crests, Border Fancies, Mules, Rollers, Lancashires, etc., etc. Also some grand thick-set cobby Norwich at same prices as Yorkshires.

REMEMBER this please—I send every bird on approval for 7 days at my risk.

I guarantee absolute satisfaction or cash returned in full to every customer.

Don't Forget that my rooms are open every day, but Sunday. That I have the largest stock of high-class birds in the country; and that I give you a very cordial invitation to come and see them. If you cannot come, however, send a P.C. for my Free Illustrated Catalogue. Easy payments can be managed to suit the convenience of genuine fanciers.

B. W. Indies.

Barbados, 11/11/12.

Please send catalogue, as you have been highly recommended to me by Mr. H—— and Dr. ——, of this Island, as the most honest dealer they have ever dealt with.—Yours truly B.C.S. to W. Rudd, England.

[This, please note, is not my statement, but that of gentlemen thousands of miles away, that I have never seen, but it is a big proof.— W. Rudd.

Gran Canaries.

Las Palmas,
November 17th, 1912.

Dear Sir,—The birds arrived safely. I found them in good condition when I arrived, and am so far very pleased with them. Once more thanking you for your prompt attention to my modest order.

H. G. DRAPER.

Holland.

Gravenhage,
20th November, 1912.

Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in informing you that the birds you sent me arrived here quite safe. Thanking you for same.

I remain, yours truly,

R. A.W.

58, Alfred Street, Gainsborough, England,
Nov. 18th, 1912.

Sir,—I am writing to thank you for the pair of Yorks which I received in first-class order. I don't think I could have picked a better pair if I had feathered them myself.

W. TACEY.

Canada.

Hamilton, Ontario,
10th Nov., 1912.

Dear Sir,—I am pleased to say the birds arrived quite safe on Monday, the 4th, and I must say they looked fine considering the journey they had come, and am well pleased with your selection.

F. HOARE.

France.

27, Av. Carnot.

Sir,—The bird reached here safely on Saturday, and we are very pleased with it.

Yours truly,
S. G. L. MALPAS.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle." This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

Club Reports.

EDINBURGH (Open) O.A.

A fully attended committee meeting was held in Buchanan's Hotel, Nov. 23. A large number of specials were reported, which promises a very attractive schedule. We hope the fanciers of our national bird will support us with entries and so complete our success.—Robert Lee, Sec.

SUNDERLAND C.B.A.

Fortnightly meeting held Nov. 23, Mr. Farrer presiding over an interesting meeting. The question of advertising our open show on Jan. 17 and 18 was decided upon, both in the Fancy press and locally. Members will oblige by pushing sale of tickets, and also by giving their attention to securing subscriptions and special prizes.—J. Jeffrey, sec.

BANKFOOT AND DIST. C.B.S.

On Nov. 16th, at Messrs. Brayshaw's Assembly Rooms, Bankfoot, the above society held its second social and dance. The venture again turned out a great success, and over a hundred persons attended. The artistes responsible for the social part of the programme were Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, Master Smith, and Mr. T. Mitchell, and their various selections were heartily appauded. The society is, indeed, fortunate in having such talent at its disposal, and at the next social and dance, announced for January 18th, we are already assured of some really fine talent. It only remains for the members to do their best in disposing of tickets to make this venture into the finest success the society has ever known. It is to be regretted that many members could not be present owing to unavoidable reasons. Already these gatherings are proving far more acceptable, both to the society and its supporters, than the older kind of assembly, and with far less risks as regards the financial side of the question. Certain events that have occurred during the present year are best forgotten, for more reasons than one, and by the new year the society will have to thank those of its members who by fearlessness of action and broad-mindedness, have steered the society to the sound financial position that it now enjoys. At our members' show, to be held on Saturday next, specials are to be given for best hen and selling classes; also three specials for most points with commended birds, thereby giving those members who are less fortunate in the money prizes, some recompense for their efforts. Several specials yet remain to be allotted, in addition to those set aside for the season's competition. —F. Gelder, Sec.

KELTY AND BLAIRADAM C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held Nov. 23, Mr. Jas. Stenhouse (President) in the chair. The balance sheet for the year was read, and showed a substantial balance in hand. The following were appointed as officials for the ensuing twelve months: President, Jas. Stenhouse; Vice-President, Alex. Anderson; Treasurer, D. McConville; Secretary, A. Dickson. It was agreed to alter the date of our annual open show to Saturday, Nov. 8, 1913. Also agreed to use guaranteed adv. in CAGE BIRDS. The chairman intimated that our association had this year again won the West of Fife Cage Bird League cup for most points over the various League shows by a handsome majority of points. This being all the business, the meeting closed.—A. Dickson, Sec.

NORTHERN YORKS. C.C.

Meeting and table show held Nov. 20th. Mr. Crawhall presided over a well attended meeting. It was unanimously decided to grant to Gateshead show, Dec. 13, 14. Ramsden's special for best young bird bred and exhibited by a member, and fed on Ramsden's pure peppers; judge, Mr. J. C. Barnes; the winner of challenge cup debarred. Our President, Mr. Crawhall, is organising a party to visit the Bradford National Show. Fanciers desirous of joining in the scheme can have further particulars by applying to the President or Secretary. The table show was fairly well supported, and some of the birds were of high merit. Mr. Mirley took sp. for best bird with a very fine cl. yell. cock. Awards:— OLD BIRD: 1, Mirley; 2, Deighton. UNFLIG.: 1, 2, Deighton; 3, Hedley; 4, Smith; vhc, Mirley. HEN: 1, 3, Hedley; 2, hc, Mirley; 4, vhc, Smith.—R. Tindall.

BRIGHTON AND HOVE C.B.A.

An exhibition of washing Canaries was held at headquarters, Nov. 20. Mr. C. Pearson led off, and explained as he went his method of washing, afterwards drying his birds by the fire. Mr. H. T. Gibb followed, using his drying cage, which contains a tank of hot water beneath the perforated zinc tray upon which the birds are laid wrapped in towelling, afterwards being place in another glass-fronted chamber above, where they thoroughly dry themselves, and become used to the outside temperature as the water cools in the tank below. This is a great advantage, as birds may be washed in the evening and left till morning in the drying cage without risk of catching cold. Messrs. James and Gravett afterwards expressed a desire to wash some birds, and were initiated by the first-named fancier into the mode of progression. Many of the club members and friends watched the proceedings, and an enjoyable evening was spent.—Will H. Gibb, hon. sec.

GATESHEAD & DISTRICT C.B.S

Meeting held Nov. 13, Mr. Tindale presiding. Several schemes for advertising our show were passed. Through the kindness of Mr. Morrison, of Gateshead Tramway Co., we are advertising our show on the cars which pass close to the show hall. This will be a great boon to visitors who are unable to find the show. Messrs. Holden, Lord, Hope, and Brown, were elected as paid stewards, Mr. G. Ellis, of the N.E.R., being previously elected. Decided to prohibit smoking in the hall. The allotting of specials was adjourned to Nov. 18. After class specials were allotted, the extra specials were gone over, which included a dinner set by Mr. J. Ford Maling, three diplomas by Mrs. Taylor, Messrs. Hindhaugh's special, and W. Gillespy and Co.'s special. Comment on Mr. Tyson's letter to the Fancy Press was very strong. The majority of the members thought that Mr. Tyson's tactics were anything but cricket, seeing that our schedule was made up six weeks previous to the Crested Canary Club patronage being offered to the Gateshead Society.—J. G. Greason, Sec.

PLUMSTEAD & WOOLWICH C.B.S

A grand evening concert and distribution of prizes won at the recent show was held Nov. 22 at Sussex Arms Concert Hall, Maxey Road, Plumstead, and the function was a great success, there being about a hundred members and friends present, all wearing smiling faces. The hall was brilliantly lighted and daintily decorated by the host, who kindly lent the hall for the occasion. A letter was read from W. J. Squires, Esq., L.C.C., stating how sorry he was to disappoint us by not being able to be present to distribute the prizes owing to his public duties being so heavy. Mr. Crutcher kindly came forward and filled the gap in a very able manner. The first half of the programme was gone through, and then the prizes were distributed to the successful competitors, Mr. Hazell taking spl for best bird and diploma for best champion Norwich, Mr. S. W. Taylor spl for second best and medal for most points in champion Nor. and Yorks, Mr. J. Shiers for best champ. Yorks, also diploma for best champion Border, Mr. J. H. Smith (who now goes up into champion section) taking cup for best unflighted Novice Nor., also diploma and two spls for best Novice Nor. and medal for most points in Novice Nor. and Yorks. Mr. E. I. Hartland won cup for most points in section throughout the year, diplomas for best Novice Yorks, best Border, and best Brit., also spl for best British and medal for most points in A.O.V. Canary, Mule or Foreign; G. H. Mackellan diploma for best Mule, and Mr. P. H. Lafbury medal most points in Brit. Mr. J. Inman diploma best in juvenile section, also special best Canary in same section; Mr. C. Page spl for hottest fed bird fed on Easterling Peppers. Mr. Sherman (Manor Park) won the Canary and cage presented by Mr. G. Peck, he being the holder of ticket numbered 154. Mr. S. Welbrake (Plum Lane, Plumstead) won the Canary and cage presented by Mr. J. Shiers for member selling the most tickets for admission to show, his total number of tickets being 74. Mr. Welbrake, on stepping up to receive his prize, was loudly cheered for his work and interest taken in selling so many tickets, which must have meant untiring effort. Mr. Crutcher then moved a very hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Meades, the hon. sec., for the way in which the show had been carried out, also for the able arrangements made for so pleasant an evening as they were spending together. Mr. Newnham support, and this, being put, was carried by acclamation. Mr. Meades, in thanking the members and friends for their appreciation of his work, stated that by the combined efforts of his committee and members and friends who had supported him, he thought that when the balance sheet was presented that they would not only have enough to wipe out the heavy deficit on their last year's working, but would be able to show a balance on the right side. This was received with a round of applause. The second part of the programme was listened to with great attention. The concert was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and a vote of thanks to the artistes, who had rendered such splendid services in making the evening a great success, which will long be remembered by all present. Mr. E. I. Hartland was the musical conductor, and the following ladies and gentlemen took part:—Miss Somers, accompanist, who ably carried out her part; Mr. Hetherington, a tenor with a clear and ringing voice; Miss Mead, a young soprano with a powerful voice; Mrs. Rolton, contralto, who has a voice that is full and mellow and pleased the audience immensely; Mr. Auger, another tenor of no small merit, whose songs well suited him: Mr. French was the comic of the evening, his songs being well received. Mr. Wallis gave two violin selections with beautiful effect. Mr. Collett's selections on the concertina, of which he is a master, were received with loud applause. He is a player who is indeed worth hearing.—E. Meades, hon. sec.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Meeting held Nov. 25, at Church Institute, 60, Paddington Street. Mr. W. A. Shepherd in the chair. Mr. Dickinson, hon. sec., and 23 members present. Before business had commenced, Mr. V. Wynn, the club sec., made his first attendance, after a long absence, and a very enthusiastic and hearty reception was accorded him, and all members hoped that after the next annual meeting he would resume his former position. The minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed. Letters were read from the London Federation and the British Roller Canary Club, and it was resolved to loan the society's staging for the latter's show on February 7th and 8th, 1913. Seven new members were nominated for election at next meeting. A judging competition for Crests was the feature of the evening, but as only two members brought five birds, the competition was held over. Prize money was paid out for annual show, and it was announced that the cups and specials would be presented to the successful winners at the next meeting on Monday, Dec. 9, by Mrs. L. M. Thynne. Medals were presented to the winners of the Yorkshire judging competition, Mr. W. Knight taking first, Mr. A. Crockett second, and Mr. J. Herring third. The thanks of the members was voted to Mrs. Weston and Mr. F. Parrington for birds presented to the gift class, the sale of which realised a nice little sum for the funds. Votes of thanks to the stewards for their services, and to the chairman closed the meeting.—Fred. Thynne, Assist. Hon. Sec.

DARVEL AND DISTRICT C.B.C.

A meeting of cage bird fanciers was held in the Town Hall on Nov. 19, there being present: Messrs. G. Alston, N. Hopkins, D. Hopkins, A. Hopkins, W. McNair, A. Beaton, Jas. Morton, John Morton, W. Connell, H. Allan, J. Bennett, and J. Robertson. Mr. Alston was unanimously called to the chair, and after expressing his opinion as to the desirability of forming a Cage Bird Club in Darvel, he called on those present to give their views on the suggestion. They were unanimous that a C.B. Club was necessary to foster and increase interest in our hobby, and it was accordingly moved, seconded, and carried that we form a Cage Bird Club, to be known as "Darvel and District C.B.C.," and limited to a radius of six miles. The election of office-bearers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—Hon. pres., Gavin Alston; pres., Nicol Hopkins; vice-pres., Wm. McNair, D. Hopkins, and T. H. Anderson; sec. and treas., Jas. Robertson, jun., Corra Linn. Agreed to write one or two local gentlemen to act as hon. presidents along with Mr. Alston. Membership fee was fixed at 2s. 6d. for adults, and 1s. 6d. for juveniles (under 16 years). Meetings to be held during the months from September to February inclusive, on the most suitable Tuesday or Thursday. Secretary instructed to write neighbouring clubs for copies of their rules, and submit same for inspection at next meeting. President was asked to submit a paper or give an address at next meeting on our Native Birds; and it was also decided to have a table show of Britishers as follows:—(1) Goldfinch or Bullfinch, (2) Linnet, Siskin, or Twite, (3) Redpoll. We hope the members will turn out in full force to this meeting, and bring new members.—Jas. Robertson, jun., Sec.

BRIGHTON AND HOVE C.B.A.

Mr. T. Heath will judge at the annual show of the Watford C.B.S., Dec. 6-7 in the Conservative Hall.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W. (Advt.)

We have engaged Mr. Kershaw to judge cage-birds again this year, writes Mr. J. Williams, sec., Denbigh show.

Kelty and Blairadam C.B.A. have altered their date and have fixed on Saturday, 8th Nov., 1913, for their next annual open show.

We have fixed November 1st and 3rd, 1913, for our next open show, writes Mr. A. Freestone, sec., Leicester Hand in Hand C.B.S.

Entries very short, writes Mr. H. Ware, hon. sec. Hayle F.A., not one per class. Will exhibitors please help us. Entries must close Dec. 1.

Mr. A. Freestone, 79, Clarendon St., Leicester, writes that No. 493 entitles holder to bird and cage, given away at Leicester Hand in Hand C.B.S. show.

We hear that Mr. W. J. Chedgey, the Cardiff Norwich enthusiast, won the Cardiff challenge cup at their late show, also Mr. Silk's cup at Swansea, staging a grand team.

Wombwell B.F.A. annual show takes place Dec. 14 in the Zion Chapel, George St., Wombwell, writes Mr. J. Hill, Wombwell, Mr. Brotherton of Rotherham will judge.

We hear from Mr. H. Hill, sec. Yorks Union of C.B.S. that a meeting of the Council will be held on Nov. 30 at 6 at the Market Tavern, Godwin St., Bradford. Agenda: Ballot for judges, closed rings, etc.

Will you please state, writes Mr. Bailey, 47, Craven St., Parkgate, Rotherham, that I have sent out 500 schedules for Rotherham show, and if anyone who has not received one will send a postcard, I will forward a schedule, or they can enter from this week's CAGE BIRDS, and I will class them.

Allow me to thank, through the medium of CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. T. Lane, the officials of the Reading and District C.B.S. for the care and attention given to my birds while at the show, and on the return journey. Prize-money has been paid, and the ornamental prize cards are a treat.

Cage bird classes at Resolven, Nov. 21, writes Mr. Love, Neath, were all cancelled, owing to lack of support. This was caused by clashing with Cardiff, also poor advertising. The Resolven Society would be well advised to advertise a little more, as they have every facility for running a good show.

The winning numbers of the Alnwick Cage Bird Society draw are: -1st, 1518; 2nd, 473; 3rd, 1269; 4th, 496; 5th, 262; 6th, 959; 7th, 1130; 8th, 832; 9th, 1182; 10th, 986; 11th, 617; 12th, 1973; 13th, 1682; 14th, 1089; 15th, 1273; 16th, 1422. Will winning ticket-holders please send in their claim.—R. Forster, Hon. Sec. (Advt. 260.)

Owing to my leaving for Canada next spring, writes Mr. R. Baker, Chichester, I am compelled to part with the whole of my Belgian Canaries, and am offering them in this issue of your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS. Having been among the Belgian Fancy all my life, I shall feel the parting with them very much, but no doubt, when I get settled in my new home, I shall get some sent over to me, as no bird appeals to me more than the Belgian (the King of the Fancy. Wishing CAGE BIRDS every success.

I should like to mention to readers of CAGE BIRDS that the Norwegian hen Bullfinches that I import are very much larger than the ordinary Russians. I am the only importer of these kinds of birds, which are very difficult to procure. Several of my customers were very successful last year in breeding mules from them, and many of the principal winners last season and this were bred from birds supplied by me. I have now in stock 500 odd birds; consignments arriving weekly. —B Hollins The Zoo, Hull. (Advt. 0.)

Those visiting London this week-end and requiring good Norwich will find on view, Saturday and Sunday at Sandiford's, 89, Sclater Street, Bethnal Green, 40 of Mr. W. N. Midgley's (Winslow) Norwich cocks and hens. Prices 8s. to 30s. Now is your chance for this noted Palace winning strain.—(Advt.)

Will exhibitors who have received a Bradford National show schedule without an entry form, writes Mr. H. Hill, show sec., kindly make their entries on a piece of writing paper. It meant all packages containing same being surcharged for extra weight. The birds can be entered from the schedule, and this will meet all requirements.

Please allow me to correct a little error in Luton schedule, writes Mr. Bloomfield, hon. sec., classes 13-14 points special should read 2s. 6d. most points, classes 13-14, W. Smith, jun. This is done to give right donor credit. If exhibitors in these classes accept correct rendering write yes on entry form. If not schedule statement will be adhered to.

Many thanks, writes Mr. Montgomery, Staines, for showing my winning Yorkshire on your front page. I had a very pleasant surprise when I get my CAGE BIRDS this week to see my bird in the position of honour. The bird is unflighted, and I hope will do some more winning for me. I am a constant reader of your most valuable paper.

Any friends desirous of joining the L. and P.O.S. before the Palace show, should kindly let me have their names as soon as possible, writes Mr. C. W. Law, the hon. sec., Brimley House, Woodhouse Rd., N. Finchley. As a rule several are disappointed, on account of leaving it too late. The following friends have joined the Society: Mrs. Mabel Scholes, Mr. T. H. Milson, and Mr. T. G. Tapper.

The British softbill class for birds not larger than a Thrush is guaranteed; also Mr. Sandiford offers gold centre silver medal for hottest bird moulted on his food, entries to be marked Sandiford, writes Mr. J. H. Jones, hon. sec., Birmingham show. Entries are very short; we must extend closing date to Saturday, Nov. 30th (Saturday's post mark accepted).

At the Sheffield C.B.S. open show, Dec. 14th, we are giving a splendid classification and prize money, 10s., 6s., 4s., 2s., with specials in every section, writes Mr. J. Woolhouse, the assist. sec. Novices have ten classes (four Yorks., five Nor., and one Brit.), also we have added this year several unflighted hen classes. We trust exhibitors will send us a bumping entry, and beat last year's record.

As an old reader of CAGE BIRDS, in fact from the first day of its issue, writes Mr. Carr, Walthamstow, I must thank you for the splendid tips I have had from it. I must say it has been the means of my success in the Fancy, but I am sorry to inform you that through illness I have been compelled to part with all my birds to that well-known fancier, Mr. Parr, of Ilford. I shall always wish you success.

Many thanks for fine report of show in CAGE BIRDS last week, writes Mr. W. H. Gibb, hon. sec., Brighton and Hove C.B.A. Owing to business, the assistant sec. was unable to help much, and his place was taken by Mr. G. B. Absalon, a willing worker who gave the secretary much assistance during the show and afterwards. All exhibits left the showroom before 6.30 Saturday morning, and arrived home safely, there being no complaints.

We thank the ladies and gentlemen who have supported us by way of special prizes, writes Mr. J. R. Meikle, sec. Scottish National C.B.S., 51, Lothian Rd., Edinburgh. Any other friends of the National who would also wish to assist us in this respect, will be most heartily welcomed. Committee for allocation of specials meet Dec. 4, when all intimations re above must be to hand for insertion in schedule. Let all friends do their best.

On behalf of the committee and myself I beg to thank you for the report of Wimbledon Show: also please convey our best thanks to the exhibitors who gave us a record entry of over 900, writes Mr. H. Smith, hon. sec. Pleased to say we were able to get birds away early, and up to time of writing have not had a single complaint. All prize money has been dispatched. Members will be paid at meeting next Monday. Mr. Spillman's well-known light Mule was claimed at our show at catalogue price, £5 10s.

The railway companies are running excursions from all parts to Birmingham on our show dates, Dec. 4-5 (in connection with the cattle show) writes Mr. J. H. Jones (hon. sec.) The Midland Railway announce day trips on Dec. 4 from Barnsley, Rotherham, Sheffield and Chesterfield, Bristol, Gloucester, Cheltenham, Malvern and Worcester, Upton-on-Severn, Tewkesbury, Evesham, Alcester and Redditch, Dec. 5; day and half-day from Leicester, Hinckley and Nuneaton; day, Gloucester, Worcester and Bromsgrove, Evesham, Alcester and Redditch. L. and N.W. and G. W. Railway bills not yet to hand.

Exhibitors should not overlook Denbigh show; schedules from Mr. J. Williams, Sec., Hall Square, Denbigh.

In order to avoid clashing, writes Mr. J. H. Elwell, sec. Old Shildon Workmen's Club C.B.S., will secretaries please note that our show date is fixed for November 7-8, 1913.

Entries at Oakham show are very short, and exhibitors should rally round; closing date extended to Monday, December 2nd.

Mr. A. J. Barratt, sec. Coventry O.S., writes that the next annual open show will be held on Nov. 15, 1913. Will secretaries please note.

Pontypridd show (held Wednesday Dec. 4) has extended the date of entries closing until December 2 first post, and we hope to see this fixture given a first-rate entry.

We are asked to notify the following changes of address: Mr. R. T. Campbell, Sec. Dunfermline and Dis. C.B.S., from James Place to 19, Rolland Street, Dunfermline.

Schedules of Luton show have been sent out. The hon. sec., Mr. E. Bloomfield, 22, Hitchin Road, will be glad to send one to any one applying.

All exhibits, writes Mr. Bescoby, sec., were dispatched from our show on Saturday night by 8.30. The winning number of drawing for Canary and cage was 0634.

The Lurgan C.B.S. show held last week was a good success, writes Mr. S. McCollum, the hon sec. Date of next exhibition 21st and 22nd Nov., 1913. Would secretaries take note and avoid clashing?

Mr. H. Ridgway, hon. sec. Hinckley Show, writes that the second prize Linnet and the second prize Goldfinch were claimed at £2 2s., catalogue price, both by Mr. G. Lawrence, of Coventry. The winning gate prize numbers were 0574 and 0655. There was a record gate at the show.

We are informed that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows. Anyone who has been overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries: Enfield, Bournemouth, Hetton-le-Hole, Galashiels, Gt. Horton G.I., Windermere, Wimbledon, Nottingham and Notts.

The "Perfect" drying cage sold by Mr. A. Wilson, naturalist, Argyle Street, Glasgow (see advt. in this issue) has achieved a notable success, and fanciers needing such an appliance should send for the pamphlet which describes it and points out its undoubted merits. It is recommended by many notable fanciers.

How's That?

Twelve shows have been held by the Ilkeston and Dist. C.B.S., and out of these Mr. J. C. Barnes has judged at no less than eight and Mr. Charles Houlton seven, Mr. Barnes this year accomplishing the "hat trick"!

A Jollification at Highgate.

The social and prize distribution in connection with the Highgate, Hampstead and Dis. C.B. Society's annual show, will take place at Spencer Hall to-day, Saturday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m. A very fine musical programme has been arranged; will members and friends please make an effort to be present. Mr. Geo. Gardner has promised to preside, supported by Mr. G. E. Weston, and others.

Northern Crest Club Show.

We are going to hold an open show of Crests and C.B. in the Bird Market, Newcastle, on New Year's Day, 1913, writes Mr. Hutchinson, hon. sec. N.C.C. We are providing 16 classes for Crests alone, paying £1 per class prize money, with an abundant supply of specials, including tea set, breakfast set, marble clocks, china clocks, and ornaments, etc., which are open to all exhibitors whether members of the N.C.C. or not.

A Christmas Present.

Our reviewers have already drawn attention to the excellence of that sound new specialist publication, "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds," which covers every aspect of the mating, breeding and rearing of our songsters. Those who are on the look out for a charming present for anyone who keeps birds—whether for pleasure or profit or for exhibition—cannot do better than take advantage of the Waverley Book Company's special Christmas offer of "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds" for free approval. All book buyers and book lovers already know of the convenient and popular terms on which this enterprising firm of publishers supplies its specialist books, allowing the buyer to pay by small monthly sums. This Christmas offer goes farther. It allows the probable buyer to have the book for seven days' free approval to test and examine it during that period, and to return it at the firm's expense if he decides not to order it. We advise all bird-lovers and all who are seeking a present for a bird-lover to ask the Waverley Book Company, Limited, 7-8, Old Bailey, London, E.C., to send "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds," which is complete in one compact volume, to them for free approval and examination.

Wild-Bird Life.

Wild Birds' Winter Habits.

The weather during the past month has been very mild and at times when the sun shone it seemed more like summer than the beginning of winter; but although so mild, wild birds, in most cases, returned to their usual winter habits. There is a vast difference between the summer and winter habits of the majority of our resident birds. In Summer they are mostly in isolated pairs, seeking the seclusion of the hedgerows and woods, wherein to raise their young, or as in the case of the waders, to haunt the solitude of the marshes, hillsides, and moorlands where few save the shepherds intrude upon their privacy. In Winter, they congregate and band together in huge flocks, for protection from their many enemies, but even then some birds do not seek the company of their fellows, but love to roam free and unfettered quite by themselves. The tiny Wren is an example, and so is the gorgeous Kingfisher. These latter birds leave their fellows and make for open water, where, like the familiar Robin, they love to have a beat all to themselves. Year after year the pond in the centre of the village, where the writer of these notes resides, is favoured by the presence of one of these lovely birds. A cedar tree is growing on the bank, and juts out its branches over the water. On one of the lower ones, which is almost bare of foliage, the Kingfisher sits statue-like, watching keenly the surface of the water beneath him. Suddenly he moves, dropping like a stone into the smooth water, but before one hardly realises the occurrence and notes the splash, he has turned and is making his way back to the favourite perch. The flight of the Kingfisher is particularly rapid. The speed with which he flies from one perch to another is astonishing; similarly his manner of pulling up when he arrives at his destination.

New Society for Darvel, Ayrshire.

As will be seen from our Club Report column, a society has been started as above. The membership is restricted to a six miles radius. Further particulars will be found in our report of the meeting.

The Prolific Roller.

I had a very successful season this year, writes Mr. W. H. Blythe (Bacup) having bred from five hens nearly forty youngsters, which I think is not such a bad record, and incidentally, is a proof that so far as proficacy is concerned, the Roller Canary is not yet in danger of extinction, as seems to be the case with some of the other varieties. Your coloured plates are splendid.

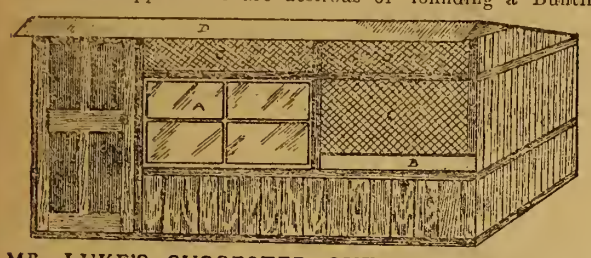
Corrections in Show Reports.

At Cardiff, 3rd in Goldfinch class should be Richards, not Maidment; at Cowdenbeath, 2nd in each of the Greenfinch classes was won by Mr. J. Messer, not by Mr. Logan and Mr. A. Bell as reported; at Brighton, was 2nd in Nor. Yell., not H. Frost; at Blackwood the various wins in Borders credited to W. Sneddon should read W. Haddow; at Warrington the he awarded to Mr. S. P. Alexander's Goldfinch was omitted from our report; in Oldham report the awards in the Buff Nor. class should read 1, 3, spl., Sharples; 2, Young.

Sticking to the Old Love.

Although I'm almost out of the Fancy now, writes Mr. R. P. Harper, I still take a keen interest in the North London Society, and was very disappointed over the miserable entry until I visited the show and saw the quality. This was splendid. Mr. G. T. Green's Unflighted Yorkie took champion cup and special best in show and one or two minor specials. I hear it won 1st at Swansea in a class of 30, and again at Leyton and Bournemouth. I sent three Norwich, and one secured first and the special for best headed Nor. in the show. I have decided to retain three or four pairs, so hope to support them a little better next year.

FOUNDING A BUNTING AVIARY.



By L. P. LUKE (Brighouse).

An article of interest to all lovers of Buntings, and particularly those who keep the Yellow, Snow, or Corn, while most British-bird fanciers are almost sure to find a useful "tip" or two contained in it.

OF late the Bunting tribe have been receiving some measure of the attention they deserve in cage-bird circles; for though possessing no extraordinary vocal capabilities, yet, by reason of their charming colouration, quaint mannerisms, and distinctive habits, when thoroughly tame, they are extremely popular amongst that section of fanciers who have given them a trial as cage or aviary pets.

The species most frequently met with in captivity are the Yellow Bunting, the Snow Bunting, and the Corn Bunting, whilst in the rooms of some more experienced hands we occasionally stumble across the Cirl or Ortolan. All these species, however, are very similar in their requirements, so we can, in dealing with them, generalise on many points.

Let us suppose we are desirous of founding a Bunting aviary. My method of procuring specimens is one I saw outlined some years ago. I select some large reliable catcher from the advertisement pages of CAGE BIRDS, and request him to forward me a dozen or so of his best birds, on condition that I may retain as many as I choose and return the remainder, paying something extra for the privilege of doing so. Thus I am able to obtain the pick of the pack at a minimum of expense, and am practically certain of receiving a bird which will make up into an exhibition specimen. Having obtained the bird, I run him into a steadying cage, for he will be fairly wild, although most likely "on seed."

A Useful Steadying Cage.

The smaller illustration depicts a cage designed especially for steadying newly bought specimens, which I consider to be the most important factor in the production of exhibition pets. Almost all the members of the Bunting family have a peculiar habit of crouching on the ground, which they must get rid of before they are fit for the show bench. Only a small portion of the front of my cage is wired, and the birds themselves naturally curious as to their novel surroundings, stand "a tip-toe," as it were, in order to see, thereby being "pulled into line." I might mention at this juncture that the correct attitude for the show bird is about midway between the vertical and horizontal, say at an angle of 50 degrees.

The top of this cage is covered with string netting, which prevents the birds from damaging themselves if they fly upwards. This open top, too, allows one to place one's hands directly over the birds, and I find this extremely useful in taming them. As the Buntings spend a great deal of time on the ground—some even roosting there when wild—I place no perches in this cage, but strew the floor with a thick carpet of sawdust; this needs frequent renewal, and the feet of the birds must be well looked to.

Tit-bits for Supper.

I visit the cages as often as I am able, and offer tit-bits to the birds, speaking soothingly to them all the while. The best time for this is when they have retired for the night, and are not disposed to bestir themselves again.

I place this cage in a room where people are constantly moving about, at a height of about six feet, so that the birds have to "stretch" to see. Its dimensions are: 6 inches high, 10 inches deep, and 15 inches long.

The Next Step.

From this cage I transfer my birds to a similar one, but higher, and having the top wired instead of netted. Here I place two stout perches, not far from the bottom, and provide a bath to admit of bathing whenever the birds will; for, as we have been told so very often, there is nothing like fresh water for bringing out the lustrous sheen which adds yet another charm to our pets.

In addition to other foods, of which I will treat when I deal with the birds separately, I supply to all my Buntings who will accept them, that luscious, juicy gentleman, Mr. Mealworm. When my birds will take a mealworm from my fingers, I consider them fit to turn into the aviary, for I find they readily become tame again when caged after the moult, preparatory to the shows.

Aviaries from Egg Boxes.

My "aviary" is really a kind of gorgeous flight in an out-door bird-room. The larger drawing shows one of my outdoor rooms in which I put several of such flights. These flight cages are about six feet long, and are capable of accommodating six or eight birds. As they simply have half-inch wire netting fronts, and are made from egg-cases, they are very cheaply constructed. I stack them one upon the other, with three wooden blocks between to allow the air to circulate freely.

With regard to the correct type of bird to select for show, my method is to visit some exhibition where I am likely to find the species I want. Once there, I study each particular feature of the birds, contrast different exhibits, and then read the critique in CAGE BIRDS. Thus I get a full grasp of the merits and demerits of the birds, and I maintain this is infinitely superior to reading a bare inexhaustive description.

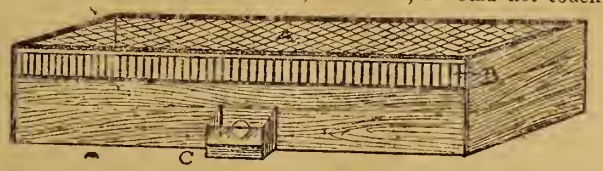
When once I have a bird which I think worth the showing, I take great care of him, and moult him to the best of my ability; I consider the flight the best place for moulting, and I make the diet for the birds as natural as possible. Water, of course, I supply in plenty, on all except wet, damp, murky days, no matter how cold the weather. Colour-food used in moderation I consider improves both the Yellow Bunting and the Corn Bunting.

Mealworms and ant eggs are very stimulating, and these I provide whenever a pet is out of sorts. Buntings are not particularly fond of green food, but I let mine pick over a little dandelion if they will. Sometimes I strew my flight with chaff or peat moss, amongst which I scatter a little seed. This helps to give them exercise and to keep them employed.

Not Yet—But Why Not?

Buntings are by no means free breeders in captivity; hybrids have yet to be produced, but herein lies a problem worthy of our most strenuous efforts—a nut to crack—in very truth. Foreign Buntings have bred in captivity, and hybrids from our British Buntings are bound to come with a fuller knowledge. When they do, we shall all say "Well done!" to the lucky fanciers.

Perhaps it is time now to descend from the general to the particular, so I will deal in the first instance with the common Yellowhammer or Yoldring. Suppose for a few minutes we could peep into the "Autobiography of a 'Hammer," this is what we should most probably read:



A Yellowhammer's Autobiography.

"On the very first of June with a jump I broke open my purple-streaked egg-shell, to find myself in a cosy little nest placed in a very small bush and made of grass, moss, and hair. Two of my brothers had arrived before me—the third was yet to come. My mother was a big yellow bird, but my daddy was even bigger still. They were so proud of us, and fed us every day on insects, caterpillars, and small seeds, until, having a new suit of nice feathers, and looking just like mother, at last I fluttered from my home and was taught to fly. All day long we stole from the farmer's cornfield, and I grew till I was even bigger than my dad. Other birds taught me to pull the stalks from the stacks in the farmyard, and steal the grain from the ear, when winter came along.

A Cloud with a Silver Lining.

"At last I lost my parents and joined a band of young Corn Buntings. Often we were sopping wet, always we were hungry, until one day we chanced to find a nice stackyard. Here was lots of chaff for us to hunt amongst, and we were almost happy. As I was hunting for breakfast in the early morning, I trod lightly on a green-looking twig, to find myself held fast. Before I could free myself, there came a man who carried me into his house, where I was put in a nice warm cage.

"I was very frightened at first, and dashed madly about in a vain attempt to regain my friends. When the man had gone away, I looked around, and saw seeds of every kind, with corn and grain in plenty. How glad I was, for I was very hungry! Making sure Mr. Man wasn't looking, I greedily devoured his food, and when my master came again he dropped all kinds of nice things to eat in my cage—earwigs, spiders, flies, seeds—but, of course, I would not touch them when he was present. You may be sure as soon as he had gone I gobbled them up

"Every day he came like this, and spoke so kindly to me that I soon began to look forward to his coming. I didn't fly madly about now, you may be sure, but sat on my perch, put my head on one side and winked—yes, winked—at him.

This drawing by a Manchester fancier, depicts the Hawfinch, which is a favourite exhibition bird and one which the judges generally place near the top of the class.

Breeding the Perfect NORWICH PLAINHEAD.

By C. DIXON (Norton, Malton).

An uncommon method is advocated by our contributor; as to its feasibility we cannot, of course, express any opinion—readers must use their own judgment.

AS a lover of Norwich Plainheads I am putting before you the way in which I think they can be improved and brought to a still higher state of perfection than has yet been attained. The beginner, of course, has not to go right back thirty years or more; he has to mate up the present-day bird to bring about a further improvement. I will assume that our beginners get their birds from good men—there are many who have a really good lot of stock birds, the right stamp for any one to commence with.

I hold that the first pair the novice selects should be as follows:—A buff cock, a large massive bird, with a big round head, a bold eye, small beak, full cheeks, plenty of feather, short flights and tail, and standing on short legs. He will not carry much meal on him; you never see this until the birds are brought down in the breeding to a finer state of feather. The hen should be a yellow Cinnamon; or, failing this, a big yellow Crestbred. Here you will also have plenty of feather. Her points should be like those of the cock bird, if you can get them. Let me here say that if the Crest-bred hen is used, the male bird must have a bit of Cinnamon blood in him; but the other hen should be pure Cinnamon.

The pair should at least have in combination all the points described above, what we may term in their rough state, because 90 per cent. of all large birds are coarse in feather—if you get a very large one with fine feather qualities I should call him a rara avis. You will breed from this pair Greens and marked birds, and you may even get clears or ticked birds. The young will be finer in feather, generally, than their parents. This is accounted for by the Cinnamon blood, which should be in both parents preferably. These young birds will be quite as large as their parents but far better in quality. These young birds you had better carefully enter in your bird-room stud-book, so that you will make no mistakes when pairing up the following season with the progeny of the second pair I am now going to describe. The young from this second pair, of course, should be carefully recorded in the stud-book, the same as the first lot of youngsters.

Not a Trace of Marking.

The cock for this second pair should be a clear yellow Norwich, and, of course, a pink-eyed bird, a little less in size than the first pair, so that he will be finer in feather, but be sure all the points enumerated in the first are present quite as strongly in this bird. The pink-eye will tell you there is a large amount of Cinnamon blood flowing through his veins. The hen to pair with this bird should be a really fine specimen—on the verge of being a good show bird—and so much the better if there is a wee drop of Cinnamon blood in her. But there must be no foul feathers, nor even underflue in either bird; both absolutely clear. From this pair you will breed your best birds so far as show points go, and you will have a great percentage of clears. If you breed a ticked one, either male or female, keep your eye on it, and don't part with it.

We will suppose that you have bred eight youngsters from each of the above two pairs; that is, sixteen birds in all. The second year you will pair up from these the young from the first pair to those from the second. Say a yellow-green cock to a good buff hen, then a good buff cock to a yellow hen, or yellow-green, and so on. Always, of course, try to build up the type, and any deficiencies try to improve by carefully pairing the birds together.

Up to now we have not bred the ideal exhibition specimen; it has not yet been staged. But it will come, as the Plainheads have attained great excellence, though not yet quite to perfection. Use your best judgment when you are mating up the third lot, for you will have been bringing the birds on to the goal you are aiming to reach—the ideal exhibition specimen—and I believe that out of the young resulting from the third year's breeding you will find that you are coming near to realising the fulfilment of your expectations.

In Love with Cinnamon Blood.

Cinnamon blood is the greatest factor in producing colour; it tells wherever used. In fact there is no other bird that is of such use and power as the Cinnamon. It is a feather refiner, it gives "bloom," and imparts that frost or meal which makes a good buff bird look so lovely. Now all the good properties of the Cinnamon are, by the method of breeding and mating outlined above, thoroughly blended together, and will produce lovely-coloured birds, which, for depth of natural colour, are remarkable. Don't try in-breeding too much or your birds will deteriorate; only go reasonably far.

There are many faults to be avoided, such as narrow heads, long necks, long legs, long flights and tail, etc. Don't in any case pair birds to birds which both possess the same fault; in fact keep away from faulty birds as far as possible. I have seen the Norwich and Lizard bred together. What colours this cross did produce! Some were "mousey marked" birds, and I saw none for which I would have found cage room. I claim to have acquired a little knowledge about the breeding of Canaries, having had thirty years' experience (of which, however, a good many were spent in breeding just the ordinary kind) and I feel full of enthusiasm for the future, because I have got a little way on the road that I have tried to describe in my essay, and I expect in another year or two to be heard of on the show bench.

BELFAST.

The Belfast, Nor., Cresl, and Y.C.C. held their elcventh annual exhibition in the Clarence Hall, Nov. 16th. This yearly show is the very keenest in Ireland, as all exhibits are to be unflighted and bred by exhibitor. The executive is very generous, providing gold medals for each section, with a massive silver cup thrown in. Crests opened the show, and a very nice lot were on view. The gold medal was won by Mr. Bowman's D.C., clear body exhibit. It had a narrow squeak of being beaten by the monster C.B., put down by Mr. Leacock. Norwich were a wonderful show. Hardly a bad one among them. The Irishmen are on the right track, good heads and neck, with hardly anything behind the perch. The winners in each class would hold their own in keen English competition. The winning cl. buff hen is a gem of the first water; the owner is to be congratulated on having such a topper. Mr. Raynes, of Manchester, placed the cards, and it is a long time since he had such a hard day's work, we are sure. Yorks. were a very even lot, but not up to the standard of the Nor. They are, however, being taken up more, and are a decided improvement on last year. Mr. Tansey put down a very nice team; his cup winning hen is a real good 'un, and should make a name. Messrs. Birse, Fleming and Dunwoody had quite a pitched battle with honours going to Dublin in the shape of three firsts, the Belfast men capturing five. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, of Liverpool, adjudicated in this section, and was happy in his selections. The officials are a hard-working body. It is ages since we came across a worker like the genial president, Mr. J. E. Adams, who is at the head of affairs. Mr. Bamford is an energetic secretary, and he had very willing stewards to help him. The attendance was very good. A few Yorks. changed hands, but the Nor. men were loath to part. The cups and specials were handed to the winners at close of show.

The Critique.

CRESTS: 1, 4, Bowman, D.C., enormous crest, well rndinted, shows grand qual., well staged; 2, 3, McCrea, self green smaller crest, not so neat in centre, rare body feather; 3, foul tail, rare size, fair feather, crest breaks a bit, kept it back. HEN: 1, 4, Leacock, rare thumping lady, neat crest, nice droop from centre; 2, McCrea, better qual., well centred crest, but very small; 3, Bowman, very penny in centre, nice droop and feather, well groomed. C.B CK.: 1, Leacock, rare skull and lashings, shows wealth of feather, very silky; 2, 3, Bowman, foul. tail, nice skull, fails lashings and feather, short and compact, 3, longer pinched head, fair feather and cond.; 4, Adams. HEN: 1, 2, Bowman, almost green, fine size and qual., nice skull; 2, good bird, but a pinch in skull, nice feather; 3, Adams, self green, plenty of good feather, slip heel or would be higher. NOR. C. YELL. CK.: 1, J. Stewart, bold round head and neck, capital cond., short wings and body; 2, McCagherty, again a good one, must have pressed, compact, cobby and polished; 3, Thompson, sweet chap, rare good front, took off feed too soon, shows spectacles; 4, Teasey. BUFF CK.: 1, Faith, rare size, grand col., round as an orange, capital wings, well staged and wins; 2, Thompson, cobby, rare front, very broad, capital back, well mealed; 3, Teasey, magnificent feather and cond., takes perches well, should make up; 4, Lavery. TKD. BUFF: 1, Stewart, grizzle cap, great size, round as an apple, shows wealth of meal, compact throughout; 2, Connell, wonderful shape, tight in feather, rare head and neck, has a cocky appearance; 3, Lavery, bit smaller, but splendid feather and shape, moves well; 4, Gilmore. VARIEG. YELL.: 1, runner up for medal, Faith, grizzle on nape, wonder for Nor. properties, clean cut; 2, Boyd, almost green, charming feather, well filled in neck, fine carriage and cond.; 3, Finley, sweet damsel, bit small in head, but rare type and feather; 4, Gray. VARIEG. BUFF: 1, Stewart, heavily variey., quite a becoming lady, shows all the true Nor. properties, wins; 2, Teasey, rump mkd., carries tail well, capital frosting and coud.; 3, McCagherty, saddle mkd. wonderful head and neck, moves freely; 4, Carleton. YORKS CL. YELL.: 1, sp, medal, Tansey, straight as a rush, magnificent feather, stylish, will want stopping next year; 2, 3, Dunwoody, longer, but not quality of feather, shows nice flights, nice feather and cond.; 3, long raky exhibit, sweet head and neck; 4, Montgomery. CL. BUFF: 1, Tansey, topper for style, grand pair legs, capital wings and pipe tail, well put down, straight as an arrow; 2, Dunwoody, rare good bird, grand round body, finely feathered, erect position, very ill at time of taking notes; 3, 4, Fleming, long raky bird, shows too much frill, good flights, and tail. CL. YELL. HEN: 1, Birse, long sid d, well filled in neck, stands like a guardsman, just a bit coarse in feather; 2, Sloan, charming hen, full of style, exquisite feather, would win with a bit more size; 3, S. Stewart, very racy, long-sided, full of go, very fine feather; 4, Dunwoody. CL. BUFF: 1, Birse, smart lady, glorious texture of feather, shows neat front, straight as a rush; 2, 4, Dunwoody, another neat exhibit, round as a bottle, good top ends, not legs of winner; 3, Fleming, charming qual., grand back, pipe, but shows a little frill. TKD. YELL. CK.: 1, Fleming. A1 pos., straight as a gun barrel, fine tone of feather, good legs, knows how to use them; 2, Hunter, variey., grand back and erect and fearless, level col., well up on leg; 3, 4, Dunwoody, real good bird, but was taken ill at show. HEN: 1, Birse, real good hen, shows grand qual., plenty of leg, neat front, should make up; 2, 4, Dunwoody, another stylish lady, runs above very hard, grand wings and tail, bit limpy; 3, Fleming, heavily var., rare style of a stock hen, grand post. and col. TK. BUFF CK.: 1, Tansey, wing mkd. buff, long drawn, full of swank, nice feather; 2, 3, Dunwoody, round as a bottle, well up on leg, very erect, runs winner very close; 4, McKelly, great length and style, boxy feather, neat pair of legs. HEN: 1, cup winner, Tansey, rare lady, as neat a hen as we've seen for some time, full of York type, round as a pencil, easy winner; 2, Birse, another nice lady, full of swank, very close feather, line pos.; 3, Fleming, long drawn hen, shows wonderful sidne on feather, but weak at neck; 4, Dunwoody. MULE: 1, Carleton, real good Siskin Mule, grand col. and size, nice Nor. type; 2, McCagherty, good Goldie Mule, splendid blaze and col., runs very close up; 3, Beattie, lovely little Twite Can., shows splendid markings, in grand cond.; 4, Creighton.

CAMBRIDGE & COUNTY C.B.A.

Show confined to the town and county held in Mr. Catling's Auction Rooms, Nov. 14. About 170 birds were staged, and in the opinion of the judge, Mr. J. T. Palmer (Gamlingay) the show was an excellent one all round. Exhibits worthy of special mention were the foreign birds staged by Mrs. Rice, who showed a pair of Tonrazous (said to be about the only pair in the country) and a couple of Lorikeets. All Mrs. Rice's birds were remarkable for the beautiful condition in which they were shown. In the Goldfinch class Mr. T. Hinson won with the bird which won the open class at Norwich, and here it took special for best British. The clear buff Nor. shown by Mr. Allen, of Witchford, in the members' class was also a bird of exceptional merit. Mr. F. Papworth won first and special in the Border class with a clear yellow, which the judge described as a "perfect gem." Mr. Williams' clear yellow Nor. was judged the best bird in the show, taking first prize in its class and several specials. Yorks were very strong, Messrs. Bishop, Knights and Langley doing well here. The tradesmen of the town responded handsomely in the matter of providing special prizes, there being one in nearly every class. The show was under the guidance of the hon. sec., Mr. W. Ridgeon, who was assisted by the committee and several other workers, and their efforts were quite successful.

BOLDON COLLIERY. F. & F.S.

Second annual show held in Workmen's Club, Quoit Shed, kindly lent for the occasion. The society has made rapid strides this last season, and I think with a good secretary such as we have in Mr. A. Widdowfield and a hard-working committee we ought to make a name for ourselves another year. The members and visitors were delighted with the turn-out, which was a credit to so young a society (only its second year). Mr. W. L. Smith (South Shields) judged.

KILMARNOCK.

Thirty-eighth annual exhibition held Nov. 2, in the Dunlop Street Hall. The total number of birds forward was 310, and while the entries were slightly under the average, the quality of the exhibits was up to the usual high standard. During the day the show was well patronised by fanciers. The secretarial arrangements were again in the capable hands of Mr. R. M'Caw, North Hamilton Street. The judges, whose awards gave entire satisfaction, were as follows:—Scotch Fancy and Border Fancy, Mr. D. Hamilton, Hamilton; Norwich and Crests, Mr. James Calderwood, Kilmarnock; Mules, British, and For., Mr. George Marlin, Hamilton.

CHESTER C.B.S.

Annual show held in Assembly Rooms, Newgate-street, Nov. 16th. Entries created a record for Chester, 200 birds being staged, making an increase of 121 birds against last year; not only has the number of entries increased, but also the number of members. The best class of bird shown was the Norwich section, although there were some good birds in the Yorkshire section, competition being very keen. Messrs. Hemmings and Brereton created quite a sensation with a beautiful Thrush. The bird was in good condition and splendidly marked. Four handsome cups were presented, one of which was given by Mrs. C. E. Way, president. The winners were as follows: Nor. cup, Mr. H. T. Gardner; Yorks., Mr. J. L. F. J. Pike; Brit., Mr. J. Crane; novice, Mr. A. G. Farrell. Special winners were: Nor., Jones and Chester, H. T. Gardner, T. Thompson, and W. Woodfine; Yorks., Jones and Chester, R. Parry, T. P. Baxter, and W. Huxley; Brit., J. Crane, Hemmings and Brereton, T. A. Redfern, and E. Richards; novice, A. G. Farrell, W. Thomas, and R. L. G. Simpson. Messrs. W. Thomas, W. Huxley, and T. Jones acted as stewards, and performed their duties well. Mr. A. G. Davies (Manchester) judged.

REDHILL C.B.S.

Second annual show held Nov. 13, at Lindsey's Temperance Hotel, in a large and spacious room; the exhibits were nicely staged, and amongst them were some very nice exhibits, fit to hold their own at any open show. The Hon. Secretary, Mr. A. W. Beacon, had everything well in hand, backed well by his hard-working committee, Mr. T. Baldock, chairman, and Messrs. J. Hooper, F. A. Marriott, J. Terry. The lady members of the committee, Mrs. Patten and Miss Edwards, rendered valuable help in seeing well to the birds' wants. Entries were not quite so strong as at some shows, but for a young society the venture was a very successful one. Four cups are for competition amongst members and the subscription is only 3s. annually. There is no raising limit, the society being open to all. Mr. A. T. Bellinger, Bromley, judged and his awards were very well received. The cup winners were: Best bird, Mr. F. W. Bacon; best nonfed Yorks., Miss Cameron; best Border, Mr. Bacon; best Brit., the winning Goldfinch (no name); runner-up, Mr. Bacon. Other special winners were: Miss Hatch, and Messrs. Wade, Britton, Harris and Whitmore.

From the catalogue sent we gather that the principal winners were: NOR., Miss Edwards, Mr. Wade. YORKS, Messrs. Britton, Roser, Harris, Miss Cameron, Mr. Bacon. BORD., Messrs. Bacon, Marriott, Baldock, Card. CREST, Miss Riddock and Mr. Bacon. LIZARD, Miss Hatch. MULE, Messrs. Bacon, Marriott. BRIT., Miss Hatch, Messrs. CAMBORNE.

The Camborne C.B.S. have started a society under new management, and their first members' show, held in the Queen's Hall, on Nov. 11, open to the Mining Division, was well patronised by fanciers and visitors. Entries came up well seeing that they have only started two months. Many of the birds staged could hold their own at any open show, and the quality was very fine. The Norwich section was small, but the birds were of good type and quality, and the medal for best in section was won by Mr. Uren with a good yell. ticked. We congratulate Mr. Uren on his success as a novice, this being his first show. Yorks were a very nice lot, typical, and shown in good condition. Medal for best fell to Mr. Peters with a grand clear buff. Crests were very good for quality, and the medal for best was won by Mr. Menadue with a lovely Crest hen, grand crest of good formation and feather. The cinn. class was good, the winner being very level in colour and size; takes medal for best in the section. Hybrid and British sections were good. Medal for best was wen by Mr. Collins with his champion six-pointed Mule. The Goldfinch class was excellent, the winner is a gem all over, and has not been beaten this year, takes medal for best Goldfinch, a grand specimen. In the hard and softbill classes Mr. Collins took premier honours with a Yellow Bunting of grand colour and markings, a very sweet Blackcap, nice colour and cap, and a grand Hawfinch, this bird taking medal for best bird in the section. Novice birds were good, Mr. Perkins winning with a yell. Yorks., a credit to the owner. Many fanciers looked in during the evening from different societies, and we were informed that the society made a very good profit. The arrangements were excellent, and the newly formed Camborne C.B.S. are to be congratulated on their success. The secretary (Mr. Cock, junr.) had everything well in hand, and was well supported by a good committee. As for the chairman (Mr. Scoble) we cannot say too much in praise of his work, as he attended and looked well after the interest of the birds and visitors. The gold medal for most points was won by F. Collins with 98 points. Mr. Mewton, St. Austell, judged the Canary section, and Mr. Rowe, Hayle, Hybrids and British, and their awards were well received.

My First Goldfinch.

How I found a Hobby for myself and, incidentally, the wife.

By JAS. HENDERSON.

IT was about the end of October two years ago. I was sitting by the fire one Saturday night half-asleep, and thinking about nothing in particular when I was disturbed by someone knocking at the door. On answering I was pleased and surprised to see my old friend McNab. Quoth he: "I was taking a walk round the market when I noticed something I thought you would like to buy." At the word "buy" I looked across the room at my wife (who was very busy with the darning needle) to see what effect it had on her. "Oh!" said she (at the same time dropping my old socks). "What have you got to sell to-night, McNab?" "I have nothing to sell, only I thought Jeames would like to buy a nice wee Goldfinch. There is a man in the market who has some real Siberian cocks, and he only wants half-a-dollar each for them."

The Wind in the East.

"Said I to the wife, 'What do you say to buying one? They are only 'half-a-dollar,' you know, and that won't 'break us' will it?'" I could see at once I was treading on dangerous ground, so I had to be very careful (although I had my mind made up as to what I was going to do). "No, Jeames," said the wife, "you are not going to bring a bird into my house. I know what birds are when kept in houses, scattering their seed all over the floor, and another thing—they only encourage mice. I will not have one here, so there you are. I should be sweeping up seed all day." "Enough," said I, "we had better change the subject." "Rough night," remarked McNab. "Yes," I replied, "I think the wind is in the East, don't you. We might go for a stroll." "A good idea," said the wife; "it will make you sleep."

On went my overcoat, and out went McNab and I. "Where shall we go, Jeames?" "Down the market to see the Goldfinches," said I. "Right," agreed McNab. So down to the market we wandered until we arrived at the stall, "Real Siberian Goldfinches," the dealer was shouting—"and guaranteed all cocks, dirt cheap, just listen to their song." Sure enough they were singing for all they were worth. "I am going to buy one, McNab. I don't care what the wife says." McNab grinned but said nothing. "Seed, sir," enquired the dealer. "Yes, please." "What about a cage, sir?" "That's all right," chimed McNab—"I'll lend you one of mine."

Away we marched to McNab's house for the cage, and after putting the Goldie in I felt well pleased with my purchase. It looked A.1 "Won't you come round and have a bit of supper, just to smoothe the way a bit," I asked McNab. "No, Jeames," said Mac. "I don't think I will. But he promised to call and see me soon. So home I went. The "missus" was out shopping. I soon had the cage unpacked, and placed on the table, when in came the wife. "Cold night," said I. "Very, indeed," said she, and added—"but what have you got there?" 'Oh, just a nice wee Goldie.' "Nice or not nice," she replied, tartly. "I don't want it here. I will let him go when you are out." I did not answer.

It Veers to the South!

After a week had passed I noticed the wife was inclined to smile whenever I spoke to the bird. He was getting tame, and settling down in his new home. And, lo, and behold, one day there he was eating hemp seed out of her fingers!

The following week McNab called, and brought a friend with him, who knew all about Goldies. Our bird had been christened "Michael," and, of course, he had to be presented to McNab's friend, who glanced at it for about half a second, and then and there pronounced "Michael" to be a hen. 'But," said I, "hens don't sing." He replied, "Just you wait and see." And sure enough the following summer "Michael" turned out to be a hen.

"Well, wife," said I. "What are we going to do with her?" "Keep her, of course," said she. "And we'll have a real Britisher next time." So a Britisher I bought from a friend. He was very playful and steady, and we both took a great fancy to him, and christened him "Peter."

When out for a walk one Friday evening I stopped to look at a bookstall, and the first thing that caught my eye was a paper called CAGE BIRDS. Now, said I to myself that's the very thing the doctor ordered. "I've got two birds, why shouldn't I have a weekly paper that tells me all about them?" So I bought my first copy, and home I went. The wife was surprised to see me so early, but when I produced CAGE BIRDS that did it. Said she, "What on earth have you got there?" I did not reply but held the paper up in front of her. "Hum!" said she, "I think some one has left you a fortune, and you have started to squander it already." "What about your 'Home Chat' and 'Chit-Chat,' etc.," I retorted: "They cost money, you know, and this only costs 1d."

After settling down I started to read all about the shows that were being held all over the country, and as luck would have it, I noticed there was going to be one in our own district. "Mistress," said I, "there is going to be a grand show at the Horticultural Hall next week, would you like to see it?" "I'll see," she answered, "when the time comes."

What a long week that was! But the time rolled on, and at last we entered the hall. It was a glorious sight. We went through the catalogue, class after class, until we came to the Goldies, and what a beauty the winner was. "They are just like our Peter," said the wife; "I think we ought to show him. "I think I will," I answered. We wandered round to CAGE BIRDS stall, and there I spent a little more of my fortune on the "Nut-shell" booklet on the Goldfinch.

After following the advice given therein, and the various articles published in CAGE BIRDS, our "Peter" secured six awards out of seven shows, which we were both highly delighted with. Now the wife says "every man ought to have a hobby."

The Struggles and Successes of a Hybrid Breeder.

Some Entertaining Reminiscences of An "Old Hand."

By NIMROD.

I STARTED to breed Mules just after I left school, with a hen Canary I had purchased as a cock. The same season I found a nest of Goldfinches and caged them in a pear tree for the old ones to feed, which they did. I kept two of the largest cocks, and the others I exchanged for another hen Canary. The next season I started to make a large double breeding cage for the two pairs. One of the pairs did well and bred me seven Mules, as dark as Sparrows, but I sold them all for 3s. 6d. each when they could feed themselves. The other pair, however, reared none.

Next season I got a large nearly white Canary hen of no particular breed, and paired it with the cock Goldfinch which had not paired with my first hen, intending to give him another trial. After getting two nests of clear eggs, I decided he was no good for breeding, so sold him and bought a cock Canary to mate with the hen. From these I got six good birds, two of which were clears (buffs) and cock and hen. I thought I would pair this couple together to see if I could not produce a clear strain.

I managed to raise two nests of Canaries, but all were marked. I once more mated brother and sister, but did not get the hens I needed to go with the cocks, so I started in this way. I was told that brother and sister would not breed, and if they did the progeny would all be cripples, but I stuck to my object, which was to obtain a clear strain of Canaries. I worked this strain up for nearly ten years, introducing now and then a yellow cock (cocks were easier to get than hens).

In the Early Days.

I had now become a keen fancier, and possessed quite a lot of Canaries and Goldfinches, for I generally got a nest each year, and I started to put the Goldfinches' eggs under the Canaries, in order to get them better used to each other for muling. At the time I was breeding the Canaries I ran over to Norwich and was able to get a good even wing-marked Norwich cock, which I was anxious to mate with one of my largest hens. The wing marks were light, but not exact. I had not at the time seen one with eye-markings. I got several fair birds (I called them good in those days).

I kept on with my strain of in-breeding so as to get the clear birds and even-marked ones. Besides putting up the Canaries, I had each year one or two Goldfinches up with them, but no luck had I as regards a light Mule, although they were a great improvement on my first venture. I saw an old shoemaker and explained that I wanted to get a good lightly marked Mule. He said, "You will be years in doing it," and advised me to try one of his hens, as he had not had a change of blood for several seasons. I did so, and they mated well and bred some good clear birds. I introduced fresh stock, the largest I could get, occasionally, so as to get substance in the offspring, for I now had learnt a good many secrets, as I began to mix with the old Fanciers when picking up an odd bird.

Many times have I been advised to stick to Canaries, and leaves Mules alone, but it was my one great ambition to get a good light or clear Mule, particularly with the Goldfinch. The other Finches then I thought but little of. At a certain large show I saw a good, almost clear, Goldfinch-Canary Mule, which increased my determination to go one better.

Now for the failures, etc. I thought that as I had the hens everything was now to be plain sailing, to produce the hoped-for youngster. Of the Goldfinches I tried, some would breed and others would not, in fact, good ones in this respect have from my experience been few and far between, for I have had as many as six and eight at a time, and all of them either hand-reared or "caged," the latter being much the better. I had great hopes, and watched them well, and saw them pair well. When they were hatched, I was very nervous and most anxious to see the results. One was nearly clear, but so small and weak, and when I looked again it was dead. The others were nearly all dark.

A Desire for Even-Marks.

I plodded on for years to get a clear Mule reared, but have failed to produce a really good one, my ambition being to procure a large four-pointed bird. Although I have failed they have been produced by others, and I much envy the successful breeders if they have managed it without all the trouble I have taken for years. It would be very interesting if those breeders of light and evenly marked Mules would give their experiences, and state if they tried to breed them, or only got them by chance. My own opinion, based on close study and knowledge which I have had to pay dearly for, is that the Goldfinch has not much to do with it. It rests solely with the hen Canary, and my experience is that she must be well in-bred for years. We do hear of the chance clear Mules, but where did the hen come from, and how was she bred?

The Cheveril, Peathroat, and Pear-Tree birds have nothing at all to do with the success attending the production of a light Mule. This fallacy I have exploded again and again, as I have tried with all three birds. Neither will a Pear Tree bird breed better than an Apple Tree bird, and so on. Goldfinches will breed well, I know, but some are very bad breeders, especially the large Siberians, at least it has been so in my case. I like the birds, but not as breeders. If, however, they will breed they are worth sticking to, for they have the size, and when you get Mules from them you can see them.

I have seen it stated several times in CAGE BIRDS that if you get a clear Mule it is a freak. That may be so in some instances, but if the breeders of all the Clears were to state their experiences then it would be the other way about, and we should find that they had been bred by first producing a strain of Sib Hens. To be more explicit, by continually inbreeding the Canaries, so as to get their blood set and poor, so that the offspring would most naturally take after the hen, which would cause them to be more light than dark.

Many a good Mule has been bred by chance, and I am quite aware of this, but many a good one has also been bred in the way I have stated, and will most probably be in the future, if my experience has been of any use to me, which I hope it may be to the young hands. As to getting the "Sib hen," why everyone has them when there is a demand, but only try them, then the sponge is thrown up at once, and the hobby given up in disgust.

Building up One's Own Strain.

I most strongly advise beginners to establish a strain of Sib hens of their own birds; then they know how they are bred. For the first few years you can go quite close, but always choose the largest and clearest birds for this purpose. Look at the matter in a serious way, how have our new breeds been established and made but from sports and these sports inbred until the blood has been well set.

These problems in Mule and Hybrid breeding want deep thought and well working up, and be most seriously studied and not trust to chance. The other way is much the safest, and would end in success, I feel sure.

Of late years I have not had the chance of getting a light Mule, or even of trying for one, as family troubles have prevented me carrying on my experiments in many ways in "Hybridizing." I have tried it in other ways besides birds, more so in plants, and what is good for one is also good for the other.

At the time I had my Sib strain I only tried the Goldfinch Bully, and Chaffinch. The two latter proved the worse males I could choose, but I had to find that out, for never a fertile egg could I get from them after nearly twenty years trying.

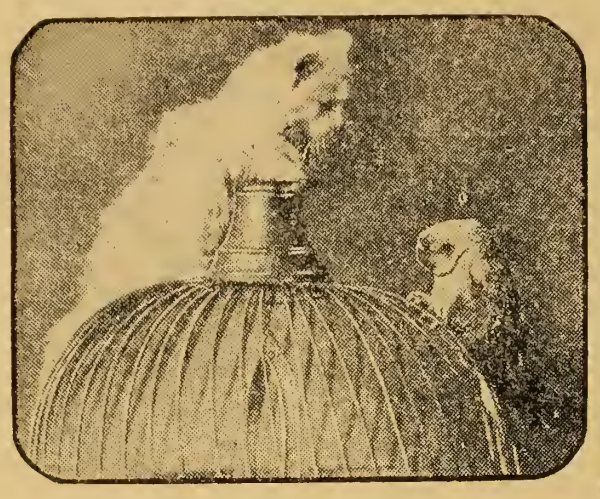
They say that the cock Bully has had young with the Canary in Germany, but I don't think there is any authentic statement or fact recorded. It has also been alleged that they have been bred in England, but I want proofs. I should not like to say that because I have failed everyone else will do the same. Let everyone try it, it may and may not come off. The honours would fall on them.

Why Won't the "Old Hands" Talk?

The Greenfinch I have tried on common hen Canaries, large ones, and got some good large dark Mules, also the Redpoll, but I have only dark ones to record; both these birds will readily cross with the Canary, but you must have the inbred one to get a light Mule. Good Siskin Canaries have been produced in Scotland.

If these notes should stir and fire some of our best breeders I should be thankful, but as a rule they like to sing little and keep in the background. Bonny Scotland has produced some good birds both in Mules and Hybrids, and she will again, for her sons are very persevering Fanciers, and don't take a licking at the first time of asking.

I have also tried the Cock Yellow Hammer with the Canary for several seasons, but considering the difference in the birds as regards food, no wonder that the experiments have ended in failure. I have seen it stated that Yellow-hammers have bred with the Canary, but I shall want more convincing on the matter before I can credit it.



Through a Bird-room Window

This article on the Green Cardinal is No. 31 of the new series of personal birdy experiences related by that eminent aviculturist, the Rev. C. D. FARRAR.

No. 31. My Green Cardinals.

FOR many years I tried to get a true pair of Green Cardinals, but failed. Still, I was always consoled by the remark once made by Benjamin Jowett to a young fellow who through bad health and defective eyesight failed in getting a first in mods: "A man of your abilities must succeed in life, and you must not be disappointed if circumstances make you fail in any particular instance." I thought this was very nice, and just suited to my case. What though I had failed many times! I should one day succeed, and then all my past disappointments would be forgotten in the good present happiness. As my readers know by this time, I am always on the look out, when in London, for some of the many birds I want, and there are times when I find them in the most unlikely places. I never pass by a bird shop, no matter how mean and paltry it may look—one never knows what may be inside. Before now I have found a Turquoisine in a little back room, and a pair of Catbirds near the Elephant and Castle, while the nicest white Jackdaw I ever set eyes on was in Burton Crescent, near St. Pancras Station.

I had long possessed a lovely cock Green Cardinal, though I always thought the name a bit of a misnomer, as he is of a decided "yaller" tinge; but try as I could I never could hear of, much less light upon, a lady. Imagine, therefore, my delight when one morning, as I was taking a short cut through Seven Dials, as it then was; it has a grander name to-day, and, alas, has become respectable, and nearly all the dear, dirty old bird shops are gone, but in those days every other shop was birdy, with cages of rabbits, pet dogs, and mangy cats, displayed outside. I say, imagine my delight when my eyes caught in a corner cage, a silver green bird that I knew in a minute to be a hen Green Cardinal.

"ASKING FOR TROUBLE."

Judging by Polly's attitude Pussy looks likely to soon have cause to repent trespassing on her preserves.

A Weakness of One's Friends.

Perhaps she wasn't all one could have wished in the way of perfection, but wasn't it Professor Jowett who once said that friends always think it necessary (except Boswell, the great genius) to tell lies about their deceased friends? They leave out all their faults, lest the public should exaggerate them. But we want to know their faults—that is positively the most interesting part of them. I am sure it is so in the case of birds. A real bird lover likes to know how a poor, half-starved, bedraggled bird may be bought, and by loving care and attention turned out into a lovely specimen that will reward its owner by building a nest and rearing a healthy brood of young.

Now, as I hope I am like "truthful James" of immortal memory, I will confess at once that my hen was not in the best of trim. She was all right as far as the shoulders, and had a nice bright eye and healthy, alert gait; but she had nothing in the way of flights, and as for her tail it was like a very scrubby paintbrush. But these I knew were merely temporary defects. A few weeks would set them right with good feeding and the use of a good flight. I, therefore, at once entered the shop, and, finding that the price demanded was only eight shilling and sixpence, I made her my own and carried her off in a little German Canary cage.

Too Much of a Good Thing.

On getting her home, my first task was to "feed her up" as the doctors say, and to this end I gave her mealworms without grudging, but I sometimes think you can overdo a thing. A friend of mine assured me he had heard a sermon of Goulbourne, in which he eloquently declared that even the most sumptuous banquet would at last become wearisome—and then added: "Heaven is a feast from which there is no rising up!!" I fancy my hen must have listened to that discourse; for after a time she evidently got a bit tired of mealworms, toujours mealworms, and went in for a course of soft food. She rapidly improved under my fostering care, and at the end of six weeks was in lovely condition.

I kept her in a big flight; and when things seemed ripe, I introduced the gentleman. I believe it was Bacon who said: "Assume an interest if you have it not." He certainly acted on this aphorism, and made himself positively charming to the lady, who, of course, as ladies always do under such circumstances, assumed a look of great coyness. In a few days they were the best of friends, and certainly never tired of each other's company; clearly they had never heard of the schoolboy who wrote with method in his folly "The Greeks started the customs of each man having only one wife, and they called it Monotony!" I am sure my pair never felt the least bit bored with each other.

I asked several of my bird friends where Green Cardinals nested and what the eggs were like. On talking the matter over I had the ignoble satisfaction of learning that they were quite as much in the dark as myself. I don't care how ignorant I am, provided the other fellow doesn't know.

I felt that I was about to enter a world where no one had been before me, and where I should have to learn everything. At the auspicious season, I turned the pair out into a large garden aviary, dense with what we call up here "botteries," but which the enlightened gardener speaks of as elders. In a big elder I fixed up an old Thrush's nest as a treat to my friends. They scorned to take it, and made not the slightest effort to reproduce their kind. They just hopped gaily about from branch to branch as if nest and young were things of no moment, and the weeks were going on.

Preferred to Build for Themselves.

One morning, in disgust, I pulled out the nest, tore it to bits, and threw the pieces about on the floor. I was astonished a few days later to find them rapidly disappearing, and being anxious to discover what had become of them, I went inside; and there, to my exceeding great joy, I found a beautiful new nest made in the fork of the elder, close up against the top netting of the aviary. Far too close, to my liking, for did not a "girt grey cat," sit there daily sunning himself? I felt sure that he would soon discover the nest and the sitting hen, and would make short work of the latter.

An Emergency Roof.

There was only one way of saving the situation; so I went and got a big box cover, nailed a sheet of felt over it to keep out the rain and then wired it securely over the place where the hen would sit. I was rather fearful whether she would face what must have seemed to her a terrible eyesore, but to my joy she did not seem to mind, and went on calmly and completed her building operations. A few mornings later she took to the nest, and then I had great hopes of eggs. How do you think I found out when they arrived? I watched till she came off to feed, then I got a pair of steps, mounted to the roof and looked through a little peep hole I had been careful to make, which looked right down on to the nest, and there, to my great joy, I spied three long eggs, something like those of our common Missel Thrush. I believe that morning I was one of the happiest people on the earth. It very fully reminded me of the solid joys and lasting pleasures which the hymn says—none but Zion's children know.

Wait and See.

The next ten days were, so far as I was concerned, days of masterly inactivity; but on the twelfth day I saw the hen occasionally lifting herself up carefully, and apparently raising up her breast feathers. I knew the sign well; it meant that my ship had come home and that their little Eminencies had arrived. How happy I felt. Some people's way always seems to lie along the primrosiest path.

A few days later, as I listened, careless as man in his first state, I detected the tiny chirrup of the little strangers. I felt that I must see them, come what might. I am naturally bold and impatient, and I felt that in this case I must risk something—or burst. Accordingly, I climbed up on the roof and took a long and loving look, and never did I feel so satisfied, for there immediately below me I saw three of the sweetest little balls of grey fluff as ever did my eyes behold. They lifted their little heads for a moment on their tiny weak necks, and then down they went, as though exhausted by the effort.

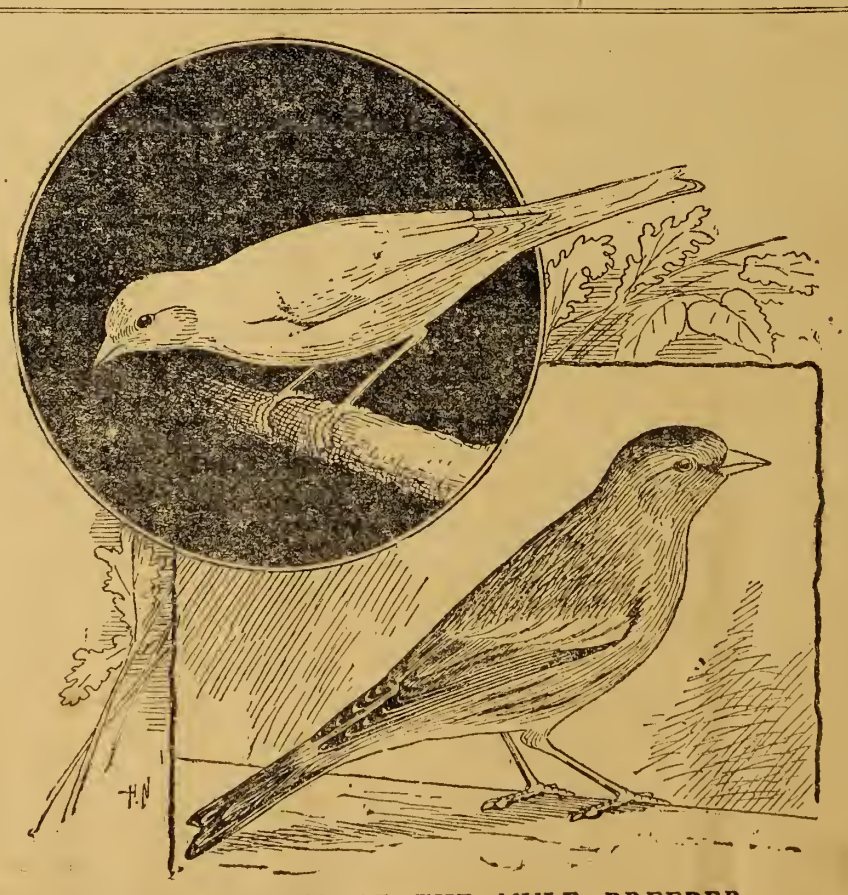
The Necessity of Live-food.



I knew that to rear these youngsters meant no end of live bait; and I saw before me a vista of very dark possibilities, should the stock run out. People may say what they like, but I know I am right when I say that the only sure way of rearing insectivorous birds is to give them a constant supply of gentles or mealworms. If you don't something will happen that will cause your tears to flow. Luckily, I can always get lovely gentles at Leeds, and I always keep a big stock of mealworms on hand. I sometimes see in CAGE BIRDS how to breed mealworms; but the process is too long for me, and life is too short. It is cheaper and more expeditious to buy them.

A Consummation.

Everything went well and happily, and about the twelfth day, when I went to look at the nest, I was horrified to find it empty. At first I feared the worst, my precious little charges were dead, and I looked under the bush expecting to find them blackening corpses. I could find nothing. Then I looked about for the parents. You can aways tell by the behaviour of the elders the fate of the youngsters. My old birds looked sulky and bored, and clearly they wished me far enough away, and by this I knew that the young were alive and hidden somewhere handy.

After a careful and prolonged search I found one sitting as still as death just under the nest, and the other two squatted on the floor with their heads in the air. They were the queerest little things you ever saw, with huge understandings, tiny, quill-like wings and tails like little stumpy paint brushes; but their bright, steady eyes spoke of life and vigour. I discreetly retired, pretending as well as I knew how that I had not seen them; filled up the dish with gentles and mealworms, and left the parents to do the bringing up. I know that they would perform their task all right, if left alone, that the only thing I had to fear was a heavy downpour.

Fortunately, the weather turned out lovely, and not a drop of rain fell for a fortnight; and by that time my babies were nearly as big as their parents, and were able to do a little feeding on their own. All through that anxious time I refrained from looking too curiously; but St. Anthony had no harder task with the ladies he was impolite enough to call demons than I, in resisting the temptation not to take another look at these little birds. I love novelty, and nature has no more intoxicating illusion than that of turning over a new leaf or beginning a new life.

TWO EXTREMES OF THE MULE BREEDER.

The Clear Goldfinch-Canary Hybrid and the Dark.

Justifiable Self-congratulation.

I am not a vain man, but I did feel proud of that achievement, and when one day a friend came to see me, I took him straight out to the birds, and when after a time, when his eyes became accustomed to see, he spied the young Cardinals, and asked what they were, I replied with the simplicity of "we are seven," these are a nest of Green Cardinals, and I am their unworthy breeder. And now I think I will end (I don't want to be burdensome to any) by saying to you what Dean Vaughan once said to the Harrow boy. After a severe administration of the birch, Vaughan was reported to have addressed the birchee in his blandest tones: "Thank you, my dear boy, I won't trouble you any more to day."

Magnificent Display at the Horticultural Hall.

Nearly 2,200 Exhibits on view this week-end: Full special descriptive report.

A feast of good things for bird-lovers. All sections filled with high-class exhibits. Splendid collection of rare and beautiful foreign birds.

THE twenty-fourth annual show of the London Cage Bird Association was held Nov. 28, 29, and 30, in the spacious Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster. This lovely hall is one of the few ideal places which bird-lovers are able to procure for exhibition purposes. It has every feature that one could desire for the housing of a great show—space, warmth and light. So large is it that there can be no crowding of either birds or sightseers under average conditions, while the light at command is simply brilliant, both by day and night. Further, built as it was for horticultural exhibitions, the atmosphere can be maintained at practically any desired temperature.

The scene over-night was one with which many of our readers will be familiar; birds constantly arriving, some brought by hand, the majority by vans and motor lorries. As soon as they passed the barrier they were opened by the large and willing staff of helpers, checked in, and carried straight away to their respective classes. When our representative arrived the evening was young, and the long, baize-covered stands looked bare; but the whole aspect of the place underwent a marvellous transformation, while after they had had a feed and a good drink, many of the high-mettled birds began to "tune up," flooding the place with birdy music. Helpers in the good work were many, and among them we noticed Mr. H. Smith (Wimbledon) and Mr. H. W. Dickinson "checking," while Messrs. Dewhurst, Thynne, Pretty, Easterling, Shepherd, Knight, Wright, Dixon, Boxall, Trower, etc., were busy unpacking, watering and staging the exhibits.

Something to Interest Everybody.

The entries this year are once again well up to the average, we are pleased to be able to record, in spite of the unavoidable clashing with other events. They reach the magnificent total of close upon 2,200. As far as numbers are concerned, the graceful Yorkshires score an easy first, most of the classes being well filled. The Norwich and Borders run each other hard for second place. We are excluding the Roller Canaries from our calculations, for as regards average they put up remarkable figures— 45 per class! In all there were over 200 birds—a grand section. There were two nice classes of Cinnamons, half-a-dozen fair classes of Lizards, and one good class of Whites, with three exhibitors in it. Hybrids were of grand quality, and the British just splendid, the Softbill classes containing most of the rarer birds and nearly all the species that have figured on the show bench within the last few years. The Foreigners provide a feast for the lovers of these gems, some very rare and costly species competing with each other for pride of place. Among them are a Minivet, Red and Black and Blue and Black Tanagers.

On the opening morning the scene had changed, as though the fairies had been at work during the night. The long tiers were crowded with birds; packing cases and boxes cleared away; stalls erected. The aspect of the hall was just what one would expect in a well-arranged big bird show. The light was good and there was every promise of a fine day. Some of the "early bird" judges were at work in good time, and so well is the hall lighted that very little moving of the birds was necessary. Most of the overnight workers were in attendance, while the very able managers, Messrs. W. H. Mugford and F. Knight, had spent many long hours at their duties. In the capable hands of these gentlemen the management was all that one could desire. Mr. Mugford is "old hand" at this business now, and has an apt pupil in his colleague. Everything that care and foresight could do to make the big event a huge success was done, and both looked as bright and chirpy in the morning as the two thousand odd birds they had under their care. The chairman of the committee, Mr. R. L. Crisp, did a giant's work, and was at the show early and late. The committee, consisting of Messrs. J. Dewhurst, J. W. Wright, Boxall, Cook, Marley, Trower, Turner, Shepherd, H. Smith, F. Smith, C. H. Withers, etc., are all good fanciers and well versed in show matters.

Views of our Reviewers.

The Yorkshire section was quite up to the average in point of merit, some grand birds being staged in both Champion and Novice classes. Although the Southern men did well, some of the chief awards went North. Mr. Crawhall, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, did exceptionally well, staging some real gems of fine length and type. Messrs. Ogden Bros. also put down two or three real toppers. Of the Southern men, Messrs. Jones, Crisp and Hawes Bros. staged some of the best, and did fairly well with them, but hardly so good as usual. Another exhibitor who staged birds of wonderful merit was Mr. Binns, of Blackpool, some of his birds standing out for type and quality, and they were put down in the very pink of condition.

Norwich Plainheads made up a capital collection, symmetry, quality, colour, and substance being well in evidence. The team put down by that well-known and highly esteemed fancier, Mr. E. Baker (Cowes) was magnificent, his cl. yell., cl. buff, and cl. buff unflig. being a trio of real gems. Messrs. J. R. Houghton, J. Hodder, and J. Thomas also had on view some very meritorious specimens. In the novice section were many capable of gaining high honours in the "upper circles." Rattling specimens were benched by Messrs. G. Perry, R. G. Porter, G. W. Byne, G. F. Crawford, and J. W. Gillard.

Crests and C.B.'s contained many of the finest specimens living at the present time, such stables as Messrs. Jones and Crest, Greenwood and Burson, T. Gilbert, Dr. Twigg, R. S. Bewick, Evins Bros., and Mrs. E. Litchfield, being represented. In the yell. Crest class, Mr. King had to "wrong class" a couple belonging to Messrs. Jones and Crest and Dr. Twigg respectively, as buffs. Taking the section throughout, we thought it excellent.

Although the Greens were under the patronage of the G.C.A., they did not come up to expectations. Quality was well in front, and a special feature was the hen classes, which were far above anything seen in London before. The spoils were evenly divided. Norwich Greens were quite a set-back—only four yellow hens. This won't do if the variety is to go forward. Type is again well in advance. Border Greens were the pick of the lot, some of the very finest being on view. There was a battle royal between the Northern cracks, each taking a scalp home to Tyneside.

All the Lancashire men were down in force, and a hot time the judge had. Some of the cream of the Fancy were doing battle. The winners are not all in one stable either; it's a lucky man who can claim two firsts now-a-days. We noticed some of the old timers taking a back seat, while some of the younger generation are making great strides.

We regret that we cannot give the awards and scores in the Roller Canary classes, but when our last batch of "copy" left the hall the judging of these birds had not been completed.

Native Birds a great Attraction.

British birds accounted for close upon 350 of the grand total of entries obtained, and the quality generally was of such a high order that there could be but few runaway wins. On the contrary, the winners in many classes were hard pressed, not only by the immediate runners-up but by those at his heels in their turn also. This high level of quality is one of the features of present exhibitions; a very high standard of perfection is required to win in serious competition, as was indeed always the case, but where formerly the outstanding birds were few and far between, we now get classes in which a mere hairbreadth of difference separates the winners from those perforce left out in the cold. It was so in many of the British classes at this fine show. In Linnets, for example, and in Greenfinches, Siskins, Chaffinches, Bullfinches, and Bramblefinches, either of the first four might take premier place with credit, and without injustice; whilst in such a class as the mixed one of Buntings, containing, as it did, 23 first-rate specimens, many birds could not do themselves justice; there were not cards enough for all. Of the few outstanding winners that there were, mention may be made of Mr. P. McQuiston's Twite, the finest we have seen for many a day; Messrs. Pitchford and Stocker's Goldfinch, the easiest of easy winners; whilst Mr. F. Heal's exceedingly fine Linnet also found many admirers.

Extraordinarily Beautiful Section

In the Foreign section at this show one always expects to see some wonderful birds, and many which are making a first appearance, but it is doubtful if any show ever transcended this one in interest. To do bare justice to the many extraordinary and beautiful birds on view would require the whole of the current issue of forty-four pages, and we must content ourselves by advising everyone who can get to the Horticultural Hall this week not to miss the treat which is there set forth. A noticeable feature of the foreign bird section is the increasing number of lady exhibitors, and this seems a very fit happening. Among the ladies exhibiting here are Lady Pilkington, Lady Moor, the Hon. Mrs. Bourke, Mrs. Dolby, Clare, Knobel, Bousfield, Smyth, and Mesdames Tatten, Greene, Thynne, and from the report which follows it will be seen that at least a fair share of the spoils has been appropriated by the fairer sex.

Following are some of the special prize winners:—Best yell. Nor., E. Baker; buff, E. Baker; green, L. F. Harding; challenge cup best unflighted Nor., W. H. Howe; light Hyb., Martin and Archer; dark, Martin and Archer; insectiv. Brit, J. Frostick (Dartford Warbler); Brit. Seedeater, F. Heal; For. Seedeater, L. W. Hawkins (Blue-rumped Parrots); Insectiv., H. D. Astley (Blue Niltava); rarest For., ditto; rarest Hyb., Martin and Archer (Greenfinch-Chaffinch).

The judges were: Messrs. W. Booth (Hyde) Norwich, J. Bailey (Allerton) Yorkshires, T. J. King (Cheltenham) Crests, J. B. Hesling and G. Wareing, Rollers, J. Robson all other Canaries, E. J. Lamb Hybrids, D. A. S. Longden (Swansea) and A. Silver British, and D. Seth-Smith, Foreign.

THE YORKSHIRE CLASSES.

Judge, Mr. J. Bailey.

YORKS., CL., OR TKD. YELL. CK. (22): 1, Binns, wonderful length, grand upstanding spec., wings tightly braced, and nice stiff close tail, shows plenty of daylight, in fine form; 2, Crawhall, another beauty, hardly so hot in col., but grand shape, beautifully moulded and drawn, a real topper in very fine condition; 3, Green, a gem for length and style, hot col., tight as wax, hardly so good in wings, but a Yorkie all over; 4, hc, Hawes Bros., hardly the length of winners, but grand type, perfect wings, very fine position; vhc, Towers; c, Crisp. BUFF (22): 1, Binns, lovely spec., rare length and type, as smooth as glass, and brimming over with quality and condition, perfect, wing and tail, good win; 2, Kearns, neck mkd. spec., of fine length, wonderful position, and type, very neat and prim, hardly the wing car. of winner, still, a beauty; 3, vhc, Crawhall, a bonny bird, hardly the length of winners, but sweetly moulded, grand col., lovely head and shoulders, and well put down; 4, Tweedie, grand col. spec., lovely type, as smooth as possible, dancing with quality and condition, a grand bird, lovely head and wings; hc, Whitaker; c, Hawes Bros. CINN.-MKD. (12): 1, Ogden Bros., lovely four-pointed spec., nice typical Yorkie, beautifully rounded, good head, shoulders, and wings, nicely drawn, in grand condition; 2, Mason, wing and head tkd., of grand length and style, shade better than winner, quite as good condition, must have pressed; 3, Jones, rather heavily mkd. spec., of wonderful size and length, right up on legs, showing plenty of thigh, beautifully drawn; 4, Crisp, lightly mkd. bird, good length, neat racy spec., grand head and wings, good col., in fine condition; vhc, Brown and Son; hc, Tweedie; c, Crawhall. GREEN-MKD. (12): 1, Crisp, cheeks and wing mkd. bird, grand neat spec., beautifully drawn and moulded, very fine shoulders and wings, put down in A1 condition; 2, Jones, fine col. spec., nicely rounded, hardly so slim and racy as winner, but still a grand bird, with a good head; 3, c, Pattrick, well known, fairly heavily mkd. spec., in the best of condition, good head, very fine wings, A1 col. and quality; 4, Atkins, a bonny bird, slim type, good length and shoulders, hardly so tight as winners; vhc, Hawes Bros.; hc, Crawhall. CI. OR TKD. YELL HEN (14): 1, Crisp, beautiful lady, grand length, sweetly moulded, best of heads, good shoulders and wings, a beauty for style and quality; 2, Hawes Bros., neat racy spec., stands well, beautifully drawn, grand wings, neat tail, and put down in the pink of condition; 3, Lloyd, grand bird, very fine length and type, best of heads, well braced wings, nicely drawn, in fine condition; 4, Jefferies, hot col. bird, grand type, nicely rounded, perfect wings and tail, in bonny form; vhc, Mason; hc, Pattrick; c, Fulford. BUFF (19): 1, Ogden, a real gem for length and type, as round as a bottle, perfect wings, tight, boxy feather, shown in an absolutely perfect condition; 2, Brown and Son, another beauty for type, hardly so nicely drawn as winner, but beautifully rounded, grand head, stands on good legs; 3, Rorke, a rare lengthy spec., well filled and moulded, capital head and shoulders, rare wings and tail; 4, Atkins, very fine typical bird, of good length and style, grand head, capital wings; vhc, Crisp; hc, Brown; c, Crawhall. MKD. HEN (10): 1, 3, vhc, Hawes Bros., smart, neat, racy birds, on good legs, good col., nicely rounded, in very fine condition, and well shown, 3, a lovely, nearly clear, wonderful type and style, grand head and shoulders, smooth as glass, in fine condition; 2, Mason, a bonny buff, close up, grand length and type, full of life, yet smooth and tight, a real good one; 4, Ogden, four-pointed yell., good length, nice typical spec., stands well, grand form; hc, Towers; c, Brown.
UNFLIGHTED (25): 1, 2, Binns, perfect, grand position and type, rare length and style, lovely head, beautifully rounded, in very fine condition, 2, grand yell, another beauty, rare type, sweetly modelled, perfect fitting wings, A1 condition, good col.; 3, Crawhall, lovely buff, real gem for type and qual., grand bird, a wash would have improved it; 4, Rev. Miller, cheek and wing mkd., nice size and type, hot col. and qual.; vhc, Atkins; hc, Pattrick. OPEN NOVICE CL. OR TKD. YELL. CK. (18): 1, Miss Walker, rare length and type, grand hot col., good head, shoulders and wings, neat tail, stands well; 2, Willett, another beauty, neat type, hardly so hot in col., shade flat on back, but very racy and full of breed, fine quality; 3, Hall, rare length, nice long wings and tail, neat head, good bit of shoulder, fine fettle; 4, Reeks, smart, upstanding bird, nice type and style, grand shoulders and wings; vhc, Smith; hc, Clarke; c, Kirkham. BUFF (21): 1, Glanville, lovely quality bird, nice length and style, good shoulders, well braced wings, nice quality; 2, Fowle, smart upstanding bird, nice head, neck and shoulders, good length of wing, very tight; 3, Clarke, rare length and style, grand position, nicely moulded, tight as wax, must have pressed; 4, Kent, smart, hot col., good length and type, nicely drawn, grand qual., vhc, Shepherd; hc, Marshall; c, Bush. CINN.-MKD. (7): 1, Bamber, grand upstanding spec. of rare length, good shoulders and wings, neat head, hardly at its best; 2, Cundy, lovely smart buff, smooth as glass, nice type and style, good wings; 3, Kent, hot col., yell., of slim type, good head, nice qual., but beaten wings, good condition; 4, Harney, neat buff, lovely quality, nice head, very smart and racy; vhc, hc, Clarke; c, Carpenter. OUR THANKS.

While we take no little pride in being able to place before our readers to-day a report, complete in practically every detail, of the great Horticultural Hall show, we wish to gratefully acknowledge our indebtedness to the very excellent staff of reporters, comprising Messrs. J. C. Barnes, H. J. Fulljames, J. W. Metcalfe, S. J. Nicholas, H. Norman, and C. Prior, whose skilled and energetic help contributed so largely towards rendering the feat possible. We think we are in all modesty entitled to claim as a "feat" the reporting of a show of such magnitude and the publishing of the report on the same day as the birds were judged—never before, we believe, achieved in the history of the Fancy Press.—EDITOR.

THE BRITISH BIRDS

Judges, Messrs. A. Silver and D. A. S. Longden.

GOLDFINCH (10): 1, Pitchford and Stocker, excellent Finch, large square blaze, very richly and purely coloured all through, grandly tanned, and put down in the pink of condition; 2, Bowler, nice quality, good blaze, splendid buttons, very neat, will improve yet; 3, Williams, larger size, richer colour, hardly so well balanced; 4, Lonsdale, poverty of feather pegs him back, very nice bird in all other respects; vhc, Bignall; hc, Clark; c, Lowe. BULLFINCH (14): 1, McQuiston, extraordinary cap, bright level colour, wearing "trousers" when these notes were taken, grand bird with this exception; 2, Wren, full of quality, lovely back and bars, bright rich and level breast colour, excellent cap, well polished throughout, we liked well; 3, Woods, another grand one, close on heels of 2nd, a trifle more size, but a little less polish is all there is in it; 4, Woods, slimmer in build and weaker in head points, champion col. and bloom; vhc, Francis; hc, Wren; c, Marley. SISKIN (7): 1, Heal, good type and size, nice cap and flank lacing, first class feather and colour, no bib; 2, Casemore, better cap and bib, nice lacing and colour, not so solid in feather, close up; 3, Francis, extra good colour and feather, less distinct in characteristic markings; 4, Miss Bousfield, very nice indeed at all points, might have been higher we thought; vhc, Pope; hc, Lovatt and Mason; c, Marley. LINNET (13): 1, Heal, magnificent type, grand size, and rich bright colour, ideal breast and flank pencillings, lovely head and back, very steady and stylish, leads a good class well; 2, McQuiston, the Scotch type all over, tremendous size, big chest, splendid level colour, solid feather, but almost minus breast marking; 3, Gunnell, very similar type to winner, but trifle less size, nice colour, not so steady, still, a good one; 4, Nicholas, again very heavily pencilled, lovely bright colour, superb condition, just wants little more size; vhc, Tams; hc, c, Marley. TWITE OR MEALY REDPOLL (15): 1, McQuiston, Twite, extraordinary size, most profuse pencilling, both on back and breast, champion colour and condition, easy winner in a very strong class; 2, Heal, Mealy Redpoll, a large one, gets his place on flank markings and condition, rather ugly head; 3, Heal, excellent Twite, in A1 trim, though well beaten by winners; 4, Francis, nicely proportioned and large Mealy Redpoll, roughish in feather, which perhaps kept him down; vhc, Pickles, another good Twite; hc, Pitchford and Stocker, yet another; c, Miss A. Wishaw, Mealy Redpoll. LESSER REDPOLL (12): 1, Nicholas, lovely quality, superb feeing, grand shape, style, a gem all through; 2, McQuiston, bit larger, grand feather, not so bright in colour, although richer; 3, Marley, extra good in size and colour, profusely marked, faulty wing carriage; 4, Heal, gem for bib, colour, and lacing, field-moulted; vhc, Francis; hc, Marley; c, Francis, champion Poll, looking soft. GREENFINCH (17): 1, McMillan, finely modelled bird, grand head, great size, excellent colour, a good one; 2, Marley, rather less size, nice type and colour, grand feather and finish; 3, Lowe, beautiful quality of feather, lovely colour and type, fails condition; 4, Sharp, rather on small side, splendid flights, shows badly; vhc, Francis; hc, Frostick, grand bird, unlucky; c, Pickles. CHAFFINCH (14): 1, Francis, fine size, rich colour, nice head, tight feather, well polished and shown to perfection; 2, Nicholson and Son, nicely contrasted colours, fails little head colour, capital feather and condition; 3, 4, Marley, a brace of first-class Chaffies, close up to winners, we made the 4th an extra good one, but down a bit in condition to-day; vhc, Adams, good one, rather wild; hc, Maxwell; c, Raine. HAWFINCH (4): 1, Francis, largest in class, bold type of bird, splendid bib, and wing bars, good colour and condition; 2, Freeman, again a big one, very large bib, rather pale col., slacker feather; 3, Marley, less weight, much more quality, very rich colour, rather overdone in fact, A1 fettle; 4, Maxwell, good type of bird, apparently feeling the weight of years; moderate class. BRAMBLE (12): 1, McQuiston, grand size and shape, neat hood, well spangled, lovely col. and qual., wins; 2, 3, 4, Marley, grand team, leader good col. and qual., nice size and shape, neatly spangled, 2nd good size and shape, loses trifle col., latter neat shape, good size, and col., trifle inclined to show spectacle on eyes; vhc, Francis; hc, Bewick; c, Hull. BUNTING (23): A wonderful class: 1, McQuiston, well-known Corn Bunting, grand size and shape, lovely col., qual., and markings; 2, Marsley, Cirl Bunting, neat exhibit, good col. and qual., lovely cheek markings; 3, 4, Miss Bousfield, Snow Bunting, grand size, col., and qual., wonderfully steady, 4th Yellowhammer, good size, col., and qual., neat head markings; vhc, Sharpe, Ortolan Bunting, in lovely order; hc, Gilbert; c, Heal. SONG THRUSH (4): 1, Lott, good size and shape, nice col., well spangled, wins; 2, Askew, good col., lovely bloom, loses size; 3, Marley, good size and shape, nice col. and qual., loses spangling; 4, Lott, good size and shape, neat spangling, trifle wild. BLACKBIRD (7): 1, 2, Marley, a pair of beauties, leader wonderful size and col., trifle pale in vent, 2nd not quite subs., but grand depth, col., good beak and cere; 3, no name, trifle smaller, grand col. and qual., neat beak, good cere; 4, Ford, good size, shape, loses col. to leaders; vhc, Bisset; hc, Frostick; c, Lott. STARLING (9): 1, McVay, wonderful size, lovely col. and qual., well spangled, wins; 2, Lean and Son, neat exhibit, lovely qual. and col., well spangled, loses size; 3, Rathgan, good col. and qual., loses size to leaders, beautifully spangled; 4, Andrews Bros., another good one, not quite so neatly spangled as leaders; vhc, Maxwell; hc, Woodcock; c, Lott. NUTHATCH, ETC. (6): 1, Frostick, lovely pair, Bearded Tits, shown to perfection; 2, Miss Smith, pair Blue Tits, in A1 order, a wonder to see them so amiable together; 3,

Morris and Adams, neat Bearded Tit, grand col., in perfect bloom; 4, Miss Smith, pair Bearded Tits, not the polish of leaders; vhc, Miss Smith; hc, Lott. LARK OR PIPIT (12): 1, Baseley, nicely feathered Skylark, very tame, well mkd.; 2, Bishop, good Tree Pipit, excellent feather, nice markings and size, very steady; 3, Fletcher, another Tree Pipit, lovely col. and markings, sunde smarter, well shown; 4, Lott, Shorelark, nicely mkd. specimen, creditably tame; vhc, Addison, excellent Skylark; hc, Lott; c, McVay. WAXWING, ETC. (4): 1, Miss Bousfield, Waxwing topper, wonderful size, col., and qual., in beautiful order; 2, Marley, Missel Thrush, good size and qual., well spangled; 3, Marley, Grey Shrike, well known, in good plumage; 4, Wagg, Ring Ouzel, grand size, lovely col. and qual., in fairness could, must have pressed. NIGHTINGALE OR BLACKCAP (12): 1, Puck, Blackcap, a perfect gem, lovely cap, grand size, in huntless condition; 2, Mortlock, another Blackcap, good order, handy size of leader; 3, Puck, Blackcap, neat cap, nice shape and qual., neatly shown; 4, Carr, Blackcap, loses posish to leaders; vhc, hc, Lund; c, Lady Moor; w.c., No. 1. CHOUGH, ETC. (3): 1, McQuiston, well-known Chough, in perfect order, wins, grand bird; 2, Lawrence, Magpie, lovely exhibit, shown to perfection; 3, Lund, very good Magpie, but loses posish and staging to leader; 4, F. and T. Bowler, Jay, good size, not in the best of order; vhc, Sharples. WAGTAIL (5): 1,-Maxwell, charming Grey, lovely feather, in grand condition, well staged; 2, Hose, nice yellow, very bright colour, steady; 3, Wagg, another yellow, perhaps of even higher show quality, but not quite perfect feather; 4, vhc, Lund. SMALL INSECTIV. (11): 1, Frostick, Dartford Warbler, looks more perfect each time we see it, truly a charming exhibit, tame as a pet dog; 2, Hon. Mrs. Bourke, very nice Dartford Warbler, pretty and in fine condition, but no chance against the winner; 3, Tout, extra good Wheatear, absolutely tip-top condition, lovely frosting, plumage like wax; 4, Wagg, sweet Willow Warbler, seems to be hard lines for such a lovely specimen to take 4th, but no other chance here; vhc, Puck, lovely Whitethroat; hc, Maxwell, Black Redstart; c, Miss Bousfield, Dartford warbler, grand class, all birds in lovely condition. HENS (except Thrush) (15): 1, Hon. Mrs. Bourke, sweetest imaginable Dartford Warbler, many cocks not so beautiful in col., very easy win; 2, Francis, massive Corn Bunting, beautifully marked, seemed a bit down when noted; 3, Miss Smyth, lovely Bearded Reedling; 4, Tout, very charming Gold Crest, a very rare exhibit; vhc, McQuiston, Twite; hc, Davies, Chaffinch; c, Lott, Starling, Whittaker, Bullie. ALBINO, ETC. (4): 1, Martin and Archer, well-known Albino Yellowhammer, most attractive bird, pure Canary yellow colour, pink eyes, very tame; 2, Langlands, pure White Blackbird, in good order; 3, Tupholme, good pied Blackbird, almost pure white head, good condition; 4, Palirey, pied Sparrow, curious bird, in good feather, although unsteady. HAWKS, ETC. (1) 1, Shepherd, fine Kestrel, in perfect feather and quite happy, regaling himself on rump steak; lucky chap! SIBERIAN GOLDF. (6): 1, Adams, good size and shape, wonderful deep square blaze, good bars, tans and buttons; 2, Williams, good size and shape, neat bars, buttons and tans, loses expanse blaze to leader; 3, Crabbe, very neat, good blaze, loses size and col. to leaders; 4, Puck, good size and shape, neat bars and buttons, loses col. blaze to leaders; 6, vhc, Cooper; w.c., No. 3. BULLF.: Cancelled. A.O.S. CONTINENTAL (5): 1, 3, Maxwell, lovely Azure Tit, believed to be the only specimen in England, and a Red-breasted Flycatcher; 2, Ezra, Bee-eater, in very perfect condition. NOVICE GOLD OR BULLF (21): 1, Stevens, Goldie, good rich blaze, neat bars, buttons, and tans, nice size and shape; 2, Hatter, another Goldie, good size and shape, nice blaze, bars, and buttons, not quite quality of feather of leader; 3, Dawson, Bullie, neat cap, bars, nice col. and quality, good type; 4, Walker, Goldie, good size and shape, neat blaze, very rough at throat; vhc, Stevens; hc, May; c, Plummer; abs., 8 and 19; No. 6, soft. LINNET, ETC. (11): 1, Woodcock, excellent Twite, size, colour, and markings all A1; 2, Dawson, capital Linnet, nice condition, trifle open breast; 3, Cooper, first-rate Siskin, nice cap and bib, perfect feather; 4, Walker, real good Linnet, plenty of colour and good lacing, rather unsteady; vhc, Broughton; hc, Miss Trundell; c, Master Cooper. A.O.S. FINCH (13): 1, Miss Whitlaw, nicely feathered and richly coloured Hawfinch; 2, Walker, excellent Yellowhammer, good head and cheek markings, rich colour, perfect feather; 3, Cogman, capital Chaffinch, good colour and feather; 4, Plummer, very good Hawfinch; vhc, Haynes, Corn Bunting; hc, Snow Bunting; c, Dawson, Bramble-finch. INSECTIV. (6): 1, Wade, nicely feathered Nightingale, steady and well staged; 2, Walker, fine Blackbird, dense colour, good eye cere, bill, not quite clear; 3, Hunter, rather small, but sweetly pretty Redstart; 4, Wade, Blackcap, nice cap and colour, rather small; vhc, Hose, Lesser Whitethroat; hc, Rattigan, Blue Tit.

THE FOREIGN BIRDS.

Judge, Mr. D. Seth-Smith.

BUDGERIGARS, ETC. (5): 1, A. Ezra, Abyssinian Love-bird, unique, shining self green of varying depth all over, considerably larger than Love-birds in general, and with no face markings; 2, Maxwell, nice pair Black-cheeked Love-birds when they become steady; 3, Miss Dolby, cock Red-faced, in lovely condition; 4, Edmunds, nice Budgerigars. PARRAKEETS, ETC. (18): 1, Maxwell, Porphyry-crowned Lorikeet whose grst acquaintance we made at Clapham. The only specimen ever exhibited, justly leads a class of wonderful birds. Perfection is the word; 2, 4, Miss Clare, lovely Queen Alexandra Parrakeet, real gem; and a very nice Turquoisine, latter not quite through moult; 3, Fletcher, Barraband Parrakeet in the most perfect plumage, literally shining like plush; vhc, Edmunds, fine Many-coloured; hc, Miss Bousfield, pair Red-rumps; c, Wade, Crimson-wing; an especially notable exhibit was Mr. Astley's pair of Queen Alexandras, in perfect colour, but very "soft." PARROTS, ETC. (8): 1, Hawkins, Blue-rumped Parrots, a beautiful pair we have seen before, but they are still unique on the bench, improved since their first appearance, interesting and beautiful; 2, Maxwell, "Black" Cockatoo, not the all-black, but spotted on the head, and barred with buff on the under surface of the tail feathers, in fine condition; 3, 4, vhc, Raynor, fine team, the veteran hen Meyer's Parrot leading, as beautiful as ever, though she must by now have attained her majority; it is quite fifteen years since her first public appearance; 4th, an Everett's Parrot, fine condition, other an Aubrey's, a first appearance we believe, not quite tight in plumage to-day; hc, Williams, Ducorp's Cockatoo, yet another novelty; c, Kenworthy. WEAVERS (6): 1, 2, 3, 4, Williams, four lovely birds, Cromson-crowned in very perfect plumage, Red-headed, very wild, lucky, we thought, Black-headed, absolutely perfect plumage, and a nice example of the rare Kaffir Weaver. AVADAVATS ETC. (25): 1, 3, vhc, hc, Wable, leaders, lovely pair Green Avadavats, perfect Indian Silverbills, equal in condition and more rare, exquisite pair Cordon Bleus, and pair Golden-breasted Waxbills, a nice lot, indeed; 2, Howe, Golden-breasted Waxbills, lovely pair, plumage absolutely perfect; 4, Dr. Thwaites, nice pair Cordon Bleus, beautifully shown; c, Maxwell. WAXBILLS, ETC. (9): 1, Miss Clare, Violet-eared, marvellous condition, rightly at top of a beautiful class; 2, 4, vhc, Maxwell, pair Violet-eared, lovely pair, but just fall short of the perfection of winner; 4, pair Blue-breasted, rare and beautiful; vhc, nice pair Melbas; 3, Beuty, very perfect Black-faced, marvellous feather, as lovely as rare; hc, Watts, nice pair Black-headed; c, Ezra, beautiful Vinaceous Finches. GRASSFINCHES, ETC. (14): 1, Beaty, Golden-backed Whydah, fine condition, first seen for some years; 2, Row, magnificent pair Fire-tailed Finches, not quite steady, or must have won on beauty; 3, 4, Maxwell, nice Tri-color Parrot Finch, fine condition; 4, Peel's Finch, unique as to purity, tail feathers badly frayed, which alone kept it down; vhc, Miss Bousfield, Black-headed Gouldian; hc, Miss Smyth, Long-tailed Grassfinches; c, Hawkins, Red-headed Gould's. GROSBEAKS, ETC. (14): 1, 3, Ezra, Chilian Siskin and Sepoy Finch, each, we believe, the only one of its kind exhibited, and both perfect in plumage; 2, Hawkins, Rainbow Bunting, in loveliest possible condition; 4, hc, Maxwell, Rainbow Bunting, not nearly the condition of the other, looks a new arrival; vhc, Mrs. Greene, nice pair Black-headed Sisikins; c, Frostick, very good Japanese Hawfinches. TANAGERS (named) (6): 1, Townsend, beautiful Tricolour in the "Townsend condition," nothing could be better, a gem; 2, Frostick, good pair Tricolours, but behind the winner in condition; 3, Mrs. Thynne, another Tricolour, in lovely condition, sprightly as beautiful, close up; 4, Andrews Bros., nice Superb; vhc, Dr. Thwaites. A.O. TANAGER (11): 1, 4, Maxwell, leader another new introduction, Red and Black Tanager. Its name describes it in respect of plumage, shining black and carmine red, but some were inclined to query the Tanager portion of its name, 4th lovely pair Necklace, perfect in every feather; 2, vhc, Lady Pilkington, magnificent Festive, in most lovely sheen, colours beautifully defined and a Black-backed, looking a bit soft at times; 3, Ezra, lovely pair Black-backed, perfect condition; hc, Mrs. Thynne; c, Townsend. SUGAR BIRDS, ETC. (9): 1, Ezra, Amethyst-rumped, truly a living gem, no amethyst could equal it, baffles description; 2, vhc, c, Maxwell, very nice pair Purple Sugar Birds, the cock just a wee bit down in condition to-day, lovely Banana Quit, and an Amethyst-rumped; 3, Townsend, Blue Sugar Bird, marvel for perfection and plumage, delightfully steady and at home in his cage; 4, Hon. Mrs. Bourke, Purple Sugar Bird, shown against a background of Roman hyacinths, a delightful exhibit; hc, Hawkins. PEKIN ROBIN, ETC. (9): 1, Frostick, very perfect hen Shama, sleek, steady, and beautifully shown; 2, Smyth, lovely pair Pekin Robins, perfect plumage, lively, though not at all wild; 3, c, Puck, now well-known Shama, not looking quite in such high condition as usual, and a Dhyal Bird, will do better later; 4, Everett, nice pair Greater Hill Mynahs; vhc, Miss Smyth; hc, Gellan. A.O.S. (10): 1, c, Astley, Blue Nuttava, another of the many unique specimens seen here to-day, perfection of plumage, very lovely exhibit, c, pair of Indian Brown-backed Wrens, yet another first appearance, very interesting indeed, not steady yet; 2, vhc, Hon. Mrs. Bourke, another addition, a Minivet with buff breast, beautiful as rare, and lovely Loo Choo Robin; 3, hc, Ezra, Japanese and Loo Choo Robins, both perfect; 4, Maxwell, Copper-smith Barbet, still the only one out, improving wonderfully in condition. PAIRS FOR FOR. HYB. (4): 1, Row, Fire-tailed cock and Ruficauda hen, very nice indeed; 2, 4, Maxwell, Sydney and Violet-eared Waxbills, and Tricolour and Pretres Tanagers, grand lot; 3, Wade, Russian Goldfinch and hen Rose Finch. FOR. SELL. (10): 1, Howe; 2, hc, Watts; 3, 4, Maxwell; vhc, Davies.

Some of the early hatched Robins are now almost in full song. Young Thrushes, too, are busily recording their music, generally from the branches of some big oak or elm, where, perched at a considerable height, they are out of harm's way, and can give themselves up to the delightful effort of imitating their elders. If we are blessed with a mild winter these songsters will from time to time delight us with their efforts until Spring comes round once more.

SWINDON.

Twenty-fourth annual show held November 27th and 28th in the Swimming Baths. Both entries and quality were well in advance of many previous years. The exhibits were nicely staged round the gallery, and, with a glass roof, the light was splendid. Norwich were good, and the competition keen. Yorks. also made a nice display, the winners being of much merit. Special for best bird in show went to Messrs. Greenwood and Burson, with a magnificent Crest that will take some knocking out in any company, and worth going a long way to see. The exhibits had every attention from a committee of real fanciers. The Hon. Sec., Mr. W. J. Moran, makes an ideal Secretary, having a firm grip on his work, and was most obliging to one and all. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards.

UDDINGSTON.

Held their annual open show in the Royal Hotel Hall, Nov. 23. The hall is well adapted for show purposes, being roomy and well lighted. Hon. Pres. Parish, Councillor R. Thom, Pres. W. P. Campbell, vice-pres. G. Dunlop, and W. Nisbet, Sec. Cosgrove, and Treas. Mr. James Cosgrove. The show was held under distinguished patronage. Sec. Cosgrove, whose duties as secretary were new to him, ably supported by the vice-presidents and a strong committee of fanciers, had all their arrangements made to ensure success. There were 55 open classes, with members' classes, for each section, which brought out an entry of over 500 exhibits, a result which gave the management an agreeable surprise considering the fact of other shows in Glasgow being held on the same date. The British and Foreign classes were grand, some champions were staged. Norwich and Border also came well to the front. Scotch Fancies were a fair average class taken as a whole, and the quality was above the average. Silver cup and gold badge for most points over club show and annual show, confined to present members, was won by Mr. Campbell's yell. var. Nor., a very typical bird; the cup now becomes his own property, he having won it three times. Mr. Joseph Higgins also won special for best bird in the hall, with a yellow pied Scotch Fancy hen, Mr. Campbell being the runner up with his yell. var. Norwich. Spl. for the best vhc over all the classes, this club spl. was also won by Mr. Campbell. Mr. D. Holden, Muirkirk, judged the Scotch Fees. and Bor. sections; Mr. A. Cant, Hamilton, the Norwich and Crests; and Mr. Goodfellow the British and Foreign sections. The awards appeared to give all-round satisfaction. Due to the printer's failure to deliver in the time arranged, no catalogues were on sale, early, and this caused much disappointment to the officials, who, however, were in no wise to blame, but extremely regret the incident and inconvenience caused thereby. Catalogues were on sale at 5 p.m.

PORTSMOUTH F.S.

Twenty-sixth annual show held Nov. 27 and 28 at the Connaught Drill Hall. The birds were staged along one side of the great hall, an airy and well-lighted building. Entries were disappointing in numbers in some of the classes, no doubt owing to the multitude of shows held on the same date, but quality was well to the front, and competition generally keen. The burden of secretarial responsibility sits easily on the shoulders of Mr. W. E. Tyrrell, and his management of the fixture left nothing to be desired. A special word of commendation for the energetic hon. assist. secretary, Mr. B. Coffin, must not be omitted. Full of enthusiasm, courteous, and obliging to a degree, he spared no pains, and least of all himself, in his efforts for the success of the venture, and his services are indeed a valuable asset to the Association. Yeoman assistance was also forthcoming from the popular Chairman, Mr. A. F. G. Foster, Mr. E. J. W. Matthews, Vice-Chairman, and Messrs. Carrier, Lean, A. Coffin, J. Coffin, Hawes, Lavis, Marshall, Squibb, Shott, and Tout, sterling fanciers all. The Canary section provided the winner of £25 Coffin Memorial Challenge Bowl, which valued trophy was won by Messrs. Coffin Bros.' cl. yell. Yorke, a lovely specimen. "No better Yorkshire seen this year" was the verdict of a well-known Yorkshire judge who was present. British were a good lot, the Bullfinches particularly fine and difficult to separate. The judges were: Canaries, Rev. G. W. Joyce; Brit. and For., Mr. C. Prior, and their awards were but little challenged. Close in the wake of the blustering Sou'wester, which raged diabolically all the day before, came that rare and precious treat—a fine day in November, and we trust that fine weather and a fine show together will secure for the Portsmouth fanciers that which they undoubtedly deserve—a fine gate.

Willow Warblers and Figs.

The tiny Willow Warbler appears to have been particularly plentiful this season in the South of England, especially in Sussex, where in the autumn they do considerable damage to the fruit, particularly the garden figs, and these have to be tied up in muslin bags to protect them from the attacks of the Willow Warbler and other birds.

MANUFACTURED IN OUR OWN WORKS.

No matter how generously your table is provided with good things, a seedy looking, badly worn set of of Knives and Forks is a sad let down, whereas a well matched Service of Genuine Sheffield Cutlery in good condition, enormously increases the effect of the table arrangement, and adds a suggestion of refinement and distinction which everyone notices with pleasure.

The Knives in the GRAVES CUTLERY SERVICE are of GENUINE SHEFFIELD STEEL of warranted temper and splendid finish, with IVORETTE HANDLES carefully matched in faithful reproduction of the choicest AFRICAN IVORY.

The Spoons and Forks are manufactured from COLUMBIAN SILVER, which is a hard white metal bearing a superfine polish indistinguishable from Sterling Silver; it retains its lovely virgin white appearance under all conditions of wear, AND IS AN ORNAMENT TO ANY TABLE IN THE LAND. When unpacked and examined, if you are not completely satisfied and delighted, you are to return the parcel, leaving us to pay the carriage, and we will immediately refund in full the money paid.

THREE BRITISH BEAUTIES.

THE JAY.

THE CORNISH CHOUGH.

THE MAGPIE.

Three British Beauties

By JOHN FROSTICK (Balham).

An excellent article written by a well-known expert and judge around the lovely coloured plate by Mr. Goodchild which accompanies this issue.

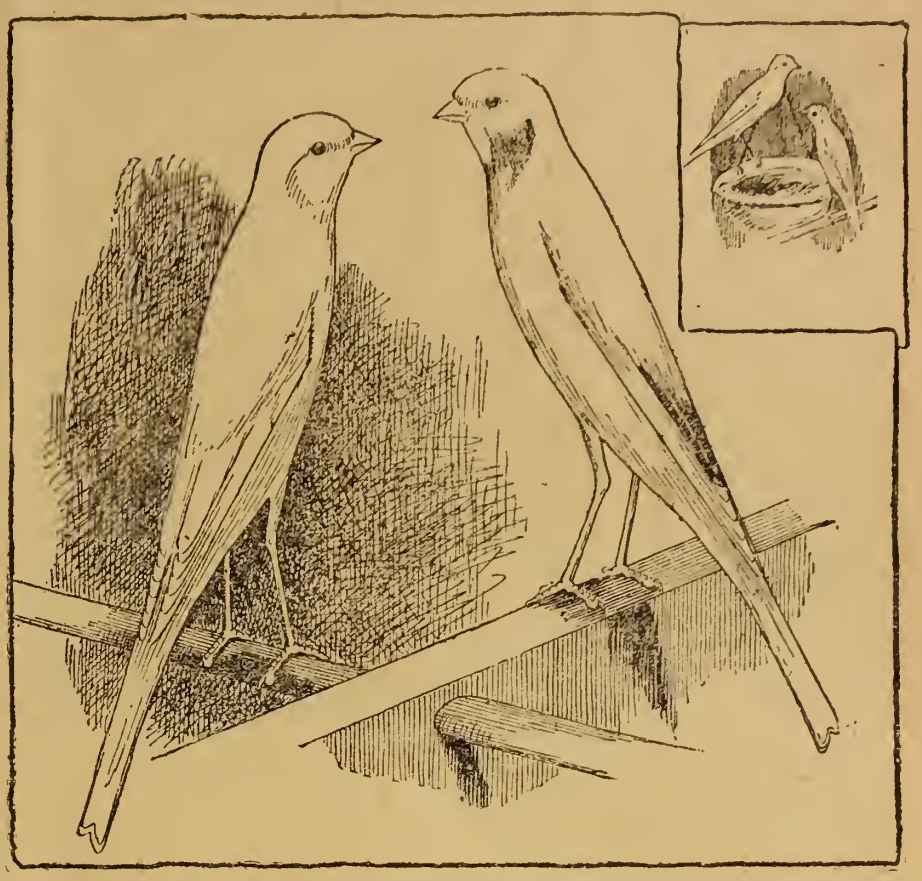
AS I gaze with admiration at the really magnificent coloured plate presented to readers to-day I fancy I can hear some good British bird enthusiast exclaim with delight, "Champion!" and with good reason, for surely in all the history of birdy literature never has there been a more realistic, live, and beautiful work of art given away to the subscribers of any periodical, and I feel it my duty to express my appreciation of such enterprise, and my congratulations to the talented artist, Mr. Goodchild, on his efforts to portray birds as they are in nature.

What a glorious trio! And how they will make many a "fancier" long to possess living examples which shall be and look as beautiful as they. Try and count up the cups, medals, and prizes that would fall to your lot with three such lovely specimens. One almost expects to see Jack, Mag, and Joey speak and hop on to the table for a meal-work or other dainty.

ONE OF OUR FAMOUS JUDGES.

Mr. J. F. Dewar, of Edinburgh, has a high reputation all over the United Kingdom as a capable all-round judge, and his services are regularly in request at certain Continental fixtures.

The Crow Family (Corvidæ) to which the Chough, Jay, and Magpie, belong, and of which they are the most beautiful members, are par excellence, ideal cage birds, of a highly intelligent, knowing, inquisitive, and amusing nature; they quickly learn to imitate the human speech, and become so tame that they generally are looked upon in a very short as "one of the family," and even a cage is unnecessary. As aviary birds they are most attractive, kept with others of similar size and disposition, but it is as cage pets, pure and simple, that the bird lover finds out their characteristics, their good points, and their weaknesses. Lonely man—or woman—need never want for an entertaining companion if he or she possess either one of these birds.



As an exhibitor of British birds, I long ago made up my mind to add the Cornish Chough to the list of birds I had kept—but it was not an easy matter, Choughs are unfortunately not common birds, although at one time plentiful around various of our coasts, particularly Cornwall and Devonshire; now the species is rare everywhere. Thanks chiefly to the egg collector, its total extermination would soon be an accomplished fact were it not for the habit it has of building its nest on almost inaccessible cliffs close to the sea shore, where it finds the chief portion of its food, consisting mostly of insects, worms, etc.

A Chough Provides Poor Childrens' Feast.

Twenty years ago the name of Clayton seemed almost synonymous with Chough, for a gentleman of that name was the owner of the "one and only" specimen then on exhibition, and in consequence, the firsts and specials that bird brought to its fortunate possessor must have been wonderful. Though I have never exhibited a Chough myself, I have owned many that have become famous on the show bench, notably one which I supplied to my friend, Mr. H. J. Fulljames fifteen years ago. This particular bird had a most famous career, winning all before it at the Palace, and elsewhere, and at the dispersal of Mr. Fulljames's fine collection this superb specimen, the finest that ever graced the show bench, before or since, passed into the hands of the late Mr. W. T. Plumbridge. It continued its successful prize winning under the care of our deceased friend to good purpose, the whole of its winnings going to provide a Christmas feast for the poor little children of Bromley, in Kent. What a splendid example! I hope it may be followed by other lucky exhibitors of to-day.

With Mr. Goodchild's beautiful picture before us it seems superfluous to describe the colours and shape of the Cornish Chough (Pyrrhocorax graculus); suffice it therefore to say that its general colour of black is made extremely beautiful with a brilliant sheen of purple and blue which shines like satin. Its long, slender, curved orange-red beak, and its legs of a similar colour form a striking and pleasing contrast.

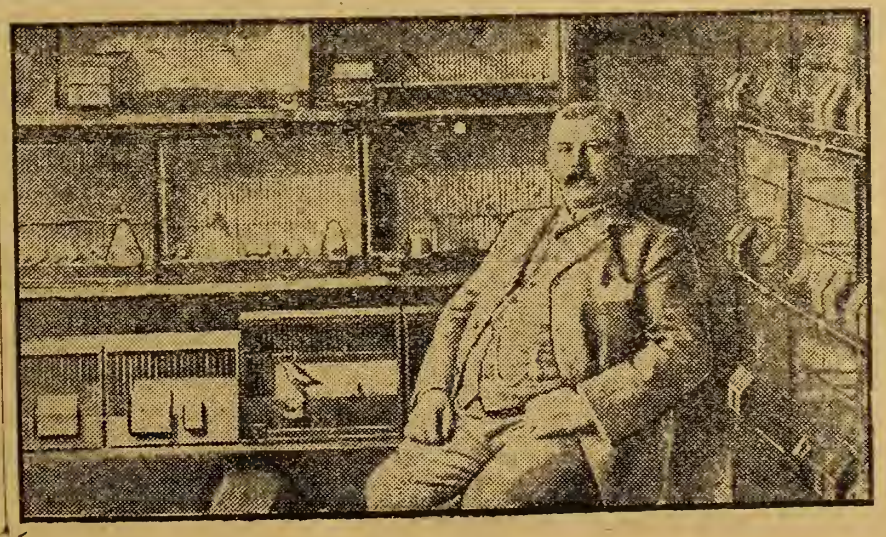
In a state of freedom their long, slender beaks are no doubt intended for searching the nooks and crannies of the cliffs where they abide for their food; when caged the natural occupation for their beak is gone and the consequence is that it frequently overgrows and crosses at the point. When this occurs it must be carefully cut and trimmed to a proper shape with a sharp pair of scissors, care being taken not to cut into the "quick." To prevent its occurrence again a hard piece of virgin cork attached to the back of the cage will provide a natural means for the bird to grind its beak and keep it order.

ACHIEVING FAME AT AN EARLY AGE.

Two Yorkshires, bred 1912, which won First prizes at Clapham Show, the opening fixture of the South-country season. The Clear Buff is the property of Mr. F. Boyes (Southampton); the Cinnamon-marked of Mr. E. Johnson (Deal).

The ordinary every day stock cage should be as large as possible—at least 4ft. x 2ft. x 2ft., and provided with three stout perches. The food and water vessels should be of large size and firmly secured to the inside of the bottom rail, opening to the outside on doors made for the purpose; a stout zinc drawer bottom should be provided and always kept covered with coarse pitch-pine saw-dust or sea-sand. The food supplied should be a good insectivorous mixture, made crumbly moist with grated raw carrot; a hard-boiled egg, chopped fine may be given occasionally, as also a little shredded raw lean beef. Mealworms, cockroaches, or other insects should be liberally supplied. Treated in this manner the Chough is by no means difficult to keep, and will live to a ripe old age.

Where Colour Food is not Needed.



I was much amused once to read a report of a show in a club journal that Mr. Maxwell's well-known Chough, although a beautiful bird was "spoiled by being colour-fed." On my pointing out the error the reporter corrected the statement. This bird had never tasted a grain of colour-food, which is totally unnecessary, the brilliant red of its beak and legs being merely an indication of good health and high condition.

For show purposes we require a cage which shall be just big enough to display the bird to the best advantage, but not an inch larger. I give herewith a sketch of an up-to-date pattern which will be found to give every satisfaction, it has only one perch placed low down on the bottom rail, as the bird shows to better advantage with plenty of head room. The cage is, of course, box-shape, open only in front. The wires being wide apart, they must be of stout gauge with a bowed top. The whole must be as lightly made as possible but strong enough to stand rough handling, which it is sure to get in transit from one show to another. The inside and wires should be painted with three coats of Aspinall's No. 2 sky blue enamel, the outside stained black and French polished.

In spite of the ruthless persecution of the gamekeeper, our other two friends, the Magpie (Pica rustica) and the Jay (Garrulus glandarius) are as common to-day as the Chough is rare. Long may it remain so, for neither are one whit less beautiful than their more aristocratic cousin, and, furthermore, their abundance places them within reach of the humblest bird lover. All who are in want of a lovely feathered pet with every good quality to commend it may be recommended to keep one of these charming birds, so well known and so splendidly portrayed that it is quite needless to describe their plumage. Another point which is an advantage is that they are omnivorous in their appetite; of these birds it may be said, in the broadest sense of the word, that they will eat anything it is possible to obtain or vanquish; nothing, from a mouse to the smallest insect, escapes their voracity. During the autumn they often subsist for weeks together upon acorns and various kinds of nuts. The eggs and young of other wild birds, and occasionally the chicks of game go to swell their larder.

With this knowledge of their natural food it is easy to cater for them in captivity, nothing comes amiss from our own dinner table, while as a stable diet game or chicken meal mixed with a small proportion of Brand's meat meal, the whole made moist with boiling water makes a capital food. The stock cage advised for the Chough will do equally well for either of these, but the show cage will require to be rather larger for the Magpie owing to its long tail—30in. long x 15in. wide, will be a better length and width, while two perches on the middle rail will suit this bird better. The Chough show cage will do for the Jay, with the simple addition of two perches on the middle rail instead of one.

Whilst pages might easily be filled with anecdotes of these birds did space and time permit, I will in the present instance forbear, merely adding that it will be of special interest to London readers to know that wild Jays live and breed annually within half a mile of my home, surrounded, all unconcerned, with electric tramway cars and railway trains. The object of this article is more to induce amateurs to keep these birds, and the instructions given are at least practical and the result of long experience.

GLASGOW AND WEST OF SCOTLAND.

23rd annual show held November 16th. A splendid classification was given by the Society, and the members responded by a very fine entry, especially so in Nor. Many exceptional birds of this type were staged, and the competition was exceedingly keen. About 500 birds of all varieties were staged, and the judges had no mean task ere their labours terminated. Messrs. W. Watson (Kilmarnock), Nor.; R. Heggie (Glasgow), Yorks, Bord., and A.O.V.; R. Gilmour (Kirkcaldy), Mules, British, and Foreign, officiated, and their awards were well received.

ABERDEEN (Bon-accord.)

Annual show, held Nov. 16, in the Ball-room of the Music Hall Buildings, Aberdeen. The show was a great success, a good entry being forward from some of the leading fanciers in Scotland. The birds were beautifully arranged up and down the hall, and at a nice height. The judges were Mr. Alex. Duffus (Fintray), Norwich, and Mr. Wm. Allison (Aberdeen), Borders, British, etc., and their awards gave general satisfaction. Challenge cup for best bird in show went to Mr. Geo. Mitchell (Brechin) with a lovely clear young yellow cock of rare size and colour. Cup for best young hen was won by Mr. James Kerr (Aberdeen) with a sweet buff bird of good size and type. Border Cup for best bird was won by Mr. John Craig (Brechin) for the third time, and now becomes his own property. Special for most points in Cinnamon classes was gained by the President, Mr. Wm. Rae, while the challenge cup for best British bird in show was won by Mr. R. J. Robertson with a very fine Redstart of grand colour and markings, and staged to perfection, the runner-up being Messrs. Ewen and Anderson with a good Chough. The arrangements were admirably carried out by Mr. Wm. Rae, President, and Mr. Alex. Thomson, secretary and treas., and a hard-working committee consisting of Messrs. Mackercher, Forsyth, Allison, Davidson, Henderson, Craighead, Ewen, Steven, Anderson, Reid, Will, Cummings.

KING'S LYNN.

Annual show held Nov. 16 in the Blackfriars Hall. The entries created a record for the club, being 270 (50 in excess of previous annual show). Mr. R. Edmunds won club's points challenge cup outright, this being his third successive win, with a total of 146 points. This fancier also won challenge cup given by Holcombe Ingleby, Esq., M.P., for best bird in show; same bird also won Ramsden's medal for hottest fed. In addition, he was also very fortunate in winning challenge cup for best unflighted in classes 1 to 13 with a nice quality ticked yellow hen. The British classes contained some very fine specimens. Mr. A. Harrod was successful in obtaining the points cup for these classes. The Goldfinch exhibited by him was one of the finest seen. Mr. R. Harrod exhibited a lovely Bullfinch in the pink of condition, and a large nut brown Linnet with good pencil marking; was staged by Mr. H. J. Cole. Mr. R. J. Mackley, of Norwich, judged, and his awards were as follows:—

EDINBURGH NORWICH

Thirteenth annual show held Nov. 16 in Buccleuch Parish Church Halls. The entries numbered about 400, a considerable decrease from last year, the greatest falling off being in the British Section. The Norwich Section was also a shade down in numbers, and the quality, we think, was not up to the standard of former exhibitions, although several of the classes were headed by birds of great merit. The cup winning yellow hen, belonging to Mr. James Smeaton, was in every respect a model of what a Norwich should be, having plenty of size and substance, and staged to perfection. Borders were a more level lot, a few of the winners repeating their performances of the previous week at Leith. Mr. Dods again carried off premier honours, securing cup and H.F.C.C. medal with an uneven marked buff cock, a true Border all over. In the Mule Section Mr. Finnie was awarded cup for best with his Goldie-Greenie, which was looking even better than the previous week. The hall is an ideal place for such a purpose, being well lighted and free from draughts. The society is blessed with a hard-working set of officials, and Mr. John Welsh, the secretary, had everything well in hand. Judges were:—For Norwich, Mr. W. Grewar (Lochgelly); Borders, Mr. Dan Hamilton (Hamilton); Mules and British, Mr. J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh), and their awards gave every satisfaction. The prizes were presented to the successful winners at the close of the show by the President (Mr. James Cooper). The committee were Messrs. J. Holmes, J. Stormont, W. Watson, and W. R. Finnie.

WEST MALLING AND DIST. F.S.

Eighth annual show held Nov. 19th and 20th, in the Hollics Malt House, a large and well-fitted building. The display was an excellent one. Quality was conspicuous and competition keen. The hon. secs., Messrs. W. T. Robinson, J. Mitchell, and R. Marten, made excellent arrangements, and were well supported by an energetic body of committeemen. Jas. Brenuan, Esq., is the president, and the society is supported by an influential body of vice-presidents. A large number of the inhabitants visited the show, which proved a great success. Challenge cup for best bird in the show was won by Mr. F. K. Gooding with a really nice yellow Norwich; medal for the 2nd best bird was taken by Mr. E. Jenner with a really fine Russian Bullfinch; and Hyde's special fell to Mr. A. V. Lynn, also for a yellow Norwich. In addition, there was a long list of specials spread over the various classes. Mr. Geo. Gardner made the awards.

NOR., A.C., COL.-FED (10): 1, sp, 2, Gooding, with two bonny buffs, the leader best in body, nice head, undercolour and qual.; 3, Hyde's sp, c, Lynn, a good qual. yell., not quite so rich in col.; res, vhc, Holdstock. BLYTH.

Sixth Annual Show held Nov. 9, in the St. John's Mission Hall, quite a suitable building for the occasion. Entries were better than ever, and quality everything that could be expected, especially the Border section, the best we have seen at Blyth, and evidently the wee things have caught on here too. Since last year the Society has had to find a new Secretary, the late and able one, Mr. Rowell, having entered the bonds of matrimony had to relinquish his post. Fortunately the Society has succeeded in securing in Mr. Marshall one quite capable of carrying out the duties; always obliging and a taking style throughout. In the Show during the day we came across quite a host of visitors, well known fanciers. They were having a grand gate when we left. Unfortunately one of the judges, Mr. J. Stanger, Pelton Fell, could not attend, and Mr. A. Hay, Berwick, had to take the lot—35 classes and over 300 entries—quite a stiff day along with specials.

RUNCORN.

Annual show held November 16, in a well lighted schoolroom, when nearly 120 birds turned up. Yorks all through were of very high merit, and the amateur and novices exhibited many quite equal to the champions. Norwich were also very good for type and colour. There were also a few nice Linnets and Mules on view. The novice Norwich were very good all through. It was a members' show of high quality. Mr. Chas. Houlton judged and gave every satisfaction.

"Cage Bird Hybrids."

By CHARLES HOULTON.

Edited by G. E. WESTON.

A glorious work on a fascinating subject. Charles Houlton has had a lifetime's successful experience in Mule and Hybrid Breeding, and the information he gives is priceless to those who wish success.

Two Chapters on Cages, Aviaries, Nests and Nesting Material.
One Chapter on Foods.
One Chapter on Selection of Stock.
One Chapter on Light Mule Breeding.
One Chapter on Dark Mule Breeding.
One Chapter on Hybrid Breeding.
One Chapter on each of the Mules and Hybrids already obtained, treating each in detail, and showing how they are to be obtained.
One Chapter on Hybrids yet to be produced.
One Chapter on the Standard Points of Exhibition Hybrids.
One Chapter on Feeding and Moulting of Hybrids.
Also Chapters on Washing the Birds for Exhibition, Exhibiting, and four Grand Appendices.

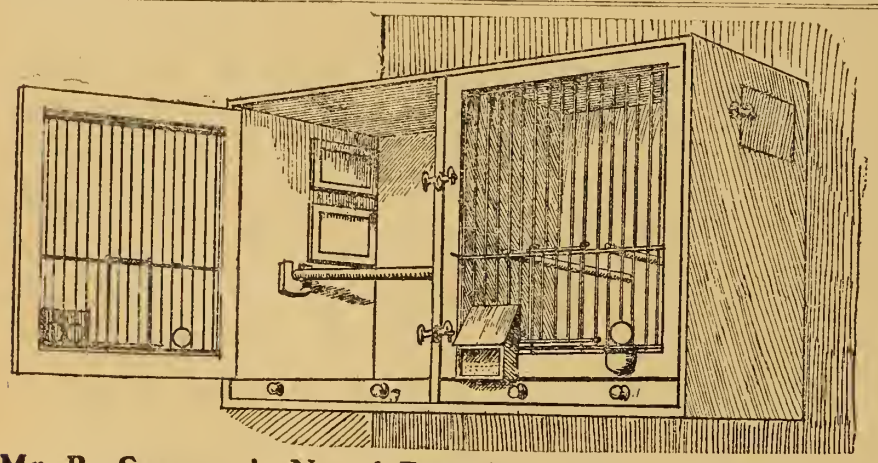
Correspondence.

To Save Time in the Morning.

Sir,—Many bird men, like myself, have to go to work early in the morning. These very cold, dark mornings which we are having at present encourage the bird fancier to have an extra half-hour or so in bed, hence the birds may not be looked after as they should be, so why not do as I do? When I come home from work at night, I spend my evenings in cleaning and feeding, and attending to my family of about 100 birds, so they are all right in the morning for food, etc.

H. Moore.

Should We Make More Use of the Hen Britisher?



Sir,—I am glad to see that my previous letter under the above title has brought forth a reply from Mr. Rawson, who has tried the hen Britisher for Hybrid breeding with some success. I hope Hybrid breeders will give her a good trial another year. In fact, now is the time to be on the look out for good large hens, as the catching is in full swing. Fanciers have a chance to pick up some good young birds, and get them used to cage life. I advise future "triers" to select young birds of the species they intend to use, and to go in for several of each kind, as some may die, or prove unsuitable for cage life. In my time I have had birds you could not tame at all, try how you might. Nothing would steady them, and after weeks of patience I have had to give them their freedom. If I find that they will not "come to hand" I don't bother with them, but free them and try others. When you get them from the catchers, it is best, at least I have proved it so, to give them plenty of room; put them in a large cage all together for a time, as they help one another to take to the seed. Always be sure and put both food and water inside the cages, and give them as many wild seeds and their natural food as you can. Some six years ago now, when many young men were netting about here, after seeing my mating stock, the craze set in, and many started to try their hands. I advised them to use the hen Greenfinch for a start, as I have always found this bird to be one of the best to take to nesting in a cage. But nearly all kinds of hen Britishers can at this season of the year be bought for only a few pence, and there are still some good crosses to be got which would well repay the breeder for trying. For young Goldfinches all the seeds should be soaked until they are able to crack them. I find that thistle seeds and corn flower seeds are both really good for all Greypates, particularly the late hatched ones. I have saved many a bird by these seeds until I could get them well on to hard seeds.

One of the Old Brigade.

A Failure at Linnet Catching Explained.

Sir,—I am in sympathy with "Old Subscriber" over his failure to lure the Linnets within reach of his nets, as I have had similar experience on several occasions, although, like "Old Subsriber," I can set the nets thoroughly well. It is not in the latter point the catching of scared birds lies, and I am convinced that the Linnets alluded to by your correspondent must have been scared. "Old Subscriber" had altogether too many call birds. One good one is quite sufficient together with one brace bird; and more will act as a deterrent, and render his nets far too conspicuous. "Old Subscriber" is quite right in setting in midfield, but does he place his nets in such a position so as to be secreted in the ditch or fence himself? These birds are very perspicacious, and will detect the slightest irregularity and fly from the sight of any unceremonious visitor. Regarding the using of bait, I scarcely ever resort to this practice, as it is not essential when you set your nets where the birds are feeding. Another point which requires careful attention is the working of the brace bird. When the Linnets come in view, raise the latter and be sure he or she is on the stick; when the birds are within a few yards of the nets, let the line suddenly slack; this will cause the bird to descend with open wings and appear as if alighting spontaneously. The above few hints may be of service, as I am writing from experience, and like your correspondent, I have never caught birds for a pecuniary motive.

A Reader's Novel Breeding Cage for 1913.

Sir,—The enclosed sketch shows you my ideal double breeding cage, for 1913 use. It is so made that the front of each compartment opens entirely "on its own" by just lifting the catches on the partition. This enables the breeder to clean and get ready one compartment if the hen happens to be nesting in the other. I find it comes in very handy if both hens do not nest at the same time. My perches fit into slots at the side of the cage, so that they can easily be removed and cleaned. I use the ordinary seed hoppers and white china water-pots, which I think very sanitary. I hope that readers of Cage Birds will think my idea is an improvement on the single-fronted double breeding cage.

Singing Birds Banned at Sea.

Sir,—I understand that the crew of passenger vessels are not now allowed to bring pet birds on board. This is because the trade between the stewards and the passengers was an infringement of the rules that forbid trading by servants on ocean liners, and it had assumed somewhat formidable proportions, and was in direct competition with retailers on shore. At the present time no member of the crew of a passenger vessel is allowed to bring even one bird on board without direct permission from the head of the section to which he belongs. On some of the Cape liners, passengers homeward bound after twenty years' exile, with more or less shaky nerves, often objected to the singing of the birds, and this also no doubt actuated this special line to follow in the footsteps of other passenger companies. Besides the crew, the passengers also, in many liners, come under the ban. Steerage passengers, and in some case second cabin passengers, are prohibited from bringing singing birds on board. The residents in the saloon are not dictated to quite so forcibly, but they are charged high rate; in the case of one service, £5 for the passage of a "singing bird." The qualification, "singing bird," has before this led to difference of opinion between the passengers and the company's officials. Is a Parrot a singing bird? passengers have been known to enquire. The natives of Madeira, the majority of whom live by selling goods to the passing steamers, are hard hit by this new rule. Passengers from the Cape often purchased birds from the stewards in small cages and bought larger and more comfortable houses for their pets at Madeira. The making of the special wicker cages, for which Madeira is noted, was at one time in the hands of one family who employed a number of assistants. Of late, however, the trade has been cut up, and many small shopkeepers make their own cages. The natives will have to fall back on the other specialties they manufacture, such as wicker chairs, work-boxes, etc., to make up the loss.

The Capture of Birds Wearing Marking Rings.

Sir,—I am sending you another ring which I took from the leg of a Blue Tit to-day, Nov. 22, caught in a "Cert" mouse-trap. It is a Witherby ring, number B.747. Some weeks ago I sent you a ring which I took from the leg of a Starling, and thought to have heard something further about it, but up to the present have seen nothing.

R. M. Presland.

(We have brought these occurrences to the notice of Messrs. Witherby.—Editor.)

Sir,—It may interest some of your readers to know that the Song Thrush found at Bridgewater, in Somersetshire, and reported in your paper on November 9th, was marked as a nestling at Saltern's Hill Farm, a few miles from this village (Beaulieu) on April 12 of this year.

—— Philip Gosse.

Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. Dyment, will be interested to hear that the ringed Thrush he reported from Bridgewater was marked in the nest at Beaulieu, Hampshire, on 12th April, 1912. Mr. McGillivray's Greenfinch was marked at Kelty on 19th May, also as a nestling. Our best thanks to both gentlemen.

The Sportive Sparrow.

A Credit to his Tribe.

Sir,—A rather startling piece of information reached me as I entered my back garden on Sunday forenoon just recently. "Oh, father, we've caught a bird. It's in the greenhouse." The bearer of the news was my overjoyed son, aged nine years, who long ago despaired of ever being able to catch a real live bird. The riddle, the four bricks, had all in their turn failed him. But success evidently came at last! It appeared that a bird (a really beautiful bird, and such a big one, so I was told at the time) in search of food had ventured too far into the greenhouse, and was trapped by my son closing the outer door. Acting upon the advice of his equally interested and excited mother, he had refrained from attempting to lay hands on the bird—father would soon catch it when he came home.

Now, gentle reader, may I enquire whether you have ever tried to catch a wild bird at liberty in an amateur's greenhouse (I use the term amateur in this connection to indicate the enthusiastically overstocked greenhouse)? I have——and the contest lasted full thirty minutes! Ever since that memorable day I have sustained the warmest admiration for the common or garden Sparrow. For indomitable pluck, craftiness, speed, and stamina it wants some beating.

The way that bird had me dancing round that greenhouse was a sight for the neighbours! Over the staging, under the staging, along the shelves, in every corner— he did hustle around. Several times I concluded that the poor little creature was dead behind some flower pot or other. Dead, eh! not likely. Crash he would go against the roof, and then out of sight again for a few seconds. Catch him I would, I vowed, even at the cost of a hundred flower-pots. I should imagine that Mr. Sparrow was tiring somewhat—(I know I was)—for finally he hopped in between a small pot inside a large one. Captured! He was undoubtedly a horny cock bird. Holding him loosely, though securely in my hand, he frequently nipped my flesh with his strong beak. Smoothing his feathers and otherwise removing the stains of battle (whitewash and cobwebs) I proudly carried him indoors. He was soon inside a spare cage; and supplied with food—a stranger in my Canary bird-room. His newly-found companions were singing lustily, and he seemed nothing daunted.

Returning in about an hour's time I found him flying furiously from side to side, and causing considerable excitement amongst my stock. The situation was rather serious. To get rid of the Sparrow as quickly as possible was my next concern. To catch the bird again was out of the question, as I had neither the time nor the inclination. So I pushed up the sky-light and removed the safety netting. But instead of the Sparrow flying bang through, as he had repeatedly attempted to do before it was opened, he took a sudden liking for a lot of boxes, etc., piled up on the floor at the far end of the room where the roof was too low for me to stand upright. In and about these packages he sported himself like a squirrel. I let him sport. The sky-light being open I had to attend to my Canaries very carefully, lest any should slip through the cage door and vanish into the outer world. What a fool I had been to bother with the Sparrow at all. Some of my birds would be catching cold! I searched in vain for the little nuisance. At last there was a flutter, and behold him perched boldly on the ledge of the sky-light framing. Glancing down into the room he gave a joyful "chink," "chink," and away he flew. And if ever a bird deserved its liberty it was that plucky little warrior. Whether I shall be able to distinguish him among the ruck of Sparrows which regularly breakfast in my garden, I don't know. Anyway he was a credit to his tribe.

Bird-keepers and Cruelty to Birds.

Sir,—If some people had their way there would not be a bird kept in a cage in this country. Even if there are some men who don't do the right thing by their birds, that's no reason why we should be attacked as we have been. Women are the greatest torturers of birds on this earth, because they clamour for feathers to adorn their hats and heads, and these feathers can only be obtained by severely punishing the birds. Every Egret plume worn by woman means not only the death of the bird, but the death of her little ones, so says Mr. Buckland, who is exposing these atrocities. I know that 99 bird men out of every hundred are splendid specimens of humanity, who, rather than punish their birds, would go without the necessaries of life themselves. I love my birds, and they help me along the rugged path of life. They are fed and watered every day before I touch food myself; being a pit-sinker, I often come home very tired, but it's "birds first," and I am glad to know there are thousands of others who pay the same attention to their pets. If women like Mrs. Lemon will only pause and think, they will see that womankind by wearing feathers and skins are the greatest torturers of birds and animals.

Unprolificacy in Canaries.

Sir, I have read Mr. Steel's articles in CAGE BIRDS on the above subject with great interest. Might I ask if he would be kind enough to give his views of the cause of so many unfertile eggs from cock Canaries and hen Bullfinch pairings? I am sure his views would be much appreciated by many of your numerous readers besides

The Forthcoming Coaltown of Wemyss Show.

Sir,—If the gentleman who wrote to Mr. Clelland, hon. sec. of Coaltown of Wemyss show, cancelling my judging engagement, will kindly communicate with me, he will hear of something to his "advantage." I may say I am still engaged to judge the British section, and hope to get a good entry, as the committee have been put to considerable disadvantage by the above letter, being unable to get schedules out as early as desired.

The Northern Crest Club and Gateshead Show.

Sir,—What you inserted in last week's issue from Mr. Greason, sec. of Gateshead Show, is likely to give a wrong impression, as it is untrue. The N.C.C. has not withdrawn its prizes or specials from their show this year, as we decided not to grant our patronage to any show. Having decided to run one of our own we were not sure how it might "pan out," so thought it wise to withhold some of our funds. To be plain, before you can withdraw anything, something must have been either promised or given. In this instance neither was the case.

The Origin of the White Canary?

Sir,—I have followed with interest the controversy about who was the first to breed White Canaries. Well, I have in my possession two volumes of a book on Natural History, written by Henry Augustus Chambers, LL.D., and published in 1834, in which it is stated that Canaries came originally from the Canary Island, that they were first introduced into England about a century and half ago (previous to 1834) and that with domestication they had got variety of colouring, some white, some mottled, and some beautifully shaded with green. If this book is to be relied on does not this prove that both your correspondents are somewhat behind the times?

W. R. S.

(At the early period referred to the term "white" was used to indicate Canaries which were quite free from dark plumage (i.e., clears). It does not indicate the tone of colour found in the White Canary of today.—Editor.)

The Lizard Classes at Rochdale Show.

Sir,—I am writing you re several of the awards given by the judge in the Lizard classes at Rochdale on Nov. 22. Though I shall use my own name at the end of this complaint, to prevent the much used term of a "disappointed exhibitor" being applied to me, I will own to writing as such, but qualify it by saying that the chief reason of my disappointment lay in the inconsistency and incompetency shown by the judge of the above classes. We can expect little from judges who profess no especial acquaintance with our breeds, but Mr. House proudly boards of some twenty years' engagement as judge of these classes at Rochdale. Now, Mr. Editor, I should like Mr. House to give me his reason through CAGE BIRDS for throwing my winning clear cap gold cock, "Ray of Gold," out at above show, ostensibly for defective tail, as so prominently displayed on class ticket. I had the doubtful pleasure of having a clear gold treated for defective head-gear at the same show two years ago. This is getting too monotonous to suit me, as I seem to be getting made the scapegoat for Mr. C. A. Honse's special attention. Will Mr. House kindly state number of tail feathers short in above bird, and why defective tail feather should be considered a sufficient cause for what amounts practically to a disqualification, as this bird was either first or nothing, and no one knows that better than Mr. House. I am quite as justified in claiming that if loss of feather constitutes a bird being ineligible for competition, it should apply all round. This is one of the inconsistencies of which I complain, as my 3rd clear gold hen (please write hen large) was short of three tail feathers at least, which I unfortunately knocked out in my hurry in caging her on Thursday night. My clear cap silver cock was also one feather short in tail, but still it stood third in its class. I see Mr. House has a controversy with Mr. Riseborough re wrong classing a bird of his at Blaydon show; as to whether Mr. House was right or wrong I cannot say, but after last Friday's performance, I am quite certain C.A.H. is seeing things which don't exist, and compiling a standard of points of his own. In clear cap silver cocks at Rochdale, Mr. House wrong classed three exhibits on the ground of being broken in cap, this in spite of two of them having passed muster under Messrs. Compston and Naden, both specialist judges of Lizards; of course they have also done so under Messrs. Barnes and Vardy, but I am confining myself to specialist judges. These birds were critically examined on Saturday by a large number of Lizard fanciers, myself amongst the number, and I unhesitatingly say that they were eligible for the classes they were entered in, viz., clear cap. I note Mr. House in answering Mr. Riseborough, quotes Mr. Blakston as the guide of his youth re discriminating the Lizard's cap. Now, as everyone knows, we most of us got ideas in our youth which, to put it mildly, are found erroneous in our mature days. As far as Blaydon is concerned, Mr. House may have anyone as guide who suits him, but as far as I am concerned, when he judges Lizards coming under the patronage of the L. and L.F.A., he will either judge to our standard, or as far as my own birds are concerned, he won't judge at all. Our standard says: A broken or mis-capped Lizard is one that has dark feathers on the head, other than the fine lines over the eye forming the eye-lash, also there should be no dark feathers over the top of the beak. For this same eyelash our standard allows five points, and it is a point that should be encouraged, instead of which two birds which showed this feature were "wrong classed" under our above-mentioned judge. Another feature of the show was the number of cocks winning in the hen classes; there were at least three birds in these classes—a first and two seconds—which were singing in a quite workmanlike manner, and if it had not been for causing ill-feeling with the fanciers owning the birds, I should have objected to them, as I was requested to do by several people present. The placing of these cocks means a big thing to me, at least 10s. prize-money, and a 5s. special as well; to say nothing of an improvement in points towards our competition. I see Mr. Wellings has made good a mistake he made. I suggest Mr. House makes good all his blunders at Rochdale show (I don't think.) Now Mr. House, will you kindly answer the following questions:—(1) Why did you give a bird with a break over beak, and ticked over eye, 1st prize in clear cap silver hen class? (2) Why did you give the clear cap gold cock first in clear gold hen class? (3) Why did you give broken cap silver cock 2nd in broken silver hen class? (4) Why did you give broken cap gold cock 2nd in broken cap gold hen class? In conclusion, Mr. Editor, we Lancashire fanciers are generally accused of hitting hard in return for injuries received. I claim the right to exercise it in this case, and trust Mr. House will reply.

Mules at East Perthshire O.A

Sir,—I would like Mr. Dewar, of Edinburgh, to explain through your paper why at the East Perthshire Ornithological Association show he put "wrong class" on my dark yellow Goldie Mule, and three other Mules in the same class, a dark yellow and a buff Goldie Mules and a Greenie Mule.

A Cage Bird Section for Longton Show, Lancs.

Sir,—During the past few years the Longton Poultry and Pigeon Society held a very successful show at Longton, and after persistent requests have secured a Cage Bird section, open to all. We are offering good money prizes, and cash specials for most points in each class. The show will be held in the National Schools on Dec. 28, and I am sure that in this district there is a real opening for a cage bird section. I hope that we may in time establish a cage bird society in this district. The show will be advertised in CAGE BIRDS later on, and thus brought to the notice of all exhibitors.

How Did the Lizard Acquire Its Spangling?

Sir,—I wish to thank Mr. J. Naden for his kind remarks concerning my lecture on pedigree breeding and heredity, which he expressed in a letter in CAGE BIRDS of Nov. 16. I very much regret that I cannot answer his interesting query or give an opinion as to how the Lizard Canary came to be spangled? I have never had a Lizard Canary in my room; I have often thought of trying some experiments with them. I am sure Mr. Naden could give us some very interesting information from his experiences with them, i.e., the result of crossing in other varieties, etc., etc. Again thanking Mr. Naden for his letter.

Can Irish Champions & Novices Exhibit from the Same Address.

Sir, In answer to Mr. Verner's letter, it is the opinion of the fancy all over, and has been for years, that two parties living at the same address (and exhibiting the same breed of birds) must exhibit in the champion section, unless both are eligible to compete in the novice section. At the show Mr. Verner refers to, it was this champion exhibitor's brother who was competing in the novice section (from same address), and not his father.

The Judging at Small Cornish Shows.

Sir,—A word to our small Cornish shows having local judges, who cannot tell unflighted birds from old birds, and yellows from buffs. The bird which Mr. Toy wrong classed at St. Columb is a Cinnamon-marked yellow hen, and not a buff. You cannot get colour in Cinnamons like you can in Greens. She has won at Exeter, Plymouth, and St. Austell in the Yellow Hen class. If you ask some of these men what the points of a bird are, they will say you want to know too much. But I contend that a man who can pair up and breed and stage on the show-bench birds that win in good company is as good a judge as many of these so-called judges. I thank Mr. Toy for his actions at Wadebridge and St. Columb to my birds, which he will not have the pleasure to judge again. I suggest to keep judges' names a secret until after the show, providing they have men capable of giving our pets fair play.

J. P. ANDREW.

Lizards at Blaydon Show.

Sir,—I thank Mr. House for his remarks re my clear gold capped Lizard. Mr. House speaks of Mr. Blakston as his tutor. I would like to ask Mr. House if Mr. Blackston remarks on Lizards that they must have the pencil marks over each eye, which this bird has. If you want to make a broken cap of clears, when you handle them all you have to do is to brush those feathers the other way, which Mr. House did at Blaydon (this was the report I got from other judges that saw him do it). Not only that, but he was turning the cap over with a dirty lead pencil, and I think if a judge wants to turn the cap over he should keep a piece of bone or ivory for such work. I would like to ask other Lizard fanciers if they have had a Lizard wrong classed, for its cap being the slightest bit over-run? This bird of mine has not only been examined by Mr. House, but by several other judges who all say it is a clear cap Lizard, and your reporters at other shows have said the same.

J. RISEBOROUGH.

The Future of the Sheffield O.S.

Sir,—Being interested in the welfare of the Sheffield O.S., I thoroughly agree with what "Old Sheffielder" has to say on the subject. The "wind-bags" have driven more than one member away from the society's meetings. I, for one, have long been tired of their methods and bombastic airs. I will go a step further than "Old Sheffielder" and say that the society is no longer governed by a selected committee, but by a small "clique." I also notice the rumour to the effect that we are to have a new secretary. This is before the present secretary has handed in his resignation, which is nothing less than adding insult to injury, and is exceedingly "dirty." Mr. Dawn in his letter remarks that under the management which is to be, we "shall have financial success." Now, have we not already had financial success, considering that the first two years' working has realised something like £40? This sum I shall have the greatest of pleasure to hand over to the new treasurer, whom I trust will find heart for better attendance than myself.

JAS. W. DRABBLE, Present Hon. Treas.

Sir,—I had to raise a smile on reading "Old Sheffielder's" letter. Fancy a secretary getting credit for success! I was under the impression the committee was responsible for such, and a secretary for failures and insults.

I had made up my mind not to enter into this controversy, but on reading the letter signed by Mr. T. Dawn, in which he says he gave me well over £20 (which I take to mean donations towards the 1911 open show), I am, in fairness to myself as secretary, and to other gentlemen who kindly contributed, compelled to deny receiving such a sum. The donations totalled (printed balance sheet enclosed), £24 13s. 6d., of which Mr. T. Dawn kindly contributed £15 2s. This year the donations reach the sum of £27 13s., of which Mr. T. Dawn and his friends contribute £13 4s., a sum which will be appreciated by all well-wishers of the S.O.S. Members of the society will be pleased to know that after an expenditure of over £140 there is a profit on the show of £10 to date, and that the end of the year will see a cash balance of £45 standing to their credit. Mr. Dawn carries us forward to 1913, and states that under the new management we shall have greater success than this, which I am pleased to hear, and I shall be the first to congratulate Mr. Job. He also remarks that Mr. Colton ran shows before I was in the Fancy. Certainly correct; he has run none since. Why did not Mr. Dawn use the advice he has on many occasions given me, "Take no notice?" I should like to thank Mr. F. Jones for his good wishes respecting my wife's illness. Had Mr. Dawn got his friend to write the letter the members of the S.O.S. were desirous of being sent on October 8th, it would have been more in harmony with the times.

Are Judges Bribed?

Sir,—There is a rumour afloat that it is being done. A man seems to follow the shows of a certain judge. At one show, in the South-West of England, a man asked the judge on what conditions he awarded the prizes. He was told, he went through the classes, but failed to be convinced of it. A fortnight later there was another show in the same county, and with the same judge. But before the judging someone took the ticket off the cage of the winner at the previous show, and tied up another one which was on another cage. After the judging the man went in to see the result, and found his bird had first and special, and the winner at the other show was third. The judge was asked then what he thought of the winner, and he told them he could not get away from that bird. Asked why he did at the previous show, he said he did not know it was there. When told of the trap set for him, he, the judge, acknowledged he looked for a certain number. If this rumour is true it is time to put a stop to it.

A Legend of the Cuckoo.

Concerning the Cuckoo there are many strange legends. One has a Danish origin. When in the early spring the Cuckoo's note is first heard, every village girl kisses her hand and asks anxiously, "Cuckoo, Cuckoo, when shall I be married?" And the old people, borne down with years and infirmity, also inquire, "Cuckoo, Cuckoo, when shall I be released from this world's cares?" In reply, the bird continues to exclaim "Cuckoo!" and as many times as there are replies the listeners count one year to the fulfilment of their desires. It is said that the poor bird has so many questions to answer that, before the task is completed, the opportunity for nest building has gone, and the Cuckoo is forced to lay her eggs in the nest of some other bird!

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

BREEDING IN OUTDOOR AVIARY (H. W. A.).—As usual, you omit to say whether birds are intended to be caged or fly loose, but judging from your general remarks, I take it you mean to adopt the latter course. In this case it certainly would not "be all right," as you say, to keep a few Britishers cocks only, not to breed, in addition to the Canaries, which you wish to breed. How are you going to avoid the Britishers qualifying as co-respondents? You can't do it, and must be prepared to find at least strong circumstantial evidence of illicit unions in some of the youngsters. If you wish to avoid this you must confine yourself to Canaries only. If the birds have been bred and kept under quite normal conditions of temperature, Rollers will suit your purpose as well as any other breed, and they will also give you the best singers. Three cocks and eight or nine hens will be sufficient stock for you to start with.

AN ALARMING ATTACK (W. W.).—The condition in which you found the bird on cage floor is quite typical of the after effects of an attack of epilepsy, so you doubtless were spared wituessing a distressing sight. Very little can be done in such cases, and upon the whole they are much better left to nature, or if the fits become frequent even merciful destruction may be commendable. To prevent recurrence, give the bird a plain, wholesome diet, keep the bowels free, but not unduly relaxed, by a variety of green food, and keep bird generally under the best possible condition for health. If another attack occurs, give as much sulphurate of soda as will cover a sixpence in the drinking water for one day, and afterwards half this quantity of bromide of potassium for two consecutive days, and then every second day for the remainder of a week. If an attack should be recognised coming on, at once give a dose of potassium as above, or dissolve the quantity named in two teaspoonfuls of water, and give two drops in the beak every hour for three hours. This may avert the onset, and you can, of course, go on with the above treatment.

"WOULD IT BE ALL RIGHT" (Clogs).—It might, and it mightn't be all right, as you put it, to pair the father with two daughters. Even supposing every feature such as shape, colour, markings, etc., match, such close in-breeding should never be lightly adopted. It should only be tolerated when some definite object is in view, such as fixing some particular feature which the breeder has been striving to obtain, or help to eradicate some previously inherent fault. In either case the breeder usually knows the pedigree of his birds for several generations back, and understands their peculiarities to a nicety, which knowledge is of immense value in close in-breeding. But to commence in-breeding without such knowledge is very much like groping in the dark, and may easily land one in a slough of despair. The birds would breed without a doubt, but on the whole you would be wise to get a more distantly related cock of the same strain to mate with the hens.

TWO HENS (Beginner).—(1) Treat this hen, that is, so long over the moult, the same as advised to querist, under heading a "Protracted Moult." But for the first fortnight slightly dust the soft food with flower of sulphur three times a week before sprinkling with maw, and on the intervening days add as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny piece to the drinking water. Slightly anoint bare places twice a week with Lanocyllin. At the end of the fortnight give the tonic named in reply referred to. (2) This bird is doubtless a buff possessing an exceptional amount of "meal," which gives it the whitish appearance in patches. The difference between a buff and a yellow is that a yellow has a solid sound colour right to the tips of the web of the feather, whilst a buff has yellow feathers with a great or less margin of white at the tips of the webs. The margins are greater or less according to the amount of "meal," as these white margins are termed, possessed by the bird. The tone of colour may vary in depth in both varieties, but in yellows, whether it be rich or pale, it will go right to the tips of the web.

HEN PANTING (Crest).—Sorry your letter reached me too late for reply last week. See that the hen is in a cosy position free from draughts and damp and impure air, but do not overheat it, and see the place where it is kept is well ventilated. Feed on a plain diet with a liberal supply of green food for a fortnight, and during this time also give the aperient and tonic medicines advised in reply last week for the cocks. If this does not put them right, then commence the treatment for cold given in other reply.

MOPING AND MOULTING (John Fryer).—See reply to another correspondent this week under heading, "A Protracted Moult," and treat the bird as therein advised, giving also the the quinine tonic mentioned in that reply. I note you say the bird hangs well below the gas, but see that it is not near to it, as this would subject it to extreme fluctuations, notwithstanding being below its level. As regards the moping on cage floor, it would be as well to examine the condition of its eyes. If the sight is all right it will doubtless become more active on the treatment suggested.

A YELLOW BLISTER (L.W.W.).—What you take to be a yellow blister on the breast is most likely an accumulation of fat. Cage the birds separately, and strictly limit both the quantity and quality of its diet for a few weeks. Mix together equal parts of Canary, summer and black rape. Give a small teaspoonful of this mixture daily. Twice a week drop out the summer rape and substitute an equal quantity of white millet. In addition to this give a liberal supply of green food—watercress, lettuces, chickweed, or flower-heads of groundsel, as may be available—each day. Let this simple regimen form its sole diet for three or four weeks. During the first week add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn to its drinking water every second day. Give it plenty of opportunities for exercise and bathing. Report result in a month.

CAGE ACCOMMODATION (F. E. N., U.S.A.).—No, you certainly could not expect success in breeding with a cock and two hens in a cage only 30in. long. You might try and by some exceptional stroke of luck succeed, but the chances are tremendously on the side of signal failure. A better plan and really the only one of utilising it for two hens is to put in a partition and keep only the hens there, running the cock with them alternately in the breeding season when his services were needed, and caging him separately at other times. But even this would give the hens a space of rather less than 15ins. by 12ins., which is not after American ideas of space. Eh? The cage will do very nicely for one pair, either Rollers or one of the larger breeds, but do not attempt to make more of it.

BIRDROOM AND VENTILATION (Novice).—You can certainly move your birds now if you wish with the utmost confidence, considering the condition under which they are now being kept, and those they are to be moved to. I have not the least doubt you will find the birds absolutely unaffected, as the conditions are practically similar in both places. The slight difference in temperature is wholly due to the more elevated position of the attic. You mention no ingress for fresh air near the floor of your room. If you have overlooked this I would advise you to remedy the oversight, so as not to have to depend upon window or door at all times to admit fresh air. If you have an ingress about 12in. long and six inches high, your scheme will be practically perfect. As regards accommodation, you do not say whether birds are to be kept in cages or fly loose. If the former, you will soon gauge its capacity when you move birds in; if the later, from sixty to seventy birds all told. To allow for breeding, 15 to 20 would be ample to start with—say, four cocks and 12 to 14 hens.

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

PROTRACTED MOULT (H.A.J.).—See remarks about suitable environment in reply to "Mrs. Hey," and see if you cannot discover therein some clue to the cause of your bird's very protracted moult. I fancy the condition is wholly due to unsuitable environment. Having attended to this part of the matter, treat as follows: Staple diet, plain Canary only; every second day give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, and twice a week mix in it four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion, and sprinkle with maw seed. On the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts black and summer rape, hemp, millet and teazle, and a morsel of banana. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in one ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the drinking water every second day. Continue this treatment for a month if necessary.

GOING THICK AND DYING (Puzzled).—The loss of young in the way you describe is almost invariably the result of injudicious feeding. After leaving the parents the staple diet should consist of good plain Canary seed, with just a pinch of summer rape per bird daily, and a little crushed hemp and mixed seed two or three times a week. The soft food must not be discontinued too suddenly, and it is not wise totally to withdraw it too early. A fair amount should be given daily at first, and gradually reduced until only a heaped teaspoonful is given daily for every four birds. Finally the latter quantity may be given twice or three times a week until it is necessary to commence feeding for the moult. This dietary, combined with scrupulous cleanliness and freshness in all foods, vessels, and a regular supply of pure fresh water, should enable you to quite escape these losses. For fuller details of treatment get "Canary Breeding for Beginners," and digest the contents before next season.

INJURED EYES (H.T.J.).—I can only account for such a condition as you describe by external injury of some kind, accidental or otherwise, which is probably of a very local nature, so that only one actually on the spot is likely to discover the real cause. Keep birds under close observation for a time to ascertain if there is a spiteful individual among them addicted to distributing vicious pecks at odd moments; also see if there are any sharp, jagged points about the cages or perches which might cause injury in this way; or if mice are likely to be the culprits. Have the cages been done inside recently with fresh limewash? Look well into these points, and any others of a similar nature which may occur to you, and if you fail to discover any apparent cause, write again and give the fullest particulars about the eyes as soon as you notice anything going wrong with them. Meantime bathe these birds' eyes once daily with a decoction as already advised.

VENTILATION, Etc. (W. Walker).—(1) You say nothing at all about the size, structure, and aspect of room or window, which makes it difficult to advise you. In the absence of other means of ventilation, however, I see no reason why you should not arrange a very tolerable method by fixing a venetian frame in place of one or two of the panes of glass in window. If the panes are small replace one in bottom row and another in top row with ventilators. (2) Get a hen of a Water Glucke strain by all means. It is not essential to get it from the same breeder as the cock, if you are satisfied it is bred from a strain with a similar song. At the same time if the strain to which the cock belongs is a highly trained one of good standing, it would be wise to get a hen of the same strain, if you can obtain one not very closely related to the cock.

A FRILLED YORKSHIRE (Learner).—This defect is not infrequently a result of breeding from two birds of too profuse plumage. But in your case, if it is not due to the bird being poor in condition, which you can easily ascertain, I think it is the result of unskilled toilet operations. If the bird is very poor in condition, feed it up until looking nice and plump in breast, when the frills may disappear. If it is already plump then wash it very carefully six days before the next show you wish to send it to, and in washing the breast work the brush down the sides parallel with the breast-bone, and avoid working them over the centre line as much as possible. Be careful in drying not to place the bird in too much heat, and do not try to dry off in the least possible time. Next day give a light spraying, but do not in any sense saturate the plumage. Just bedew it. Each day afterwards offer the bird a bath, and if it does not bathe spray it a little once each day. If any frills remain on the third day, catch the bird and dip just the frilled tips of the feathers in quite warm water for a few moments, and then brush gently with a camel-hair brush in the direction they should lie, and continue the brushing until feathers are dry. If carefully done, this will remove the frills, and the daily bath or spray will put the plumage O.K. for some time, often for a long time. If you are not expert at washing, you should get a friend to do the washing and drying for you.

IS IT LUNG TROUBLE? (Crest).—I am still inclined to think the hen is in too fat condition. Try the following and then report result. Give a plain and spare diet for a fortnight, as advised for the cocks last week, and during the first week give the rhubarb and soda aperient, and the gentian tonic in the second week, also as advised in last reply. At the end of the fortnight get a chemist to mix you two drachms each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, and one drachm each of ipecacuanha wine and chlorodyne, and eight grains of iodide of potassium, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the bird's drinking water every second day for a week or fortnight as may seem necessary. Keep bird in a comfortable and equable place, not overheated, nor yet very cold, well ventilated, but free from cold cutting draughts.

OUT OF CONDITION. (Mrs. Hey).—I suspect it is a change of environment that is most needed in this case. Keep the birds in healthy, comfortable surroundings, quite free from extreme rapid fluctuations of temperature, cold draughts, or impure heated air, such as they may be exposed to by hanging near the ceiling, or near or over burning lights in the evenings. It is not necessary to keep them very warm if the above conditions are complied with. Give a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. Every second day for a month give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, and in the first fortnight mix in it each time two drops of cod liver oil emulsion, and four of sherry, and sprinkle with maw seed. Twice a week, on the alternating days, give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, inga, millet, and teazle, and on each of the remaining days a morsel of banana. In the water give six drops of tincture of gentian and three of tinc. of steel every second day for a week, then miss a week, and give it again for another week.

CRACKLING NOISE (H.B.W.).—The bird appears to be troubled with cold and catarrh. See that it is not exposed to damp, nor overheated, but keep it under conditions similar to those advised to "Mrs. Hey." In the drinking water add 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecac. wine, and two of eucalyptus oil well shaken together in the water two days in every three for a week, and every second day for another week afterwards. Half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a week would also help it to throw off the trouble.

STIFF HIND TOES (J. H. H.).—If the 1909 hen has raised a good average number of young, and the two cases you mention are the only instances of the stiff toes being perpetuated, I should not attach very great importance to it until I had bred with these young birds and seen whether the defect was inherited by as large or a larger proportion of their progeny. In this case then I should weed it out rigorously. The hen (1909) I would also now discard for breeding. Mate the 1911 and 1912 cocks with hens having good strong and perfect feet, and carefully note result of these matings with a view to future weeding out if necessary. You might try treating the toes by giving a variety of thickness in the perches ranging from a fair average normal size to about the thickness of a lead pencil. Also get a saucerful of tolerably hot water—it must not be hotter than can be comfortably borne by the tenderest part of your little finger—place beside it a saucer of cold water in which you have dissolved a small teaspoonful of salt. Then catch bird and hold its feet immersed in the hot water for a minute or two; then transfer them at once to the cold water for a similar length of time. Repeat the change to and fro half a dozen times, but be careful to finish in the cold water. Dry feet, and paint them with a small feather dipped in Friar's balsam. Repeat the process three times with an interval of three or four days between each time.

A TRIPLET (Gadfly).—(1) No, there is not necessarily anything wrong with a hen which solicits a male whilst moulting. It simply shows that the reproductive organs are not dormant, as is usually the case whilst the moult is in progress. The desire, however, may be quite evanescent, such desires occurring occasionally with some hens all through the winter. (2) I am not quite clear of your meaning in this query. If you mean could fertility have resulted from the mating of a cock so young as the one in question would be—about eight weeks, I take it—the answer is that the chances are very considerably against it. At the same time I would not dispute the possibility in the case of a very precocious youngster. If you mean could the union have been fertile had it occurred in the breeding season when, of course, the youngster must be more mature, the answer is: most decidedly, yes. (2) The jerky movements you refer to are due to constipation. Give a good sized spray of watercress daily until trouble has disappeared. Also add six drops of syrup of buckthorn to the drinking water for one or two days as may seem necessary.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

A BERRY (Fruit).—The specimens sent I cannot identify accurately until you forward a small portion of the shrub—just a tiny branch with two or three leaves. The berries are safe, but only large birds, such as Thrushes, would be likely to eat them.

WILD SEED MIXTURE (J. C. Waterton).—I consider the sample of wild seed mixture you send is splendid, containing a minimum of waste, while it has been improved by the addition of sesame, teazle, gold of pleasure and thistle (I could not locate any dandelion). Of the wild seeds, pure and simple, I notice plantain, dock, persicaria, knot-grass, charlock and various other rapes and grasses.

A BALD BLACKBIRD (R.T.B.).—Follow the advice given "William" in last week's issue. Are you keeping the bird out of draughts and in an equable temperature? For instance, hanging a bird out of doors in the daytime during cold weather (now, for instance), and bringing it indoors at night into a warmed room, will very quickly send it into a cross moult, or bring on "asthma" or some other bronchial affection.

SHOWING AN OWL (H. W.).—Owls are not admitted into the great majority of cage bird shows—practically all, indeed. The schedule generally states: "Hawks, Owls and Ravens excluded." The reason is that their presence terrifies the other species of birds in the show. Owls are not "desirable cage birds" in the strict sense of the term, and if admitted to a show should be kept right away from the Canary and other sections. This is done at the L.C.B.A. show, the only exhibition that I know of where the Owl is encouraged to disport its beauties.

A BLACKBIRD'S BEAK (Edward Green).—It is true that the cock Blackbird has a yellow beak, but this only applies to an adult bird. A young cock has a dark (black) beak until towards the spring of the year after the one in which he was born; it begins to turn yellow as the bird comes into breeding condition. Your young bird is evidently a cock, or its plumage would not have moulted out jet black. The yellow beak (and eye ceres) will come later on.

A BLIND LINNET (Muler).—I do not hold out any hope of the blind Linnet ever siring Mules. Are you quite sure it was "fresh caught"? I very strongly doubt it. It seems to me that you have been imposed upon. You will find full information on "conditioning" Linnets in the "Nutshell" booklet dealing with this species (post free, 2½d.).

LOSING A GOLDFINCH (Perplexed).—I don't think you need be exactly surprised at losing a Goldfinch which you had kept for over eight years. Birds can't be preserved alive for ever—that goes without saying—and yours had had a fairly lengthy existence. Try the other bird mentioned with the following treatment. Get one ounce of taraxacum from a chemist, and stir a small teaspoonful into its drinking water (two tablespoonfuls) fresh daily for six days. Afterwards for ten days stir half-a-teaspoonful of tincture of gentian into the same quantity of water.

A TRIO (M.A.P.).—(1) It is quite useless to hope for hybrids if you keep a cock Canary along with the hens. You could put in the hen Bullfinch, the hen Greenfinch, the hen Redpoll, and three or four hen Canaries, with two or three cock Linnets, two cock Goldfinches, and one cock Siskin. You could also try, as an experiment, the cock Chaffinch. But you must guard against overcrowding, or you will get no young birds. (2) The above quantity is just about the limit of its holding capacity. (3) Paint is not really safe, but if it has dried quite hard no ill may result—why did you not use washable distemper?

A WILD CHAFFINCH (Rend).—It does sometimes happen that a bird proves absolutely intractable, and it would seem that you have been unlucky enough to get hold of such a one. If he has been in a box pattern cage for 18 months in a room where people are constantly present, and "still dashes about in a frenzied state," as you put it, whenever anyone ventures to look at him, then the best advice I can give you is to open the cage door out in the garden, and let Master Chaffie "hop it." You have been very patient; I must confess that he would have gone long ago, had he been in my own room. Chaffinches, are cheap enough, and your next one may prove more appreciative and "kind"; I hope so.

A LINNET MULE'S FEET (W.I.).—You should steep the feet for a minute or so twice daily in comfortably hot water, into which a little strong disinfectant (Kerol or Jeyes', or Izal, etc.) has been stirred. Afterwards dry and anoint with a little healing ointment (such as Kerol). This treatment would quickly reduce the inflammation and take out the soreness. The glycerine you have been using is of no earthly use in such a case, and would probably only aggravate matters by causing dirt to stick round the feet. Use blotting paper on the cage floor until matters mend. The trouble cannot be laid at the door of the Linnet, in my opinion.

AN UNUSUAL MATCH (Novice).—It is unusual to use crested hens for Mule breeding, but there is no reason why you should not do so if you wish. Some of the Mules may come with a crest, but they will be of no particular value by reason of being so decorated. Crested hens are usually very feathery (untidy and loose), and this looseness of feather may also be transmitted to the Mules—very much to their detriment. As I have already remarked, there is no reason why you should not use the Crested hen for mulling, but the fact remains that a big, close-feathered, good coloured hen of Norwich type would be very much more suitable.

TWO PAIRS (Novice, Barry Dock).—I don't think the place is big enough to hold two hen Bullies; they would fight when the spring comes round. Why not divide the place in the centre, and put the Linnet and Bullie in one half and the Greenie and Bullie in the other half? It is by far the best plan to give each couple a house "on their own"; you will stand a much greater chance of success if you do so. There will be no need to turn the couples out until about the middle of March; hen Bullfinches are late breeders. You might contrive to let the birds make the acquaintance of each other, however, before they take up their outside quarters.

THE CASE OF A SKYLARK (H.W.R.).—How do you know that the bird is a cock? The absence of song seems to point to the opposite being the case. You do not give any particulars which would enable me to help you—i.e., whether newly-caught or otherwise, what kind of cage it is in, and how it is being fed. I recommend you to consult the "Nutshell" booklet on the Skylark (only 2½d. post free), and what you read therein may throw some light upon any points concerning which you may be in doubt. It tells you how to feed to get birds on song.

A LINNET BARE (W. Walker).—No doubt the result of the irritation set up by the bird lice. You must anoint with Kerol ointment, as advised in this column last week. For seven or eight days stir half-a-teaspoonful of tincture of gentian into the bird's drinking water (two tablespoonfuls). It is a safe and excellent tonic, especially so for birds "off their feed," as it stimulates the appetite. Feed the bird well. Give a teaspoonful of cracked hemp daily for a time, in addition to the usual stock mixture of Canary, teazle, rape, and linseed. Also mix one ounce each of maw, dandelion, thistle, gold of pleasure, white lettuce, plantain, cornflower, and sesame. This makes a very fine "wild seed" tit-bit; give a small teaspoonful daily until the bird pulls himself together—afterwards, twice or thrice a week. It is difficult to beat a yellow hen of Norwich type as a mate for a cock Linnet.

WHICH CROSS TO TRY (Scholastic).—(1) Probably the Goldfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid is the "most showy" in appearance; if, that is, the particular specimen is a first-class one in respect of colour. Some are poor in colour; others are exceptionally rich. The Canary, Greenfinch, Linnet and Redpoll-Bullie crosses are all attractive, however, from the colour point of view. The Goldfinch-Redpoll, Goldfinch-Siskin and Goldfinch-Greenfinch are also very pleasingly attired. (2) The value of any specimen (or cross) depends largely upon its excellence from the exhibition point of view. A Goldie-Bullie, for instance, of just ordinary size and colour, can be bought for from 30s. to 40s. An extra big and rich-coloured example of the cross would, however, command quite £8 to £10 when in show form. Thus, if one wants to breed valuable Hybrids, one should always try with the large, rich-coloured parents. (3) Queries relating to foreign birds must be sent to the F.B. dept. (Note rules.)

RESPECTING MEALWORMS (M. W. Q.).—(1) So far as I know it is called the mealworm beetle; the scientific name I cannot remember at the moment of writing. (2) I cannot say definitely, but at least for 12 months. The young mealworms take a considerable time (months) to grow to any size. (3) I keep mine in a large tin (a flat, not a tall tin), about two-thirds full of a mixture of bran and barley meal, with some pieces of coarse sacking amongst it. From time to time I put in pieces of sugar paper (the coarse kind), soaked in sweetened beer—some put in hung rags, and I have known leather soaked in beer to be used. The meal, of course, needs replenishing from time to time. The box must be kept in a warm place; this is essential. You should read "Nutshell" booklet No. 26. (4) Three or four a day; there is no hard and fast quantity. You could give 6 a day if you chose; or you need only give them on alternate days. They should be varied in the summer with other kinds of live food.

SEVERAL ITEMS (E.E.M., Wimbledon).—When birds "hesitate" in the way you describe before leaving the perch, it is generally because their nails need cutting—they are so long and curved as to render it a difficult matter for the bird to unclasp them, as it were, from the perch. The beak must also be trimmed whenever necessary; after you have cut it to a normal size, just smooth the tip, etc, with a nail file. By the way, no enclosure (seed) reached me with your letter. You should feed the bird on the lines I recommended "Mayrick" last week; see that he has the two tit-bit mixtures described in that reply. Just a little hard-boiled egg can do no harm, seeing that he is so fond of it. Put a little quassia into the water you give the Canaries for bathing; and you might lightly spray the Goldie with the same twice or thrice a week, according to the weather conditions—don't make him very wet. You cannot do more to the cages, though it would be well to occasionally touch the corners (and other crevices) with a small brush dipped in petrol (the latter runs easily through every crack and cranny and destroys all the mites it meets). Give the Goldie a small half-teaspoonful of compound syrup of hypophosphites B.P. in his drinking water (two tablespoonfuls) for ten days. Any good-class chemist will supply it.

A LINNET'S SILENCE (Pat).—If the bird is in good health (I presume you could tell if it were ailing) its silence is not easy to understand. I assume, of course, that you know it to be a cock. A change of cage and change of quarters are enough to send a bird off song for a time—but six weeks is an awful long time! What kind of cage is it in—a proper box-pattern Finch cage, or an all wire one? The latter would be unsuitable. Is the bird quite tame? Try him for a time with the two "tit-bit" seed mixtures recommended to "Mayrick" in last week's issue. You might also read the "Nutshell" booklet on the Linnet, as you will find the method of sexing given in this, and much useful information on feeding and general management.

TWO ITEMS (Bullfinch).—Very few shows in England provide classes for Siberian Bullfinches and Goldfinches. I can only call to mind the Crystal Palace and the L.C.B.A. It is certainly curious, seeing that practically every show in Scotland specially caters for them. Of course, they are always eligible in the ordinary foreign bird classes, in which, however, they stand little chance of winning against the rarities nowadays found therein. I have never found cock Bullfinches of the slightest use as mule-breeders. It is unusual for a Bullfinch to act in the way you describe after being caged for such a length of time, and moulted in the house. Cage him by himself in a smaller cage, and try patiently to get him to take hemp seeds (or dock seeds), off the tips of your fingers. Pleased to hear that his plumage has recovered its pristine brilliance under the treatment I advised.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

PARROT BETTER (Mrs. Bradburn).—Pleased to note this result, as I feared the worst, but the bird is certainly not "out of the wood" yet! Continue the treatment; while there is plenty of seed on bottom of cage, I should not trouble to refill tin, let it go and pick up what it has scattered, providing it is not fouled. Do not give ordinary sopped bread, but moisten, not saturate, it with a mixture of two parts water to one of hyno-phosphates. Continue the treatment already advised, and get it on to the regulation diet as soon as possible. In case of any relapse, write again at once, giving full details, as I do not retain queries.

WHAT CARDINAL (W.J.H.).—It is an ordinary Red-crested or Grey Cardinal, and its requirements are: a roomy cage and a diet of seed mixture, ripe fruit ad lib, and several mealworms or other insects per diem. As regards insects, you can offer smooth caterpillars, wasp grubs, live ants' eggs, beetles, spiders, flies, etc., according to season. Green food (lettuce at this season), cuttlebone, and grit, must be regularly supplied. It can have any kind of fruit it will eat. Canary and millet seed will form its staple seed dietary, during the winter a pinch of maw, or a few hemp and sunflower seeds, may be given occasionally. The difficulty with caged birds is to avoid overfeeding, and give sufficient exercise. You must aim for the "happy medium" good condition, but avoid over fatness.

BOURKE'S PARRAKEETS (J.C.).—The logs are very empty made. You can get, say 2 or 2½ft. of any stem of a tree not less than12ins. in diameter. Have a hole bored or cut right through it, about 6ins. in diameter, block up one end by nailing a piece of board over it; the other end or front must only be two-thirds covered. A small barrel would also answer the purpose. If you send me a stamped addressed envelope per the Editor, I will send you rough diagrams for the preparation of the log. No nesting material is required, but if you are near a wood where you can get rotten wood, rotten enough to crush up readily in the hand, a little of this, say one inch deep, in log or barrel, forms an excellent base for the eggs to lie upon.

WAXBILL (Avaton).—The main essentials are: a roomy cage with twiggy branches for perching accommodation, grit and cuttle, and a daily bath (chilled water), and an abundance of light and air, with immunity from draught. Diet: The main seed mixture to be one part canary (not giant) and two parts white millet, with a millet spray continually in the cage, not fixed to a perch, but suspended so that the bird must cling to it to take the seed; the enforced exercise will be very benficial. Get small quantities of the following: Teazle, clover, plantain, charlock, lettuce, cabbage, cornflower, maw, mustard, cress and grass seeds, in about equal proportions, well mix and give a little twice weekly. A small leaf of fresh lettuce several times a week. Also canary, rape, and millet seeding, grown in thumb pots in any sunny window, will supply wholesome green food, and if they are returned to the window again after being pecked over by the birds, will soon recover. Get the Nutshell Waxbills, 2½d., post free from our Manager.

PLAN (H. R. Watson).—The stamped addressed envelope has not reached me, neither has the information I asked for in my previous reply, or I would have sent you the plan now I have your address, but you do not supply this information in your last application. It would appear a letter of yours has gone astray; at any rate, it has not reached me, and you must give me the details asked for before I can send you a rough plan.

GREY PARROT (C. H.).—Put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water daily till the bowels have been thoroughly relieved, and then only give it every fourth day. On the days you are not giving the magnesia, put half a teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in the drinking water and continue the treatment for some time. A pinch of grit (not sand) should be added to the daily supply of seed mixture, and a piece of clean cuttlebone should continually be in the cage. In addition to seed it should get ripe fruit and nuts, with a little plain biscuit, or stale crust of household bread if it cares for such.

DIAMOND SPARROWS (Jacky).—These birds require canary and white millet seed, a millet spray, greenfood, grit, cuttlebone, and water for drinking and bathing. A roomy cage is necessary for their well being. An odd bird would agree and be chummy with a Canary in a suitable cage, but their pairing with any result I consider very improbable. Make the drinking water just saline with Epsom Salts for one day, and repeat the dose after an interval of seven days. Every other day put half a teaspoonful of byno-phosphates into its drinking water; you will have to leave the rest to nature, but treated as above the feathers should be renewed in due course. The bath should be of the type to hang outside, over the open door of cage, and should be removed as soon as the bird has had a thorough bath..

GREY PARROT (B.C.).—This bird must be kept below the level of any gas lights, and should enjoy a light and airy position, with immunity from draught, in some warm room, having a temperature of not less than 60 degrees F. Get the following mixture from your chemist—ipecacuanha wine, oxymel of squills, and glycerine in equal parts, add half a teaspoonful of the mixture to two tablespoonfuls of water, and give this in lieu of the drinking water till relief is given. The bowels should be kept moving freely by an occasional dose of Dinneford's Magnesia, 5 drops soaked into a small piece of sponge cake, biscuit, or stale crust, according to the bird's taste. As soon as the cold yields, put the bird on to a course of byno-phosphates for say a month to tone it up again. Diet the bird as per our Nutshell, "The Grey Parrot."

COCKATOO IN POOR PLUMAGE (Magrath).—You must persevere with the prescribed treatment; such cases are a work of time, and sadly try one's patience. Most Cockatoos appreciate plain biscuit, or a stale crust now and again, or even a piece of plain cake; if yours will take either, let half-a-dozen drops of cod liver oil soak into it before offering to the bird. Offer it fruit and greenfood, also nuts in variety. If the bird will take the potato dusted with flowers of sulphur, that will also be a help to the desired end. It will be best to humour the bird, but do not be tempted to give it fats, meat, tea, coffee, or milk when it is at table with you. Otherwise treat as per our previous reply.

ROUGH PLUMAGE (E.A.B.N.).—(1) I should keep this bird amused as much as possible, and if you have it in a cage, put in a good sized piece of a branch about 3 inches in diameter, letting its base rest on one corner of cage tray, and the other end at the top of the cage at the opposite angle. The bird will climb about this and cut it up. Keep its bowels moving freely with occasional doses of Dinneford's Magnesia, and put it on a course of byno-phosphates. Lightly touch the hard lumps daily with tincture of iodine so long as the skin remains unbroken. (2) It is excellence of condition (health) that will induce renewal of plumage. Spraying is merely to keep skin pliant and possible parasites at bay. A dilute solution of quassia (chilled) is as good as any. Grow canary, rape, and millet seedlings in thumb pots in your window; if you have half-a-dozen put one in the cage daily, they will keep you going some time, they soon grow again, even after being picked close. (3) Only the late Dr. Green's books, which in some points are a wee bit out of date. Send me an addressed postcard per Editor, and I will send you a list.

GREY PARROT (A. V. L.).—I am pleased to note the improvement, and you must continue the treatment, and persevere with the use of the glycothymoline to relieve the nostrils. When repeating a query it is necessary to repeat details, as I do not keep queries by me, but return them to office with my reply, and I cannot call to mind the full details concerning your bird. I should also put a little honey and borax (most chemists stock this ready mixed) inside its mouth once or twice daily—it will help to keep the mouth and throat clear. It will also be important to keep the bowels moving freely (not watery loose) while the trouble lasts. You must leave the eye to take its course for the present, of course keeping up the treatment already advised for it.

ORANGE BISHOP (B. K. C.).—If this bird has access to canary, millet, spray millet, and a few oats, with greenfood, grit, and an occasional insect, this should suffice to keep it fit; you might try it with a few crushed oats. If the aviary is roomy, give it some hay, it will probably get rid of some of its ennui by weaving nests. I should also catch the bird and note its condition; if it is thin, then cage it separately. Give it the diet as above, and every other day put half a teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in the drinking water, and once a week put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water in lieu of the phosphates. Continue this treatment till it is in condition again, when you can return it to the mixed cage or aviary.

AILING AMAZON (Mead).—I really expect the bird will be dead when you get the reply; you certainly must adopt some means to give it a little nourishment. Slightly prise open the beak at intervals during the day, and at one time put a little honey and borax inside the beak, and at another a drop or two of cod liver oil, and at others the remedies advised. I should also bathe the nostrils with dilute glyco-thymoline once or twice daily. Of course, unless the bird can be induced to take some nourishment it will get gradually weaker and die. A few drops of weak brandy and water forced between the beak will act as a stimulant, and be helpful. When giving a bird liquid by force, you must only give a drop or two at a time, or you will produce a choking sensation and greatly exhaust the bird. You must continue the arrowroot till it is able to take other nourishment. If the bird should die, as I fear it will, you must thoroughly sterilise your cage before using it for another bird.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

F. E. Nash.—Niger and inga are one and the same seed, the former being the correct name. The scientific name, we believe, is Verbesina sativa. Gold of pleasure is scientifically termed Camelina sativa. Your other questions will be found answered by Mr. St. John.

W. R. S.—Thanks for your offer, but we have seen copies of the book you mention.

L. D. Stevens.—We think the device you describe is fairly well known over here; it has been illustrated in our pages two or three times.

F. J. W. S.—We do not think that you are quite on solid ground, as it were. The word "Siberian" is only a trade term, and is applied to all Goldfinches coming from Russia, etc. As a matter of fact, even amongst the very large "Siberians" small birds are found in plenty—in just the same way, in fact, that there are small birds and large birds amongst English Goldfinches.

Owing to pressure on space several answers are unavoidably held over.—Editor.

HENRY J. FILLIAMES,
154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the Intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

WANDSWORTH.

Fifth Open Show in the Baths, Wandsworth, very fine, well-lighted hall, just suitable for a big show. The birds were staged in the gallery, and attracted quite their share of attention. There was a nice entry, Yorks. predominating, and some very typical birds were on view. Some extra fine Norwich were seen in the amateur classes, a few good Borders and some very high-class hybrids. For the members' cup, several good birds were brought out, Mr. W. J. Heath staging the winner, a lovely yell. Yorks. of grand type. The management was all that could be desired, Mr. Lightfoot again holding the reins. Messrs. Owen and Son once more gave valuable assistance, as did Messrs. Heath and Wright. Mr. H. Norman judged.

BRISTOL.

22nd annual show held at the Coliseum, Park-Road, Nov. 27 and 28. Our section was staged in the gallery, and once again made a grand display. Yorkshires were not only numerically strong, but quality was also of high order. Indeed, they outclassed all other varieties. Norwich were just a nice level lot. There were two good classes of Borders, a variety not generally seen in this part of the country, and good Crests. There was also an exceptionally good collection of British birds and Mules, with two classes of foreign birds making a very pleasing and attractive sight to the show. Mr. C. A. House was down to judge half the classes, but was unable at the last moment to attend, so that Mr. J. H. Roe took the whole of the classes, and had a rather stiff morning's work. His awards, however, met with general approval. The section was in the capable hands of Mr. J. A. Greenslade (supt.), Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Roberts assisting him greatly in the duties, amongst others being Messrs. Lovell, Ind, Buckland, and Mrs. Garland. Everything passed off in first-class style, great credit being due to Hon. Sec., Mr. Maggs.

COCKERMOUTH.

A Grand Entry.

A most successful show held Nov. 23, the cage bird section being well represented. Borders were the chief feature, and some grand classes were brought together, especially among the clears. Mr. J. S. Wilson secured the B.C. medal with a real good all-round yell. cock, while Mr. Ellwood "did the trick" for the novice medal with a good buff uneven Norwich. Yorkshires were fair classes, while Mules and British, as a whole, were good, some of the classes being well contested. In the Linnets we noticed a few birds of rather doubtful colour, but owing to rules in schedule not covering all liabilities, the judge refrained from testing them, and simply passed them. Mr. J. W. Brnce (Coldstream) judged, and his awards were well received. The genial and hard-working committee had everything in good order, but owing to the fine entry they were rather pinched for room, but managed things splendidly. The hall is well adapted for a show, being free from draughts, and nicely lighted from the top. The society are fortunate in having secured the services of an ideal secretary, Mr. Jackson, who, in his quiet, business-like manner, had everything working smoothly, while the worthy president, Mr. Oglethorpe, rendered valuable assistance, being here, there, and everywhere, trying to, and succeeding, in obliging visitors and exhibitors alike. The show was well patronised, and we hope to hear of a financial success.

BORD., YELL. CK. (20): 1, B.C. medal, 2, Wilson, a good pair, hard to separate, grand head, nice balanced wings and finely rounded body, very sweetly drawn, in tip-top form, well staged; 2nd, a shade stronger, but good body and finish; 3, Dixon, very stylish one, fine pos., nice front and well balanced wings, longer in feather and scarcely so neat in head as winner; 4, Hutchison, good shape, rare body and weight, finely rounded, beaten in feather; vhc, Rea; hc, Walker; c, Moor and Son. BUFF (22): 1, Smith, good head tick, well known winner, in fine form, grand wing carr., and A1 shape and pos., fine weight, well staged; 2, Cubby, good one; a shade stronger and bolder in head, but sweetly moulded; 3, Smart, cheek mark, grand qual. of feather, and splendid pos., fails in roundness of body; 4, G. CONSETT. BLACKHILL.

Sixteenth annual show held in the Skating Rink, Consett, Nov. 23rd. The birds were nicely staged in a well-lighted room, free from draughts, and apart from the other live exhibits. Yorkshires came up well, numbering forty-nine in the four open classes. Messrs. Huddlestone, Coomber and Johnson taking the "cream." Bullfinches were a grand class. Mr. Curry's winner is a gem. Many good Bullies were out of the cards. Crests (open) and several other classes had to be cancelled owing to clashing of dates of Stockton-on-Tees, Haltwhistle, and Cramlington. Mr. Coupland, the secretary, had everything ready, Mr. A. Nichols taking charge of the section. Messrs. Thorpe, Forster, Thompson, Davidson, and Cunningham acted as stewards, and exhibits were well attended to. Mr. T. Robson judged, and his awards were well received. YORKS YELL. TKD., ETC. LAUNCESTON.

Held Nov. 26 in the Market Hall. The entries were an improvement on last year, although several classes were cancelled, many sending in their entries too late. The winners in the Yorkshire classes were birds of much merit, the winning yellow capturing special for best bird in the show. Britishers were a nice lot, the winning Goldfinch being a gem. The local classes had some nice exhibits in them, the winning yellow Norwich, which captured the special, being a nice typical bird. The birds were nicely staged at one end of the hall, and were well cared for by genuine fanciers. Mr. N. H. Reed, the genial hon. sec., had everything working smoothly, and was as courteous as always. Mr. J. H. Payne judged. NOR. CL. ST. COLUMB.

Annual show held Nov. 20th, was a great success both in quality and numbers—148 entries in 12 classes. Norwich section was grand, undoubtedly the best staged in Cornwall for a long time, the winning Nonfighted being a gem of the first water, a pattern in every way. The Yorkshires were two good classes, but several good ones had to stand down owing to being out of condition, as condition tells in a Yorkic. Goldfinches as usual in Cornwall were good, the winner being a gem. In the A.O.V. British class a grand Yellow Wagtail won looking well, closely pressed by a grand Bramblefinch. The exhibits were well staged, and looked after by a good committee, whilst Mr. W. L. Salmon makes an ideal secretary, obliging and considerate to all. The Silver Cup for most points was won by Mr. F. Pascoe. The judge, Mr. C. H. Loy, got through in good time, and his awards were well received.

NEWARK AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual show held Nov. 23, at Headquarters, Boar's Head Hotel. The show was a pronounced success, and there is no reason to doubt that the cage bird fancy in Newark has taken a firm hold. There were over 80 exhibits on view; the large club room was admirably arranged; and there was a crowded attendance of interested spectators. The officers of the society are Ald. W. E. Knight (president); Ald. F. H. Appley, Messrs. E. F. Nicholson, J. McNaught, Davis, J. T. Parnham, and A. Botsford, vice-presidents, and a strong committee, who worked hard and willingly under their able chairman, Mr. A. Wells, with Mr. W. Lidgett, the hon. sec, who had the arranging of the show. Quality was shown all round, but a few may be specially mentioned. In Nor. cks. Mr. J. H. Lamb gained premier honours with two good colour-feds. Nor. hens found the best bird in the show, a fine yell., belonging to Mr. W. Fitchett, which won for him the society's silver cup. In non-fed hens Mr. W. Lidgett stood first with a capped buff, last year's winner in the same class. Mr. W. Staniland (Collingham) won in non-fed cocks with a big bouncing yell., and in Yorks. Mr. W. Fitchett took all honours. In the A.O.V. class Mr. Simpson won well with a neat Border. The committee wish to tender their thanks to the proprietor of the club's headquarters, Mr. H. Hopper, and also to the following gentlemen, who very kindly supplied the special prizes. Messrs. Brunnin, Burbridge, Hill, E. Randall, Mason, Ellis, Clutterbuck, Cupit, Fitchett, Freeman, Hardy, and Willis, and Councillor Pratt, while Messrs. Warwick and Richardson's donation to the funds helped to assist financial matters. Mr. W. Vardy judged, and his awards were well received.

Record Entry, Splendid Show.

Second annual show held Nov. 22 in the Mechanics' Hall, a fine spacious building for the occasion, with plenty of top light, and well lighted at night, as well as being comfortably heated. The exhibits were nicely arranged in four long tiers down the hall, and the tasteful decorations of palms, etc., had a very pleasing effect. Entries came in very well, being a long way ahead of last year, and it was very gratifying to the committee. Border and Norwich sections were the feature of the show, many noted winners being staged. Yorks. were a great improvement on last year, and contained many lovely birds. British were strong, Mr. W. Davidson staging a nice team, claiming three 1sts and one 3rd. Foreign classes only filled moderately, but they were a source of great attraction. The clear mule and hybrid class had to be cancelled. The sectarial reins were in the hands of Messrs. S. Nicholson and W. Tallantyre, who were ably assisted by Mr. J. W. Pattinson, and well backed up by an energetic committee. The winner of the B.F.C.C. medal was Mr. Harry Davidson, with a clear Buff cock. Special for most points in the Border section went to Mr. John Nicholson; 2nd most points to Mr. H. Davidson; most points in Norwich, Mr. Joe Thomas; 2nd, Mr. A. Hermeston. Yorks., most points, Mr. W. Mather; 2nd, Mr. R. Hutler. Brit., most points, Mr. W. Davidson; 2nd, Mr. W. Tomlinson. Mules, most points, Bowerbank Bros; 2nd, Mr. J. R. Cox. Best bird shown by a member, Mr. J. Nicholson, with his uneven marked Cinn. yellow Bord.; runner up, Bowerbank Bros.' Dark Goldfinch-Can. mule. Specials for best yell. and buff Bord. by a novice member were won by Mr. W. Pape. The judges were Mr. J. Dixon, Wigton, Bord., Brit., Mules, and For.; and Mr. A. Holden, Gateshead, Nor., Yorks., and selling.

Davidson, small buff Linnet Mule; vhc, Johnston, well known Siskin Mule, Newcastle, etc. winner, in best of condition.

HETTON-LE-HOLE.

Second annual open show, held in the Workmen's Club Hall, Nov. 23rd. Eight classes were provided, but three were cancelled. Among the birds staged were several of very high quality, and there were some cheap ones in the selling class. Mr. Notley, secretary, had a very busy time. He was kept going all the time, but he had a hard working committee to assist him, and everything went smoothly. Mr. Stanger judged, and everyone seemed satisfied with his decisions.

NOR., BRED 1912: 1, 3, Bainbridge, grand chubby Buff Cock, set down in show form; 3rd, yell., a nice bird, well shown; 2, 6, Wilson, grand Yell. Cock, might have changed places if it had been washed; 4, Affleck; 5, Vipond. NOR. CK.; 1, 2, Wilson, his old champion yell., not looking so well, and a grand buff, hard to part them; 3, Vipond, variog. ck., soft bib, rough on head; 4, 5, G. Goldin. HEN: 1, Wilson, yell. cl., nice chubby hen, easy win; 2,4, Goldand, very nice variog. buff, leading; 3, Henderson, yell. a bit soft, or might have been higher; 5, Vipond. BRIT.: 1, Burt, Skylark, grand feather, very steady, beautifully mkd.; 2, Wilson, very nice Chaffinch, very steady, nice col., well defined wing bars.

ROSSENDALE C.B.S.

First annual show held at headquarters, Commercial Hotel, Stacksteads, Nov. 23rd. There was a splendid entry, and the exhibits were of excellent quality. Mr. W. Lloyd, Pendlebury, was the judge. DARTFORD.

Held in the Assembly Rooms, Nov. 26. The two classes not cancelled were good in numbers and qual., and contained some well-known winners. It is a pity the committee do not extend the classification, for we feel certain it would be to the advantage of this old established society. The birds were nicely staged and in a good light. Mr. Enfield judged. NOR. BUFF (14): 1, 2, res, Shiers, winner bold, sturdy bird, rare col. and style, good wings and tail, 2nd plenty of size and col., good head, wings, and tail, not so tight as winner; 3, Gunnell, nice compact bird, full of qual., right type; vhc, Kerr, Hawkin; hc, Botell. YORKS. (13): 1, Shiers, long, well drawn cl., nice col. and feather, neat head, good back and lights; 2, 3, res, Hawkin, 2nd four-pointed cinn., nice col. and qual., good head, back, and wings, 3rd nice variegated, well, good length, right type; vhc, Crowhurst, Shiers.

INVERURIE.

Held in the reading room, Railway Hall, Nov. 23rd. The entry all over was an increase on last year. Mr. Wm. Allison (Aberdeen) won open challenge cup best young Nor. with a grand yell. hen. Mr. James Kerr was the runner-up with a very fine buff hen. The Local Cup (presented by the President) was won by Mr. John Shoolbraid, with a yell. var. cock of the right type, Mr. Wm. Reid being the runner-up. British and Foreign were a good all-round lot, some real hot ones being out. Mr. J. Lyon (Aberdeen) gained the points special in the Wild Bird section, Mr. Robertson being the runner-up. Norwich were judged by that well-known fancier, Mr. Jas. Sandison, Brit. and For. by Mr. Geo. Finnie, and their awards gave entire satisfaction. The members of committee worked hard to make the show a success, and were ably assisted by the President, Mr. John Shoolbraid, and a hard-working and capable secretary in the person of Mr. James Simpson, and a good Treas. in Mr. James Walker. The management of this society could not be beaten; all are real workers. The show was well patronised, and we trust it will turn out a financial success.

DUNDALK.

Show held in Skating Rink, Nov. 13th and 14th. Judging from the support received from exhibitors and the number of visitors on both days, the show will be a great financial success. The pres., Dr. J. P. Lavery, and vice-president, S. H. Moynagh, Esq., paid great attention both to visitors and exhibits. Mr. T. Walters, hon. sec., with the assistance of Mr. W. Keating, the hon. treas., had everything in apple-pie order for the judge, Mr. A. Wellings, Preston, who gave entire satisfaction.

LLANELLY.

Eighth annual show held at Market Hall, Nov. 26th. The society this year extended the classification, giving 56 classes, but unfortunately fanciers did not give the society the support it richly deserved. The Market Hall is an admirable place for a show, being very roomy, free from draughts, and capable of staging a couple of thousand exhibits. Tiers were arranged running the length of the hall, and good wide passages were allowed between, which allowed everyone to see the exhibits without inconvenience. This part of the arrangements was in the capable hands of our old friends, Mr. Tom Gregory and Mr. T. Jenkins, and everything was carried out without the slightest hitch occurring. The Chairman of the Society is Mr. D. R. Jones, who is a thorough fancier, and he is well supported by the Vice-Chairman, Mr. Jos. Owens, and a hard working Committee—Messrs. Evans, W. J. Harry, T. J. Gregory, Junr., D. Davies, H. Gregory, Ben Evans, W. H. Reynolds, Sam Jones, D. J. Thomas, Sam Lewis T. Bennett, T. Jenkins, T. Williams, G. P. Morgans, H. Webster, R. Bowgett, D. H. Davies, R. W. Morgans, — Teague, and Tom Thomas. The Secretary, Mr. Daniel John, and his assistant, Mr. H. Webster, ares two very capable and energetic officials, and much of the success of the show was due to their efforts. Mr. W. Vardy judged Norwich, and Mr. John Frostick Mules, Brit. and For.

Bennett; vhc, S. Bennett; hc, c, Owens.

Mr. Frostick's Classes.

British were undoubtedly the great feature of the show, and made a magnificent display, notwithstanding the fact that the date clashing with several other important fixtures had naturally a deterrent effect on the number of entries; nevertheless a fairly satisfactory number, under the circumstances, put in an appearance. The classification was superb, and another year, given a more open date, the liberal management ought to reap the benefit of their past efforts. Prompt payment of prize money and efficient attention to the wants of exhibits and exhibitors will no doubt bring their reward. Mr. Marley's exhibits were all absent.

DK. GOLD-CAN. (4): 1, 3, Davies, rich col. yell., and nice buff; 2, Jeffreys, another yell., fails in col. to winner; 4, Roberts. A.V. BETWEEN TWO BRIT. and CAN.-BULLF. (4): 1, 4, Edwards, nice col. Can.-Bullf., rather on the small side, and Gold. Bullf., in nice cond., but not so good in col. as 2, Morgan, same cross; 3, Jeffreys, nice Siskin-Greenfinch, will improve with age. GOLDFINCH (12): 1, 2, vhc, c, Richards, wonderfully rich col. throughout, beautifully burnished, nice wing bars, most perfect cond.; 2nd, larger blaze, well cut, fails a little in high cond.; 3, Mays, good col. bird, but a trifle slack; 4, local sp, Evans, capital all round Finch, will improve; res, Jeffreys, show a trifle too much black on face. FIELD MOULTED (13): very fine class; 1, 2, 3, Lewis, leader a real topper, large square blaze, marvellous col., Cardiff winner; 2nd and 3rd not quite the richness, but close up, a grand trio; 4, Cole, nice type, well selected; vhc, Jones; hc, c, Gregory, Senr. BULLFINCH CK. (12): excellent class; 1, Mays, when judged as smooth as a billiard ball, lovely bird, fine col., rich cap, good wing bars, the Wimbledon winner we think; 2, Holbrow, another grand bird, close up; 3, Jones, very little to choose between; 4, Gregory, Senr., very nice, best lot of winners we've seen this season; res, c, Lucas; vhc, Jeffreys; hc, Ford; w.c., Nicholas, a fine hen. HEN (9): 1, Evans, good size, rich col., and steady; 2, Jones, slightly paler, but nice cond.; 3, res, Gregory, Senr., larger bird, better col., but fails cond.; latter trifle rough. HAWFINCH (3): 1, Miss Wishaw, well-known bird; c, Gregory, Senr.; absent, Marley. LINNET, C.M. (14): 1, sp, vhc, Nicholas, Leyton winner, a bird of rare qual., could do with a bit more chest to make an absolute champion, but quite the best of a good class; latter marked like a hen; 2, Gregory, Junr., a Nor. type, rich nutty brown, fine pencilling and markings generally; 3, Jones, rare size, bit paler; 4, Jeffrey, richer col., good mkgs., fails size; res, Richards, rather open in breastwork; absent, Marley. F.M. (15): 1, 3, Gregory, Senr., rare size, grand chest, stands out like a Guardsman, splendid col., full of work; 3rd, should moult out well; 2, Jones, grand specimen, but not the size of leader; 4, Poyer, nice bird, but runs trifle light in front; res, Nicholas; vhc, Bancroft, Cheltenham winner, beaten to-day; hc, Davies; c, Jenkins. GREENFINCH (7): 1, Wilkins, nice yell., best in class, but not a stormer; 2, Harry, a bull; 3, Ford; 4, Holbrow; res, Tarr; absent, Rogers and Marley. BRAMBLE, ETC. (10): 1, sp, 2, Jeffreys, a pair of real good Chaffinches; 3, Groom, another Chaffinch; 4, sp, Gregory, Senr., a fair Bramble, could do with a little more col.; res, Lucas; absent, Marley (2). Brotherhood; No. 3, Mays, best Bramblefinch in class if it had not unfortunately lost two claws, for which reason it was left out. YELLOW BUNTING (6): 1, Evans, a topper, nice col., cl. cap, well defined head marks; 2, Jones, not far behind; 3, Bancroft; 4, Ford; c, Gregory, Senr. LESSER REDPOLL (10): 1, Nicholas, well known winner, often described; 2, 3, Jeffreys, a brace of rich col. birds; 4, Ford; res, Miss Wishaw; vhc, Harry; hc, Leadbeater; c, Gregory, Senr. MEALY, ETC.: 1, sp, 2, Bancroft, grand, nicely fed Siskin, nice cap and bib, good flank marks, and well known Mealy, in rare form, a good one; 3, 4, Jones, a bonny Twite, and good Siskin; res, Nicholas, Twite; vhc, Gregory, Senr.; hc, Leadbeater; c, Evans. HENS, A.S. FINCHES (12): 1, Ford, well known winning Corn Bunting, a bonny bird, rich col.; 2, Mays, one of the best Brambles, grand col., in the pink of cond.; 3, Jones, nice Linnet; 4, Jeffreys, pretty little Siskin; res, Jeffreys, good col. Redpoll; vhc, Jenkins; hc, Daniel; c, Shepherd. SONG THRUSH, ETC. (4): 1, Mays, real good Blackbird, well staged; 2, Willis, Thrush; 3, same owner, Starling, rather wild. A.O.S. INSECTIV. (4). 1, sp, Harry, Cornish Chough, nice feather and condition, small size, probably a hen; 2, Mays, Grasshopper Warbler, which, but for a defect in left wing, would have won, beautifully shown; 3, Morgan, Bearded Tit; 4, Daniel Bros., Wheatear, would not show itself. PIED, ALBINOS, ETC. (3): 1, Mays, beautiful light variegated Meadow Pipit; 2, Teague, pure White Goldfinch, yellow wings, a very pretty exhibit; 3, Price, real albino Jackdaw, pink eyes, we have seen dozens of Continental White Jackdaws, but this is the first genuine albino we have seen. FOR. SMALL (4): 1, Ford, magnificent Superb Tanager, in glorious col. and cond., would be better in larger cage; 2, Jenkins, grand Tricolor Tanager, brilliant col., not staged to best advantage; 3, Muscott, fine pair Red-headed Gouldians; 4, Morgan, Sulphury Seed-eater, nice exhibit. A.O.S. (3): 1, sp, Mrs. Longden, very fine, well shown Red-collared Lorrikeet, in lovely feather; 2, Davies, Hybrid Mealy-Red Rosella, strictly if in keen competition should not be allowed to compete with true species, but as class was so small, and nothing else of much merit, judge allowed it to pass; 3, Phillips, nice Blue-fronted Amazon, busy chewing up odd feathers. LOCAL, A.V. MULE (12): 1, Jenkins, lightly var. Goldfinch, nice col. and shape; 2, Saunders, dk. Goldfinch, nice size; 3, Hoskin, fairly good Linnet; 4, Jones, nice dk. Goldfinch, bit on the small side; res, Rees; vhc, Bowen; hc, Evans. A.S. BRIT. (21): 1, sp, Reynolds, Goldfinch, fine large well cut blaze, rich tanning, nice wing bars; 2, Lewis, good Linnet, but fails in col.; 3, c, Jones, bonny Siskin, well defined cap and bib, nice thigh marks; 4, res, Evans, nice Goldfinch, fails in col. to winner, and grand col. Bullie, rather too fresh; vhc, Davies, fine Reed Bunting, grand black cap and white collar, would have been higher but for slightly frayed tail, wants bigger cage; hc, Harry, Chaffinch.

CHESHUNT.

Held Nov. 20th in Cheshunt Hall. Although it was the society's first attempt the show was a very creditable one, and the secretary, Mr. Goodwin, with a good staff of workers on the committee had everything in good order. Sir John Rolleston, M.P., is the president. Mr. Hoare, chairman of committee, made a nice display of cages, which were well made and cheap at the prices quoted, and all kinds of cage bird foods and appliances, which made a fine display. Mr. J. E. Woodford, Oxford, judged, and seemed to give every satisfaction. NOR. (7): 1, 3, r, Medley, winner very cobby buff, rare good chest, fine in feather; 3rd also very nice qual. buff; r, a good yell., all three very typical; 2, Hodgetts, good qual. yell., well shown; vhc, Elliott; c, Phipps. NON-FED. (4): 1, Barnard, very nice stamp of Nor., shown in fine condition, won easy; 2, Mrs. Elliott, a very good specimen; 3, r, Clark, two other good ones. YORKS (6): 1, 2, Mrs. Elliott, real good birds, nice and narrow in girth, shown in the pink of condition, a yell. and a buff; 3, r, vhc (2), Nichols, four nice Yorks., not quite so fit as the two placed over them. A.O.V. (2): 1, Hodgetts, very nice qual. Cinn.; vhc, Mrs. Elliott. MULE (4): 1, Nichols, fine qual. light Goldfinch Mule, in nice condition; 2, r, qual. light Goldfinch Mule and Goldfinch Mule; Clark, very pretty Siskin Mule and Goldfinch Mule; 3, Taylor, a very good dark Goldfinch Mule. BRIT. (8 in good class): 1, Hodgett, good Goldfinch, nice bright blaze, good wing bars, very steady; 2, r, vhc, hc, Elliott, very nice qual. Chaffinch, well shown; r, nice qual. Hen Bullfinch, shown in nice condition; 3, Medley, real good Greenfinch; hc, Barnard. FOR. (2): 1, 2, Hoare, winners a nice pair of Weavers, two pretty pair Avadavats.

GLASGOW & DIS. C.B.A.

Annual show held in the Glasgow Highlanders' Drill Hall, Greendyke Street, Glasgow, on Friday and Saturday, November 22nd and 23rd. This is one of the finest halls in the country for the housing and comfort of exhibits and exhibitors alike. The building, a large square one, of enormous size, with its elliptic arched roof, was well lighted from both sides, and the light which penetrated into every corner of the building must have been of great assistance to the judges in the execution of their duties. We were sorry to learn that the entries had dropped almost 300 this year, Crests, Borders, Mules, and British being responsible for the decrease. Norwich made a capital show, and many birds of really outstanding quality and merit were staged. Crests and Crestbreds were few, but up to the usual in quality. Yorks., we fancy, were rather better in quality than we have witnessed at many of our Scottish shows, and this variety is no doubt making headway in the land of the thistle. Borders on the whole were scarcely as good as we have seen, though doubtless many nice ones were staged. British, though down in numbers, were quite up to the standard. It must be disappointing to the management of this association to find their excellent work being so indifferently appreciated. From the president down, every man is a well-known fancier and exhibitor, worthy of the earnest sympathy and support of the entire Fancy. The reins were in the hands of the genial Wm. Hutchison, and could not be left to a more capable or devoted fancier, one who is ever ready to assist in his quiet and modest way. By another year they may be able to fill the hall, by receiving the support that they are so worthy of. The following were the judges, and their decisions on the whole were well received:—Norwich and Crests, J. Holmes, Edinburgh; Bord., R. Lambie, Whitburn; Yorks., Dr. Syson, Glasgow; Brit. and For., R. Bald, Baldgate, and S. Ward, Glasgow. Shield for most points was won by Glasgow and West of Scotland C.B.A. Rose bowl for 2nd most points by Partick C.B.C. Mr. McQuiston had a field day, winning two cups, the Jarvie cup for best bird, and the Motherwell cup for best Bord., Yorks., or British, with the same exhibit, his well-known Clough, truly a fine performance for a single bird.

DARLEY DALE F.S

Seventh annual open show held Nov. 21 in the Whitworth Institute Pavilion, which was an ideal place for the occasion. The birds were well staged and cared for in the best possible manner by the stewards, Messrs. Norman and Morse. The hon. secs., Messrs. Dawson and Fearn, are capable officials, and were most courteous and obliging to everybody. The awards were made by Mr. C. Ward (Derby), and gave general satisfaction. Entries did not come up so well as anticipated, six classes having to be cancelled. NOR. CK. (8): 1, Fox, buff, rare size and type, fine front, good head and neck, delightful feather and col., full of action, wins easily; 2, Else, buff (Matlock winner), not the sub. of winner, round chest, nice carr., clean cut away, good condition; 3, Williams, buff, nice sub., well across perch, well shown; res, Dean; vhc, Bradley; hc, c, Dean. UNFLIGH. (9): 1, Bradley, buff, fine substance, bonny head and neck, capital col. of feather, promising youngster; 2, Dean, buff, sweetly moulded, lovely qual., dainty carr., not the sub.; 3, res, Lill (yellow), nice shape, good col. and feather; vhc, Dean; hc, c, Buxton. BRIT. (10): 1, Allwood, Hawfinch, beautifully feathered, grand shape, well shown, a gem; 2, Bull, Linnet, not large, nice qual., very steady; 3, Williams, Bullfinch, nice, col. and qual., splendid trim; res, c, Poole; vhc, Lomas; hc, Gentle. Special for best bird shown by member, C. Gentle.

IMPROVEMENT AT ROCHDALE.

The New Date Gives Better Entry.

Times change, and men change with them. After holding its show for more than twenty years in the famous Town Hall, the Rochdale O.C. last year removed to the Ambulance Hall. The result was a drop in the entry, and a smaller gate, but as the expenses were less, the club came out some £5 or £6 better than in previous years. For quite a generation the show has always been held the third week in October. This year a change was made to a month later, November 22-23, but really one cannot honestly say the move was a success. True, the entries were a few more, but then there was an extended schedule. The Lancs. shown were a good representative lot; in fact, they were a more evenly balanced collection than usual. Very few of the crouching slovenly type were on view. Those veterans of the breed, Messrs. Barrass, Hardy, Naden, and Garner staged some notable birds, as did Messrs. G. Fitton (a name we are pleased to see still associated with the breed), Beattie, and Hordern. Mr. Green, who has long held the best in the South of England, sent some most handsome birds, which held their own well with those of the local breeders. Lizards were magnificent. In every class excepting the clear capped Golds, the competition was very keen indeed. Several exhibits in the Clear Caps were passed. Mr. Ollerenshaw put down a very strong team, and did the greater part of the winning in the Broken Caps. Mr. Dewsnap did not meet with his usual success, but another of the veterans, John Rukin, the L.L.F.A. popular secretary, held a strong hand in the Broken-capped Silver hens. Mr. Millington headed a good novice class with a bird that would have given a good account of itself amongst the champions. We congratulate the Lizard breeders most heartily upon the splendid display they made at this the leading show of the year. Not many years ago Rochdale was looked upon by Yorkshire breeders as one of their best fighting grounds, but during recent years they have not given it so much support as they used to do, which is strange, seeing that the executive every year appoint a Yorkshire specialist. In Crestbreds, Mr. Brotherton's famous yellow was easily first, and thus notched his fifth successive win at Rochdale. Norwich were not great, Border Greens were grand, and Mr. Mundell handed them exceedingly well. The genial Bradfordian was strong on type, and the chubby chested ones had short shrift at his hands. Messrs. Parker and Little scored with birds that were full of grace and style, and of good colour. According to the Cinnamon-marked handbook, Mr. House should have judged that club's competition, but by an oversight they were allotted to Mr. Mundell, who, needless to say, handled them in rare style. If there is one variety more than another that "Pa" delights to judge, it is that in which he used to score so well in the days which are past. There is little need to talk of the management. At Rochdale, the committee, one and all, are true-hearted fanciers, and they look after the exhibits entrusted to their care with the greatest assiduity. The president, Mr. John Naden, has grown grey in the service of the club, as have those good fellows Levi Butterworth (vice-president), and Robert Barrass (treas.). What a trio they are! Others there are worthy of special mention, amongst them Messrs. J. Liddle, J. Butterworth, A. Beattie, F. Daniels, S. Entwistle, J. Fawcett, J. Heap, J. Lees, W. A. Mills, Geo. Naylor, W. Pratt, F. Rabbich, A. Sidebottom, J. Sutton, A. Waring, and C. Whitehead. These all worked hard and well to make things go with the usual Rochdale smoothness, and well they succeeded. Mr. R. Blincoe is proving himself to be a "gradely" successor to the many good men and true who have filled the secretarial post at Rochdale, and his tack, geniality, and energy are devoted to upholding the great tradition of this old-established fixture. The ladies' refreshment and tea stall was a much appreciated feature. The ladies responsible for its management were: Mesdames Liddle (pres.), Mills (vice-pres.), Naden (treas.), Bamford (sec.), Butterworth, Cowen, Entwisle, Leach, Mills and Beattie, and right well did they attend to the wants of the exhibitors and visitors. Mr. C. A. House, who officiated for the twentieth year in succession, judged Lancs., Liz., Crests, Norwich, and Mules, and the remainder were taken by Mr. W. Mundell. The awards were well received, and generally endorsed by visitors and exhibitors.

Mr. C. A. House's Classes.

LANCS. COPPY YELL. (7): 1, Hardy, grand shape and length, full of style, neat clean centre, grand spread and width of coppy, stout neck and shoulders, massive body, grand wings and tail, beautifully finished; 2, Hordern, very massive in body, broader in back and deeper and wider in chest, neat centre, nicely finished coppy, lacks the spread and front of winner; 3, he, Barrass, long sided bird, plenty of subs., grandly feathered, full of style, neat centre, well spread broad front; 4, Garner, not quite so much subs, of body, grand shape, length and style, beautiful finish; c, Beattie. BUFF (8): 1, Hardy, a giant indeed, tremendous length and subs. of body, great spread of coppy, rare front, well finished back, neat centre, broad stout shoulders, great depth through chest, splendid wings and tail, carries himself like a soldier; 2, c, Fitton, not quite so massive or long in body, splendid shape and style, clean and neat in centre, good spread, but not so wide in coppy, capital wings and tail; 3, 4, Green, very long sided bird, with grand wings and tail, splendid shape and carr., well spread, neatly centred coppy, a long, strong beak spoils his frontal appearance, 4th grand shape and style, capital length of body; vhc, Beattie; hc, Garner; No. 3, Newall, passed as "wrong class." P.H. YELL (8): 1, c, Fitton, great length, very stout shoulders, capital width of back, thick through chest, plenty of wing and tail, grand feather, wide skull, good scowling expression, and grand lash; 2, 4, Beattie, broad, stout front, grandly lashed, great length and substance of body, splendid wings and tail, very stylish, and gets well up, 4th immense bird, great length and substance; 3, Naden, plenty of subs. of body and skull, grand lash, heavily feathered body, not the length of the leaders, and does not show so well; vhc, Kay; hc, Green. BUFF (6): 1, Barrass, monster, one of the sort so long associated with the name of this Lancashire veteran, tremendous width and subs. of skull, magnificent lashing, tremendous length and subs., rare wings and tail, gets well up to his work, heavily feathered; 2, 4, Filton, fine, big, slashing bird, great length of flights and tail, splendid body feather, very stout well lashed skull, not so stout in neck, stands well up on a good pair of legs, 4th plenty of subs., of body and skull, but shorter; vhc, Swallwell; hc, J. Butterworth. COPPY TKD. YELL. (5): 1, Barrass, magnificent shape and spread, beautiful centre and front, long, stout, well carried body, abundance of body feather, carries himself like the gentleman he is; 2, Green, great length and sub., rare flights and tail, carries himself splendidly, coppy well spread, but not so neat in centre or wide in front; 3, 4, Fitton, tremendous length and subs., grand flights and tail, abundance of feather, well centred coppy, but inclined to lift it, 4th well carried body, not so well finished in coppy; vhc, J. Butterworth. BUFF (6): 1, Hordern, grand centre, great width of spread, nicely finished front, stout neck and shoulders, great length and subs., abundance of feather, rare wings and tail, gets well up; 2, Lowe, almost perfect formation of coppy, grand in centre, front, side, and back, very long, stylish body, capital wings and tail, good back and chest, not so stout in neck, a bird of qual.; 3, Garner, splendid length and subs., plenty of feather, splendid carr., neat centre, nicely shaped coppy, lacks the spread of front; 4, Hardy, nice length of body, but not so massive; vbc, Barrass; No. 5, Garner, shapely bird of nice feather, but appears defective in sight. TKD and HEN classes cancelled. This does not look as though the later date was appreciated by the Coppy men. BRED 1912, COPPY (7): 1, vhc, Beattie, grand, long stout bodied yell., beautiful centre and spread of coppy, grand neck and shoulders, good wide level back, capital length of wings and tail, splendid feather, stands well up; 2, Green, grandly centred and fronted tkd. buff, splendid style, great length and subs., abundance feather, good wings and tail, plenty of style, not so well finished at back of coppy; 3, Lowe, very heavily feathered buff tkd., splendid centre, spread, and front of coppy, stout long body, does not get up on his legs quite so well as leaders; 4, Fitton; hc, Kay; c, Minty. P.H. (8): 1, Hardy, very long sided yell., plenty of subs., great width of skull, grandly lashed, abundance of body feather, rare flights and tail, gets well up on his legs, a grand exhibit; 2, Beattie, another grand yell., tremendous width and subs. of skull, splendidly lashed, very stout neck and shoulders, great width of back and depth of chest, not so long in body and does not get up so well; 3, Barrass, massive, long sided buff, plenty of body, abundance of feather, hardy so massive in skull; 4, Lowe, grand lengthy tkd. yell.; vhc, Beattie; hc, Minty; c, Naden; absent, Hordern. NOV. (6): 1, vhc, Newell, rattling good buff coppy, nice length and substance, neat centre, good spread and wide front, carries a wealth of feather, very stylish, good lasbing, looks like a hen, if so, a good one, and absurdly cheap at catalogue price of 20s.; 2, Woodhead, long, stylish, good shaped yell. plhd., nice width and subs. of skull, well lashed, plenty of feather, well proportioned body; 3, 4, Kay, big, heavy bodied buff plhd., capital length and subs., splendid feather, good wings and tail, 4th tkd. buff coppy, nice length and style, nicely centred and well spread coppy, not so massive in body, but grandly feathered; hc, Siddle. LIZARDS, GOLD, CL. CAP (6): 1, Ramsden's sp, Barnes, grand shape and size, good broad back, covered with rich deep distinct spangling, very regularly rowed, nicely finished cap, mooned in right wing; 2, Hamer, grand shape, size, and style, nicely finished cap, grandly spangled on back, good shoulders, grand feather, not quite so rich in ground col.; 3, Hampshire, beautiful shape and style, nice size, very even and clear in spangling, not so rich in col.; 4, Ollerenshaw, not quite so large, but beautifully spangled; vhc, Steeple; No. 3, Rukin, about the best in the class, but was passed because it only had eleven feathers in its tail. SILVER (10): 1, Hamer, beautiful, bold distinct spangling, sound rich ground col, nicely frosted, splendid shape, good level back, deep chest, slendid feather and style, in grand form; 2, Ollerenshaw, very grandly rowed, good wide back, spangling very clear and distinct, splendid col., shape, and feather; 3, Rukin, grandly finished cap, of good shape, carries a lot of work on a nice level back, but a bit plain on shoulders, and mooned on one flight, grand col. and feather, very showy; 4, Hampshire, very neat cap, nice shape and style, not in quite such nice feather; vhc, Martin; hc, L. Butterworth; No. 3, Barnes, good bird with broken tail; No. 1, Ollerenshaw, passed as "wrong class," broken on right side; No. 7, Hampshire, broken on left side; No. 9, L. Butterworth, broken on left side. In the opinion of the judge there were birds in the Broken-capped classes that were not so badly broken as either of these three. BROKEN CAPPED GOLD. (8): 1, 2, Ollerenshaw, 1st a real beauty, wonderfully rich and bright in col., good broad back, very evenly rowed, with large bold spangling, grand shape and size, good shoulders and chest, 2nd very shapely, nice size, grandly feathered, not quite so rich in body spangling, splendid back, capital wings and tail, lovely col.; 3, Hamer, grand shape and size, very showy and stylish, capital back, wings, and tail, carries a wealth of spangle, but is not quite so rich in ground col., good legs and feet; 4, Rukin, better than either 1st or 2nd in col., magnificently spangled, hardly so large in body, and rather wild when handled, which spoils its rowing; vhc, c, Barnes; hc, Martin. SILVER (10): A really wonderful class: 1, 2, Ollerenshaw, fine, bold, bouncing bird, grand shape and size, full of style, grand back, legs, and feet, good broad back, very evenly covered, with large dark spangling, rich and sound in col., nicely silvered, 2nd gem, if anything even sharper and bolder in spangling than winner, certainly better on breast and sides of body, not quite so large, but full of col., qual., and style, only a couple of feathers make it a broken; 3, Hamer, grand shape and size, rare style and feather, nice broad level back, bold distinct spangling, hardly so rich in col., nearly a clear cap; 4, Barnes, grand shape, beautiful col., grandly spangled, nice body ereeling, tail not quite down or would have been higher; vhc, L. Butterworth; hc, c, Martin. HEN, CL. CAPPED GOLD (8): 1, 4, J. Dewsnap, wonderfully fine cl. cap, magnificent col., lovely feather, grand shape, size, and style, fine, bold, sharp spangling, on a broad level back, not quite level in finish of cap, 4th beauty for col., feather, style, and spangle, but rather narrow in body; 2, 3, Rukin, even better in cap than winner, but not quite so large in body, lovely shape and feather, rich sound col., full of spangle, rare shoulders and chest, 3rd charming no-cap, sweet shape, wonderful feather and style, profusely spangled, but the work is not quite so bold as that of the 2nd, lovely col., vhc, Barnes; hc, Hamer; c, Ollerenshaw, a most excellent class. SILVER CL. CAP (8): 1, Barnes, almost perfect thumb-nail cap, good level back, profusely and regularly spangled, the work being bold, sharp, and clean, lovely col., feather, and style, nice chest, good wings and tail, nicely silvered; 2, Hamer, beautiful shape, size, and style, hardly so well finished at base of cap, splendidly spangled, capital chest, lovely col., and well silvered; 3, c, Rukin, magnificent shape and style, close and silky in feather, rich deep col., grand back, profusely covered with spangle, pity it has two tail feathers mooned; 4, J. Dewsnap, beautiful spangled, lovely col., neat shape; vhc, L. Butterworth; hc, Ollerenshaw. BROKEN CAPPED GOLD (10): 1, Hamer, broken just enough to be styled a broken, but broken it was, large, full, well finished cap, grand shape and size, beautifully rich and sound in col., profusely spangled, and shown in the pink of condition; 2, 4, Ollerenshaw, magnificent col., and most beautiful spangling, hardly so cobby in shape, capital wings and tail, 4th very sweet in shape, feather, and col.; 3, J. Dewsnap, not quite so bold and shapely in body, beautifully feathered, lovely col., grandly rowed with bold distinct spangles; vhc, Ollerenshaw; hc, Barnes; c, Rukin. SILVER (10): 1, 3, vhc, hc, Rukin, fine big showy hen, grand shape and feather, full of work of bold rich pattern, put on very evenly, rich sound ground col., and lovely frosting, 3rd very shapely, rich bright col., grand feather, beautifully and regularly spangled, not quite so showy; 2, 4, Ollerenshaw, smart and stylish, a profusion of spangle, grand level back, beautiful col., grand feather, not quite so large, very nicely silvered, 4th very handsome no-cap; c, Fitton. BUCKHAVEN.

A Very Gratifying Entry.

Fifth annual exhibition held in the Free Gardeners' Hall, Nov. 23rd. Although the Scotch Fancies and Crest Classes had to be cancelled through lack of support, an entry of 450 was forwarded, which was very gratifying, considering the number of shows held that day. Border Fancies numbered 180 of this total, and contained some real gems, many good birds having to take a back seat. The B.F.C.C. medal was captured by Mr. Thomas Halliday with his Buff Cock, staged to perfection, the runner up being the Buff Hen belonging to Mr. H. Bennet. The novice medal was won by a Yellow Cock, 2nd in its class, the property of Mr. James Service, of Duns. The cup for most points continued to members was secured for the second time by the President, Mr. D. Henderson, with a total of 29 points. A few of the birds seemed to have had a taste of the "forbidden fruit," but the judge, Mr. A. Walker (Lesmahagow) gave them their right place, although one or two escaped his notice, and got into the tickets. Mr. Walker had a hard day's work, but he got through in good time. The Norwich classes were fairly well filled, and contained some real champions. The principal honours fell to Mr. Harris, of Lochgelly, who won the president's gold medal for most points. Mr. James Smeaton, Musselburgh, judged this section with every satisfaction. The British classes were somewhat disappointing, despite the fact that the society had the full patronage of the L.B.B. and M.C. As every society that gets the full patronage has to pay a fee of ten shillings, the members ought to support them better, especially when they have to give an extended classification to secure same. Mr. Robert Bald, Bathgate, judged this section, and gave every satisfaction. The hall in which the show was held is very suitable for such a purpose. The staging was nicely arranged along two sides of the hall, and two rows running up the centre. The officials are a hard working lot, headed by the worthy president, Mr. D. Henderson. In having Mr. Richard Haygard as their secretary, the society is to be congratulated on having the right man.

INVERNESS.

An Entry that Beat all Records.

Thirty-second annual show held on Nov. 20th in the Drill Hall, Rose Street. The entries this year were far in excess of former years, notably in British section; the quality also being excellent. Mr. Thos. Sutherland, Sec., and Mr. W. Innes, Treas., backed up by the Committee of Management: Messrs. J. W. McKenzie, Alex. McKenzie, J. Duncan, James Hutchison, Alex. Sanderson, Thos. Murphy, Hugh McLean, D. Anderson, John Anderson, David Anderson, Frank Stanford, Alex. Junor, John McNaughton, Edward Todd, Alex. Smith, Ewd. Harcombe, and R. Duncan, with Mr. Alex. Smith, President, and Mr. E. Chisholm, Vice-Pres., being all keen and enthusiastic fanciers. Several new ideas were forward, notably the appointment of a show manager, and two judges instead of one, Mr. John Dewar (Edinburgh) Cnn., Mules and Hyb., and Mr. T. A. Watt (Banff) British birds. Everything was satisfactory, and we heard no grumbling. The Committee having now learned that it pays to get a British bird specialist, a large turnout of South birds were to be seen on our benches, notably Mr. Sykes' Hawfinch, which came in for a lot of attention, also Anderson Brothers' Yellow Wagtail, and a pied Blackbird shown by D. Fraser, Mackie, Aberdeen. Crests and Crestbreds were greatly admired; Linnet Mule by J. Duncan was also successful in securing medal for best dark Mule. The medal by the Association, for most points, was won by Mr. Stanford, for Canaries; medal by the Association for most points in British, Anderson Bros., Balloch; special for best Can. in show, Mackie, Aberdeen; medal for most points in Borders, J. Connochie; medal for best British bird, E. Harcombe; special for 2nd best British, Anderson Bros.; special for 2nd best Canary, J. Hutchison; medal for best Yorkshire, Junor.

The Critique.

SCOT. (3): 1, 2, 3, Gibb, 1st, yell., on small side, grand style and action; 2nd, green, a good Fancy, easily handled, presses hard; 3rd, another yell., will be heard of later. YORKS. YELL., TKD., ETC. (3): 1, McLean, yell. hen, nice length, good head, neck, and shoulders, very stylish; 2, Smith, another good Yorkie, stands well, hard pressed; 3, Junor (absent). BUFF (3): 1, McLean, grand length and style, inclined to cross wings; 2, Duncan, another good Yorkie, lacks length to winner; 3, Junor, good qual., but we think should have gone up a bit. VARIEG. YELL or BUFF (1): 1, Smith, a taking exhibit, all there for type and qual. YOUNG BIRD (12): 1, 2, Junor, splendid head and shoulders, good yell. wings and tail, grand pos.; 2nd, close up to winner, not much between them; 3, Smith, another yell., good exhibit, stands well, tight as wax, shown in good cond.; vhc, Wilkinson, yell., fails to winners in feather, but a good one; hc, c, Rhind. BORD., CL. or TKD. YELL. (12): 1, Munro, yell., nice feather, tight as wax, stands well; 2, Connochie, another bonny bird, carr. a grand sheen, must have pressed hard; 3, Blackie, nice head and carr., bit inclined to cross wings; vhc, Connochie, hardly ready for show, but a good one; hc, c, Harcombe. HEN (7): 1, Connochie, grand specimen, wins well, very typical, a taking Border; 2, Munro, similar to winner, nice feather and finish, in grand trim; 3, Craig, another good one, but not at its best to-day; vhc, McLeod, good head and body, trifle leggy; hc, Harcombe; c, Tresurer. CL or TKD. BUFF CK. (8): 1, Craig, leader a nice Border, all there for type and qual., nice exhibit; 2, Munro, another typical Border, shown in faultless cond., presses hard; 3, hc, Connochie, loses to-day in slackness of feather, hardly ready for Inverness, but a good one; vhc, Blackie; c, Harcombe. BUFF HEN (8): 1, Simpson, winner, a taking exhibit, put down in first class order, a wee lady; 2, Craig, another beauty, not much between them; 3, vhc, Connochie, the former another sweet Border, but fails in qual. and finish of feather; hc, Harcombe; c, Blackie. VARIEG. BUFF (2): 1, Craig, a variegated, grand type and qual., nice carr. wings and shown in tip-top order; 2, Shearer, another good one, but lacks finish to winner, otherwise smart bird. VARIEG. YELL. (5): 1, Blackie, medal for best Border in show, a model for type and qual., the best we have seen for a long time, wins well; 2, Craig, inclined to be soft when taking notes; 3, Connochie, wing and eye mkd., a nice bird; vhc, McLeod Bros.; hc, Harcombe. GR. or CINN (4): 1, Connochie, an easy win, a wee gem, a bonny exhibit, splendid shape; 2, Munro, another good one, lacks finish of winner, but a good one; 3, vhc, the former a nice Border, but could do with a shorter tail. EVEN MKD. (3): 1, Connochie, neat head, benutiful feather, well carr. wings; 2, McGregor, very jaunty, not quite finish of winner, but presses hard; 3, Shearer, another good Border, very shapely, would profit by a wash. NOR. (BRED 1912) (11): one of the largest classes, two sets of winners could be chosen here; 1, Allison, cl. buff, good size and qual., well balanced wings and nice tail; 2, Hird, yell., grand shape and finish, well put down; 3, Baxter, another good young bird, in splendid condition, presses hard; vhc, Ironside; hc, Stanford; c, Ironside. CREST CL. CK. (8): 1, 3, Mackie, the former a grand exhibit, a perfect monster, with grand centre and droop, much admired by all; 3rd, another good one, but fails in length of feather to winner; 2, Grant, same stamp as winner, with good skull and nice crest, wins well; vhc, c, Craigen, grand size, well put down, but lacks the length of feather of winners; c, Smith. HEN (3): 1, Grant, a nice green, with plenty feather and subs., showing well; 2, Todd, another good Crest, of fine size and qual. of feather; 3, Smith, another splendid Crest, loses to-day, but nothing to be ashamed of, looking well. C.B. CK. (6): 1, Grant, yell., grand head and splendid qual. of feather, grand specimen of Crestbred; 2, Smith, nice head, broad skull, good lashings; 3, Mackie, another of the same, but beaten to-day in feather and finish; vhc, Rose; hc, Craigen; c, Todd. HEN (4): 1, Grant, a monster for a hen, plenty feather and the right qual., wins well; 2, Smith, nice green, fine head, well hooded, put down in the pink of cond.; 3, Todd, var., not quite ready yet, enjoying a bath when taking notes; vhc, Smith. BRED 1912 (6): 1, vhc, c, Smith, 1st a regular topper, will be hard to beat, grand lashings and qual. of feather, lengthy, massive skull, a clinker, wins; vhc, another good one, but scarcely ready, will be heard of later on; 2, Mackie, a nice Crest, well balanced, with grand centre, a promising winner; 3, Todd, another nice bird, put down in first class order; hc, McGregor. UNFED, CL. or MKD. YELL. (5): 1, McDonald, nice yell., grand shape, lovely wing carr., nice Bullie type; 2, Fraser, ticked yell., another cobby boy, looks a promising specimen, pressing hard; 3, McDonald, bathing when taking notes; vhc, Garden; hc, George. HEN (3): 1, McDonald, splendid head, nice size, in grand trim, well shown; 2, 3, Stanford, the former not so large as winner, but all there for type and quality; 3rd, another good one, loses in size only. CL. or TKD. BUFF CK. (9): 1, Hendry, splendid type, carries wings to perfection, wins; 2, Hird, another beauty, plenty substance, lacks size of winner; 3, McDonald, grand shape, nice qual., well put down; vhc, sp. for best, Stanford, a nice exhibit, we think should have been further up; hc, Goodall; c, Duncan. HEN (3): 1, 2, Gardner, a bonny hen, in first class bloom, nice head, capital front, A1 order; 2nd, another topper, but loses to-day; 3, McKay, rather poor condition, requires a bathing. VARIEG. (7): 1, 3, Stanford, the former a nice variag. with plenty type and qual., an old winner; 3rd, another of the same, put down in first class order; 2, Goodall, a nice exhibit, hard to find fault with, a good Nor.; vhc, Shearer; hc, Fraser; c, Donaldson and Grant. COL. FED. YORKS. (4): 1, vhc, Junor, a bonny specimen of Yorkie, nice length, grand position, stands well, on good legs; 2, Rhind, a taking exhibit, mkd. on head and wings, of good shape, fails in front to winner; 3, Wilkinson, another good one, of nice shape and form, fails in length. HEN (4): 1, Rhind, Cinn. mkd., fine length and qual., in fine trim, well balanced, wins; 2, vhc, Junor, the former cl., a good one, tight as wax in feather, a nice exhibit; 3, Wilkinson, lacks size and finish to winners, but a good Yorkie. CL. or TKD. YELL. CK. NOR. (7): 1, Ironside, a nice yell., plenty col. and size, in good bloom, fine qual. all over; 2, Hutchison, another topper with plenty size, bonny head, and lovely shape, presses hard; 3, Baxter, yell. tkd., a shade smaller than winners, but all there for type and qual.; vhc, Craigen; hc, c, Stanford. HEN (3): 1, Allison, nice type and qual., a good one, plenty col., cl.; 2, Stanford, another good hen, a difficulty to choose from; w.c., No. 2. CL. or TKD. BUFF CK. (10): 1, Hutchison, grand buff, plenty size and qual., winner of 2nd best Can. in show, put down in faultless cond.; 2, Ironside, another buff, similar to winner, splendid cobby bird, rare qual., not much between winner; 3, Goodall, nice size, qual., crosses wings; vhc, Todd; hc, Hird; c, Garden. HEN (10): 1, Craigen, splendid type, fine col. and carr., staged to perfection; 2, Hird, a regular Bullie shape with round head and nice wings; 3, Allison, a wee bit puffy in feather when taking notes, but a good birdie; vhc, hc, Garden; c, Hutchison. YELL. or BUFF VARIEG. (8): 1, Ironside, wing mkd., wonderful subs., nice wing carr., a picture; 2, Allison, winner of best col.-fed Nor., a beauty for col., blazing hot exhibit, well shown; 3, Stanford, a good Nor., might have done better, but loses in col. to winners; vhc, Murray; hc, Hendry; c, Donaldson and Grant. A.V. CAN. (7): 1, Craigen, Cinn. Nor., good size and col., wins well; 2, Hendry, green Nor. of nice type and qual., well worthy of its place; 3, Todd, cl. Crest, with plenty feather and subs., at the "tuh" when taking notes; vhc, Murray; hc, Wathe; c, George. NOV. (10): 1, c, Mackie, a hot fed Nor., nice exhibit, a good first; 2, Grant, a Yorkie, fit for open competition; 3, McLean, a C.B., an old stager, but in soft condition; vhc, Bruce; hc, Fraser. MULE, DK. (16): 1, Duncan, Linnet-Can., far ahead of all others, looking well, shows parentage to advantage; 2, Todd, yell. Goldie, a bonny bird, teeming with col. and qual.; 3, vhc, Hird, Greenfinch, a monster for size, and staged to advantage; vhc, Goldfinch-Can., another beauty, but lacks sheen of winners; hc, Stanford; c, McDonald. MULE or HYB. (5): 1, Hird, lovely mkd. Goldie Mule, we hear a Northern winner, as good looking as ever, wins to-day; 2, Todd, Bramble-Chaffinch, good size, but lacks col., shows parentage, but a hen; 3, Fraser, var. Goldfinch, another well-known face with new owner; vhc, Junor, Linnet-Bullie, good size and col. for a hen; hc, Todd, Goldie-Bullfinch, another of the gentle sex, with leg broken. GOLDFINCH (13): 1, Harcombe, winner of medal for best Brit., a wee bit more size and it would take a lot of stopping; 2, Walker, a good bird, very badly stnged, perches too high; 3, Sykes, another sweet Goldie, nice square blaze, but lacks polish of winners; vhc, hc, McLean; c, Marganti; No. 3, Junor, a grand Goldie, unfortunately bathing when judged, or would have been up a bit. BRIT. BULLFINCH (14): 1, Anderson Bros., a stormer for size and col., nice cap and bars, we overheard the judge wanting to buy here; 2, Baxter, another grand Bullie, splendid size and col., not much between them; 3, Gentleman, loses in size only, but a "clinker" for col.; vhc, McLennan; hc, c, Craigen. HEN (10): 1, 2, Gentleman, the largest Bullfinch in class, in tip-top order, an easy first; 2nd, another of the same type and qual.; 3, Todd, another good hen, but lacks the size of winners; vhc, McLennan; hc, McLean; c, Duncan. SISKIN (UNFED.) (9): 1, McLean, a sweet yell. with jet cap, bird nicely laced, fit for the Palace; 2, Gentleman, another, wee bit soft, carr. the same markings as 1st; 3, McAdam, not quite the size of winners, but a good Siskin; vhc, McDonald; hc, J. Anderson; c, Harcombe. No. 6, Junor, one of the best Siskins we have seen for years in Inverness show, but unfortunately showing a few white feathers on side of head, which stopped him. FED (4): 1, Reid, a bonny col. fed, with dense cap and lovely bib, splendid flank markings; 2, Sykes, another beauty, shown to perfection, not much to choose from; 3, Connochie, looking rather thick, but a fair Siskin; vhc, Junor. LINNET (9): 1, Hird, a nice Linnet with good markings, splendid polish, and shows whites to advantage; 2, Duncan, a better Linnet, but badly staged, very steady for a F.M. one, lacks polish to winner; 3, Fraser, not quite the size of winners, but nicely marked; vhc, c, Junor. REDPOLL (8): 1, Gentleman, a nice bird, with fine poll and bib; splendid lacings, crest full of work; 2, Junor, another good one, not much to choose from; 3, McDonald, a shade smaller to winners, but a good one; vhc, Anderson Bros.; c, Goodall. GREENFINCH (9): 1, Reid, a grand yell., good size, splendid wing bars, a regular toff; 2, Sykes, another stormer, pressing hard; 3, vhc, c, Anderson Bros., a trio of good Greenfinches, all fit to win in good company. A.O.S. LARGE (3): 1, Sykes, well known Hawfinch, needs no comment here, greatly admired; 2, Simpson, another good Hawfinch, something similar to winner, presses hard; 3, Fraser, Albino Blackbird, shown in fine cond. SMALL (11): 1, Anderson Bros., splendid Yell. Wagtail, shown in faultless cond.; 2, Sykes, Reed Bunting, a bonny exhibit, shows well, a credit to its owner; 3, Allison, Ortolan Bunting, a splendid specimen, pressing hard; vhc, Donaldson and Grant; hc, Junor; c, Todd. BRIT. HEN (5): 1, Duncan, Chaffinch, very steady, good exhibit; 2, J. Anderson, Linnet, grand size and finish; 3, Junor, Siskin, a nice marked hen; vhc, McLean; hc, Anderson Bros., Hawfinch. NOV. BRIT (8): 1, Grant, Bullfinch, nice cap and col., well defined bars, wins well; 2, Grant, Goldie, well staged, credit to a novice; 3, P. Grant, Linnet, nice col., rather unsteady, a lucky win; vhc, J. McKie; hc Fraser; c, Miss C. Fraser. FOR. (3): 1, Drake, African Grey, in splendid cond., shown in good style; 2, Graham, a Ring-neck Parrakeet, a nice exhibit; 3, Fraser, a Red-breasted Cockatoo, another nice and taking exhibit. GIFT, CAN. (4): 1, Hutchison; 2, Smith; 3, Stanford; vhc, Junor. BRIT. (3): 1, Smith; 2, Junor; 3, Anderson.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

Eighth annual exhibition took place Nov. 23rd in the Temperance Hall, which is a very suitable hall for the purpose, having a good light, well ventilated, and centrally situated. The entry proved a record one, the total number being 567. Yorkshires and Norwich were a grand lot, also the entries good, and the quality of great merit in almost every open class, which gave the judge a stiff task in separating them, so keen was the competition. Borders, with three classes, made a better show than is usual in this district, and contained many smart exhibits. Crests and Crestbreds were also above the average, whilst the selling classes contained many cheap birds. Mules and Hybrids were very striking and attracted much attention. When will our best societies awake to the fact that Canary-Bullfinches should not be allowed to compete in the dark Canary Mule class? At every show in this district there has been a big grumble at the wording of the classification of this section, and both last year and this we have repeatedly drawn attention to it, but without any alteration appearing in our schedules. The British bird classes, as we expected up here, were well filled, and competition was very keen, whilst the Foreigners, although not large classes, were a great attraction to the visitors. The Hon. Sec., Mr. Lowes, quite a veteran at this work, is to be complimented on the manner in which he displayed his abilities, and also on his committee, who back him up most loyally. The Chairman, Mr. E. Freeman, we noticed wherever there was any work to do, and Mr. W. Saunders, vice-chairman, made a helpful assistant. The committee consists of Messrs. Nicholson, Yeates, Ducas, Acheson, Angell, Benn, Walker, Dawson, Broadbent, Shepherd, Briscoe, Chesworth, Pearson, Rounds, Clennett, Galloway, Carlisle, Pulfreman, Bryant, Sanderson, Gardner, Masters, Nicholson, and Briscoe. Mr. J. Robson judged Canaries and Mr. J. Maddison British and Mules, and their awards appeared to give general satisfaction. Might we suggest that at future shows the birds be staged a bit higher, as with the room full of visitors, as it was all day, the bottom rows of exhibits were only seen with difficulty.

WHERE ADVERTISING PAYS.

I had 80 replies to my advt. of Canaries a week ago, writes Mr. E. Rowson (Oxford).

Many thanks for the success of my advertisement, writes Mr. A. Hancox, Malvern Link. I could have disposed of something like 60 birds. I had applications by the heap daily.

"Schoolmaster," Swerford, Oxford, thanks the 40 applicants for Canaries advertised in last week's "Cage Birds," and begs to say they are all disposed of.

BEAMISH (Co. Durham).

Fourth annual show held Nov. 23, in the large room above the "Bird Inn." It proved to be the best ever held by the society. Entries provided a record, being eight or ten in excess of the previous best, while in the matter of specials, subscriptions, and gate money, the society easily surpassed all its previous efforts. The exhibits were delightfully arranged, and each section contained some very nice specimens. Special for best in show went to Mr. L. Foster, with a very neat typical buff Norwich. Silver cup for best young bird, Mr. W. Little, with a very nice Crest. The British classes contained some very choice exhibits, the two Linnet classes being about the pick. The courteous secretary, Mr. Wm. Knowles, again had everything in splendid working order, and got through his work in grand style. He was ably assisted by Mr. Wm. Elliot, and grand work was done by a good hard-working committee composed of the chairman, Mr. G. Davidson, and Messrs. W. Gowland, L. Foster, G. Bates, W Little, R. Coates, J. H. Elliot, M. Beacroft, T. Little, W. Thompsen, and R. Peart. Fine weather favoured the show, and during the afternoon and evening the room was well filled with visitors. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

ARDWICK AND MANCHESTER CAGE BIRD ASSN.

Held their fourth annual members' show on Nov. 16th, at the Onward Hall, Ashton Old Road, Ardwick. The hall is an ideal place for a fixture of this kind, being lofty and a good top light, and can be kept at an even temperature. Fog prevailed over Manchester on this day, which made judging not an easy task; however, Mr. A. Hirst and Mr. J. Beswick did their work very well; the awards were well received. Entries came up to 232 (rather below last year's total). There were quite a host of special prizes offered, and the schedule should have induced an increased entry. Winner of the President's silver challenge cup and gold medal, also the society's medal for amateurs, Mr. J. Vint. Society's medal for novices, J. S. Brown. Society's medal for British, J. C. Harrison; Mr. Buckley's medal, won by A. Taylor; Sandiford's medal, J. Spencer; most points in show, J. O. Harrison; 2nd most points in show, J. Vint 3rd, most points, D. Buckley and Rev. J. W. Wragg divide. Other specials were won by Warburton, Fletcher, Long, Hunt, Appleton.

From the catalogue received the principal winners appear to be as follows: YORKS.: Messrs. Downing, Brook, Taylor, Slater, Snape. NOR.: Messrs. Booth, Harrison, Smith, Vint, Spencer, Henson, Robinson, Belton, Long, Dr. Twigg. NOV.: Warburton, Brown, Williamson, Gowenlock, Fletcher, Blinston, Rev. J. W. Wragg, Hunt, Chilton, Rev. C. E. Gaul, Holland, Chilton, Greaves, Salthouse. BORD.: Messrs. Long, Dr. Kindon. PAIRS: Dr. Twigg. SELL.: Dr. Twigg and Messrs. Buckley and Robinson. BRIT.: Messrs. Fletcher, Smith, Harrison, Hope, Greaves, Chilton, Schofield, Hunt, Appleton.—(Ed.)

ILKESTON.

This well-known Midland fixture took place on Nov. 23-25, in the Victoria Hall, which is very centrally situated, of good light, spacious and cosy. The response to the capital schedule issued was not so good as might have been wished, although what was lacking numerically was counteracted by the very high quality of the exhibits generally. Perhaps a change of days would be of benefit. T. H. Richardson, Esq., is President, and along with the nobility of the neighbourhood, rendered generous assistance. The Committee of Management consists of well-known and practical fanciers, and credit is due to the following for exertions they put forth on behalf of their society: Messrs. Booth, Henshaw, Prince, Straw, Cliff, Eaton, Gregory, G. E. Shaw, Martin, Thompson, J. Martin, Smith, Keightley, and Beardsley. Mr. H. Hunt fills the chair admirably, and his understudy, Mr. C. H. Martin, presses closely his colleague with distinct ability. Treasurer Mr. M. Marriott is an admirable asset, and Mr. T. Smith, the worthy Secretary, is one that has always struck us as bordering on the ideal for this very important office. T. S. is always of the most courteous nature, ever on the move, controls capitally, and an excellent worker. He talks of resigning this year if allowed to do so. The vacancy will be difficult to fill so efficiently. The Norwich section contained many birds of an extraordinary character. That old stager, "Bill" Vardy, captured four 1sts, four 2nds, and other mentions, truly a very fine performance. The members put down some really fine stuff, the best as regards quality for years past. The staging of exhibits—3-tier principle generally—was neatness itself. Stewards worked quickly and effectively. Prize cards went up instantly. Judging was completed in excellent time. Show opened by 1 o'clock; management right bang through was superb, no hitch occurring whatever, and everything went as smooth as marriage bells. Judges were Messrs. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield), all Canaries; C. Houlton (St. Helens), British and Foreign. The following are their awards, which were well received. Sandiford's special for hottest fed went to Mr. S. Prince, his clear yellow Norwich like a ball of fire.

Mr. J. C. Barnes's Classes.

NOR. YEL. (9): 1, 2, Vardy, with a delightful brace, leader cl. of great sub., lovely shape and col., magnificently feathered, jaunty carr., 2nd well fed cl., silky texture of feather, rattling shaped body, perfect wing carr., hardly so full in head and neck; 3, Baker, mkd. head, wonderful size, superb feather, very shapely, not so level in col. or quite so rich, but good; 4, Fox, very shapely cl., full of col. and qual., not so large, yet a true Nor.; vhc, Briggs and Walker; hc, Prince; c, Wilcox and Son. BUFF (6): 1, 2, 3, Vardy, with a trio of eye-openers, winner of marvellous substance, exquisite qual., beautiful shape and carriage, 2nd cl., even better col., teeming with quality, model for type, 3rd mkd. head, round as a ball, superb feather and col., neatly frosted, good size, can beat more than beats it; 4, Fox, superior clothed cl., A1 col. and mealing, fine head and neck, not so deep in front, but of A1 car. and well tucked up behind; vhc, Wilcox and Son; hc, Briggs and Walker. UNEVEN (9): 1, Vardy, bulf, mkd. eyes, unbeatable for shape, delightful qual. and col., fine substance, rattling car. of wings and tail, stormer; 2, 3, Fox, var. buff and yell. mkd. wing and head respectively, former of fine size and shape, well feathered and of nice col. and frosting, latter plenty of col., silky texture of feather, well up in size, rather fat on front, otherwise one of the best; 4, vhc, Rathbone, yell., mkd. wings and head, cobby and of exquisite col. and feather, moves nicely, not overdone with size, yet pleasing to the extreme; hc, Thompson; c, Prince. HEN (10): 1, 2, vhc, Vardy, again with a team of most bewitching damsels, the "chro'ess" a buff mkd. wings and head, dressed in the most elaborate clothing of lovely tint, quite a giantess in stature, with the daintiness of a queen, 2nd very smart and shapely cl. buff, full of qual. and col., covered with rich mealing, not the size certainly, but a very fascinating lady, vhc grand cl. yell., would have been higher up, only for tail being deficient, not fully grown; 3, Wilcox and Son, cl. yell., superior col. and feather, nice size and car., grand shaped body, worthy of her position; 4, Eaton, well-grown cl. buff, A1 feather and col., good car. of wings and tail, beaten somewhat in outline, still very bonny damsel; hc, Baker; c, Smith. UNFLIG. YELL. (5): 1, Fox, grandly fed cl. of wonderful shape and sub., full of qual., not a feather misplaced, delightful car., points vividly towards making a "knock-out" another year; 2, Vardy, cl., fine sub. and shape, A1 col., free in action and of fine style, not so tightly clothed as above; 3, Simpson and Vertigan, variegated, of great frame, grand shape, not the col. or qual. quite, still very promising youngster; 4, Rathbone, very shapely cl., superb feather and col., delightful car., not a "big 'un," but a "good 'un"; vhc, Colledge. BUFF (4): 1, Rathbone, mkd. head, sweetly moulded, A1 feather and col., nice size, in the pink and well shown; 2, Colledge, mkd. head, plenty of col., superior feather, nice shape, bit loose behind to-day; 3, 4, Eaton, both var., silky texture of feather, fair size, good col. and meal, hardly so good in shape as might be, both have same fault. NAT. COL. (4): 1, Simpson and Vertigan, bouncing cl. buff, round as an apple, clean cut, jaunty car.; 2, 4, Wilcox and Son, cl. yell. and cl. buff in the order named, both very cobby and of A1 col., capital feather, not massive but exquisite, in nice bloom; 3, Twine, buff mkd. head, well up in sub., rattling qual. and col., longer in barrel, wings and tail, paired to a cobby hen, should produce good progeny. NOR. NOV. (22), rare class: 1, Hopcroft, buff, mkd. wings and head, smooth as wax, rich col. and feather, grand shape and car., pink of con.; 2, Briggs and Walker, yell., mkd. wings, head, root of tail, slashing col. and qual., very shapely, nice sub., close up; 3, Harrison, buff, mkd. head and neck, teeming with qual. and col., short and thick-set, very pleasing, unflighted; 4, Mrs. M. Kirk, buff, mkd. wings head and neck, wonderful sub., capital qual., nice level col., longer in build; vhc, Bonsall; hc, Sharman; c, Siddown. HEN (12): 1, Briggs and Walker, very sweetly moulded cl. buff, superb feather, col. and frosting, neat car., bonny damsel; 2, Earnshaw, cl. yell., rare size and shape, lovely col. and qual., bit too leggy or might have won; 3, Wardle, jun., cl. buff, short and thick-set, A1 qual. and col., moves well, bit heavy behind; 4, Ford, buff, mkd. wing, possessing rich qual. and col., grand shaped body, lacking a little in head and neck; vhc, Smedley; hc, Harrison; c, Buxton. CREST (7): 1, hc, Colledge, buff, mkd. wings D.C., lengthy and rich qual. feather, crest of an immense size, thickly thatched, fine radiation, delightful droop; 2, Barker, buff green, pied tail, D.C., heaps of exquisite feather, crest as round as a hoop, not quite so massive, yet of fascinating droop and centre, very close up; 3, c, Jacklin, buff var. D.C., wonderful substance, abundance of feather, crest of fine frontal and neat back, wee bit narrow, yet a beauty; 4, Stevens, buff, mkd. wings and tail, D.C., very shapely, crest of capital frontal droop, nice back, again runs rather narrow, still not far away; vhc, Twine. C.-B. Mr. C. Houlton's Classes.

Hybrids in two classes were really good and plentiful. To see 22 in a dark Canary-Mule class is something out of the common, and quite 2 sets of winners could have been found. Messrs. Lawrence, Somerfield, Hayter, Poole and Procter all put down good samples, in grand order. Britishers were very good indeed for quality, and if not quite so heavy classes as usual here, a fair good average resulted. Some well-known teams turned up, and did their share of winning. Mr. Saywell's Whitethroat was a gem for condition. Foreign were very good, but more ought to have turned up, seeing that full prize-money was guaranteed.

LIGHT MULE, ETC. (7): 1, 2, 3, Lawrence, tick wing, nearly cl. yell. Gold.-Can., in lovely order; 2, Can.-Bullie, hot col., not quite up in wings to win, 3rd, nearly cl., very pale buff, almost white, in nice trim; 4, Procter, nice 6-point yell. Gold.-Can.; vhc, Hayter; hc, Booth. DARK (22): Rattling good class. 1, Hayter, very stout, deep, level coloured yell. Greenfinch-Can., in splendid feather; 2, Poole, very good yell. Gold.-Can., grand head, blaze, size, shape and condition; 3, Somerfield, smart yell. Linnet-Can., good size, shape, colour, markings and condition; 4, vhc, hc, c, Lawrence, good quartet, led by a very pretty yell. Siskin-Can., grand markings, col. and feather. GOLD. (11): 1, Pitchford and Stocker, well-known grand bird, in splendid order; 2, Allen, grand deep colours all through, nice shape, good moons, etc., just beaten in cut of blaze below; 3, Cooper, fine clean cut blaze, good size, nice tan, beaten in moons a little; 4, Williams, very good face, nice tan, moons and bars; vhc, Booth; hc, Poole; c, Glasby. BULL. (9): 1, c, Woods, leader in grand level order; c, shade rough under to-day; 2, 3, P. Walsh, 2nd, grand cobby bird, good all round, 3rd, narrower body; A1 colour, etc.; 4, Poole, splendid cap and back, just beaten in sides a little; vhc, Lomas; hc, Hattersley. GREEN. (9): 1, c, P. Walsh, leader a gem, solid feather and condition; 2, Lawrence, paler, lovely size, shape, feather and condition; 3, Tams and Son, well up to others in all points; 4, Lomas, nice feather, shade smaller; vhc, Bestwick; hc, Bunn. LINNET (9): 1, Tams and Son, lovely size, shape, markings and A1 condition; 2, 4, P. Walsh, leader grand col. and markings, beaten in shape, 4th, grand shape and size, duller plumage; 3, vhc, Davies, good pair, nice shape, col. and markings; hc, Hattersley; c, Lawrence. SISKIN (3):

AYR.

Fifty-first annual show and competition, held Nov. 23rd, in Messrs. Greens' Pavilion, Fullarton Street. This is a most spacious hall, well lit and ventilated. Unfortunately we are unable to chronicle a pronounced success; the entries from a numerical point of view being very disheartening. Undoubtedly some sterling exhibits were on view, but after all, it is numbers that give the managers encouragement for their labours. Some really good Yorkshires were staged, and Mr. Paterson is to be congratulated on his debut in the Fancy. We predict a very successful season for him, as, when his birds are thoroughly finished, they will take some stopping. It was confidently expected that with Mr. McQuiston standing down on this occasion, there would have been a rush of entries in the British and Mule section, but here again we were doomed to disappointment. The office bearers and committee are all well-known fanciers, and we should like to see their efforts meet with a better reward. President, Mr. Alex. Andrew, and vice-president, Mr. Peter Mackie, are the right men in the right places, and Mr. Colin W. Paterson, the respected and hard-working secretary, could not be excelled by any that we know in a similar capacity. Possibly an assistant sec. for the cage bird section only would be appreciated, as Mr. Paterson must have had a large amount of work to cope with in the pigeon section of the show. The committee all worked hard to make the best of matters, and amongst others we noted Messrs. Geo. Kerr, Chas. Jackson, D. Wason, P. Mackie, W. Piper, W. Conkie, J. Milne, D. Thomson, A. Andrew, D. Mackie, Jas. Paterson, and Wm. Reid. Mr. Longden, of Swansea, judged the whole of the classes, and his awards left no room for adverse criticism. We overheard several exhibitors express the hope that it would not be long before he was back in Ayr on a similar mission.

WIVELISCOMBE.

Held their first open show on Nov. 21st. Cage Birds made a fine display, and were a great attraction to the show. Messrs. Hill and Dashcombe made an excellent pair of secretaries, and no doubt feel well rewarded for their great efforts to produce a successful show; Mr. Hill was particularly attentive to our section. We hope next year will see the birds in a better lighted room. Mr. W. G. Elsmore judged Yorks and Norwich, Mr. E. Spankling Britishers:—

DONCASTER.

Superb Management—Keen Competition.

Third annual "Races" connected with the Doncaster O.B.S., held on Nov. 22 and 23. The "Town Moor" was not utilised on this occasion, the rendezvous being the Drill Hall, which is very centrally situated, spacious and lofty, nice light, and judiciously heated; truly a room of comfort, both alike for exhibits and visitors. Entries reached nearly 500 in the 61 classes provided, certainly not so good as it might have been, with such a splendid classification provided, only averaging practically 8 per class. We are sorry our Doncaster friends did not receive much better support, as they are a genuine band of fellows, and no fancier need fear in placing his most valued specimens under their care. Staging was on the three tier principle, and every exhibit could be observed at a glance. President, Mr. F. Barker, a most generous and enthusiastic official; chairman, Mr. G. Hunt, the right man in the right place, is quite an expert controller; treasurer, Mr. A. Rayners, is a great asset, and the "shekels" are safe in his keeping. The show manager, Mr. C. Presly, knows his duties to a nicety, is always in the thick of the fray, and is a worker, and not merely a figurehead. The functions under his guidance always run smoothly and well. Mr. G. Bescoby, the worthy secretary, has at his fingertips the proper working of an open venture, is always on the go, keeping well under control every detail, is a capital adviser, and worthy of the highest praise. Stewards of the "course," who practically and efficiently officiated, were Messrs. Blanchou, Flint, Tomkinson, Raynes and Carter. All gave of their best, and proved themselves worthy of the trust placed upon them. As each class was adjudicated upon, "winning numbers" were "hoisted," water tins filled up, and "fodder" supplied where necessary. Truly a band of willing hands. Many cases of birds were late in arriving, some getting in as late as 11.50 a.m., throwing back matters somewhat. Nevertheless, the management rose to the occasion, and by careful and judicious manipulation, no exhibit had to be labelled "too late" for judging. A plentiful supply of catalogues supplied the wants of all who wished to get into "the know," as soon as judging was completed. Specials were gained by the following: Best mem. Nor., Mr. T. Truman; Yorks., G. Hunt; cup. nat. col. Brit., W. Blanchon; best Brit, G. Bescoby; most entries, T. Truemian. Judges were Messrs. H. Battye (Yorks), W. Vardy (Nor. and Crests), J. Walsh (British), and their awards gave general satisfaction.

The Critique.

YORKS., YELL. (10): 1, Bailey, beautifully feathered cl., straight as a rush, lovely back and wing car., pipe tail, topper, greatly admired; 2, Thomas, cl., good length and qual., stands like a Guardsman, well filled back, A1 wings and tail, beaten a little in size; 3, Dyson, very stylish, cl., better col. and more length, neat and narrow, capital position, must have pressed hard; vhc, Walker, mkd. wing and cheek, rare length, magnificent feather, straight up, very choice; hc, Lane; c, Crawhall. BUFF (12): 1, Jeffreys, lovely Salmon tinged cl., magnificent pos., capital length, lovely back and wing car., full of style, gem; 2, Dyson, mkd. head, not quite so lengthy, but of superb feather, delightful pos., grand back, neat wings and tail, must have pressed hard; 3, Radley, very lengthy cl., stands like a soldier, capital feather, well on leg, plenty strong enough for our liking; vhc, Bailey; hc, Crawhall; c, Towers. BUFF MKD. (10): 1, Wilson, yell., mkd. wings and about head, splendid feather and col., lengthy and possessing clever legs, best of backs, wings and tail, rather coarse in head points; 2, Bailey, buff, mkd. wings and head, smooth as a hottle, straight as a pencil, lovely expression of head, A1 wings and tail, "gem of gems," our choice; 3, Thomas, yell. cinn. mkd. wings, exquisite qual. and col., tight as a Java, rattling pos. and length, can beat more than beats it; vhc, Dr. W. Craig, buff cinn. mkd. wings and bead, feathered to perfection, delightful col. and meal, good length and stand, worth its place; hc, Ogden Bros.; c, Hedwortb. HEN, YELL. (3): 1, Priestley, thigh tick, magnificent feather, delightful pos., not a feather misplaced, lengthy and full of character, most bewitching damsel; 2, Thomas, mkd. wing and neck, smooth as a bottle, neat and narrow, shows for all she is worth, extremely dainty; 3, Walker, very shooty thigh tick, lovely feather, capital pos., and length, hardly so good in neck, yet a charmer; vhc, Shaw Bros., wonderfully lengthy cl., feathered to perfection, beautiful back and wing carriage, possessing most clever legs, one liked immensely; hc, Lane; c, Radley. BUFF (13): 1, Parkes, superbly clothed cl., perfect pos., full of nerve, good length and of delightful wing car., grand back and legs, quite a "Lady of the Lake"; 2, Dr. W. Craig, cl., of slashing pos., tight as a drum, lengthy and well on leg, best of backs, flights and tail, close on the heels of winner; 3, Crawhall, cl., A1 qual. and col., stands well, nice length, rather stout in waist, yet one of a most pleasing description, good 3rd; vhc, Towers, wonderfully lengthy cl., superb feather, nice back and wing car., pipe tail, beaten in pos.; hc, Robertshaw; c, Walker. UNFLIG. YELL. (9): 1, Thomas, cl., marvellous length, rare pos. and qual., rich tone of col., fine back and wing car., clever legs, exceedingly promising; 2, Walker, thigh tick, even more lengthy, straight as a pencil, capital col., neat back, wings and tail, wee bit behind in texture of feather, yet one of the best; 3, Radley, capitally fed, thigh tick, shooty and nervy, A1 qual., not overdone with length, all there otherwise, worth its place; vhc, Ogden Bros., cl., of lovely col. and feather, rare lengthy, well filled back, A1 wings and tail, hardly the character; hc, Bailey; c, Parkes. BUFF (11): 1, Bailey, cl., rich tone of col., delightful pos., excellent feather, rare length of side, fine back flights and tail, gem of gems; 2, Towers, cl., rare length and pos., superbly clothed, capital col., well on leg, not far away; 3, Crawhall, cl., smooth as a bottle, straight as a rush, fine car. of wings, not one of the biggest but one of the best; vhc, Thomas; hc, Ogden Bros.; c, Priestley. NOV. YELL., £5 (14): 1, Walker, thigh tick, capital col. and feather, full of swagger, good length and well on leg, fine back and wing car., could win in many open classes; 2, Hunt, mkd., head, wonderful length, neat and narrow, stands well, neat back, flights and tail, pressed hard; 3, Sayles, mkd. wing, slim and upstanding, capital col. and feather, pulls a bit thin in neck, yet awfully neat; vhc, Lambert; hc, Morley; c, Middleton. BUFF (13): 1, Hall, gem of a check mkd., straight as a gun barrel, smooth as wax, very lengthy and full of swagger, could run well in the "upper circles"; 2, Knowles, cl., of superb feather, good pos. and length, well filled back, smart wing car., clever legs, in the pink; 3, Marshall Bros., finely fed cl., not the length of those above, yet of capital outline, full of qual. and style, well on leg; vhc, Middleton; hc, Rickett; c, Morley. HEN (9): 1, Morley, cl. yell., smooth as a bottle, full of nerve, rare length and pos., beautiful back, extremely fascinating; 2, Moore, graud wedge-shaped cl. buff, magnificent feather, perfect back and flights, well on leg, shows handsomely; 3, Middleton, yell. mkd. neck, good length and stand, rich col., sweetly moulded, beaten a little in finish; vhc, Walker; hc, Prior; c, Rickett. UNFLIG. (12): 1, Rickett, very smart cl. yell., superb qual. and col., slim and upstanding, grand back and wing car., gem of a youngster; 2, Prior, buff marked wings, neck and head, feathered to perfection, rare length and pos., best of backs and wing car., with luck should make a "right 'un"; 3, Carter, straight as a pencil, A1 quality and col., lengthy and leggy, one we liked; vhc, Lealman; hc, Dyson; c, Hamlyn. NOR. YELL. (9): 1, Harding, cl., wonderful sub., lovely shape, qual., and col., delightful car., real beauty, and well put down; 2, Potter, well fed. cl., superb feather, short and thick set, clocklike in action, not quite so massive in build; 3, Hunter, mkd. wing, ablaze with col., A1 sub., rather long in barrel, wings and tail; vhc, Humphries, might have gone up one; hc, Proctor; c, Parlett. BUFF (17): Good class. 1, Dodd, mkd. head, plenty of size, very fine head and neck, bold, deep fronted, good col. and mealing, A1 feather and car.; 2, Anderton, mkd. wings and head, short and thick set, delightful qual., col. and meal, jaunty car., beaten only in substance; 3, Harding, mkd. wings and eyes, magnificent feather, grand shaped body, might be shade bolder in head and neck, yet one that was catchy to the eye; vhc, Wilson; hc, Waters; c, Thomas. COBBY HEN (11): 1, Wilson, model of a cl. yell., teeming with qual. and col., well up in size, jaunty car., lovely damsel; 2, Dodd, yell., mkd. wing, of great substance, nice shape and feather, clean cut away; 3, Hobson, very cobby cl. buff, A1 feather, capital col. and frosting, moves nicely, clean under, many thought might have gone up one; vhc, Burrows; hc, Proctor; c, Tupman. YELL., UNFLIG. (8): 1, c, Proctor, monster of a cl., red hot, lovely shape, superb qual., A1 car., real "good 'un"; 3, Parlett, cl., hardly the substance, but of magnificent shape, qual. and col., with another moult, should make a gem; 2, Waters, cl., short, and thick set, not quite so rich in col., or so close in feather, yet of lovely car., and worth its place; vhc, Harding; hc, Mennard. BUFF (7): 1, Proctor, cl., grandly fed, short and thick set, slashing feather, nice jaunty car., we thought lacking in substance somewhat, and not over bold in head character; 2, Parlett, cl., more substance, very shapely, equal in col., jaunty car., not far behind, and must have pressed hard; Hull and Whitehaven winner; 3, Wilson, very cobby el., full of fire, A1 qual., true shape, with more size would do a lot of winning, extremely dainty; vhc, Humphries; hc, Hunter; c, Hemming. NOV., YELL. (5): 1, Atkinson, mkd. wings and eyes, lovely col. and feather, nice sub., cobby, in the pink, and staged for all it was worth; 2, Bircumshaw, varieg., wee bit long in wings and tail, but of A1 col. and feather, capital substance, clean under; 3, Conway Bros., varieg., lacking a little in col., yet of grand shape and feather, well up in size, moves nicely; vhc, Flint; hc, Gascoigne. BUFF (5): 1, Bircumshaw, mkd. head, bouncer, delightful symmetry, rich col. and feather, neatly frosted, best of wing carriage, wins easily; 2, Jepson, cl., short and thick set, A1 col. and qual., neatly mealed, jaunty car., not quite the sub.; 3, Potter, mkd. head, full of col., A1 qual., nice head, neck and chest, bit loose behind; vhc, Crossley; hc, Abbott. HEN (6): 1, Simpson, cl. buff, capital shape, good sub. and qual., nice car., pleasing exhibit, and well put down; 2, Hallett, cl. buff, not quite so sweet head and neck as 1st, but of lovely feather, rich tone of col., neat mealing, very close up indeed; 3, Potter, cobby, cl. yell., very shapely, good in col., fair feather, but trifle on the small side; vhc, Gascoigne; H. J. and A. Hulmes; c, Conway Bros. UNFLIG. (10): 1, Potter, yell. mkd. head, ablaze with col., fine shape and sub., good car., promising exhibit; 2, vhc, Lawton, very shapely cl. buff, not a feather misplaced, full of col., richly frosted, well put down; 3, Hallett, cl. buff, hot in col., A1 quality, nice substance, neat head and neck, not so deep fronted, still, a good youngster; hc, Cawson; c, Mack. CREST (8): 1, Radley and Son, buff, mkd. wings, D.C., wealth of exquisite feather, grand substance, Crest, large, and as round as a crown, thickly thatched, lovely droop and centre; 2, Dodd, buff, cl. body, D.C., capital qual., not so massive, crest thickly packed, not so large, yet of good droop, and well placed centre; 3, Burrows, buff mkd. wings D.C., heaps of feather, plenty of size, crest of neat frontal, but runs rather narrow, good centre and well worth its place; vhc, Evans; hc, Shaw and Booth; c, Baxby. C.B. (8): 1, vhc, Radley and Son, buff green, pied wings and tail, marvellous length of head feather, great width and rise of skull, very shapely, real gem, and in the pink; 2, Memmott, cl. buff, heaps of A1 quality feather, magnificent skull, grandly lashed, the Sheffield and Eastwood winner; 3, Evans, buff var., abundance of feather, very shapely, not quite so massive in skull, yet of nice character, and well staged; hc, Burrows; c, Kirkwood. UNFLIG. CL. (8): 1, Radley and Son, buff, mkd. wings D.C., any amount of feather, grand qual., crest leafy and of capital radiation, lovely frontal droop, neat centre; 2, Radley and Son, buff, mkd. wings D.C., plenty of feather, crest round as a hoop, not large but very neat, nice droop and centre; 3, Memmott, buff, lightly varieg. D.C., good shape, crest of capital shape and droop, not so massive, still a living picture; vhc, Holmes; hc, Evans; c, Shaw and Booth. C.B. (5): 1, Shaw and Booth, buff varieg., lots of rich qual. feather, fine substance, rattling width and rise of skull, lashed to perfection, gem; 2, Shaw and Booth, buff green pied tail, plenty of feather, capital skull properties, not quite the size, yet full of true character; 3, Barker, yell. green, magnificent quality, very shapely, nice size, neat in skull, very promising youngster; vhc, Radley and Son; hc, Memmott. MEMBERS: In this section many meritorious specimens were benched, quite capable of gaining high honours had they been amongst the "upper ten." A very great improvement has taken place as regards quality, and the members are to be congratulated on staging so many fine specimens. Quite a galaxy of talent one saw right through the section. YORKS., YELL. (11): 1, c, Hunt; 2, Blanchon; 3, Truman; vhc, Lumby; hc, Stocks. BUFF (15): 1, hc, Knowles; 2, c, Stocks; 3, Hunt; vhc, Raines. WEST BROMWICH.

Inter-club show for members of West Bromwich, Wolverhampton, Walsall, and Birmingham, held at the Dartmouth Hotel, West Bromwich, November 21, and proved a success, entries coming up well and quality particularly in Norwich being extremely good. Novices made a good show, quality being really good. The room is a good one for a bird show, being quite free from draughts. The exhibits were nicely staged and were well looked after by a good body of genuine fanciers. The Hon. Sec., Mr. W. J. Andrews, had everything working as smoothly as clockwork, and as usual was most courteous to all. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne, and everyone seemed satisfied, BLAIRGOWRIE.

Fourth annual show of the East Perthshire O.S., held in the Public Hall, Blairgowrie, Nov. 23rd. The entry was slightly below last year, mainly in Borders, and was caused by the classification, and also by clashing with shows held on same date. The quality was all that could be desired, some very good birds being staged. The committee were a capital band of workers, the cage birds being under the charge of Mr. Rogers, who worked hard to get things in order, assisted by our old friend, "Bobby" Irvine. The Sec., Mr. M. Irvine, is also a grand worker, and had all his arrangements in a forward state, and did everything in his power to make the show a success. We fancy if the society would open up their classes in Canaries and British birds, and have two judges instead of one, the show would have greater success, as there is a capital train service from every direction, and there are a lot of exhibitors within easy reach who might be induced to show if the classification was better. The gold medal for best Foreign was won by Mr. Irvine, who had the whole section to himself, due, no doubt, to the fact that it was not generally known that the donor was not to compete. Silver medal for best British bird was won by a splendid Hawfinch shown by Mr. Robertson, which will be heard of again. Captain Rice, of Persey, who is a generous patron of the society, had staged a splendid team of Foreign birds for exhibition only. Among them we noticed a beautiful Baltimore Oriel, and a splendid pair of Brazilian Jays, also a grand Military and a Glossy Starling, which were a great attraction to the many visitors and were a credit to the owner. Mr. J. F. Dewar judged the whole section, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

ST. HELENS (Recreation) F.A.

Members' show, held in the dining rooms of the Association, Grove Street; just over 100 birds were exhibited. Norwich and Norwich Cretes filled well; there was plenty of room for more Yorks. and Bord.; the latter, being a new introduction, should get more support another year. There was a very nice display of Mules and British birds, and competition was keen. A grand little yellow marked Border in the pink of condition took special for best Canary. Other specials were won by J. Abbot (2), R. Little (2), O. Little, Rimmer and H. Enever. Altogether it was a very nice members' show. Quite a number of the leading members of the firm of Messrs. Pilkington Bros., glass manufacturers, whose work-people constitute the above Association, visited the show, notably Messrs. Allan, Guy and Norman Pilkington, Dr. Siddall, J. H. Dickinson, Esq., and other prominent managers in the firm. The greatest interest was shown by these gentlemen, and they were loud in their praises of the care and attention which their work-people fanciers must have bestowed upon their hobbies to bring them to such a state of perfection. A very willing and energetic band of workers assisted in all the arrangements, and Mr. Shuttlebotham, the Hon. Sec., ought to feel proud of being backed up by such capable enthusiasts. Mr. A. Hirst judged, and his awards were well received.

HACKNEY, STOKE NEWINGTON AND DISTRICT F.A.

Tenth annual show held November 21, in Rossington Street Schools, Clapton. This Association was formerly known as the Stoke Newington and Dis. F.A., but some time since added Hackney, and decided to accept as members all fanciers residing within a 6 miles radius. Mr. E. G. Rhodes is hon. secretary and treasurer, and works admirably for the Fancy. He has an able assistant in Mr. G. L. Hatchett, and the Committee are all excellent fanciers. Mr. G. Langridge won the cup for best bird bred 1912, and Mr. R. Ford special for best Brit., with a really fine Chaffinch that should make a still better bird when fully up in colour. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged. NOR.: 1, 2, 3, res, Langridge, a team of nice bulls, the winner by far the better for type and qual.; vhc, March. YORKS: 1, Ford, tkd. yell., stands up well, but not so nice in wing car. as might be; 2, 3, March, in good pos., but bit feathery; 3rd rather small and weak in neck. MULES: 1, sp, 2, 3, Langridge, all dk. yell. Goldie-Canaries, good in col., the winner the longest. AMBLESIDE.

Second annual exhibition held Nov. 21, when the entry all through was a great advance on the previous year. Yorks. were a very choice lot. Borders were all through very good, and many noted winners put in an appearance. The even-marked yellow hen owned by Messrs. Short and Backhouse, is an eye opener. This bird won the local spl. for best Can. in show, and well deserved it. Norwich came up very well, too, but the British were only fair. The winning Yellow Hammer, the property of Mr. J. Lane, is a topper, whilst Miss Wood's Bullfinch is also a beauty. Foreign were very nice, 20 birds in two classes. The room was a very good one, and every praise is due to the committee of the Fanciers' Association for furthering the interest of this section. Mr. J. M. King, the able sec., worked hard, and special mention must be given to Mr. Gaskell, Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Walker, who acted as stewards. Mr. Fred Archer, of Messrs. Martin and Archer (Huddersfield) was the judge. We understand it was his first open engagement, and we are pleased to note he discharged his duties very well indeed; no grumbling was heard.

HINCKLEY.

Nineteenth annual show held in the Drill Hall, Nov. 23. In our section the entries were not such as the Committee deserved, but the fact of its being a mixed show, we think, holds many of our exhibitors back. Although the numbers were not large the quality was of the best, as a few noted exhibitors sent some of their best specimens. The exhibits were well cared for by the following list of officers: President, S. H. Pilgrim, Esq.; Vice-President, R. E. Hill, Esq.; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. Osborn; Committee, Messrs. A. Pickering, Chas. Ward, T. Towers, W. Growdridge, Rd. Hill, I. Baggotts, G. Mills, H. J. Prosser, E. Cawdron, L. Burton, H. Towers, U. Burton; Hon. Secretary, H. Ridgway. Mr. J. H. Roe, of Birmingham, judged, and the following were his awards:—

The Critique.

LEATHERHEAD F.S.

Members' show held in the Victoria Hall, Nov. 20th. Some time ago it was decided to extend the radius of membership to the whole of the County of Surrey, and the result was an increase of membership by 60. Mr. A. C. Otway is the hon. sec., of whom the members are proud, and the Committee are all deeply interested in the welfare of the Society. That the show is also popular with the public may be gathered from the fact that from opening time till the close there was one constant stream of visitors. At the judges' luncheon the Rev. T. F. Hobson (President) spoke very felicitously upon the humanising effects of such a society. The quality of the exhibits was good, and the competition keen. Cup and special for best bird in show and best Brit. or Foreign bird was won by Mr. L. M. Wade, with a splendid Bloodwing Parrakeet, shown in magnificent feather and colour. Special for 2nd best bird fell to Mr. A. T. Strond for a very typical ticked buff Yorkshire. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

The Critique.

NOR. (6): 1, res, Gunnell, tkd. yell. leading, closely followed by a nice cl. buff; 2, vhc, Stroud, the former a nice bodied buff, good head and feather; 3, Wade, another buff of good type; hc, Pleace. YORKS. YELL. HORNSEY, WOOD GREEN & DIS.

First annual members' show of this new but already flourishing society held in the Concert Room at the "Three Jolly Butchers," Wood Green, on Nov. 16. It was a great success. Quite a good entry was secured, and the quality was high-class. Mr. P. Brooks, the hon. sec., managed things in quite an expert manner. The cages were staged at a convenient height, there was ample space for visitors, and the floral decorations added brightness to the whole. The prize cards were promptly affixed to the cages, and by the time the judge had finished it was possible for visitors to procure catalogues and identify the winners. We hear also that prize money was paid out the same evening. It was whispered, too, that the society intends holding an open show next year, and if the same spirit is shown in management the society will deserve success in that also. The committee rendered every assistance to the secretary during the show. Mr. P. Brooks won spl for best Canary with a rattling unflighted yell. Norwich, Mr. Griffin came in for second best with a capital buff Nor. hen. Spl best British, Mr. Waldock with a charming Goldfinch. Mr. Tolfree got spl for best Yorks. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards were well received.

CRAMLINGTON.

Annual show held Nov. 23, in the Co-operative Hall. Here we found a nice snug hall, plenty of air space, good light at night, no draughts, and grand light in daytime. Of the officials we can only speak in the highest terms. The committee, all experienced fanciers, were Messrs. D. Moore, Elliott, Allen, Thurston, Mackie, Ducker, W. Moore, Scott, Hutchings, Salkeld, Principle, and Forster; chairman, Mr. S. Wilson, always on the spot and undoubtedly the right man; assistant sec., Mr. T. Wilson, led on by a general in Mr. J. R. Chestney, to whom the society may well be indebted, hard-working, obliging, and very courteous to all. His place would be hard to fill. Entries were down a few in open classes compared with last year, but the members brought them up to the level, making an increase over the show of about 50, which constitutes a record. Special winners for most points were: 1st, cup, Wilson; 2, Thurston, 3, Moore, 4, Warren; 5, Forster; Mr. Wilson also took the special for best member's bird in open classes, and Mr. Ducker 2nd best. The birds were staged in nice tiers, and the hall had quite a taking appearance. Quite a grand gate was being taken when we left; we were pleased to notice a lot of visitors from a distance—Messrs. Metford, Richardson and Clark, from Morpeth; Dixon, Bedlington; Smith, Gosforth, etc. Messrs. H. Seely (Choppington), and A. Hay (Berwick) judged, and this was a hard task, but they managed to get cards up in good time, to the satisfaction of all. Considering the number of shows held on same date the society may well be congratulated on their record entry.

BONSALL.

30th annual show held in the Public Hall, Nov. 21. This is the first time cage birds have been catered for, but the fanciers in the district hardly came up and supported the show as they should have done. The Yorkshire class was very keenly contested, and the qual. was far above the average. Norwich were a nice class, and of good qual. We were pleased to meet several old fanciers who first started this society 30 years ago. The secretary, Mr. S. Bateman, who has now had a wide experience in shows, had all arrangements carried out in A1 style. Mr. Geo. Elkins, helper, made his debut as a judge, and gave every satisfaction.

YORKS. (12): 1, c, Cockerham, stylish thigh tkd. buff, very slim and upstanding, neat head and neck, nice compact wings and tail, lovely col. and qual., wins; 2, Brotherton, cl. yell., lovely qual., rich col., capital wings and tail, grand style and position, staged to perfection; 3, Shelton, cl. yell., nice type and style, good length and col., not so good in qual., well staged; vhc, Miss Allen; hc, Vernon. NOR. (8): 1, Pedder, red-hot cl. buff, lovely qual., fine condition, very typical, shapely and cobby, nice head, tail, and wings; 2, withheld; 3, vhc, T. W. Dean, cl. buff, capital shape, well braced wings, nice cut away behind, but on small side; hc, Smith; c, Williams. A.O.V. (3): 1, 2, withheld; 3, vhc, Marsh, typical high shouldered Belgian, in rare feather, nice col. and qual.; hc, Bunting. BRIT. (6): 1, withheld; 2, hc, Lomas, beautiful Magpie, in faultless condition, wins easily; 3, Williams, Fieldfare, in rare feather and condition; vhc, Pedder, good Rawfinch; c, Webster.

STAMFORD AND DISTRICT.

Members' show held at the Corn Exchange on Nov. 3rd. Entries totalled 110, this number being about 30 more than at any previous confined show. Norwich were a good level lot; Yorkshires few in number, but some very nice birds were staged. The British classes were well filled and contained some very choice specimens. Mr. W. P. Barnes (Grantham) judged, and his awards were well received. NOR. YELL.: 1, Fancourt and Harrison; 2, B. T. Grimes; 3, Woods. BUFF: 1, G. W. Grimes; 2, Spriggs; 3, Parker. VARIEG.: 1, 2, B. T. RETFORD.

14th annual show (mem. 20 miles' radius), Nov. 20, The Corn Exchange, which is of capital size, and affords excellent light, was the venue. The Yorkshires were a nice lot, also British, Messrs. T. Simpson, G. H. Burdett, and J. J. Sugden staging stylish specimens. Mr. T. Simpson captured the challenge cup for best in show, with his noted six-pointed buff Goldie-Can. The cup now becomes absolutely his own properly, he having won it three years in succession. Chairman, Mr. A. Palmer, vice-chairman Mr. T. Alcock, a couple of enthusiastic officials, and most willing workers. The committee are a very capable band, and rendered valuable assistance. Mr. Geo. Maud, the hon. sec., is of the right sort, always on the go. Staging was well carried out, and the management throughout A1. Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) judged, and the following are his awards, which were well received. YORK. YELL. (8): 1, vhc, Burdett, cl., rare length, well up, grand feather; 2, 3, Simpson, with a brace of very typical specimens, former most promising; unflighted; hc, Sugden. BUFF (6): 1, 2, Simpson, both cl., leading with a choice youngster, capital length and pos., 2nd wee bit longer, not quite the feather, yet good one; 3, Burdett, nice qual. and pos., lengthy, bit open on front; vhc, Blow; hc, Wear; c, Sugden. HEN (8): 1, Simpson, cl. buff, straight as a rush, smooth as wax, full of style; 2, 3, Blow, cl. buff and mkd. yell., both of superb feather, nice length, not far away; vhc, Sugden; hc, Wear; c, Burdett. A.O.V. (2): 1, cup, Simpson, very fine six-pointed buff Goldie-Can., often described as a gem; in the pink; 2, Burdett, buff var. Goldie-Can., well up in size, good shape and feather. BRIT. (6): 1, Woodhead, with a smart Hawfinch, not of the biggest, but rare col. and shape, neat bib; 2, Sutton, Thrush of nice suits and col., finely mounted; 3, hc, Burdett, Goldie, superior qual. and shape, nice size, hardly up in blaze col., yet catchy to the eye; vhc, c, Sugden. FOR. (3): No. 2, absent; 1, Dawson, in nice order, and well staged; 2, Sugden, Grey Parrot, in good feather. NOV. (4): 1, 2, Johnson, very smart rose-fed, cl. yell. Nor., 2nd mkd. yell. Yorks, good bird; 3, Woodhead, Linnet, nice shape and col.

GREAT HORTON

Notwithstanding the clashing of Rochdale and Doncaster there was a very nice entry at the show of the Great Horton Good Intent O.S. held at headquarters, Congregational Schoolroom, Nov. 23. The principal officials are Messrs. D. Bartle (prop.), A. Frith, and J. W. Kilburn (vice-pres.), and A. Holden (treas.), and these with a number of the members attended well to the general arrangements, whilst Mr. H. Tomall, and his assistant, Mr. A. Morley, looked well after the duties pertaining to the secretarial office, each doing his level best in a quiet, methodical, and painstaking manner to make the venture a success. The show is one of the Yorkshire Union group, and enjoys the patronage of the Yorks. C.C., the National Green-marked Y.C.C., and the Yorks. County B.B. and M.C. In connection with the latter club one is tempted to ask the question What is wrong? At Bradford East the week previous five classes were provided in the British section, and three had to be cancelled, whilst only a dozen entries turned up in the two that were left. At Great Horton four classes were scheduled. Two had to be struck out, and the other two only went a couple of entries better than Bradford East. It is to be hoped that the club's members will give better support to the forthcoming National show. In looking through the classes we were struck by the listless appearance of many of the best birds. Are not some fanciers trying to do too much? Four days away from home for a mid-week show, and then a local event at the week-end, is too much to ask the birds to do. Great Horton has for generations been a stronghold of the Fancy, and there is ever a big gathering of fanciers at its shows. Amongst those who were present on Saturday the forthcoming National Show seemed to be the principal topic, and it is to be hoped that all will do more than talk about it. It will require much effort, and all the entries that Yorkshiremen can give to make the effort one that will not only redound to the credit of the City of Bradford, but also give some tangible result to the sacred cause of charity. Taking the classes as they stood, the average worked out a fraction under fourteen per class, which was not what it should have been seeing there were five money prizes in each class. Why did the committee omit to give unflighted classes on this occasion? They usually fill far better than the others, and cause more interest to be taken in the show. Mr. C. A. House judged, and his decisions were most favourably received.

The Critique.

YORKS., YELL. (9): 1, Tidswell, fine head and neck, good shoulders, capital wings and tail, plenty of nerve, gets well up on its legs and stands like a soldier, beautifully feathered; 2, Grayshon, not quite so much length, but magnificent qual., rare head, smart wing carriage, well piped tail, very nicely finished; 3, Ogden Bros., more length, grand back, wings, and tail, very nice silky feather, not quite so even in col., and hardly so oval in head, very showy and stylish; 4, Sutcliffe and Sons, carried a wealth of col., very nicely put down; 5, Cruise; hc, Dykes; c, Helliwell. BUFF (17): Very fine class; 1, Grayshon, splendid length, finely drawn, grandly feathered right through, gets well up on a grand pair of legs, and shows to every advantage; 2, Briggs, plenty of col., fine and sleek in feather, coat like satin, splendid build, full of nerve and style, only needs a bit more leg to make him an out and out champion; 3, Sutcliffe and Son, the same beautiful qual. of feather that "good old Bob's" birds have ever been noted for, grandly tapered from shoulder to vent, lovely wing carr., grandly piped tail; 4, Ogden Bros., long finely drawn bird, but not in form to-day; 5, Bennett; hc, Stobart; c, Jenkinson. TKD. YELL. Your Last Chance! 6D. Per Copy Post Free.

You must have a copy to be up-to-date—so post or telegraph that order at once and avoid disappointment. See what you get for the money.

THE FIRST PRINCIPLES OF CANARY BREEDING.
Some advice that will ensure a good start.
By W. M. Thomson. A volume of excellent advice as to the methods to adopt to ensure success. The cages and appliances to use, how to feed the parent birds before and after the eggs are hatched, the colour feeding of the youngsters, and numerous other important points are dealt with.

THE DIFFICULTIES OF BIRD BREEDING: HOW TO OVERCOME THEM.
By Claude St. John. One of the best and most useful articles ever written on this most interesting subject. Every phase dealt with in a manner of absorbing interest to all bird-keepers, novices and old hands alike.

EXHIBITION FINCHES AND HOW TO KEEP THEM.
By Messrs. A. and F. Hartley. A budget of hints and instructions on the caging, feeding, exhibiting, and general management of British Finches.

AN IDEAL BACK-YARD AVIARY.
By O. E. Brooks. A highly practical article, illustrated, telling fully the best way to construct cheaply an outdoor aviary, suitable for almost any bird kept in a confined space. Full dimensions are given, and the furnishig of the interior to the best advantage is thoroughly explained.

SUCCESS IN HYBRID BREEDING.
Hints that will put you on the right road.
By J. A. Tonks. A real good collection of facts on this subject, put together in a manner to be of the utmost value to all mule and hybrid fanciers.

A GRAND COLOURED PLATE OF THE GREENFINCH-CHAFFINCH HYBRID, which won the Dewar Challenge Shield at the Scottish National Show, and many other prizes. Also many other art plates and sketches. Also full standards and descriptions, of use to buyer, seller, exhibitor, and show secretary.

These and many other useful items make "Cage Birds Annual," for 1912, wonderful value.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-ides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit system should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

in superb value is assured you by purchasing your catching appliances from me. Only practical men who thoroughly understand their work are employed by me, and no expence is spared to insure every article being of highest possible value and service. To test the truth of this statement I cordially invite any person to have any of my catching appliances on approval, put them to every reasonable test against those obtained from elsewhere at higher prices, and if mine are not far better value smash them up, and I will refund every penny of your money. Surely this will convince even the most sceptical person that my goods are what I claim for them. Clap nets made from superfine thread netting, ¾in. mesh, 3 yards long, 5½ft. deep, and 4ft. fly, 4s. pair; ditto 4 yards, 5s.; 5 yards, 6s.; 6 yards, 7s.; 7 yards, 8s.; 8 yards, 9s.; 9 yards, 10s.; 10 yards, 11s. all per pair. Clap nets consist of two nets to the pair, each net guaranteed of above stated size, and are fitted complete with all pegs, poles, lines, etc., ready for immediate use. Loose thread netting as used in above clap nets ¾in. mesh, 7ft. deep, 3d. yard; 9ft. deep, 4d. yard; 12ft. deep, 5d. yard. Extra stout netting 5-8 mesh, for use on rough ground and on sparrow nets, 10ft. deep, 5d. yard, all post free. Batfolding sparrow nets, fitted on 15ft. bamboo poles, 5s. 6d.; ditto, on 19ft. poles, 6s. 6d. complete. Lark nets, ready lined and geared, 15yds. by 12ft., 12s.; ditto, 20yds., 17s.; ditto, 30yds., 24s. complete. Lark netting, 1¼in. mesh, 12ft. deep, 4d. yard, post free. Self-acting spring net traps., 24 by 18in., 1s. 2d.; ditto, 18 by 14in., 11d. post free. Please note these traps are entirely different to the old-fashioned board traps, they can be baited for hard and softbill at same time, and each bird can be used inside them if desired. Single trap cages, 6d. each, 5s. dozen; double ditto, 1s. each, 9s. 6d. dozen; treble ditto, 1s. 3d. each, 11s. dozen, all with separate compartment for call bird in addition to the traps stated. Patent self-setting and self-acting trap cages, guaranted to automatically reset immediately each bird is caught, 1s. 6d. each. Round or square topped call cages all wire tops and wood bottoms, 4d. each, 3s. dozen. Real Japanese bird lime, guaranteed strongest lime made, does not freeze, and will hold birds in wet weather, ¼lb. 6d., ½lb. 10d., 1lb. 1s. 6d., sample 3d., all post free. Please note this lime must not be confused with any other so-called Japanese lime, as I have no agents, and only supply the public direct. Others are copying name of my lime, but cannot copy the quality. Rest assured that if you have not purchased from me, you have not got genuine Japanese lime. Italian hemp pull lines, specially spun, free from snarl and twist, 60 yards long, 1s. 4d. each, post free. Flirt pegs and lines, 1s. 3d. post free. Brace swivels, three 3d., twelve 6d., post free. Now You Scotsmen

(and Englishmen who want to beat the Scotsmen), let me have your orders early if you want a tip-top Siberian Goldfinch. I have just received the second consignment of genuine Siberian birds in grand trim. Price of these genuine Siberian cock Goldfinches (not Russians nor hens) is 5/- and 6/- each. Special exhibition specimens, 7/6 and 10/- each. I guarantee my exhibition birds to be really fit to win, but do not insult your intelligence by telling you they are as large as Larks and Thrushes and expecting you to believe it. My reputation for supplying winners is so well known that the whole of exhibition specimens from first consignment were sold in ten days, and that without the aid of lavishly displayed advertisements, too. Following letters are from persons who bought some of them:—"18, Milton-st., Walsall. Nov. 8th. Sir,—I require another Siberian Goldfinch from you this season. I am pleased to say my Scottish National winner (which was supplied by you) has come through moult better than ever. He was marked 'soft' at last Palace show; I think he would have won easily, as the Palace winner was only 3rd to him at National. A gentleman at Edinburgh wrote and told me that he and his friends consider him the finest Goldfinch ever seen. Yours, F. Price." "Cherry Tree Cottage, Haddington. Nov. 14th. Sir,—Birds (7 Siberian Goldfinches) arrived here, all in fine fettle. Hope to give you another order early. Yours, J. McHolmes." "2, Glencairn Terrace, St. Budeaux, Devonport. Nov. 18th. Sir,—Siberian Goldfinch arrived safely in splendid condition. He is a real topper, and am very proud of him, and thoroughly satisfied. Yours, T. Wills." Please order early, as exhibition birds are not as plentiful as blackberries, and customers are supplied strictly in rotation. (283)

SHOW SPECIMEN BRITISH.

Thousands coming in to pick at, and I have sold more first prize winners than any man alive, including winners at Crystal Palace, Scottish National, Manchester, etc.; cock Goldfinches or Bullfinches, specially picked for moulting out winners, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-; cock Linnets, 1/6, 2/-; cock Chaffinches, 1/6, 2/-; Redpolls, 1/-; cock Siskins, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-; Greenfinches, 1/-, 1/6, 2/-; Larks, 1/-, 1/6, 2/-. large muling Sib.-bred Canary hens, 2/-, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each. Latest new style British show cages, 2/-, 3 5/6. Mr. Hedges, Eastbourne, writes, Sept. 13th.—"Send me special selected cock Goldfinch, Linnet, Greenfinch, and hen Bullfinch for enclosed 10/-; Goldfinch I got from you two years ago won six 1sts and specials; the one I had last year won 3rd, but I lost him." Mr. Veitch, Jedburgh, writes: "Send cock Goldfinch, 3/-, two hen Bullfinches, 3/-. Glad to say Goldfinch purchased from you won me two 1sts Hawick, 1st and special Kelso, 5th Edinburgh (class 33), 3rd Galashiels, twice 2nd at our show." W. Jones, Altrincham, December 6th. "Send two cock Linnets and two cock Siskins. Am pleased to say I won 2nd and 4th at Altrincham open class with birds purchased from you." Mr. Ewan, Kirn, writes: "Goldfinch arrived safe, and won 1st and special at our show." Mr. Weedall, Winsford, Jan. 30: "Send another good Bullfinch. Glad to say last two have won 1st and 2nd every time shown. Unfortunately best one just died; other won 4th large class at big Crystal Palace Show." Walter Dyke, Longridge: "Send cock Goldfinch and hen Bullfinch. Glad to say Hybrid which I bred from Goldfinch and Bullfinch purchased from you has won 1st Leeds (class 19), 2nd Halifax, 1st Leek, 2nd Hamilton, 2nd Hinckley, 1st Portsmouth." Scores like above every year. Est. 1879. Send for catalogue: Sandiford, Bird Specialist, and Judge, Preston. Also 89, Sclater-st., Shoreditch, London.

PEARSON

has largest selection of Siberian Goldies, Bullies, Siskins, Linnets, Redpolls, etc., in England; send for lists; stock taken in exchange: Royal Menagerics, Greenwich.

AMONG SO MANY

advertisements the intending purchaser is apt to be confused, and cannot make up his mind as to who to send to for his birds. This is just where my approval system comes in. Although I guarantee my stock to be exactly as represented in every way, I don't ask you to purchase anything until you have had it on approval and found it to be exactly what you require, then if you are fully satisfied you keep it, but if not, you simply return it, and I immediately refund you money in full. You cannot lose a penny in this way, as you either get exactly what you want or your money back. I have a splendid stock of genuine cock Worcestershire Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, and full colour, at 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, twelve 16/-. Few specially picked larger cocks, for muling and singing, and warranted now in free song, 3/- each, three 7/6, six 13/-. Specially selected exhibition birds, with full complement of show points, and fit to win immediately, 4/- and 5/- each. (Please note, real cock Goldfinches, cannot be sold at less than above prices; denial challenged.) Hen Goldfinches, 1/-each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, all with nutbrown back and rose red breasts, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/6. Specially selected cocks, for muling, or contest singing, 1/-, and 1/6 each, three 2/-, six 3/6. Real exhibition specimens, 2/6 each. Please note, these are same sort of Linnets as the scores of dozens I send weekly to contest singers and dealers of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Durham, Staffordshire, etc., etc., and I have sold more contest winners than any man alive. Cock Bullfinches, in superb condition, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6. Exhibition specimens, 5/- each. Hen Bullfinches, 1/- each. Specially picked large rich coloured steady hens, for hybridising, 1/6 and 2/- each. Genuine German hand-reared hens, feed from fingers, 4/- each. Splendid lot cock Siskins, full song, 2/6 each, three 6/6. Few Yellows, with bib, 5/- each. Redpolls, cocks or hens, 6d. each, three 1/3, six 2/-. Cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-; large yellows, for show or breeding, 1/- each; cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-. (Please note, these Chaffinches have correct finish for London singing.) Exhibition Chaffinches, 2/6 each. Splendid lot cock Skylarks, in perfect condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially picked steady cocks, in song, 1/- and 1/6 each. These Larks are guaranteed Worcestershire caught, and must not be confused with the French flight birds sold so cheaply. Cock Goldfinch Mules, full song day and gaslight, 6/- each. Cock Hawfinches, to moult for show, 5/- and 7/6 each. Goldfinch Linnet, Bullfinch and Lark cages, 6d. each, 5/- dozen. Special travelling cages, to hold 3 birds, 3d. extra. See back numbers for hundreds of testimonials similar to following: "Gordon House, Shotton Colliery, Co. Durham. Nov. 18th. Sir,—Linnets and Goldfinches I had from you few weeks ago are in full song. I never saw better value from anyone than you give. They are like paint, and steady as rocks. I advised a patient to write you for a Goldfinch to-day, and next week two others are sending you orders. I have always found you to be an honourable man in all my transactions with you, and can trust you. I have also recommended lots of my patients to buy from you, and they have always got entire satisfaction.—Yours, Dr. J. W. Cross." Please note, I guarantee sex in every instance and sell genuine cocks at advertised prices. If you do not happen to be an expert in sexing birds, it will please me if you will have any of my birds examined by any expert you know, so that you will know you are not getting hens for your money, as what is worse than keeping hen birds for singing or trying to breed Mules off a hen Britisher and hen Canary. (Imitators, please copy as usual.) All birds are guaranteed thoroughly on hard seed before sent out, and postcard always sent before birds. If you want thoroughly reliable stock, send to the man who has a 21 years' reputation to uphold. No connection whatever with any other advertiser. (283)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

Norwich Plainheads

Purchase Direct!

and save intermediate profits and palpable falsehoods about strains. See what you pay for. Grand Norwich, colour-fed, specials, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- up, for show. You cannot procure anything like them at the price elsewhere, but they are sold without the lie about so-called strains (senseless or otherwise). Grand lot of Hens, at the uniform price of 5/- each. These will not be procurable at double later on; in fact, plenty, by being "puffed up" are being sold at 12/- and 15/- each, that are not so good. Note few other prices, and have on approval now, for I have a wonderful collection at the present moment to select from. Few other low prices:—

Cocks, 5/-, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/- upwards. Hens, 2/- (three for 5/6), 2/6, 3/6, 5/- upwards. Pairs, for breeding, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- upwards. Cages, 3d.

State what you require, show or stock bird, and a faithful description will be given.—

DO YOU WANT ANY MONEY FOR CHRISTMAS?

LOOK AT THESE.

"CAGE BIRDS" for Quick Replies.

Smethwick,
Dec. 2nd.

I am pleased to say that from my last advert. in your paper, I actually had a reply and settled the deal before I got my "Cage Birds." (I dont get my "C.B." until Saturday afternoon)—Yours, S. Williams.

"CAGE BIRDS" Relied On.

East Sheen.
Dec. 1st.

My advert. of Budgerigars has kept me very busy with orders from all parts including an enquiry from Denmark for 10 pairs. This speaks well for the far-reaching qualities of your paper as an advertising medium. I find no other journal equals yours, in fact, have ceased advertising in any other now, and feel confident to rest on the merits of "Cage Birds" alone.—Yours faithfully, Frank Collingbourne.

"CAGE BIRDS" for Profitable Results.

Kingskerswell,
Dec. 1st.

I may say I find "Cage Birds", a splendid little paper for advertising. I received an order from Ireland value six guineas, through an advertisement I inserted.—N. Brown

What about those surplus birds or cages, that wild seed which you have? Why not turn these into money. That will be better than cumbering yourself with them.

Next Week's Grand Christmas Number will give you a splendid opportunity of making some money for Christmas.

N.B.—Given a fair trial, "Cage Birds" stands alone as a profitable advertising medium for everything connected with the Fancy.

Rates: 18 words 6d., 2 words 1d. after, prepaid. Advertisements for next issue close Tuesday, Dec. 10th

a Roller with a long-drawn-out monotonous roll like a railway whistle? If so, don't bother to read this advt., because my Leipzig Rollers have a good variety of changes in their song instead of the one long roll. Another difference is that the Leipzig Roller retain their song for years, whereas the ordinary Roller is at its best for a few months only. I want you to test the truth of my statements by having a Leipzig Roller from me on week's trial, and test it side by side with an ordinary Roller at any higher price and keep the one which suits you best. Hundreds of people have tested my Rollers in this manner, and I have published many letters saying the Leipzig Rollers have proved better birds than those costing three times the amount elsewhere. I now have an enormous stock of genuine Leipzig Roller cocks, in full song, day and gaslight, with sweet hollow rolls, hollow bell rolls, silvery trills, water bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and lute notes, etc, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or objectionable notes whatever, price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Hens, guaranteed of exactly same strain, but unrelated, 2/- each, 3/6 couple. For those who like a loud noisy songster, I have a splendid lot of free singing Hartz cocks, in full, vigorous song day and gaslight, just the thing for coffee-house or public bar, where plenty of noisy song is required, price 5/6 each, seven 31/6. Roller singing cabinet cages, with loose front and folding doors, 2/6 and 3/6 each. Ordinary singing box cages, 1/6, 2/- and 2/6 each. Please note, all Roller cocks are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and I am the only importer of this strain of Rollers. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages, free of extra cost, and sent on full week's approval at my risk immediately on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system; and unless fullest satisfaction is given and your every expectation realised, money is instantly returned in full. Kindly note, full name and address given with each letter printed below, which are all guaranteed entirely unsolicited and are open to inspection at any time: "76, Kilburn-lane, Dewsbury, November 12th,—Sir,—Received the two birds safely and am more than delighted with them and the honest and straight-forward way you have dealt with me.—Yours, C. Newsome." "High-st., Kington, November 13th.—Sir,—Rollers arrived safely, and am very pleased with them. They began singing directly unpacked. Thanks for sending such good birds.—Yours, A. Hussey." "119, York-st., Nuneaton, November 17th.—Sir,—Roller arrived in fine condition, and was singing less than an hour after arrival, and has been singing lovely ever since.—Yours, C. Butler." "43, Normacott-rd, Longton, November 7th.—Sir,—The pair Bandmasters I had from you last year turned out real toppers. Please quote price for cock and three hens.—Yours, A. Tudor." "Station-rd., Cullyhacky, Ireland, November 8th.—Sir,—Roller arrived safely after so long a journey, and was singing 10 minutes after I got it into cage. I am well pleased, as it is a real beauty.—Yours, G. Wiseman." "Shippool, Innishannon, Co. Cork, November 15th.—Sir,—Roller arrived safe and in perfect condition. He is singing away in grand form to-day, with lovely soft trills. I am much pleased with him and so are all my family.—Yours, A. Harrick." "142, Icknield-st., Birmingham, November 10th.—Sir,—After having two of your Rollers this week I am writing to say I am more than satisfied, as they are two beauties. After being taken down by others I must say you are one of the most straightforward men I have dealt with.—Yours, C.B." "48, Normacott-rd., Longton, Staffs, November 16th.—Sir,—Thanks for safe arrival of Bandmaster cock and three hens. I think them fine birds and well worth price paid. The cock sang as soon as unpacked. I am well satisfied.—Yours, A. Tudor." "10, St. Andrew-st., Dublin, November 13th.—Sir,—Three Rollers arrived in pink of condition. They are in grand song and doing well. You will be getting more orders for them from Dublin.—Yours, T. Henry." "5, Green-rd., Yoker, Glasgow, November 17th.—Sir,—The Rollers I received a week ago prove to be all that any person would be proud to possess. The Bandmaster cock sings us a song so uncommon to the ordinary Canary; rich deep notes, and warbles like a Nightingale.—Yours, T. Snaith." "55, Lauriston-st., Edinburgh, November 19th.—Sir,—Roller arrived in excellent condition. Many thanks for prompt attention, and I am compelled to say I am quite well pleased, as it began singing half an hour after arrival. I shall not hesitate in recommending you to my friends, since I have received more than value for money.—Yours, J. Moran." I have published thousands of similar letters to above, all speaking in highest terms of praise of the Leipzig Rollers. If you have been previously disappointed with Rollers please let me send one of my Leipzig Rollers on approval for a week, just to let you hear and see that it is possible to get a really high-class bird at a moderate price. See British Bird and Appliance columns for further advt. (283)

RADCLIFFE C.B.S.

First annual show held in the Conservative Club Hall, which is an admirable room, free from draughts, and capable of staging a great number of birds. These were arranged running the length of the hall, and good passages were allowed between, which allowed everyone to see the exhibits to advantage. Mr. Lomas, St. Helens, judged, and gave satisfaction to all. The judge praised the general arrangements, and said he hoped we should keep on, and in time have an open show.

BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

Tenth annual show, held Nov. 30, at the Co-operative Hall, a large and spacious building heated with pipes, which made it nice and comfortable for both birds and visitors, although outside it was both freezing and snowing. Entries came up well with 225 birds, all being very nicely staged. Yorkies were a nice lot. Norwich were the strongest ever seen in Birkenhead, the competition being very keen. Some grand Yorkshire Greens were staged, although the numbers were not up to the usual, Mr. Cooper in two or three classes beating the champions. This being his first show, we congratulate him on his success. Hybrid and British were good, Mr. Darlington winning with a grand fed Siskin and Canary Mule, and a topping good Goldfinch. The stewards, Messrs. Jones, Rixon, Lewis and Bird, had everything in nice order for the judge, who was able to start on arrival and get through his work without a single hitch. Messrs. Darlington, Edwards, Young, Hughes, Stott, Burns, Jones, Lloyd, and Morton carried off the champion special prizes, and Messrs. Adams and Cooper the novices'. The gate was a record one; at times it was impossible to pass along the stalls, nearly 600 people paying for admission. Mr. Cowgill (Bradford) judged, and his awards gave satisfaction to everyone.

CUMNOCK & DISTRICT.

This rising young society brought off its third annual exhibition on November 30th, in the Town Hall, Auchinleck. Over 230 birds were exhibited, which is very satisfactory and creates a new record for the district. Some very good specimens were on view. Mr. John Rainey gained special for best bird in the show with a really high-class Scotch Fancy, and cup for most points over the show went to Mr. Thos. Findlay, a popular win. Mr. Harry Kinnear is a hard working president, and received valuable assistance from Vice-presidents Findlay and Tannock. Secretary Mr. Wyper is a capable official, and the success of the show was due, to a great extent, to his good efforts. The committee all worked in harmony, and also deserve a word of praise for the time and trouble they so ungrudgingly gave. Mr. Wm. Kirkhope judged the Border classes, and Mr. Jas. F. Dewar, the remainder, and their awards were favourably received.

PAIGNTON AND DISTRICT F.A.

Annual show, held Nov. 27, in Public Hall. The cage bird section, although small in number, was good in quality, several open show winners putting in an appearance. Norwich stood out well, and contained a noted winner in Mr. Fox's ticked hen, that had to stand down, being out of condition. Special for best in show was won by Mr. V. H. Veale with a variegated, unflig. yellow Norwich cock, excelling in colour, quality, and shape; the four other firsts in Norwich section fell to a smart quartette shown by Mr. J. N. Jeffery. Mr. J. R. Fox also secured several prizes, besides taking 1st in British section with a well-shown Greenfinch. Messrs. Roper, senr. and junr., also scored in this section, as well as in Yorks. Mr. E. Mugford took the special with a smart buff. Mr. J. B. Dyer judged.

DENTON AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Fourth annual show, held in the Co-operative Hall, Nov. 30th. Steady and substantial progress is the society's record, and it is because of its advance that it was found necessary to hold the show in a larger room than in previous years. Dr. Dalgeunn is the president of the society, and the secretary is Mr. Wilfred Hopwood. Entries this year were a record, numbering 224, being about 50 more than a year ago, and there is much healthy competition among the members. Mr. J. Raynes, Chorlton-cum-Hardy, judged, and his awards were very well received. In the absence of the president the show, which was visited by a large number of fanciers, and others, was formally opened by Mr. Blease. After regretting that the President could not be with them at the opening, he said he was very pleased to see the society flourishing, and it was now in a better position than it had ever been. So good and uniform was the standard of quality in the amateur section, that the judge had experienced some difficulty in arriving at his awards, but he was glad to know that all the exhibitors seemed satisfied. A vote of thanks to Mr. Blease for opening the show was cordially carried. A Yorkshire Canary and a cage were given, at a nominal price, to the visitor who got the ticket of a certain number. The bird was given by Mr. J. Holden, Gorton; and the cage by Mr. Thomas Holden, seed merchant, Denton. The winning number was 128.

MARKINCH O.S.

Annual meeting held November 26, Mr. Archibald Mitchell (president) in the chair. The chairman asked the treasurer to give his financial statement for the year. This was duly read, and the committee considered the statement very satisfactory. After a short discussion it was agreed to hold the next show on first Saturday in November, 1913. The following office-bearers were appointed: John Thomson, president; Thomas Thomson, vice-president; John Lindsay, secretary, in place of Geo. Mitchell, who retires through pressure of business. Mr. John Davidson was re-elected treas., with the present members of committee. It was agreed to make the show of 1913 better than any of the past.—Geo. Mitchell.

MORPETH AND DISTRICT C.B.S

Monthly meeting held Nov. 23. Mr. H. Seely presided over a good attendance of members. Mr. J. Creighton, treas., presented the balance sheet, which showed the society to be in a flourishing condition, having a good sum standing to its credit in the bank. Fanciers of the district desirous of joining us should do so at once. Our next annual show will be held on October 11th, 1913. Other societies please note, so as to avoid clashing as far as possible. Decided that we engage three judges for next show, so as to be able to get the judging over in good time. The secretary was presented with a testimonial in recognition of his services to the society. —E. Cowling, Hon. Sec.

ARDWICK & MANCHESTER C.B.A.

Annual washing competition, held at Mr. Downing's house, Ardwick. A good muster of members and friends assembled. The chairman gave a special, in the shape of a beautiful flower pot, which was on view at the annual show. Eleven competitors took part, and Mr. Robinson was the judge. When the birds were washed, and partly dried, after light refreshments (provided by Mrs. Downing), we had a little harmony, and Mrs. Boothman played several selections on the piano. Several songs were sung by Messrs. Hunt, Fulcher, Long, Swannell, and Downing. After this Mr. Robinson was asked to judge the birds, as they all seemed quite dry, and he gave the following numbers, 1, 2, 3, as the cleanest and best-got-up. Mr. Spencer was declared the winner, with Mr. Buckley 2nd, and Mr. Vint 3rd. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. and Mrs. Downing for their kindness in allowing us the use of the room, and also for making us so comfortable. We had all enjoyed a very pleasant and social evening; may it not be the last one.—S. Greaves.

BATH F.A.

The members of the Bath F.A. spent a very pleasant evening on Nov. 21st at West's Dining Rooms, on the occasion of their annual supper and concert. The arrangements were in the hands of Mr. Fred Russell, and an excellent programme was efficiently gone through. Mr. A. Taylor presided over an excellent attendance, and in the course of the evening kindly offered to give a silver cup, similar to that of the late Dr. Davis, to be awarded at the option of the committee. Mr. Cotterell, the hon. sec., regretted to announce a loss of about £5 on the last show, and said he was sorry he would be compelled, at the end of the year, to resign his office, as his future movements would be very uncertain. Among the artistes contributing to the musical portion of the evening were Messrs. Ballimore, Cricks, Stirling, Barrow, Russell, Fielding, and Warren, while Mr. Rowse, besides accompanying, gave a song in his turn. At the conclusion of the evening Mr. Wood proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman. Mr. H. G. Salter, the hon. treasurer, proposed the toast of the hon. secretary. The ordinary members, said he, could have no idea of the great amount of work Mr. Cotterell had put in for the club; nothing was too much trouble for him; all was cheerfully undertaken and efficiently carried through. The pleasant way they had passed through was largely due to the careful supervision of Fred Russell. He felt certain he was only voicing their own sentiments when he said how much Mr. Cotterell's retirement from office was regretted. The toast, as well as that of the chairman, Mr. Fred Russell, and the artistes, was carried with musical honours and hearty cheers.—F. J. Russell.

BEAMISH AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Meeting held in the club room, Bird Inn, November 30, Mr. J. Davidson in the chair. There was a good turn-out of members. Decided to hold our next feather show on July 5, 1913, and our 5th annual show November 22, 1913. A vote of thanks was given to CAGE BIRDS for the fine report of our show published in the issue of November 30.—Wm. Knowles, Sec.

CODNOR PK. & EASTWOOD C.B.S

General meeting held November 25, Three Tuns, Eastwood, to arrange for a supper to be held when paying out prize-money and specials. It was arranged to hold the supper on December 14, at the Three Tuns. Supper to be served 6 p.m. Tickets, 2s. each. All members are requested to let the secretary know by December 9th if attending the supper, also if bringing a friend. It was also arranged to hold a members' show at headquarters, Riddings, on December 21st, including two open classes, which are guaranteed. Prize-money, 8s., 4s., 2s., 1s. entry.—J. Mitchell, Hon. Sec.

GREEN CANARY ASSOCIATION.

Monthly meeting, held Nov. 28, at Oldham Hall, Mr. F. Handley in the chair. Messrs. Leatherbarrow and Rawsthorne were elected members, and Mr. Plunketh's resignation was accepted. Owing to a mistake having arisen in the Bradford National schedule, cocks and hens instead of selfs and fouls, it was pointed out that the cocks and hens would be out three weeks on the run. It was, however, decided to let the scheduled classification stand. The old show will be held on January 18th, at the Caledonian Schools, subject to satisfactory arrangements being made. Names of judges will be notified later.—Geo. Green, Hon. Sec.

HIGHGATE & HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

Social and prize distribution in connection with annual show was held at Spencer Hall, November 30. Mr. Geo. Gardner, supported by Mr. R. T. Dann and others, was in the chair, and was in great form with very appropriate remarks as he distributed the various prizes to the successful competitors. The musical part of the programme was in the hands of that never-tiring official, Mr. C. W. Law, and great credit is due to him for the splendid entertainment of great variety which he presented, the various artistes being heartily applauded by a crowded hall of members and friends, while the songs of Miss Nellie Currie, Mr. Cliff Russell, Messrs. Whittard, and Weston, Zither Trio, Miss V. Smith, Madame Bach, and Miss Allenbach were much appreciated. Mr. J. A. Bruce entertained with some clever sleight of hand, Mr. J. Hart with recitations, and Messrs. W. and B. Craythorne at the piano. A vote of thanks to Mr. Law was passed, all present joining in singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and thus ended one of the most successful meetings ever held by the society.—J. Hyde, Hon. Sec.

YORKSHIRE UNION OF C.B.S.

Closed Rings Debarred by Unanimous Vote.

The council met Nov. 30, at the Market Tavern, Bradford, Mr. F. Armstrong (president) in the chair. The first business of importance was in respect to the late Huddersfield show, Oct. 5, when by an unfortunate mistake several entries were mislaid and many Union members thereby prevented from competing in the respective competitions. It was proposed, and carried unanimously, that points won at Huddersfield Show should not count in any of the Union competitions. The Council, in arriving at this decision, expressed their regret that from no fault of their own those members who had made a good start were by this decision deprived of their points, but hoped that every Union member would agree with them that this was the only legitimate conclusion they could come to in the matter. The second item on the agenda was in respect to closed rings. This question had been referred back to the various Union societies for consideration, and the delegates came prepared to voice the opinion of their respective members on this important question. It was duly proposed that we adhere to the resolution as previously passed by the Council, viz., that birds wearing closed rings (this embracing any kind of ring whatever) should be debarred from competing at Yorkshire Union shows. The vote was unanimous, every delegate present voting against their adoption, and only a few of the Union societies were not represented, it being a well attended meeting. The Council afterwards balloted for judges to officiate at Union shows for season 1913 and 1914, this resulting as follows:—October 4th, 1913, Great Horton O.S., Mr. J. Greaves; October 11th, Windhill O.S., Mr. J. Robson; October 17th and 18th, Halifax O.S., Mr. C. A. Howe; October 25th, Bradford East O.S., Mr. H. Sutcliffe; November 1st, Great Horton Good Intent O.S., Mr. F. Allen; November 8th, Skelmanthorpe C.B.A., Mr. A. Hirst; November 15th, Shipley O.S., Mr. W. A. Cowgill; November 22nd, City of Bradford O.S., Mr. H. W. Walsh; November 29th, Bradford West C.B.A., Mr. F. Armstrong; December 13th, Tong and Dist. C.B.S., Mr. H. W. Battye; December 20th, Manningham C.B.A., Mr. P. Mason; January 3rd, 1914, Huddersfield O.S., Mr. R. Halliday; January 10th, Laisterdyke B.F.A., Mr. Wm. Mundell. This list is subject to alteration providing the respective judges cannot accept the appointment, when the reserve judges will be called upon in their proper order to accept any of the vacant places. This brought the meeting to a close, the president thanking all the delegates for their attendance.—H. Hill, Sec.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

Threepence Each for Birds' Heads.

It was reported last week that the Liss (Hampshire) Rat and Sparrow Club is offering rewards for the heads of Greenfinches, Bullfinches and "Tomtits" at the rate of threepence each, and a correspondent suggests that this is a matter that might be brought to the notice of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds. My correspondent, Mr. Meek, Hunstanton, says that the society mentioned, together with the R.S.P.C.A., are very keen on putting a stop to the caging of birds and yet seem not to trouble in cases of wholesale destruction, and that CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE might do something to prevent the slaughter.

9,000 Sparrows Slaughtered.

The extent to which the destruction is carried may be gathered from a report of a supper meeting of the Ringmer (Sussex) Sparrow Club, which took place on Nov. 27. At this meeting the chairman, a Mr. S. H. Holford, congratulated the club on its "good work during the year" in accounting for 9,000 Sparows, "and extended a hearty invitation to any interested to join." If a working man catches a Linnet or two in the pursuit of an innocent hobby, or to help in the keeping of his wife and family, he is liable to imprisonment, with or without a fine, but if a Sparrow club massacre 9,000 birds in the year, or if another Sparrow club incite people to kill such birds as Greenfinches, Bullfinches and Tits by offering threepence each for their heads, no notice seems to be taken by the Humanitarian societies.

Whether or not the Sparrows or any other birds are harmful to vegetation, does not enter into the question. The point of the Humanitarian societies is that "God's creatures" should not be molested, and it should be as sinful in their eyes to catch or kill a Sparrow as a singing bird. If, therefore, there be any consistency in their doctrine, let them take note that one Club is congratulating its members on destroying 9,000 of "God's creatures" in a year, and that another is offering threepence each for heads (this latter is probably a misprint for threepence a dozen, but it is so printed).

Make Known Your Views.

I hope that all members of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE will bear in mind the hint conveyed in my notes of a week or two back. I referred to the possibility of an election at an earlier date than might generally be anticipated. In these columns we have nothing to do with politics. What we have to do is to protect our hobby by any means open to us. In the near future we shall be canvassed on behalf of would be members of Parliament, and we have a perfect right to let the candidates know that we shall vote against them if they intend to support the crusade which is threatened against the hobby of bird-keeping. One member of Parliament, a Mr. Greenwood, is the principal mouthpiece of the professional humanitarians, and this is the gentleman who was recently so carried away by his kindliness of heart that he moved the omission of the flogging clause from the Criminal Law Amendment Act, even in the case of a second or subsequent conviction of the unspeakable brutes that live by what is known as "The White Slave Traffic." Mr. Greenwood's amendment was defeated by a very large majority, as was only to have been expected, and I am merely mentioning the fact here to show the lengths to which these ultra humanitarians will go in the pursuit of their policy.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

SHOW HONOURS!

THEIR SIGNIFICANCE TO EXHIBITORS.

HOW TO MAKE THE MOST OF SUCCESS.

Every exhibitor at one time or another wishes to sell some of his birds, and in this connection it has been proved that there is no selling force so powerful as a catalogue of wins, especially if it be published with, or shortly after a report of the show at which they have been gained.

The report of every show of importance during the season is published in the columns of "Cage Birds," in the first available issue after its occurrence.

The wise exhibitor, especially if he secures honours, will not miss the opportunity of inserting a small advertisement, giving particulars of his wins, in the issue reporting the particular show, or, if that is not possible, in the issue following.

Rates are: 18 words 6d., 2 words 1d. after, prepaid.

I congratulate you on to-day's splendid plate and also on the enterprising issue itself.—F. A. Watt (Banff).

We hear that Mr. W. P. Barnes, of Grantham, is engaged to judge at Cork (Ireland) show on Jan. 15 and 16, 1913.

R. A. Nowley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.)

Mr. G. Colton, Northallerton, will be obliged if Mr. T. J. Pugh, late of Llandridod Wells, will communicate with him.

Messrs. Crabb and Finlayson write: Have removed our bird-room to 120, Montrose Street, Brechin; show secretaries please note.

I was quite surprised when I saw the report of the L.C B.A. show. You must have been what the Americans call hustling.—A. Maxwell (Partick).

Mr. J. H. Mitchell, hon. sec. Codnor Park and Eastwood C.B.S., writes that the winning numbers for the three Canarics given at the open show are 96, 450 and 455.

Mr. McLaren, sec. Broxburn and Dis. C.B.S., writes that a special given by Mr. C. Muttar for best 5th in classes 8 and 9 has been omitted from the schedule.

Must congratulate you and your staff on your report of L.C.B.A. show, which I read in CAGE BIRDS before receiving my catalogue of awards!—F. Tupholme (Bourne).

I was knocked back to see the report of the L.C.B.A. show in this week. I can't understand how you could do it; anyway, it was smart business.—T. Dean (Manchester).

CAGE BIRDS deserves great credit for having the report of the L.C.B.A. show in its last issue. It would be a great surprise to all your readers.—W. H. Pickles (Morecambe).

Accept my thanks for the honour done me in placing sketch of my Yellow Norwich in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. A. Maxwell (Partick). I think the drawing very good and your artist, Mr. Wilson deserves credit for same.

I have sold at a good figure, writes Mr. J. Ellwood, Cockermouth, my winning uneven Buff Border Fancy Canary, the purchaser being a well-known exhibitor. I wish him every success; also thanking you for your excellent report of Cokermouth show.

We thank you for your splendid report of our show, write Messrs. Hill and Dascombe, the hon. secs. of Wiveliscombe and Dis. F.A. All prize-money was paid five days after show, and we have a balance of £10 in hand. Your show reports are always very good.

Report of Glasgow and Dis. C.B.A. show under Bullfinch, states 1st Palmer. I had the honour to get the first with my exhibit. How the mistake should have been made I do not know, as Mr. Palmer was not an exhibitor in this class.—F. A. Watt (Banff).

Exhibitors in the North who may have been overlooked in the sending out of Gateshead schedules, can receive same at Mr. J. Mackenzie's, The Aviaries, High Friar Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, writes Mr. J. G. Greason, the sec. Others can send entries on, and we will classify.

We have sent out 1,000 schedules for Sheffield open show on Dec. 14; will anyone overlooked apply to me, writes Mr. A. Hobson (66, Langsett Avenue, Hillsbro', Sheffield). Exhibitors entitled to show in our novice British class are those who have not won a first in open British classes.

On behalf of my committee, writes Mr. T. Smith, hon. sec. Ilkeston C.B.S., I wish to thank CAGE BIRDS for the splendid report of our annual show; also to thank the exhibitors for their support. Prize-money and specials have been sent off. We had all the birds away in good time, and our hall cleared by 9.30 p.m. on Monday.

Preston show, I am pleased to say, was a big success, writes Mr. J. P. Leeming, the hon. sec., everything (including expenses) being in excess of last year's. The gift class proved a record, being sold for £5 5s. I thank all who helped us and those who sent the many letters of congratulation and thanks for care of the birds.

Mr. A. W. Breeden, hon. sec. Epsom and Ewell F.A., writes that the annual show will be held on Jan. 7th, 1913.

I always read CAGE BIRDS and think it a very interesting and useful paper, writes Mr. Stanley Hayter (Wimborne).

Thanks for the good report of Bristol F.A. show, writes Mr. J. A Greenslade; I think our advt. helped our entry a lot.

The annual show of the Ealing, Hanwell F.S. is being held in the St. John's Memorial Hall, West Ealing, on Wednesday, December 11th, when all fanciers will be welcomed. The judge is Mr. J. Dewhurst.

A social evening, writes Mr. W. Pickup, sec. Radcliffe and Dis. C.B.S., will be held at Warcing's Dining Rooms on Dec. 11th, when every member is expected to attend. Dinner on the table at 7.30 p.m.

Kindly intimate the following omissions in our schedule, writes Mr. R. Lambie, sec. Whitburn C.B.S. Specials 16, 17 and 18, are for best out of money in classes, namely: Specials 33 and 34, are for best h.m. Redpoll confined.

Kindly accept my best thanks, writes Mr. A. Montgomery, for the reproduction of my Goldie Mule on front page of CAGE BIRDS, by that prince of cage bird artists, Mr. H. Norman. I have disposed of the above to Mr. Norton, of Runcorn.

Allow me to thank the Lurgan officials, writes Mr. O'Reilly, Dublin, for the way I received back my birds; also I must congratulate them on the splendid fully printed catalogue they sent out; other societies ought to take a wrinkle regarding this department.

I must congratulate your artist, Mr. H. Norman, on the lifelike portrait of the Marsh Tit, 1st Norwich, writes Mr. Geo. Cooper. I regret to say that the railway company kept this gem in their hands for forty-one hours without water, and it died in consequence. How is that for cruelty?

OBITUARY.

Mr. D. McDougall.

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. Geo. Green, hon. sec. Green Can. Assn., that I announce the death of one of our members, Mr. David McDougall, who passed away suddenly on Nov. 1st from heart failure. The sympathy of all fancier friends will be extended to his widow and family in their sad bereavement.

Mr. Gelder, sec. Bankfoot C.B.S., writes that the next meeting of the society will be held Dec. 17, when several important items are down for decision.

Mr. J. Sheppard, 129, Floyer Rd., Small Heath, will be pleased to give full particulars and receive names for membership of the South Birmingham O.S. up to first post, Wednesday, Dec. 11.

All birds from a distance, writes Mr. G. H. Barnwell, hon. sec. Harrogate C.B.S., were in the railway company's hands by 5.45, room cleared of all birds by 6.30. Trusting all reached home in good time. Wishing CAGE BIRDS every success.

Mr. S. S. Brooks, sec. Winsford show, writes: "Owing to the patronage given to us by the M.C.Y.C.C., we have been obliged to make a slight alteration in classification. Full particulars appear in our advertisement this week, and I shall be glad if all who have already received schedules will take note."

We are informed that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows. Anyone who may have been overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries:—Ilkeston, Blairgowrie, Preston, Stockton-on-Tees, Wiveliscombe, Darley Dale, Launceston, Merthyr Tydvil, Buckie, Doncaster, Harrogate.

On opening my CAGE BIRDS on Friday morning, Nov. 29, at 9 o'clock, I was greatly surprised to find the report of the Horticultural Hall show. I never expected you would have been able to do it, considering, no doubt, that the judging would not be over before 1 p.m. But CAGE BIRDS keeps moving, and so I was able to get my report early.—J. M. Williams (Ashbourne).

Corrections in Show Reports.

In Wimbledon report several awards credited to Wart should be S. Ward; at Cowdenbeath 2nd in Redpoll class should be Leach not Poulter, 2nd Linnet should be Leach, not "no name," as in report; at Uddingston 3rd in H.M. Linnet class should be Leach, not Livingstone; at Glasgow and Dis. C.B.A. Mr. R. Finnie won 1, sp., and medal in unflig. buff cocks, not McLintock; at Wimbledon 3rd Redpoll should read Hull, not Hall, and the c Linnet at Brighton was also Hull, not Hall; at Cowdenbeath Mr. W. Elder won 1st in Fed. Greenfinches, not Hodge and Haxton; at Hinckley 1, 2, 4, res. Cass should be Pass, and in unflighted Yorks at Derby Mr. Pass was 1st, not Brotherhood; at Doncaster, in Nov. unflig. Yorks 3rd should read Hamlyn, not Carter.

Thanks for splendid coloured plate in this week's issue; it is one of your best.—C. H. Hill (Wiveliscombe).

The report of the L.C.B.A. show was fine, and extra smart work. Good old CAGE BIRDS.—J. AINSCOUGH (Manchester).

Your expeditious report of the L.C.B.A. show was a revelation to me, and I am sure to the whole of the Fancy. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—Robert Ellwood (Weybridge).

I enjoyed an unexpected treat reading the report of the Horticultural Hall show last week. Quick work this, and a credit to the reporters.—D. Jones (Cardiff).

I never thought to read all about the Horticultural Hall show before I visited it. It was a grand idea, and a very smart bit of work. The plate was grand.—J. Townley, (London, N.W.).

Report of Ystradgynlais show says that Mr. Muscott's bird was unnoticed; this had 2nd prize, writes Mr. Evans, the sec.; also it says it would pay us to have outside judges. Does your reporter mean that Welsh judges are not capable? One of our judges lived 50 miles away from our place; the other 15 miles away, therfore I am in the fog as to what he means by outside judges. Our show was so well managed that all prize-money was paid out within a week.

GRAND BUSINESS BRINGERS.

Prospects are very bright for the North Wales 2nd annual show held this Saturday (Dec. 7), with heavy classes and keen competition for the three cups, writes Mr. J. W. Parry, Hon. Sec.

Mr. H. Wills, of West End, Wadebridge, asks us to state that he lost an orange tabby cat from Tavistock show, either left out of its box, or taken out when en route home. He will be glad to hear from anyone concerning it. His birds reached home quite safely.

I was very pleased, writes Mr. R. Ellwood, of Weybridge, to see my bird (winner at Windsor) illustrated. It is an excellent portrait, and reflects the greatest credit upon the ability of your artist. The bird was on exhibition at the L.C.B.A. show, but was cardless, probably owing to the fact that the long feathers in both flights had been removed by some person; I should like to know by whom.

Suggested Welsh Yorks C.C.

At Llanelly show it was suggested by a few Yorkshire exhibitors that it would be in the interests of the Fancy in Wales to form a society called The Welsh Yorkshire C.C. To try to further the matter, Mr. H. Webster (6, Upper Park St., Llanelly) agreed to act as sec. pro tem, and he would be glad to hear from any fanciers wishing to join, with any sugestions they may wish to give.

The Fancy in Darlington.

The Darlington C.B.S. is the older of the two Darlington societies, but appears to have fallen on evil times of late, writes a correspondent, and these last two years it has only held members' shows. I understand, however, that there is every prospect of their resuming the open shows next year. It would be a good thing if the two clubs could come together, and I understand that this society some time ago made overtures to the other one in regard to amalgamation, but their offer was refused; so how it will all end remains to be seen.

Wild-Bird Life.

Resident Birds and Winter.

THE weather was most unusually mild for the month of November until right at its close. The wind and rain have cleared the larger trees of foliage, but the hedgerows will retain their leaves until severe frost withers them. Within the last few days we have had evidence of bird movements by a great influx of Thrushes into the fields and meadow-lands around the village where the writer resides. Twice during the year (namely spring and autumn) we get these big gatherings of the graceful Song Thrush. The Thrush, like many of our other birds, is only residential to a certain degree. There are many homesteads in the extreme north that these spotted beauties visit during the summer months only; they leave in the autumn, not always to migrate to other countries, but simply to take the place of their kindred who have gone still further south.

In birdland during the short days, there is not only migration from north to south, but a constant movement (regulated mostly by climatic conditions) of our commoner birds from east to west and vice-versa. Sometimes our fields and commons are crowded with huge flocks of Finches, mostly Linnets and Green-birds, but these do not stay with us the whole of the winter. If the weather sets in unusually severe they soon depart. The flocks of Chaffinches are not quite so susceptible to these changes; during the winter they haunt woods or the fields adjoining, where among the fallen leaves they jostle the Blackbirds in search of insects lurking under the warm covering.

Flocks of Fieldfares and Redwings now haunt the open spaces, the latter birds preferring the meadow-land to the open fields. When in flight they are easily distinguished; they move through the air straight, and with great rapidity, with wings extended motionless, when they glide down to settle. When upon the ground they are in loose flocks more extended than those of our Finches and Starlings, consequently they cover more ground, which habit gives them a greater range for procuring food, particularly in bad weather

Bournemouth C.B.S. Show.

We are, write Messrs. G. W. Jones, show manager, and L. Bousfield, hon. treas., very gratified at the many letters we have received from exhibitors expressing their satisfaction at the prompt and careful manner in which their exhibits were returned to them, and promising more entries at our next show. All fanciers will be pleased to hear that our 21st annual show was a great success financially and in every other way

An "Old Hand's" Views.

I have had CAGE BIRDS from the very first number, and have noted the wonderful progress it has made and am never surprised at whatever new step or innovation it is taking, but I never bargained with the issue of this week, and if ever you can go one better you will be a marvel. Years ago you published a coloured plate of a Bullfinch and Goldfinch, and this has stood, till now, as the very acme of a bird picture, but that of the Jay Magpie and Chough has fairly taken my breath away. And what about your marvellous enterprise in actually publishing an exhaustive report on the first day of a show of 2,200 birds! The most surprising part of this is that, gathering from your editorial expression of thanks, only six reporters did the lot. No wonder we get in CAGE BIRDS such grand reports if these six gentlemen are a fair sample of your reporting staff. The fact that each of your thousands of readers in London had a full report of the show on Friday morning (if they were not among the fortunate ones who saw it at CAGE BIRDS stall on Thursday evening) must have meant much to the L.C.B.A. in extra gate money on the Friday and Saturday, for no one could possibly read the grand report without feeling that he must go and see the birds. I notice that a contemporary did not even mention the fact that there was a show on at all.—W. A. Lott (Cheapside, E.C.).

Unprolificacy in Canaries.

By CLAUDE St. JOHN.

A reply to certain points raised by Mr. J. Steel in his recent notable contribution.

I AM sorry Mr. Steel should think I placed a wrong construction upon the opinions expressed in his article on this subject. But the fact is that my letter was written before the second instalment of his article appeared, owing to my overlooking the notification that it was to be continued, and therefore, it can really be read only as a reply—if it can be termed a "reply," seeing it was not written in that sense at all—to the first instalment of his article. I hope this knowledge will mitigate his views of my letter. At the same time, I must say that after reading the article to its end, although my former letter might have been differently worded in the main, the same sentiments would remain.

The High-born and the Lowly.

Mr. Steel may not have said definitely that unprolificacy was confined to high-class stock, but his remarks undoubtedly tend to impress the point upon the reader that this is the class of stock kept in view. Even his letter conveys the same impression; or what does this sentence mean? "While echoing his hope that breeders of high-class birds will give their opinions . . . I fear that those who suffer most say least, as unprolificacy is not conducive to big sales or prices." The suggestion contained in the last few words of this quotation seems to me regrettable and uncalled-for.

Now, to briefly go over his definite questions, I do mean to say that many instances occur among high-class Crests, Scotch Fancies, or Belgians, of birds being as prolific as common Canaries, just as there are cases of common birds proving as unproductive as the most blue-blooded stock. Indeed, if these pure breeds were as abundant as mongrel stock, I doubt whether there would be a vast difference in the fertility of either kind. They can only be examined and compared proportionately.

I have known a beginner to purchase a pair of high-class Crests, and, to make certain of providing for the young, a pair of mongrel stock, put up both pairs and treat them alike, and when the young came, those of the common hen most conveniently a few days ahead of the Crest-bred, the former absolutely shirked parental duties; 3, the Crest-bred hatched five out of five eggs and reared four young without the slightest trouble, the fifth being late in hatching, and ultimately crushed out of existence by the other four. Out of these four youngsters, one Crest-bred and two Crests could easily have held their own in moderate competition on the show bench. Of course, this will be termed an isolated instance, but it is a telling one, anyway, and I could quote many equally telling instances against the charge of unprolificacy in good stock, though I do not doubt that Mr. Steel could do likewise in support of his theory. His statement that the instances of prolific hens I remarked upon are outnumbered by hundreds to one by perfectly barren hens is, in my opinion, so very wide of the mark that I can only think it is a hasty remark.

The Egg Test Accepted.

Then, again, the remark that "eggs are not proof of prolificacy" may be true enough in some cases, but it needs very considerable and careful qualification to make it generally applicable. I do not hesitate to say that regular and normal clutches of eggs are in a general way quite sufficient proof (for me) of prolificacy on the part of the hen. That the eggs fail to hatch may be due to so many and varied circumstances, quite beyond the control or influence of the hen, that it must always be extremely difficult to prove beyond doubt that it is due to diminished reproductive powers. And if the eggs hatch, and the young are lost subsequently by parental neglect, I scarcely see how it can be termed unprolificacy without some juggling with words. It is just as likely to be due to injudicious management; or, perhaps, "too much" management. I do not for a moment deny that prolificacy may be an inherent quality, but I do not go so far as to say it is always so, or that the most cultivated degree of prolificacy must necessarily be perpetuated in the progeny. I know it is frequently otherwise.

To give one instance from many similar ones within my knowledge: A personal friend took up the Fancy a few years ago, and commencing with a single pair of birds from a strain which Mr. Steel would doubtless consider prolific enough to form the basis for an attempt to attain a higher standard of prolificacy, raised over twenty young ones the first year. More than once I warned him in that year. In the next year from two or three hens he did equally well in proportion, and his enthusiasm knew no bounds. The third year Nemesis began to work, and although my friend's results were, in my opinion, fairly good, they rather cooled in ardour, and the following year his stock was as unprolific as even Mr. Steel could wish to point to, as a bad example. Naturally, the owner is no longer in the Fancy, and is a thorough believer in unprolificacy.

Run to Waste.

I traced several hens from this stock in the second and third years, all of which might reasonably be used as examples of unprolificacy. One hen I kept for the best part of a season myself, and ultimately sent her as an anatomical subject to Dr. Bowes, whose account of the condition of her reproductive organs appears with several others in "Our Canaries." In this case prolificacy was not sufficiently inherent to prevent its elimination in a very short period, simply, I am afraid, from a foolhardy desire to get all that was possible out of the hens in the first two seasons. An experience of this kind is no isolated one; it is all too common.

If barrenness were as rife as Mr. Steel believes, I fully agree with him that elimination, even with much sacrifice of quality, would be the most rational and wise method of dealing with it. But is it? I am sorry that breeders of high-class stock in particular, and all other breeders generally, have not thought the matter worthy of more consideration. Even now I venture to hope they will give the matter attention, and send along a few season's breeding results. The main purpose of my former letter was to invite such evidence, rather than criticise Mr. Steel's article. Let us have it now without stint.

OUR BULLFINCHES AND BRAMBLEFINCHES

By A. and F. Hartley (Hewerth, York).

Very Useful Hints on Managing and Feeding these delightful British birds.

THE beautiful Bullfinch runs the Goldfinch very close in popularity. This bird is very docile, and a special favourite of the ladies. The show Bullfinch should be very chubby, having a broad chest and head. The breast colour should be a rich, bright red, extending well down; his cap large and clear cut extending well under the beak; the back a Quaker grey, free from any smoky appearance. The wings, which should be well carried, should have distinct bars; and the white on the rump should be clear. All the colours should be well defined, the black being jet black in tone. The bird should be large, but not so big as to be taken for a foreigner.

When fresh-caught, Bullie should, if possible, be fed on whatever wild seeds he was feeding on when caught—in addition to dry seed and various berries. He should be kept in a medium sized cage. The seed tins should be half filled with plain canary seed, and some teazle, rape, sunflower and docken should be given. A Bullfinch should not have much hemp; personally, we do not give any at all.

Getting Master Bullie Steady.

The best way to steady a Bullfinch is by offering it berries, docken, or sunflower, from the fingers. We never had a Bullfinch able to resist when tempted with these; when steady it should be put into a big cage. It should also be taught to run into the show cage. Plain canary should again be given in the outside hopper and the mixed seeds before mentioned in the seed drawer. Bullie can also be given the core of an apple, which should be firmly fixed between the cage wires. In his endeavour to obtain the pips he will get much healthful exercise—and eventually the pips. Our Bullies, whenever there are any apples being pared, start calling, and do not stop until they are given the cores.

Owing to the shape of its beak the Bullie is unable to properly clean its feet, and is therefore liable to get them very dirty. With a bird which goes right into the bath, this is not the case; but should the feet become dirty, the bird should be caught and its feet soaked in warm water. The dirt can then easily be picked off. When done, the feet should be dried on a piece of soft rag.

The hen is easily distinguished from the cock by the absence of the crimson breast. The hen commends herself to the hybrid breeder, and owing to her utility in this matter, is fairly popular, and usually forms a large proportion of the birds shown in a class for British hens.

Handsome, But Noisy at Night.

The Bramblefinch, to our mind, is a very handsome bird. The show specimen should be large and broad; his ruddy brown chest colour should extend as far down as possible, and also reach right up to the beak, being free from any black marks or white breaks, the head, back, and cheeks are "spangled" black and brown. The more regular this spangling is, the better. There should also be two well-defined rows of "ticking" on the thighs. The wings have several lots of bars, and the lower flights, which are black, should be rich and well defined; all the bars on the wings well shown.

A young Bramble is much lighter in colour than an old one, which places it at a disadvantage on the show bench. It is, however, better to get a young one, as it will steady more easily, and with proper management, will moult out better and darker each year. The colours of the hen are much duller than those of the cock.

When first caught, a Bramble is very wild. We should not advise buying more than one as they are apt to disturb the quiet of the night in one's room by a most discordant cry. For this reason we advise putting the Bramble in a small cage and keeping it in a room away from the other birds, as it may upset them. He should have an inside tin containing plenty of canary seed, and a little teazle, rape, and sunflower seed. Plenty of wild seed should be given, and green food, such as shepherd's purse, which is covered with insects, should be provided in due season; also any insects, such as flies, spiders, etc. When he has got a little used to cage life, we may take the next step in steadying him.

A Passion for "Daddy-long-legs."

The first thing is to get a tit-bit of which he is very fond; the "daddy-long-legs" supplies this want, although the house-fly (which must not have been caught on a fly-paper) is also appreciated. First put the insect on the floor of the cage, and keep away from the cage. The Bramble will soon pounce upon it. Repeat this, but gradually stand closer to the cage; and after a while hold an insect in the hand.

You will probably have to wait a long time, but with patience you will succeed in getting the bird to eat from the hand. After this, offer it an insect whenever you are near the cage and in time he will look for your coming. In most cases the Bramble will help himself to any insects that come within his reach; these insects do him a great amount of good, and are really necessary if he is to be kept in good condition.

An article of interest to all lovers of Buntings, and particularly those who keep the Yellow, Snow or Corn.

THIS seemed to delight my master, for he soon returned with a big fat grub in his fingers It looked so nice, and I was so sure he was going to eat it himself, that when his hand came near my cage I stretched out my head and stole it. I thought he would be so angry, but, instead, he seemed more pleased than ever, and gave me more every day.

"I had kept myself clean in the water my master had given me, and now my feathers were shining like silk. My head was nice and broad; I had a short neck, with deep full chest, and the colour food had made my new suit a lovely yellow colour all over, while, running almost down to my tail were pretty arrow-shaped markings. After having been given a nice wash, and put into a very clean show cage, I was taken to the Scottish National, and a gentleman named Mr. Judge inspected me and I was awarded the first prize.

"I must not forget to tell you that shortly after this event the door of my cage came open and out I hopped, and away I flew. I had not gone far, however, before I thought how very sorry my poor master would be, so back I went, and thank goodness found the door still open. Here I am, and here I mean to stay, whilst I can have such nice food, such a clean home, and such a kind master."

The Way to Feed Buntings.

My own 'hammers I treat very much as outlined in above sketch. I may add that I give ants' eggs—alive if possible—by way of a treat, and find my birds are very fond of caterpillars, taking readily the common green variety. Black earth and grit are constantly supplied in my aviary to aid the digestion.

Of seeds, Canary, of course, is the chief. One day a week I allow a wild seed mixture to be picked over, in addition to the ordinary mixed seeds. These they can easily shell by means of a ridge in their palate. Good insectivorous food I give daily, and to get the birds to take it I mix cut-up mealworms, ants' eggs, or Canary seed with it. Oats and other grain they are particularly fond of, and thus we are provided with a varied list of foods. The royal road to success is to change the diet as frequently as possible.

Ice Chests for Snow Buntings.

A native of the icy regions of the Polar seas, the "Snowflake" migrates to our isles with the extreme winter weather, and fairly well distributes itself over the Northern portion of our land. With even, low, undulating flight, they come, alighting with a graceful flourish on any fitting spot, to run along with great celerity. Their grace and charm are therefore more noticeable in an aviary.

In captivity Snow Buntings may be treated exactly as described for the Yellow Bunting. They are hardy birds and live to a good old age if well kept; in very hot weather it is best to keep them moderately cool; I once knew a gentleman who inverted a tin box over some ice and allowed the birds to use the box as a perch. In choosing an exhibition bird follow the advice given previously, and you will find size and whiteness of ground colour, with even markings, to be the premier factors in getting into the money.

The Free Trade Bird.

The Corn Bunting is the commonest of our English Buntings, and has been styled by one writer the "free-trade bird." Certainly he will have his corn as cheap as possible, and owes no duty but that to his appetite. This species is spread over our land in large numbers. It is rather a sombre looking bird, but very often tops the list at the shows. It is his extreme dislike to being steadied that makes a real good specimen so valuable. All my birds, however, have given in to my method of taming with the exercise of patience and care, but remember this steadying is most important, for a large portion of marks are allotted to it. It is for this reason that I only select the young birds.

An exhibition bird must possess an extra big body with a broad head and deep chest. A nice warm colour, densely pencilled with markings running down to the vent, is essential. The well defined throat tickings should broaden into good arrow markings on the breast. The Corn Bunting is moulted in a similar manner to my other Buntings, and generally comes out with a wealth of bloom.

Combining the sprightliness of the Finches with the dignity of the Thrushes, the Buntings make admirable pets. They are by no means easy to keep well, but a little difficulty is a good sauce.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

(For rules see last week's "Cage Birds.")

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

Canaries.—Claude St. John. British Birds, Mule and Hybrids G. E. Weston. Foreign Birds—Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., &c., Wild Bird Line—H. Norman.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

CORRECTION.—Under heading "An Alarming Attack," in reply to "W. W." last week, the words "sulphate of soda" were erroneously printed as "sulphurate of soda." Will querist please note? I trust the mistake was sufficiently obvious to suggest the correct thing last week.

TURNING CANARIES OUTDOORS (L.A.D.).—You ought to have given full particulars of your aviary and how the birds you propose turning out have been bred and kept hitherto to enable me to express an opinion whether it would be safe to turn them out now. In a general way, I should say it would be most injudicious to do so, and that you will be well advised to keep them in an unheated room indoors until the latter end of March, when you may take advantage of any mild spell of weather to put them in the aviary.

WATERY EYE (C. R.).—You did quite right to remove the bird to a rather warmer room, but do not overheat it. Keep it caged alone for the present, in a place free from draughts, and keep cage and perches as clean as possible. Bathe the eye daily with the decoction already advised, and dry as well as you can by absorbing moisture in pledget of wool in order to prevent bird rubbing so much as it otherwise would afterwards. If not well in a fortnight, write again, and say what progress has been made. Keep bowels regular by the judicious use of watercress, or similar green salad. Add a pinch of sulphate of soda to the drinking water for one day.

DISTINGUISHING SEX IN NEST (Psyche).—I know of no definite sign which can be relied upon as an indication of sex in the nest. "The top dog," as the popular phrase has it, by which is meant such of the young in any brood which stand out in size and "push," so to speak, from the rest, and generally win their way to a position on top of the brood, are accredited males. In some circumstances this often proves correct, but it is far from being invariably the case. If the young are all hatched fairly closely so as to get an equal start, the largest and boldest birds may reasonably be "suspected" of being males. If closely watched for some days before they leave the nest the young cocks will very often be seen trying to warble a note or two, especially whilst resting after being fed. This is a fairly reliable sign of sex, but all males are not so precocious. After leaving the nest, and also for adults, a novice should rely on hearing the song. You would find a full account of sexual distinctions in "Canary Breeding for Beginners."

OUT OF CONDITION (H.L.H.).—I'm afraid this bird must have been kept under unfavourable conditions. Keep him now in a fairly comfortable place, not necessarily very warm, but just away from the quite chilly side; keep him free from draughts, and from heated impure air, and do not hang him near the ceiling or burning lights in the evenings. Keep in a moderate sized cage, regularly strewn with clean gritty sand. Give a staple diet of plain canary only. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed, and twice each week, on the alternating days, give a similar quantity of summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on two other days the same quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, black rape, teazle and millet, and a small spray of watercress. Continue this treatment for a month. In the drinking water give the quinine mixture advised to "K.A.J." last week every second day for a fortnight, then miss a week, and give it again for another week. Report result at end of month.

ROLLER ARGUMENTS (F.G.T.).—The only difference between Seifert, St. Andreasburg, Ubal and other Rollers is one of name only. They are all one and the same breed, and practically all the multifarious names by which the birds are known to-day have arisen in quite recent years out of trade competition, pure and simple. As regards the assertion that Rollers may be made out of the Border Fancy, there is no sound reason for disputing such a claim. Among fancy Canaries, the Border Fancy comes nearer the Roller than any other, and there undoubtedly exists a large proportion of common German blood in the original stock of the Borders—the German Canary, as it was formerly called, being, of course, the root stock of the Rollers of to-day. Twenty-five years ago, or thereabouts, what is now known as the Border Fancy was a nondescript breed, scarcely recognised as a fancy breed at all, and known generally as the common Canary. Rollers could, undoubtedly, be again evolved from them if it were worth while trying such a fruitless experiment, but it would take a considerable time to bring about the necessary development of the vocal organs before they could compete with the ready-made article already at hand. Get the part or parts of "Our Canaries" dealing with the Border Fancy to see how this breed has developed in quite recent times.

SITS AND MOPES (Fogged).—I do not quite understand your description of the swollen stomach, and am not clear whether the stomach is generally enlarged, or has merely a localised swelling on it. I am inclined to think, however, that the real trouble lies in a congested condition, as the outcome of over-feeding. Try the following for a month, and if not then well, write again. For staple diet give plain canary only. Once a week give a morsel of crushed sponge cake sprinkled with maw—not more than a small teaspoonful of both mixed together. On two other days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts summer and black rapes, niger, teazle and millet. Every day give a good-sized spray of watercress or other green salad. Keep in a moderate sized cage, and do not overcrowd with perches. Mix a small quantity of equal parts brandy and syrup of buckthorn, and give one drop of this in the beak three times each day until the bowels act freely. Add to the drinking water as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and after this dissolve in each two tablespoonfuls of the water as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, half as much sulphate of iron, and add six drops of dilute sulphuric acid. Give this every second day for a fortnight. Do not use any more outward applications.

EXTERMINATING MICE (Downhearted).—If you have fixed a band of sheet tin about four inches wide around each support of your staging at a height of from four to six inches from the floor, no mouse can reach the cages in that direction. Therefore there must be some other means of access which you have overlooked. If there is any holdfast, or any connection whatever, to secure cages or staging to wall, see that these connections are also protected by tin bands, and the "skirting" or dado around wall should also be protected if it affords the least foothold, and the possibility of overhanging objects or curtains, etc., being taken advantage of as a means of access must not be overlooked. If these points are attended to, you will not find it so difficult to keep mice out of the cages. To rid the room and vicinity of them give them a course of the Virus advertised in our columns.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

RAPE SEED (Friendly).—It seems quite an excellent sample, suitable for Roller Canarics, or any other kind of bird.

A WIDE RANGE (Avalon).—It would really be impossible for me to helpfully answer all your questions except by writing an article two columns in length. Information on the treatment of all the best-known Finches, both when newly-caught and afterwards, will be found in the various "Nutsbell" booklets (consult list), and in them are given hints on the catching of the birds. Concerning the latter subject, if you look through our advertisement columns you will see catalogues of catching appliances offered, and booklets which give special information on their setting and use. You should get these and decide from them the system which best fits your needs. The law with regard to the catching of birds varies in practically every county and county borough. The acts are published at one penny by Messrs. Wyman and Co., printers, Fetter-lane, London, E.C. Send two penny stamps (being 1d. postage) to them, and ask for a copy of the Wild Birds' Protection Act for the county in which you desire to do the catching. You will then be able to see what species are protected, and otherwise, and when the season opens and closes, etc.

LATE LINNET MULES (J. Bowerman).—It is certainly very late to have young Mules about; one of the latest cases I have known. I hope they will live; also that the old birds will get through their moult successfully. It is risky, to a certain extent, to keep birds breeding to so late a date. Offer the young Mules (in addition to soft food) maw seed, lightly cracked canary and hemp seeds, groats (or coarse oatmeal) shelled and broken up sunflower seed; also thistle heads if you have any. I shouldn't worry about greenfood. Don't, at the same time, forget grit and cuttlefish, likewise old, crushed mortar. All crushed seed should be prepared fresh daily. I should wean them off egg food as soon as possible, substituting for it home-made egg cake, moistened, if necessary, with a spot or two of milk or of water, or a little stale sponge cake, or crushed sweet biscuit (maizena wafer, tea or Osborne), also moistened with milk. Egg cake made and baked at home really does not need damping. Don't make the mistake, when dropping egg, of leaving off soft food entirely. Steep some summer rape seed in cold water, which thoroughly change every day. It will soon begin to germinate (burst), and is then ready for use, dabbing it as dry as possible in a towel before offering it to the birds. This is very good, especially where anyone experiences difficulty in getting greenfood regularly.

AN EXHIBITION SONG THRUSH (Holmewood).—It is true that the Song Thrush can be bought cheaply, and that a good one is an excellent bird for exhibition purposes, but, of course, really good ones are not met with every day. Still, there is no reason why you should not find one. It is certainly important that a Song Thrush should be very large to become a "big winner"; but a decent sized bird, if well built (thick set), and good in colour and markings, stands an excellent chance. The bird should be as big and stout as possible, standing up boldly from the perch, showing a broad well-rounded chest, evenly spotted (mooned) from the throat right down to the flanks, and well between the legs. The moonings to be dense black (or, perhaps, brownish-black), as free from grey as possible, and distinct, i.e., not confused, running one into another so as to appear blotchy. Head long, but broad (not narrow skulled), eye large and bold. The colours of the plumage (roughly upper parts olive-brown, under parts a light yellowish-brown, running to white between the legs) to be as rich and pure as possible. Wings and tail must be carried tight and close, the former free from any suspicion of crossing. The bird must be in good condition, scrupulously clean and sleek, and carry a satin-like sheen on the plumage. Keep your bird in a good-sized stock cage, to guard against possible fraying of the plumage, the tail and wing flights especially. I have known a small point like this lose a bird first position more than once in these days of hot competition. Give a suitable stock cage, with a door at the end, through which to run him to and from his show cage.

FEEDING LINNETS (T. W. Preston).—I have given a lot of hints recently; have you missed these? also have you the "Nutshell" booklet on the Linnets? It would pay you to get it. The stock mixture now should be: Canary three pints, teazle two pints, summer rape, charlock, and linseed one pint each. A feed of maw and niger, and a good wild seed mixture can be given frequently (varied) by way of a change; green food, flowering dandelion tops and the young leaves, also seeding shepherd's purse, chickweed, plantain and groundsel freely, according to season. Rape seedlings are very much relished. Note reply given J. Bowerman this week. Many good makers put up a special Linnet (or Finch) mixture in packets, and a feed of this occasionally makes an acceptable variation from ordinary stock mixture. To bring them in condition quickly the great "secret" is to give them a daily supply of the best old hemp, and crack it lightly, so that they feed well. Also put in the "tit-bit" drawer daily, a teaspoonful of the following mixture: Two ounces each of gold of pleasure, niger, plantain, sesame, and thistle, one ounce each of mustard (the golden-yellow seed), dandelion, maw, cornflower, and lettuce.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

NAPOLEON WEAVERS (Weavers).—Out of colour they very closely resemble a Corn Bunting, and a sketchy description is light brown, striated with darker brown, and slight washes of yellow about the head and sides of face. Your description is of a bird in colour, of which a sketchy description is: head, back and sides of neck, throat and sides of body, and under tail-coverts, bright golden-yellow; small face mask, bib and middle of abdomen, velvety black; wings, back and tail, brown striated with darker brown, washed yellowish on shoulders; beak black, legs and feet flesh colour. Your description comes very near to this. The Tiger Finch, most commonly known as the Avadavat; in full colour this species varies between fiery coppery-red and crimson, thickly spotted with pure white spots.

WHAT PARROT (Uncertain).—Your bird is evidently a female Ring-necked Parrakeet, a native of India, with a very variable capacity for speech. It is certainly a clever species, and may be taught tricks, etc. Most talk a little, but I have come across many really talented and fluent talkers. The first thing is to get the bird quite tame and thoroughly acquainted with the folk it lives among, and an avoidance of anything likely to scare in its vicinity. When it is quiet and restful, train it by the constant repetition of words and phrases, but often patience is sorely taxed before the bird proves responsive. It will also pick up many words, calls, etc., from your conversation, and the happenings in its vicinity—In other words, when quite steady it will enter into and take part in the life going on around it.

ABOUT AMAZONS (Irish).—(1) It is a Blue-front, and a youngish bird, more definite than this I cannot be on the data supplied. All amazons have the capacity for speech, but some individuals are more teachable than others, and, personally, I have not come across a Blue-front yet that did not talk or mimic to some extent, except very young birds. (No. 2.) Personally, I have not read the booklet you refer to, neither is it on my bookshelf, but I believe it to be practical. From the data you supply, this bird is certainly two or three years older than No. 1, and more than this I cannot say, but with birds that are getting aged, the scaling of the legs and feet becomes very pronounced and hard and horny, and a really aged bird can usually be so distinguished. Parrots are variable, and like children some learn a little and then get no forrader, but the majority change and increase their vocabulary and calls till really old age supervenes.

BUDGERIGARS NOT BREEDING (A. Novice).—I do not think the Cockatiels have anything to do with your lack of success; it is just the "cussedness" of individual pairs. However, I expect they will settle down to nesting all right next season providing they are true pairs. You must provide two nest receptacles for each pair of birds you have in the aviary; small barrels, hung up longitudinally, are best for the Cockatiels, husks for the Budgerigars, and chip travelling cages (Hartz) for the Java Sparrows. Supply canary and millet in equal parts as the main diet, and supply also a mixture of hemp, oats, paddy rice, and sunflower seeds in smaller quantity; also greenfood and piece of plain broken biscuit (dry), cuttlebone, grit, and if they will eat it, they can have a little ripe apple or other fruit. If they do not settle down to nesting next season, change one of the pairs with some other fancier. Next year, as soon as it is obtainable, untainted by frost, supply seeding (flowering) grass ad. lib.

BUDGERIGARS (Foreigner).—First, owing to the strong individuality of Parakeets and Lovebirds, large or small, one hesitates to lay down any definite rule, but I think the two pairs would agree together, while other quarters were prepared for the Madagascar Lovebirds. In the Nutshell, the details given are very full, and the absence of all mention of nesting material allows of but one deduction, viz., it is not required. I cannot give you a sketch or plan in this column; it is not allowed, besides, the cost of a block if prohibitory. If you send me a stamped addressed envelope per Editor, I will send you a rough sketch of what is required, but you must supply details, as to utmost size you want to go to, and whether you require it to be portable or merely an enclosing of some corner of a room. Your suggested arrangement re twigs is practical, but it involves unnecessary trouble, as all that is required for each twiggy branch are screw eyes in back and top of case, the one in the back for the branch to rest on, and the one in top of cage to push a twig through. The sway of the twig will be natural, and add to the general effectiveness. For the birds you mention the minimum must be 36 x 24 x 30 inches high, increasing the measurements one half would be better for the birds.

GRASSFINCHES OUT OF DOORS (J. C.).—Edinburgh is pretty far north, and I do not care to advise you keep Goulds or Bichenos outside in the winter, but I think the others would be all right. A great mistake is made in northern counties by many aviculturists, viz., they fail to construct a roomy enough shelter-shed (southern aviaries also are the better for such provision); most of these birds will winter without heat if they have the protection of four walls during raw, cold blizzards, or exceptionally severe periods. Your shelter ought to be really as large again; you could improve the aviary by putting a wood and glass partition across the flight where covered portion ends, and a wood and glass shutter to fit over the front of this portion, and only let them into the all-wire flight during winter's genial days. Keep the glazed shutter over front permanently during the winter. Unless the birds have been out all the summer you must not attempt to keep them out this winter.

TOVI AND CANARY-WINGED PARRAKEETS (R. C. 8.).—They are in size about between the Budgerigar and Cockatiel, and are not only beautiful, but charming birds, and many individuals become delightfully tame. A large Parrot cage will suffice for a pair, so long as you keep where the birds will not be exposed to any draught. Diet: Canary and white millet in about equal parts, and at intervals a few oats, little hemp and paddy rice. Keep in the cage grit (not sand), cuttlebone, and water for drinking and bathing. Also supply any kind of ripe fruit they will take, and any kind of plain biscuit they care to nibble at—greenfood (lettuce at this season, but cut out the centre rib of the leaf before supplying to the birds). Keep the bowels moving freely, but there must be no approach to diarrhœa, by an occasional dose of Dinneford's Magnesia—half teaspoonful to the ounce of water. When not giving the magnesia put the same quantity of byno-phosphates in the water, but supply plain water once or twice a week.

BANTAMS AND BIRDS (Mater).—I am afraid it needs an actual experiment to provide an answer to this query. I certainly have fears of the Bantam cocks confined with Pigeons and Doves in a somewhat small aviary. I can say this, that in an aviary a little larger than yours, Dorking fowls were not safe with ordinary Tumbler Pigeons; after having one or two the latter killed, I had to remove them to other quarters—but this was years ago. At the present time, in an aviary with a floor area of over [illegible] feet, and 12 feet high, I have California Quail (as large as Bantams) with Doves, Pigeons, and small Finches and Waxbills, and they do no harm. Pigeons, Doves, Parrakeets, and Lovebirds will do fairly well together, and if you try the Bantams with them, you must arrange food hoppers for the former, which the latter will have great difficulty in getting at. Personally I should advise stocking the aviary with one pair Rosella Parrakeets, one pair Budgerigars, one pair each Madagascar and Blue-wing Lovebirds, and for a change you could have a cock Red-crested Cardinal, and a pair of Java Sparrows, which would be able to look after themselves.

INDIAN PARROT (J. Woods.—Your bird is evidently the Bengal race of the Alexandrine Parrakeet, which should certainly respond to careful training, but nothing can be done till it is quite steady, and Alexandrines take a lot more teaching than Grey or Amazons. You must avoid any scaring or bustling movements in the vicinity of its cage, and not allow your young people to tease it. Keep it in your midst in some position out of draught, yet where it will get light and air. It will voluntarily pick up many calls, sounds, and words which it hears, and as soon as it is quite steady, and when in quiet restful mood, you can teach it words, etc., by constant repetition of same. I should add white millet to the seed mixture, also supply any fruit it will take, plain biscuit (dry), and a few nuts. It must have continual access to grit (not sand) and cuttlebone. Re grit: You can cover cage tray with sand and sprinkle grit over top of same, also add a pinch of the grit to daily supply of seed.

GREEN PARROT (H. W.).—If you read our reply "Indian Parrot (J. Woods)" in this issue, it will tell you nearly all you ask about. A good seed mixture for the species is: One quart each canary and white millet; one pint each oats, hemp, and paddy rice; half-pint each dari, maize, wheat, sunflower, and shelled nuts. Well mix and keep a constant supply in cage, otherwise treat as reply referred to above.

GREY PARROT (China).—I note you say you have carried out instructions as to food. We are glad to note improvement, but cases of feather-pulling once started are very difficult to eradicate, and frequently there are tiresome relapses, and the only course is to persevere with careful feeding, and keep it in condition by the occasional use of a laxative and tonic. You must, if you have not done so, put the bird on a course of Dinneford's Magnesia and Byno-Phosphates, and also regularly spraying the parts it is in the habit of plucking with quassia solution (you can purchase this from our advertisers. Dilute it according to their directions), keeping it carefully out of draught till dry. The blowing of insect powder into its plumage, particularly under the wings and at root of tail will help to keep any possible parasites in check. Shall be pleased to hear how it progresses.

TO DESTROY TREES (R. H. W.). Your query is possibly mis-written, but it reads "list of Foreign birds that would destroy trees in an aviary." All Parrots, Parrakeets, Conures, Budgerigars, and Lovebirds of all species are "past masters" at the work of plant and tree destruction in an aviary. Goldfinches, Bullfinches, Canaries, and all the Serin tribe, as well as others, are equally destructive to plant life by feeding on the buds as fast as they appear. I must add, however, that at this season of the year you must not put outside any birds.' save wild-caught Britishers, or birds brought straight from some outdoor aviary where they have been all the summer.

GREY PARROT (S. Williams).—I consider a diet of hemp and sunflower only not wholesome for it, though during the winter months it can have these two in larger quantities than during the spring, summer, and autumn. Note: A Parrot has its tastes and fancies the same as a human and whatever mixture you supply it will first take its favourite seed and then follow on with the others pro rata. This is quite general with all species. I keep two seed hoppers in my cages—one for a mixture of canary and white millet in equal parts, and the other for the balance of the mixture and I refill these daily after blowing and picking over the previous day's leavings. I find most species visit the canary and millet at least once daily. I should offer it water twice a day, in a spoon or other vessel, and let it satisfy its thirst. Add a few drops (say six to a tablespoonful of water) of Byno-Phosphates. Do not give milk.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

W. B. Boulter.—Generally speaking, the letters after the exhibitor's name denote that he is a member of some specialist club, for whose cups or other trophies his birds are competing—for instance, N.B.B. and M.C. stands for National British Bird and Mule Club, and C.C.C. for Crested Canary Club.

F. J. W. S.—You miss our point. Who is to decide, and how, which are "genuine" Siberians? Small birds come from Siberia as well as large ones.

Britisher.—We would rather not publish your letter. It is too late for any alteration to be made, and so we think that the committee may very well be left to find out by the entry whether their selection of a local judge was mistaken policy.

Austrian Amateur.—A good quality enamel is quite safe to use on bird cages, either on the wires or the wood-work. The only precaution it is necessary to take is to allow it sufficient time to dry hard before turning in the bird. Keep the aviary in a heated living room for, say, not less than forty-eight hours after the enamelling has been completed.

DENNY AND DUNIPACE.

Sixteenth annual show, held in the Foresters' Hall, Denny, Nov. 30th. The hall is good and fairly well lighted, but not over large. We learnt, however, that the only other hall suitable for such a show was rented so extortionately that they could not afford to give it further consideration. More's the pity. Could not the management, by systematic advertising in CAGE BIRDS, manage to fill their present hall with a purely Cage Bird Show on one date, and have the Poultry and Pigeon Section on a different date? The worthy body of officials, all men of ripe experience, are deserving of the support reposed in them. Mr. A. France is still at the helm, and a genial cheery fellow is he, ever smiling as he disposes of the hundred and one different items that come up in turn. He is popular, and we hope his services may long be retained. The judging was got through in good time, and we heard very little criticism. Awards were well received. Entries came up well, compared with former years, and quality was well up to the usual standard. Mr. R. Martin won the cup for most points, this being his third win. It now becomes his own property. Mr. J. Winter, Edinburgh, judged Norwich and Crests; Mr. Gamble, Whitburn, the remainder.

CREST, CK. (4): 1, sp, McDougall, massive shapely D.C., nice qual., fine leafy feather, nice top piece, well groomed; 2, Binnie, similar, well up on leader, staged well; 3 Shillinglaw, wing mkd. D.C., good subs. and nice feather; 4, McIntosh and Son. HEN (5): 1, Shillinglaw, light var., rare subs., leafy feather, well-clothed top, fine droop, nice frontal, staged in right winning form; 2, Paterson, wing mark D.C., fine feather and good body subs., fails in top piece a trifle; 3, McIntosh, fine qual. green, in nice order, neat well-groomed top; 4, 5, we could not find. AYR AND DISTRICT.

Members club show will be held Dec. 14th in the Academy Hall, Fort Street. The birds will be staged at 10 a.m., and the show will close at 6 p.m. Mr. T. Cowan, Troon, will judge, and I trust the members will rally round and give him a good entry, seeing that it is his first judging venture.—James Sloan, Sec.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

There was a very good attendance at the usual monthly meeting, held at Mr. A. L. Johnston's Rooms, 6, The Broadway, Nov. 25th, but the business had to be cut very short owing to the absence of the secretary—Mr. H. Smith—through illness. The Chairman, Mr. W. H. Stoakley, announced that he had received a letter from Mr. Smith saying his doctor would not allow him to attend the meeting, and the Chairman also said that he was sure they would all regret to hear that one of their members, the wife of their esteemed president, Mr. F. Piper, had either undergone or had to undergo a severe operation. Letters of sympathy were directed to be sent to Mr. Smith and Mrs. Piper, expressing a hope for their speedy recovery. The Chairman also welcomed back Mrs. Griffiths, one of the members of the committee, who has recently recovered from a serious operation. The secretary's report, read by the Chairman, stated that he had received no complaints as to the non-return of birds from the recent show of the society, but, on the other hand, had received many letters of congratulation as to the good order in which the birds had been returned from the show to their owners, and thanks for the prompt payment of prize-money. During the evening the presentation of cups, trophies, special prizes, and members' prize-money took place, and three new members were nominated. It was decided to have at the January meeting a judging competition for Borders, Mr. F. W. Owen to be the final judge, and, if possible, to get someone to also lecture on Borders.

CAGE BIRDS will sell your surplus stock at once. Advertise, and see for yourself.

Correspondence.

Canaries Stolen at Birmingham.

Sir,—My premises were broken into Nov. 25 and I had stolen 8 colour-fed Norwich, 5 cocks and 3 hens, good class birds. I intended keeping these birds for breeding with this year. I had 45, but they only took the 8 birds.

B. SAVORY.

A Substitute for the Brace Bird.

Sir,—The use of a brace-bird in our county is strictly prohibited. I am an amateur bird-catcher, and have never caught birds from a pecuniary motive. Would any of your readers inform me whether I can obtain some kind of imitation brace bird, and whether it will answer the purpose; also where it can be obtained? I mostly catch Linnets and Goldfinches.

A SUBSCRIBER.

[An illustration of an imitation brace bird, or decoy, appeared in our issue of Nov. 2, page 892.—EDITOR.]

The Treatment of Fresh-caught Bullfinches.

Sir,—I should be very glad if an experienced birdcatcher would, through the columns of your valuable paper tell me the best way of keeping fresh-caught Bullfinches alive. An answer to each of the following questions will be greatly appreciated: (1) What seed or seeds are given them? (2) Are the seeds crushed or otherwise. (3) About what dimensions should the cage be? (4) Is it advisable to put a fresh-caught bird in the same cage with an old bird.

The Judges at the Recent Blyth Show.

Sir,—In the report of Blyth show, which appears in your issue of Nov. 30, it states: "Unfortunately one of the judges, Mr. J. Stanger, Pelton Fell, could not attend." I shall be glad if you will allow me to state that I was not engaged to judge this show. As a matter of fact, I was officiating at Ashington on Nov. 9. Mr. Marshall, sec., of Blyth, wrote to me some four days previous to the show, and said he expected me to attend, this being the only intimation I have had of my being engaged. I believe there has been some misunderstanding regarding the judges for Blyth, but I was certainly not engaged.

JAMES STANGER.

The Lizard Classes at Rochdale Show.

Sir,—I gladly answer Mr. Rukin's request about his clear capped gold, even though it is not put in a very gentlemanly manner. He knows, as I know, that the bird was one feather short. That feather might have been a white one; I could not tell. The bird was deficient in tail, and I so marked the label so that those interested should know why one of the best birds in the class stood cardless. Is this not better than simply putting the bird down, and not letting the owner know why? As to my inconsistency in putting one bird out, and another in, I can only say I didn't notice the other, or it would not have been in. Mr. Rukin knows as well as I do that all birds do not reveal the fact that they are deficient in tail when such is the case, and I never handle a Lizard unless something about its appearance causes me to do so. A Lizard is so easily and irretrievably damaged, that only when forced do I handle one. The bird I passed had its tail open in a peculiar manner, and that led me to think it was short of feather. Handling proved it was so, and with the greatest reluctance I had to put the bird I had selected to win out of competition altogether. Mr. Rukin's letter practically charges me with acting unfairly towards him with set purpose and intent. I had no knowledge the exhibit belonged to him, and if I had it would have made no difference. I only did what I considered my duty. Mr. Rukin adopts the role of censor, and takes upon himself the troubles of other exhibitors. Although I do not admit his personal right to interrogate me as to other exhibitors' birds, I will answer him briefly. The trio of clear caps "wrong classed" were in my opinion not clear caps; in fact, several broken caps were not so much broken as these so-called clears. Had Mr. Rukin, or any other exhibitor, asked me at the show I should have been pleased to explain why I considered these three birds to be in the wrong class, but it is quite impossible to do so in the columns of CAGE BIRDS. Judged by the L.L.F.A. standard, I considered them broken caps. More I cannot say. As to the cocks in hen classes, I saw no birds giving evidence of wrong sex in those classes. Had I done so I should most certainly have left them out. As a practical and experienced fancier, Mr. Rukin should know that cocks which masquerade in hen classes do not usually show themselves in the morning when the room is cold and when they haven't had time to recover from the journey, but later, when the room is warm, and they have become excited by the movement of visitors, and the heat. Mr. Rukin is wrong in saying that I boast of having judged the Lizard section at Rochdale for twenty years. I have only judged the Lizards at Rochdale for some eleven or twelve years. Previous to that they were judged by my old and highly esteemed friend, Mr. J. Bexson. When Mr. Bexson retired, the Rochdale executive transferred me from the variety section to the Lancashire and Lizard sections, and despite the attacks of more than one Lizard exhibitor, they have kept me there. I may be a fool, but I am not the knave Mr. Rukin suggests. If I am a fool, I at least try to be an honest one, and do my duty as far as my knowledge and experience carry me, and without fear or favour.

Roller Classes at the Scottish National Show.

Sir,—It has been arranged with the officials of the Scottish National show (held in Edinburgh on Dec. 31) that two classes for Rollers will be opened, one class for the members of the Scottish Roller Canary Club, and the other class open to all comers. Any further information on the subject can be obtained from Mr. J. R. Meikle, 51, Lothian Road, Edinburgh, or from the Secretary, S.R.C.C., 11, Garrioch Quadrant, Glasgow, N.W.

The Scotch Fancy Canary in the South.

Sir,—How is it the Scotch Fancy Canary is not more popular? I think they are grand birds, if you get good ones. They are easy to keep, and don't want colour food, and are not more expensive to buy than good Yorkshires. I have some nice birds I should like to show, but there are no classes for them round here (Wimbledon). I think if people saw them at shows, they would like them, and start keeping them, which would be a good thing. I wonder what others think?

M. WALKER.

A Bit of Salt for a Judge's Tail.

Sir,—Re the wrong classing of my bird at Newport show by Mr. House. I should like to ask him why he wrong-classed my ticked yellow cock, and said it was a buff, as I have sent him out under Mr. Robson three times and won twice; he has also been under Messrs. Payne, Roe, Battye, and Cowgill. At Cardiff Mr. Mundell gave him he in a strong class, and as I was one of the stewards, I asked him and Mr. Vardy if it was a buff, and they laughed and said it was a good yellow. I thought I would put a bit of salt on Mr. House's tail, so I sent it to Bristol as a buff, but Mr. House did not turn up to judge. Mr. Roe judged instead and wrong-classed the bird, which, to me, was quite right.

JAMES F. WELLS.

Unprolificacy of the Canary-Bullfinch Mating.

Sir,—In reply to "Canary-Bullfinch," the question of why the mating of certain species which might reasonably be expected to be productive has as yet been ineffectual, or (as in the cross he mentions) strangely void of results in the majority of instances, is dealt with in an article which I hope to complete before the experimental season. In taking notes for this, I, of course, endeavour to have each instance of any new or peculiar happening authenticated, as far as is possible, and I often wonder why some readers of CAGE BIRDS are so averse to putting pen to paper and giving others the benefit of their experiences. Thus, though we have some very observant fanciers in Fife, it was by the merest accident I discovered that the fertility of the brown Linnet-Chaffinch mating had been proved beyond the shadow of doubt by a breeder there, and my best thanks are due to the courteous president of Kelty society, who took such precautions to ensure that fertility was manifest and the isolation of the pair complete. Apropos of Hybrids, may I ask some of your Edinburgh readers who verified the authenticity of the Siskin-Bully Hybrids alleged to have been produced there this year, when we are to have the pleasure of seeing them on the bench? I hope "Canary-Bullfinch" will forgive my delay.

J. STEEL.

To Treorchy, Pentre, and Treherbert Cage Bird Fanciers.

Sir,—Please allow me to announce that a meeting will be held in Cardiff Arms Hotel, Treorchy, on Tuesday next, Dec. 10, at 7 p.m., to discuss forming a society in the district. As there are many fanciers asking for such a society, let us come together and see what can be done.

OLD SPORT.

The Capture of Birds Wearing Marking Rings.

Sir,—A friend of mine was out for a walk on Nov. 2, when he captured a Seagull, on which was a Witherby metal ring, numbered 27670, which I enclose. Hoping you will make enquiries and let us know in CAGE BIRDS, of which I am a regular reader.

P. POINTON.

Sir,—Seeing that a lot of your readers have notified you of birds caught with rings on, I write to add that a friend of mine shot at Leamington-on-Tyne, a Gull which had on it a ring marked "Witherby, High Holborn, London, and numbered 28981. Hoping to learn from you how far this bird has migrated, and wishing your paper, CAGE BIRD, every success, as it deserves.

HENRY DYER.

What is a Novice?

Sir,—As an amateur fancier, I once asked an old exhibitor: "Who are eligible to show in novice classes?" His answer was: "All who have not won more than three firsts in novice classes, but to win a first in an open class would debar the exhibitor from again competing with novices." I am greatly interested in CAGE BIRDS, and have closely followed the excellent show reports, and the following seems to either controvert the above, or prove an exhibitor to be competing in classes forbidden him. At a Derbyshire show, an exhibitor was awarded first in an open class and second in a novice class (vide report). In this week's edition, I find the same exhibitor has been awarded prizes in both open and novice classes. Perhaps I have been given a wrong definition, but as at present I have not done any "benching," should like to know exactly what a "Novice" is.

WILLING TO LEARN.

Are Judges Bribed?

Sir,—I feel I should like to write a few lines under the above heading. In the first place I regret to say that judges are very often influenced, if not actually bribed. As an exhibitor of several years standing, I have noticed on a few occasions (only a few, I am pleased to say) certain exhibitors at the show early on the day of judging conversing with the judge and actually walking round the cage-birds and discussing the different merits of the exhibits, not forgetting to draw the judge's attention to their own paricular exhibits. This procedure gives ground for suspicion and often the results merit it—birds that have previously won under other judges, have had to give way, although in perfect condition, to the birds belonging to the exhibitor who was seen conversing with the judge. I myself have had one of my birds put back to second position this season after twice beating the particular exhibit belonging to the winner, and on one of these occasions under the same judge, who reversed his decision later. Between the two shows the exhibitor and judge, to my knowledge, met, hence the result. I am not writing to give advice, but if judges would ignore the above class of exhibitor and judge the birds only, their reputations, instead of going down would go up. I suggest that cage-bird stewards should not be exhibiting where they are acting as stewards.

F. J. WICKHAM.

The Future of the Sheffield O.S.

Sir,—Permit me a few lines to answer the letter of Mr. Dawn. First of all he says I am making a most untruthful and unjust statement concerning the above society, and am totally ignorant of the inner workings. Ignorant or not, Mr. Dawn, I might as well tell you that not only the secretary, but one half of your committee have had quite enough of the "windbags" of your society. You say you consider my remarks an insult. Well, I am very sorry if my truthful remarks have offended you. I don't know how you would go on in your secretary's place, seeing the insults and personal abuse he gets from the above tyrants. Now, Mr. Dawn, give credit where it is due. You go on to say we live in the times of change. Yes, I will grant you this, and you will be surprised at the changes at your next meeting, but the changes will be on the wrong side. You talk about the management you will have next year, and the next annual show second to none. Well, Mr. Dawn, get an entry and a show as good as the one you had this year, with the same donation, viz., £20, and everybody will be satisfied. I see in another column of CAGE BIRDS that Mr. Job's name is mentioned for secretary next year. Let me congratulate the management on their choice. With the valuable help of the same party that made the Hallam and Ecclesall cage-bird section such a success, the Sheffield O.S. should boom.

OLD SHEFFIELDER.

Sir,—How can I ask your forgiveness in having again to trespass on your valuable space re the Sheffield O.S., but in justice to the committee I must refute the statement made by Mr. Drabble, i.e., that our society is governed by a clique. His remarks are absolutely untrue, and if he had attended the meetings I'm sure he never would have written such. Let me inform him that I was entirely responsible for the remarks in "Twitterings." As Mr. Bishop told me both on the 'phone and personally many times that he had definitely decided to resign, I had to think of a capable successor, and as Mr. Job was the most likely man, he was interviewed, and was willing to act if the society sanctioned it. Therefore I decided to make it public so that our members would all know and be in a position to thrash it out at our next general meeting. Having done so, I fail to see where any "dirty trick" comes in. Anyone who knows me would not believe I was guilty of a shady action. A few words re finance: In my previous letter I stated that I benefited the society in 1911 by over £20, and that is still true. Mr. Bishop admits I gave £15 2s. towards the open show, but omits what I gave to the nest feather, members' and table shows, or else he would not have contradicted me. I have before me now a receipt from him for £17 15s. (from self and friends) for the open 1912 show, and if he adds what I gave to nest feather and table shows, it will bring this year's contribution up to last year. I can honestly say that my financial aid for the two years is over £40, which will be about the balance carried forward. I must also remind him that a member very kindly gave a cup, which drew large entries (and also increased our sales) thereby adding greatly to the funds of this year. It is strange to me to read of other societies changing their secretary without the controversy we have, and have had in our city. In conclusion, let me say: Away with cant and humbug; let there be no fear or favour, but equal rights and fair play to all.

THOS. DAWN, Chairman S.O.S.

. IMPORTANT . ANNOUNCEMENT

TO OUR ENTERPRISING READERS.

"CAGE BIRDS" ANNUAL FOR 1913.

Is now in preparation, and with the co-operation of our readers will be a greater success than any of its predecessors. Any suggestions for new features or for the improvement of present features will be welcomed by us.

TO SECRETARIES OF SOCIETIES.

We will insert free: Full particulars—name of society, latest list of officials, place, time, and nights of meetings) in the Alphabetical List of Cage Bird Clubs. Remember, no society should be missing, for this feature of "Cage Birds Annual" is the only Directory of its kind in existence. Secretaries who have moved please let us know your new address.

TO JUDGES OF CAGE BIRDS.

We will insert free your name and address and the varieties in which you specialise, in the List of Judges. The only condition is that judges must have officiated at one of the recognised shows. Remember this list is the only complete list published, and is universally consulted by show officials.

TO OUR TRADING FRIENDS.

We will insert free: Names, addresses, and specialities in the Bird Trade Directory. No matter what you sell, so long as it has to do with the Fancy, particulars are inserted free. This directory is of exceptional value, and fanciers the world over find it indispensable. For one shilling names can be thrown up in heavy black type.

Breeders, Exhibitors, Judges, and Advertisers generally: Do you want something that will bring you orders throughout next year for a "mere song"? If so, just try an advertisement in the "Annual."

THE MANAGER, "CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL," 154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

SHOW DATES FIXED.

To secure insertion in this column, a guarantee that the show will be advertised in "C.B." to the extent of at least 25/- must be sent to our manager.

Advertisers, Please Note.

Sir,—I should esteem it a favour if you will publish a complaint of mine against three advertisers in issue of Nov. 30th, to whom I sent an addressed and stamped envelope (or postcard) asking for an early reply. Neither of them have had the courtesy to return my p.c. Surely it is not too much trouble to write one word, say "Sold," and then drop it in the letter-box. In any case, I consider one is justified in demanding a reply when postage is prepaid. I hope my remarks will be read by the above-mentioned advertisers.

JOHN ENGLAND.

Bird Stolen en Route to Stockton Show.

Sir,—I sent two birds to Stockton-on-Tees show, on Nov. 22, and I have had a letter from the secretary, stating that my case arrived at the show with only one bird and cage, which I think is very sharp work, on the part of whoever took it (a nice even-marked buff cock Norwich). If the culprit will only write and let me know, as I think he is a good judge, I will forward him a nice yell. hen for a Christmas box. But he must write soon, as I am going to clear them all out; no more bird-showing for me, as I think it very hard lines to keep birds and send them to a show and have them stolen before they get there.

R. W. MELLING.

The Judging at Small Cornish Shows.

Sir,—"Local Judges abused by a disappointed Exhibitor" would have been a better headline to the letter appearing in your last issue, signed J. P. Andrew. I should like to ask him to publish in CAGE BIRDS the statement reflecting on the honesty and integrity of one of our most respected judges, which he made before fanciers at Wadebridge; but I do not think he will—his courage only reaches local men. He also said he would not show under me again. Your readers may judge at my surprise on looking at catalogue after judging to find he had shown no less than 19 exhibits! Was that confidence in a local judge? I wrong-classed No. 12, class 5, after a careful examination, as showing too much mealing for a yellow. His insulting remarks I can afford to treat with contempt, and my capabilities I am quite willing to leave to the judgment of those well-known fanciers and exhibitors who created a record for St. Columb. My long experience with cage-birds (as breeder, exhibitor and occasional judge) will not compare with your correspondent's two or three season's exhibiting purchased birds—oh, no! Should like also to call your readers' attention to report of Launceston (judge, Mr. J. H. Payne) to see how this exhibitor fared under an all England judge. Points, cups are not an unmixed blessing to a show; there is "Many a slip 'twixt cup and sideboard."

CHARLES H. TOY.

[We could not allow Mr. Andrew to impugn the integrity of any judge in our columns, even if he wished to do so.—EDITOR.]

Sir,—Having local judges, I am afraid our Cornwall shows will soon fail in entries. Committees should decide to have professional judges. There have been six shows since October, and the judges have been men either in the same town, or within a few miles. I quite approve of Mr. J. P. Andrews' letter in regards to local judges. At a certain show an exhibiter called my attention to some big prices on the cage-tickets, and when I looked at the catalogue I saw the exhibitor won 1st and special in nearly every class, and all the valuable specials. All other cages were marked with class and number only. Why should one lot have the price on the tickets any more than another? I was quite surprised to see the result at a later show—the same exhibitor back so far under the same judge who, however, managed to award him extra thirds. I have the opinion that he knew the birds. Give us all fair play.

A FANCIER.

[We should have though that the fact that the birds in question could get only 3rd prizes at a later show (although, according to "A Fancier," known to the judge) proved conclusively that they were judged solely on their merits. The competition at one show was stronger than at the other, we presume. —EDITOR.]

New Fanciers' Association For Bugle and District.

Sir,—At a well attended public meeting of fanciers and others interested, held in the Lecture Hall on 28th ult., Mr. I. Truscott presiding, it was unanimously decided to form a fanciers' association, to include poultry, pigeons, cage-birds, rabbits, cavies, etc., After the election of officers and a strong representative committee, over 40 members were enrolled; it was further decided to hold the first show, which will be open to the county, on July 23, 1913. A hearty invitation is given to anyone desirous of joining; subscription 2s. 6d.; next committee meeting 12th inst.

HORTICULTURAL HALL SHOW.

Notes and Critique

We are pleased to hear from one of the officials that everything passed off in a very satisfactory manner, the "gate," sales of birds and sales of catalogues, being well up to the average, while the huge collection of birds was safely got away, only one getting wrongly packed, and that is being put right practically at once. We congratulate those responsible upon a very fine, exceptionally interesting, and well managed exhibition.

The Hope of the South.

The winners in the Yorkshire yellow cock class came in for as much notice as possibly any birds in the section. Everybody was particularly sweet on Mr. Green's third-prize bird. He is certainly a very fine specimen, and was put down in the pink of condition, but he hardly carries his wings so tightly braced as does the winner. A big section of the Southern fanciers would have liked to have seen him leading, but other good judges agreed that Mr. Binns' charmer was in its right place at the head of the poll.

Admiring the Old Favourites.

We noticed Mr. J. W. Rennie, from Andover, having a look round. The many times he had to answer the question: Was he going to take up the Yorkies again? must have become somewhat wearisome to him. He would receive a hearty welcome if he did.

A Flying Start.

Mr. Tebbs, of Battersea, made his first entry in the champion section, and did remarkably well, securing first in the marked cocks, second with a lovely buff hen, and third in the unflighted. In making these wins he was in the best of company. It is no right undertaking when a novice makes his "first bow" among the top sawyers.

The Cream of the Crests.

There was always a fair crowd among the Crests and Crest Breds. Of course, Messrs. Greenwood and Burson's Crested hen, and Messrs. Jones and Crest's buff cock were eagerly scanned, and two beauties they are. But the bird that everybody wanted to see was Mr. John Broad's young Crested hen. She is certainly a grand one, such size and shape of crest, though hardly finished yet. Her young career up to now has been rather remarkable—once unnoticed (Portsmouth), and top of the class every time since. Mr. B. is to be congratulated upon breeding such a good one.

Not a Bad Guess.

We overheard a young lady asking her companion if she had seen the "Hooded Canaries." For a minute we wondered if there was still another variety out.

"Black" Yorkshires Next Year!

Mr. Keesel, the breeder of the well-known White Yorkshires, is having a try this next year for Blacks. He has been so taken up with getting the Whites to perfection that he has not given much thought to the opposite colour; but he has the material, and intends trying for them in earnest. He feels rather confident of success, which we heartily wish him.

Show, not Stock Birds.

In placing his awards Mr. Booth did not particularly favour the what we might call "show stock birds." A good clean Norwich generally stood up top. Among these we think Mr. Baker's grand buff cock and Mr. Hodder's lovely marked yellow hen were about the pick of the basket, almost all that one could desire, good in size and quality, typical at all points, in the pink of condition, and well staged.

Amongst the Borders.

All the way from Liverpool to be "wrong classed" appears to be just a bit of bad luck, although a Yorkshire in a Border class was bound to be treated so. We heard that the first and special winner at Carlisle (the hotbed of the Border Fancy) failed to get a ticket here. Let us hope that this is not the commencement of a run of back luck for its new owner. The bird is a beauty, of rather slim type, with good head and neck. We hardly think it was put down in its best possible form.

A Word for the Ladies.

The ladies must not be forgotten. Miss Lydia Clare nearly captured leading honours with her delightful Queen Alexandra Parrakeet, in a wonderful class of 18 rare and beautiful birds, and headed the class for the rare Waxbills, etc., with perhaps the best Violet-eared ever seen. The Hon. Mrs. Bourke staged a wonderfully nice lot, exceptionally notable among which was the buff and black Minuet, which formed yet another of the first appearances.

A Bird that will be Missed.

We were sorry to hear from Mr. Townsend that his marvellous little Yellow-winged Sugar-bird has at last gone the way of all flesh. Perhaps no bird in the foreign section was more admired than this sweet little thing during the eight or nine seasons it adorned the show bench.

What a Great Newspaper Thinks.

Apropos of the show, the "Daily Telegraph" remarks: The beautiful condition of the birds and the fact that some of the prize-winners have exceeded the span of life attributed to wild birds might seem to many people a strong argument against the outcry on behalf of birds in captivity.

The Tyranny of Sex.

We overheard a humorous conversation between two exhibitors at the close of the show. Quoth No. 1: "I say, old man, do you want that prize-card? I wish you would give it to me." No. 2: "What on earth do you want it for?" No. 1: (quite shyly): "Well, you see, it's my first time of exhibiting, and the wife's not keen on birds at all. If I could only show her a prize-card, her opinions might alter—she wouldn't laugh at me, anyway!"

A Popular Judge as Exhibitor.

A welcome addition to the foreign section was the beautiful team of rarities put down by Mr. H. D. Astley, F.Z.S., the exhibition of which was rendered possible by the fact that Mr. Astley was not this year judging. Not the least noticeable among them was the pair of Queen Alexandra Parrakeets, which have reared young for their owner in the aviaries at Benham Valance. We were glad to see that on the second day they had recovered their beautiful sleekness of plumage. The Blue Niltava and the pair of Indian Brown-backed Wrens, shown by Mr. Astley, were worth a long journey to see, and many will be looking forward to the pleasure of renewing their acquaintance with these lovely specimens.

A Near Relation of the Shama.

A greatly admired exhibit was Mr. Frostick's Hunting Cissa, shown in the most perfect possible feather. It was hard luck, for such a lovely bird to have to stand cardless. Mr. Frostick also showed a very perfect hen Shama, a bird which we have not seen for many years on the show bench, quickly claimed at £5. This class showed us another rarity in the shape of Mr. Puck's Dhyal bird, a bird which has a song equal to that of a Shama, and in its black and white plumage is even more striking in appearance.

Two Noted Teams.

Mr. Maxwell, as usual, treated us with a sight of some of his beautiful foreigners, and, also as usual, introduced a novelty or two. His Peel's Parrot Finch will make a beautiful exhibit after a cage moult, and his Red and Black Tanager is another notable addition to the show bench. The team put down by Mr. Ezra contained some birds of marvellous beauty, the Amethyst-rumped Sun-bird being a dream of perfection, and the Abyssinian Love-bird formed one of the many species seen for the first time on the bench.

Corrections of Awards.

In the Greenfinch class, 3rd prize went to Mr. W. H. Pickles (not Lowe); in the open novice class for Yorks., cl. or tkd. yellow ck., 1st prize went to Mr. W. Marshall (not Miss Walker); in Yorks. green buff cocks, the catalogue credits Walker with 2nd prize, which should be T. Rowlands.

THE ROLLER CANARIES.

The Roller section was simply splendid, the entry being magnificent, 225 in 5 classes, while the quality of the song produced by the winners has, we were told by the judges, never been excelled. Messrs. Wareing and Hesling took great pains in arriving at their decisions, and seem to have given complete satisfaction. A number of birds failed to sing at all, and several could only be induced to sing one or two tours, although given two hours in which to show the extent of their repertoire. In class 119, Nos. 1 to 9 were marked "want training," and No. 13 as "very wild." We note that in the champion young birds not one sang the glucke, and no fewer than 21 were penalised for faults, whereas in the novice young birds 11 sang the glucke and only 5 had points deducted for faults. Bravo, novices! The officials of the British Roller C.C. were highly pleased with the show. They cater splendidly for their members (now 230 strong), each first prize winner getting a cup in addition to the prize money, and the other winners a medal. They are hoping for great things in their international contest, to be held in February next, when German birds will compete with our home products.

PONTYPRIDD.

Open show, held at Victoria Hall, December 4th The birds were staged in a room which was very comfortable, had a good light, and was free from draughts. The stewards, Messrs. W. Williams, J. Forsey, J. Caddy, J. Marks, and B. Saunders, were assiduous in their attention to the exhibits, and did everything possible for their welfare. The show manager, Mr. Jno. Davies, had everything well in order, and under his careful guidance no hitch occurred. No small measure of the success of the show was due to the energetic Secretary, Mr. A. A. Gordon McLucas, who was a very courteous and obliging official. Mr. D. A. S. Longden judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

BIRMINGHAM.

City of Birmingham C.B.S. held their annual function Dec. 4 and 5. The schedule issued was capital, good prize money, and quite a host of points specials. The M.C.Y.C.C. patronised the venture, their valuable prizes bringing together the "cream" of the Midlands of the Yorkshire variety. Norwich also were of exceptional merit. Crest and C.B. were good, although not over numerous. Cinnamons and Borders added to the attraction and were greatly admired. Mules and British were splendid—really a most interesting array. Those annexing the largest "plums" were Messrs. A. J. Smith with a marvellous team of Crests, and in the British Messrs. G. Lawrence, Heal, Gilbert, Pitchford and Stocker, Johnson, and Williams. Mr. J. A. Eckersley, the well-known Nor. enthusiast, proved himself a most genial and earnest president, supported by Messrs. W. W. Butler, J. Webb, H. C. Wilkins, A. Broadhurst, J. H. de Maillett, W. C. Wells, J. Shepherd, and F. Peace, who worthily act as vice-presidents. The chairman, Mr. A. Broadhurst, is the right man in the right place, while Mr. F. Peace acts as understudy in a very capable manner. The committee comprises some of the best of fanciers in Messrs. Allen, Baker, Broomfield, Crowther, Derry, Dipple, H. Peace, and Stevenson. The "Bruno" are well served with energetic and enthusiastic helpers, who all did their level best to attain a successful issue. Last, but by no means least, comes Mr. J. H. Jones, the secretary. Quick and ever courteous, always there when wanted, untiring in his efforts, and attending to every detail in quite a masterly fashion, he is decidedly the right man for the secretarial office. Mr. J. H. de Maillet also deserves high praise for the very valuable assistance he so willingly rendered.

The large room attached to the Crown Hotel, which is of fair light, nicely heated, and well ventilated, was utilised. The entry was one of 550 upwards, 200 more than on the last occasion, a most pleasing item to record. Stewards, who worked efficiently and judiciously, promptly affixing prize slips, and keeping the "house in order," were Messrs. J. Clay, W. Broomfield, T. Groves, and G. Raby, the latter also attending to the seeding and watering. Messrs. A. Broadhurst (chairman), J. H. de Maillet, H. Peace, and J. Crowther worked splendidly all through the night previous to show day fixing staging and so forth. Management throughout was excellent, and everything passed off smoothly. Special winners were as follows:—Sandiford's for hottest fed, Mr. T. Judd; members' best young Cinn., Mr. G. Baker; best in show and best Nor., Mr. J. A. Eckersley with a stormer of a clear Buff cock; Yell. York, Wells and Clempson; Buff, J. Clay; C.B., T. Groves; Nov. Nor., C. B. Day; Yorks, J. Clay. Mr. J. Robson judged, and finished rather late in the day, having many classes to judge by inferior light (the atmosphere all day was somewhat "soupy"), though his awards on the whole were well received.

The Critique.

NOR. CL. OR TKD. TONBRIDGE.

Held at Public Hall, Dec. 3rd and 4th. The entry was good, a nice lot of Norwich and Yorks. being staged. The quality of the Norwich seemed much in advance of last year, some really typical birds of good size and quality being on show. Yorks. were also a fine collection, a few winners at some of our big shows putting in an appearance. Some good British birds and Hybrids made up a very interesting collection. The Hall was well patronised by visitors, and everything was beautifully managed by Mr. Percy Stonestreet, who at all times is very courteous and obliging. He was ably assisted by Messrs. Smithers, Creed, Cross, and Wraight, who gave every attention to the exhibits under their care. Mr. J. Robson judged.

REDRUTH.

Held their fourth annual show in the Market Hall, Nov. 23rd. Entries came up well, and a good future for the society seems evident. Competition in the Norwich classes was very keen, some of the cream of the Fancy being staged. The non-lighted classes were excellent, and the winner in the yellow class captured the silver cup for best bird in section, it being a grand bird of excellent type and quality, and a credit to its breeder. The Large Foreign class was also good. Mr. T. S. Sherman had the birds nicely staged, and he was backed up by a hard-working committee who looked well after the wants of the exhibits. Mr. Trevena judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction.

DUBLIN.

The South County Dublin C.B.A. held its first open show in the Town Hall, Kingstown, Nov. 28 and 29. The show was held under the patronage of the Yorks. C. and C.B.S. of Ireland, and we saw the cream of the Yorkshire birds in Ireland on the bench, and no wonder when such exhibitors as the following staged their birds:—Messrs. Ryan, O'Reilly, Hawkins, Birse, Tansey, Mulligan, Devins, Keogh, Forrest, Sholedice, Neville. In the novice section were some good birds, fit to come out in the open. Messrs. Howard, Mahon, Lattimore, Lawless, McKeone, and Kavanagh put down some fine teams. British were a fine lot, one of the best we have had the pleasure of seeing for some time. Messrs. Mulcahy, Dawson, Carolan, Devins, and Birse were to the front with some fine exhibits. The room was a fine one for the exhibition of birds, and the staging was all that could be desired. This being the first venture of this new society, we must congratulate Mr. W. Smith, the hon. secretary, for the able manner in which he ran the show. We wish him and his committee every success, and hope that another year they may have a far better show. The following gentlemen were responsible for the staging and feeding of the exhibits, and all worked like Trojans. Messrs. O'Brien, Fagan, Molloy, Carroll, Bryne, Walters, Dowed, Keavens, Duffy, etc. Mr. W. Mundell, Bradford, judged.
